AGITATION AGAINST U. S. GROWS IN NORTH CHINA

American Authorities Make New Protests to Japanese Although Latter Deny Such a Movement Is Under Way.

OUR NATIONALS TO QUIT KAIFENG

Some Are Reported to Have Fled Already—Mission Buildings Said to Have Been Wrecked in Yochow Demonstrations.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5 (AP).—United States authorities made new representations today to the Japanese against anti-American demonstrations in Kaifeng, despite Japanese denials that an anti-American movement was under way in North China.

Increasingly threatening anti-American agitation caused Americans in Kaifeng to get ready for flight from the Honan Province capital and it was understood that some already had left, although direct reports of the Kaifeng situation were meager.

American authorities in Hankow, the nearest large city, said their information came from authoritative quarters sufficient to warrant further representations to the Japanese, who control Kaifeng, the seat of extensive American mission properties and some business concerns.

American officials were anxious concerning Chinese press reports—not confirmed by other sources—that anti-foreign demonstrations at Yochow had wrecked mission buildings and compelled both American and British missionaries to leave the city.

Japanese denied, however, that there had been any disorders in Yochow, an important port in Hunan Province at the confluence of the Yangtze River and Tungting Lake. Records here indicated two missionaries of the Reformed Church in the United States were there: The Rev. Edwin Beck of Tiffin, O., and Miss Mary Edna Myers, a nurse, of Westminster, Md.

It was understood here that since the Japanese occupation of Yochow the Americans had been living outside the city at a mission school on the shore of Tungting Lake.

It was reported that the Japanese at Kaifeng, near the Yellow River, cut the city's communications after Americans there had sent first word of their plight by a courier who crossed the Japanese lines and telegraphed the United States Embassy at Chungking.

Japanese spokesmen asserted they had little information from Kaifeng. "As far as we know the movement there continues to be entirely anti-British," said one.

CHINESE REPORTED ACTING FOR JAPAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Officials are observing with the greatest care what they say appears to be an effort by Japan to expel Americans and other foreigners from China by getting the Chinese to do it.

Dispatches in the last few months indicate, they assert, that the Japanese have taken a new tack in their policy toward foreigners in the occupied areas. Hitherto they have acted directly against occidentals, restricting their activities, interfering with their treaty-granted rights and on occasion—American notes to Japan have charged—assaulting them.

Now, in the view of some analysts here, the Japanese have decided their most effective course is to bring about the withdrawal of the foreigners by getting the Chinese to work on them.

If definite proof is obtained here that specific outbursts of anti-foreign feeling among the Chinese, which may be directed against Americans, are initiated and impelled by the Japanese, there is every indication the State Department will hold Japan itself responsible for them.

BRITISH WAR GAMES IN AIR, ON LAND AND SEA THIS WEEK

1300 Planes and 55,000 Men to Take Part in Aerial Maneuvers — Blackout for Two-Thirds of England.

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP). — The army, navy and air force prepared tonight for next week's vast maneuvers which will find virtually the entire country geared to wartime efficiency.

At the same time Britain will carry on over conference tables in Moscow and Tokyo its attempts to negotiate a tri-Power mutual assistance pact and an end to the Tientsin dispute.

There were two developments today in the talks with the Soviet Government:

1. British and French military missions left for Russia for conferences with Soviet military leaders designed to parallel and speed negotiations for the proposed alliance treaty.

2. William Strang, special envoy sent to Moscow June 12 to assist in the pact negotiations, will leave next week for London though obstacles still exist among the three powers. Sir William Seeds, the British Ambassador, will carry on the talks.

Three-Day Bank Holiday.

Britain meanwhile was celebrating the first of the three days of the annual August bank holiday from which it will plunge into the activity of next week.

More than 1300 warplanes and 55,000 Royal Air Force officers and men will stage a mock air war from 8 p. m. Tuesday to 7 p. m. Friday to "defend" a wide area of southeastern England from raids by "hostile bombers."

Planning to test how the country would fare in an air attack from Europe, the R. A. F. has designated 500 of its latest bombers as the attacking fleet and some 800 fighters and reconnaissance planes are allocated to defense.

The attackers will come from over the North Sea to strike at key targets like London and large munitions plants, while observer units operating secret detectors will seek to locate them before they cross the coast.

Warnings will be flashed to pursuit squadrons, anti-aircraft batteries, balloon barrage stations and air raid precautions centers.

Three lines of fighters will take the air to intercept the attackers while hidden anti-aircraft batteries also will join the defense. Theoretically many raiders would be downed by the first wave of defenders but in the test all will continue to their objectives to exercise every section of the defense set-up.

At the peak of the mock air war, two-thirds of England will be blacked out during the early hours of Thursday in a test of the air raid precautions organization.

Maneuvers for Navy.

The navy is tuning up 133 reserve warships for an inspection next Wednesday by King George VI in Weymouth Bay and subsequent maneuvers.

Units of the home fleet slipped from their bases last week for gunnery exercises. They will be joined after Wednesday b the reserve vessels for combined exercises which naval experts declare will be the largest war games at sea in history.

Both fleets already are on wartime footing and the exercises are timed to continue to near the end of September, covering the period which many fear may be one of crisis for Europe.

SEES HIS WIFE OFF TO BRITAIN, THEN FLIES TO MEET HER

James P. Mills Takes Clipper Three Days After She Leaves New York on Liner.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—Mrs. James Paul Mills, who waved goodby to her husband from the liner Normandie's rail here Wednesday, will be greeted by her husband when the ship docks at Southampton, England.

Mills, sportsman and polo player, of Old Westbury, N. Y., left today for Europe aboard Pan American Airways' American Clipper.

As he boarded the Clipper, he said, smiling: "My wife will be surprised to see me!"

CYANIDE GAS FOR RATS ROUTS 10 STOWAWAYS ABOARD SHIP

Fumigating Crew Turns Up Brazilians Who Say They Paid to Be Smuggled Into U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—Ten young men from Brazil who stowed away in the hold of a freighter at Rio de Janeiro July 14 were smoked out today when the ship was fumigated with cyanide to kill rats.

The Ayuruoca of the Lloyd Brasilerio line docked this morning at the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn. A few hours later the crew began to fumigate the hold, and as usual closed the hatches. There was a frenzied tapping from below and the crew reopened the hatches. The 10 men, clad only in their underwear, came out, alternately gasping and yelling in Portuguese.

Through an interpreter they told police they were smuggled aboard the ship and were to have met a man in New York who would get them in to the United States for $250. They were held for immigration authorities.

PLUMA LOUISE PALMER SUES FATHER-IN-LAW FOR $500,000

Potter D'Orsay's Widow Acts After Attempt to Remove Her as Administratrix.

SARASOTA, Fla., Aug. 5 (AP).—Pluma Louise Palmer sued her socially-prominent father-in-law, Honore Palmer, for $500,000 damages today as the result of his court attempt to have her removed as administratrix of the estate of her late husband, Potter D'Orsay Palmer.

The former waitress, who was the fourth wife of the playboy heir, charged Honore Palmer had "sought to bring her into public scandal, disgrace and ill repute."

Mrs. Palmer's attorney, Frank Redd Sr., also filed an answer to her father-in-law's charges in the estate litigation, flatly denying any mismanagement of the estate's assets.

7 KILLED IN PLANE CRASH ON MOUNTAIN IN SPAIN

Craft Thought to Be French Goes Down After Hitting Peak in Fog.

MADRID, Aug. 5 (AP).—Civil guards in the town of Montroig reported today an airliner en route from Toulouse, France, to Casablanca crashed in the Llaveria Mountains in a heavy fog, killing seven persons aboard.

The plane was reported to have struck the highest peak of the mountains. The craft lost a wing, glided over the mountains and crashed.

Civil guards said papers found in wreckage of the tri-motored craft indicated it wa a French plane. The names of the victims were not learned immediately.

DOVE-DANCER AND DOVES COLLAPSE FROM OVERWORK

Rosita Royce Suffers Breakdown After 10-Performance-a-Day Pace at New York Fair.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—Rosita Royce, dove-dancer at the New York World's Fair, was in a hospital today—and 14 of her 21 doves were under care of veterinary.

Dr. Arnold Gottesman, the 23-year-old dancer's physician, said she was suffering from a serious nervous condition after working 10 performances a day since the exposition's opening.

The doves were being taken care of in her apartment. Seven were said to have a heart ailment and the others incapacitated by swollen joints.

ITALIANS START FINAL BATTLE OF WAR GAME NEAR FRANCE

Mobile Army's Planes Attack Invaders Trying to Reach Plateau in Turin Industrial Area.

TURIN, Italy, Aug. 5 (AP).—The "Battle of the Po," culminating phase of Italy's annual war games, began today with invading and defending armies rushing at each other.

"Red" invaders poured down from the Alpine heights of the French frontier region, seeking to reach the plateau west of Turin before they could be blocked by "Blue" defenders.

The defending forces, the highly mobile Army of the Po, has concentrated for several days east of Turin, one of Italy's most important industrial centers.

"Enemy" planes impeded the advance of the "Blue" army by bombarding and machine-gunning its columns. Their "bombs" "destroyed" three bridges across the Po, but "enemy" engineers built new ones with pontoons.

THIRD-STORY PLUNGE FATAL

Anthony Werth Dies of Injuries Suffered Wednesday.

Anthony Werth, 56 years old, a wallpaper cleaner, died at City Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Wednesday, when he jumped from a third-floor porch at his rooming house, 3801 West Pine boulevard, to a brick-paved yard.

Werth told police he had been in poor health. He suffered a broken back, fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

STREET PREACHED ETHICS TO OTHERS DESPITE BRIBERY

Three Weeks After Insurance Payoff, He Read Paper to Meeting at White Sulphur Springs.

NO SIGN HE TOLD 'LONG STORY' THERE

Nothing in Record to Show 'Little Fellows' Learned Any More Than 'Big Boys' in New York.

Whatever else happened at the annual meeting of the Western Underwriters' Association at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., in April, 1936, there is nothing in the record to show that the late Charles R. Street, told the "little fellows" who assembled there any more about how he purchased the Missouri fire insurance rate compromise, than he had told some of the "big boys" in New York.

Testimony at the New York session last week in the Federal Court investigation of the compromise w that Street promised at least two officers of smaller insurance concerns to tell the "long story" of the Missouri deal at the White Sulphur Springs meeting. To one of them he wrote that he had detailed his story in New York to "all of the big boys who could be gotten together during the winter vacation season," and he added, "Will tell you all about it at White Sulphur Springs." Unfortunately, neither of these "little fellows" was able to attend the convention.

However, about all that the "big boys" learned from Street, so far as testimony has showed, was that he was raising $460,000 for "legal expenses," which was what everybody was told. Now everybody knows he used the money for bribery.

From Bribery to Ethics.

There was good golf weather and three verdant courses at the Greenbrier Hotel, White Sulphur Springs, when the underwriters' organization, representing a large Middle Western territory, convened. Perhaps that interfered with Street's plans to tell all.

But he was not silent. The meeting was hardly well under way when Street, fresh from completing the bribery, less than three weeks previously, breathed deep of the Alleghany Mountain air and, as chairman of the Committee on Cooperation in Loss Adjustment Practices, read a report on the ethics of the business. As to this, a trade paper related at the time:

"In criticizing the solicitation of adjustments, the committee bluntly says that in certain localities the practice has degenerated to the level of ambulance chasing. It deplored the tendency toward lobbying and entertaining field men lavishly to gain patronage . . . It held adjusters must be in a position at all times to do their duty without fear or favor. The committee feels it has done much in recent years in bringing about the bettter handling

PEPPER CHARGES 'UNHOLY ALLIANCE' FIGHTS NEW DEAL

His Attack on Critics Precipitates Last - Minute Clash Among Democrats in Senate.

HEARD AFTER VOTE ON POINT OF ORDER

Burke, Bailey Leave Chamber — Floridan, Pressed for Names, Denies Referring to Any Senator.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Senator Pepper (Dem.), Florida, stirred a bitter last-minute quarrel in the Senate today with a speech in which he accused "an unholy alliance of those in and out of Congress" of conniving to "scuttle" the New Deal's social and economic programs.

Senator Burke (Dem.), Nebraska, made a point of order soon after Pepper began, asserting the accusations violated Senate rules. The point was sustained, but Senator Minton (Dem.), Indiana, moved to permit Pepper to proceed. On a roll call, the motion carried, 34 to 15. Burke walked from the chamber.

In his strongly-worded speech, Pepper deplored "the cold heartlessness with which bitter men make the helpless suffer when they war for power and the presidency of the United States." He did not name the objects of his attack, but he asserted:

"I accuse them of having prostituted their power to serve the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Manufacturers' Association, and the beneficiaries of special privilege, who hate in their hearts that man who has tried to lighten the burden of toil on the backs of labor."

Says Group Fought Wage Act.

He accused the "intriguing alliance" of "trying to strike down by emasculation and assassination the Fair Labor Standards Act," adding:

"I accuse this machiavellian alliance of fostering and encouraging unhappy division in the ranks of labor, not because they love one side more than the other, but because they want to keep the working man helpless and supine, so that they shall continue to hold him in the tight clutches of economic bondage."

The same group, he asserted, has been responsible for "strangling" the President's power to conduct the country's foreign policy.

He said they killed the lending bill in spite of a knowledge on their part that it would aid the unemployed, the business man and the taxpayer.

"I accuse them," he said, "of setting fire to the barn for the insurance and of burning the horses along with the hay."

George Calls for Names.

Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, interrupted to ask if Pepper would name those to whom he referred in his statement.

"The Senator from Florida refers to those who in the opinion of the Senator from Florida come within the categories mentioned," Pepper replied.

The Republicans tittered. George then asked: "Has the Senator from Florida the courage to name anybody?"

Senator Lee (Dem.), Oklahoma, quickly arose to his feet to remark that if Pepper should name anyone he would be acting contrary to parliamentary procedure.

George then said to Pepper: "Do you refer to anyone in the United States Senate?"

"I did not name anyone in the United States Senate," Pepper said.

George insisted, however, repeating his question, and Pepper replied that he did not refer to any Senator.

Bailey Calls Speech "Cowardly."

Bailey (Dem.), North Carolina, called the Pepper speech "cowardly and mendacious."

"Under the rules of the Senate," said Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, presiding, "such a statement is out of order."

"In order or out of order," Bailey snapped in reply, "I shall make this statement. I shall make it privately." He left the chamber.

Senator Downey (Dem.), California, a New Dealer, as is Pepper, pleaded for "understanding between Senators," and added:

"God help us, if we can't meet our problems in a spirit of tolerance and understanding and recognize the right of the opposition to present its own views."

Survey of the Session's Acts; Despite Some Notable Defeats, New Deal Got Most of Program

$1,800,000,000 More Appropriated Than in 1938 — Politically, Coalition Greatly Damaged Roosevelt Prestige.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5. — The first session of the Seventy-sixth Congress, which adjourned today came in like a lion in January and went out the same way but during the seven-month period the hard-pressed New Deal was able to enact many of President Roosevelt's recommendations and successfully block measures to which he was opposed.

The outstanding New Deal defeats were on the postponed revision of the neutrality laws, the rejection of the White House spending and lending program, including the $800,000,000 additional slum clearance proposal, and the enactment of the Hatch "clean politics" bill.

President's Prestige Suffers.

From a political standpoint, however, the coalition of Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats greatly damaged the Roosevelt prestige and the assaults of the last two months, a continuation of the New Deal rout over the Supreme Court fight of 1937, demonstrated that the ill-led, demoralized Rooseveltian forces are not the well-disciplined troops that overwhelmed virtually all opposition from 1933 through 1936.

Elated by their recent victories, the anti-Roosevelt Democrats, especially those from the South, are preparing to carry their fight into the 1940 convention against President Roosevelt and his political advisers. The New Dealers, on the other hand, although depressed by the results of the rebellion, are counting on unfavorable popular reaction to the "economy" and "conservative" actions of the anti-White House blocs. Although they have scant tangible evidence to support their claims, they insist that the country "in general" was with the President on the spending-lending proposal, and that he had widespread popular support for immediate revision of the neutrality laws.

The legislative "box-score" for the past seven months reveals that the White House had several unspectacular but winning innings. Although the plays were close and hard-fought in most instances, the administration came through with majorities, and usually got the best of the conference compromises between the Senate and the House.

Economy—Only in Name.

In his January message, the President emphasized two recommendations—for larger national defense appropriation and a continuation of the spending program. The Republicans and anti-New Dealers boldly announced that they purposed to carry out the mandate for economy given by the November elections.

"Economy," however, became a counterfeit word. Appropriataions for the current fiscal year were more than 13 billion dollars, or about $1,800,000,000 more than those made at the 1938 session.

The "economy bloc" did attempt to cut down relief appropriations for the 1939 fiscal year, but after the President insisted on his full recommendation, the net saving was the comparatively small $50,000,000. Without much protest, $1,755,600,000 was appropriated for relief during the current fiscal year, about $785,000,000 less than appropriated for last year, but there is no assurance that the President will not ask for a supplemental appropriation next winter. That has been the practice of the last few years.

The White House got virtually everything it asked for in the way

HOUSE FINALLY ACCEPTS SENATE PROVISION FOR LOANS ON CROPS

Last Deficiency Bill, Carrying Total of $185,000,000, Includes $119,000,000 for Commodity Credit Corporation.

CHANGES IN PENSION LEVIES AND BENEFITS

Usual Filled Galleries and Color at Finish—Roosevelt Sends Note Wishing Weary Members Pleasant Vacation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—The first session of the Seventy-sixth Congress adjourned at 6:36 o'clock tonight after completing favorable action on the last deficiency bill, carrying $119,599,918 for farm surplus crop control, and sending the conference report making sweeping revisions in the Social Security system to the White House.

Adjournment came first in the House, then a few minutes later in the Senate, where Democratic Senators had engaged in a final furious clash over the New Deal.

Near the close President Roosevelt sent a little farewell note wishing the legislators a pleasant vacation and in the Senate Barkley of Kentucky, the majority leader, made a speech. "It has been a hard session," he began. Senators and galleryites guffawed. He then went on to say it had been a "hard-working session," which had actually accomplished much more than events of the last few weeks would indicate. When he moved adjournment, it carried on a voice vote, with comedians in the gallery loudly "voting" in the negative.

Note on Green-Tinted Paper.

The President's note, on green-tinted paper, was addressed to Vice-President Garner, and said:

"My Dear Mr. President:

"At this time of the adjournment of the first session of the Seventy-sixth Congress, will you express to the members of the Senate my good wishes for a pleasant vacation."

Senator Barkley had carried in a pocket of his gray-blue coat the final measure upon which all members of both houses were ready to agree—a concurrent resolution setting forth that, when the two houses completed their business today, they should adjourn sine die. (The Latin phrase means, literally, without day, or with no day set for reconvening, beyond that established by the Constitution.)

Color and Chit-Chat.

The dainty, history-laden, ivory gavel of Vice-President Garner and the more robust mallet-like hammer with which Speaker Bankhead maintains order in the House gave the closing raps.

In the Senate before the end Senators wandered in and out of cloakrooms, engaged in personal chit-chat (to such extent that there were frequent and sometimes indignant calls of "Mr. President, may we have order?"). Tall Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts Republican, sat in Vice-President Garner's chair, fingering the Senate's ancient gavel. (It dates back to Colonial days. All that remains is the head, and the fingers of many presiding officers have worn it down to something resembling a spool).

The galleries of both branches were filled with colorfully dressed throngs, and long queues of sightseers extended from every gallery door.

RIBBING IN HOUSE ON LOAN REVERSAL

The deficiency bill was adopted in the form of a conference report — a "compromise" which almost completely reversed one of the victories of the powerful House coalition economy bloc. On Wednesday the House approved a bill

SMITH OF VIRGINIA TO DIRECT INQUIRY INTO LABOR BOARD

Author of House Resolution Promises Thorough, Impartial Investigation of Act's Administration.

NO PUBLIC HEARINGS, IF ANY, TILL OCTOBER

Bankhead Names Two New Dealers and Former Labor Counsel to Five-Man Committee.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—A five-man House committee was named by Speaker Bankhead today to inquire into the administration of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

Bankhead, after more than three weeks' deliberation, appointed these members to the committee which the House previously had authorized by an overwhelming vote: Representatives Smith, Virginia; Healey, Massachusetts, and Murdock, Utah, Democrats; Halleck, Indiana, and Routzohn, Ohio, Republicans.

Less than an hour after the appointments were announced, the committeemen decided informally that Smith should act as chairman, although there was no official election.

Speaking to newspapermen later, Smith said, "Every member of the committee expressed himself as desirous to conduct a thorough, fair and impartial investigation."

He remarked that, since none of the committeemen was disposed to work during the month of August, they would reassemble here Sept. 7 to outline the scope of the inquiry. Public hearings, if there are any, probably will not start until early in October, he indicated.

Smith, whose home is in nearby Alexandria, Va., pushed authorization for the inquiry through the House and his appointment as number one man on the committee was in accordance with customary House procedure.

Healey, who resigned as a member of the Dies Committee on un-American activities to take the new position, is co-author of the Walsh-Healey Act, setting up working standards for persons engaged in the production of goods under Government contracts.

Both Healey and Murdock are regarded by their friends as administration supporters. Murdock has been an active member of what is widely known as the House liberal bloc.

Halleck, who came to Congress four years ago, recently helped draft and supported the transportation bill to bring water carriers under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission, as railroads and trucks now are.

Routzohn, a first-termer, represented the A. F. of L. Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners as general counsel for 10 years before he defeated Representative Byron Harlan of Dayton, an administration supporter, in last November's elections.

GOERING SAYS NAZI AIRFORCE WOULD PREVENT BLOCKADE

Refers to Britain in Addressing Junkers Plane Factory Workers on Surprise Visit.

DESSAU, Germany, Aug. 5 (AP).—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering told Junkers airplane factory workers today "we are not threatening England but if it thinks it can step in our way everywhere then it must accept responsibility for keeping peace." The No. 2, Nazi, who is air minister, addressed the 8000 workers in a surprise visit here during which he inspected the great Junkers plant.

"Every threat to blockade Germany and bring it to starvation a second time will be made impossible," he said. "The German air force will see to that, to say nothing of great stores of wheat which we in Germany have piled up.

"We do not want war. If we are feverishly arming then it is for the purpose of coming off victoriously in a battle which will be forced upon us.

"Neither threats nor love letters impress us."

Alka-Seltzer Maker Agrees to Stop "Misrepresentations."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—The Federal Trade Commission announced today that Miles Laboratories, Inc., Elkhart, Ind., had agreed to discontinue "misleading misrepresentations" in the sale of Alka-seltzer.

The company agreed to stop using advertising matter which implies that colds, neuralgia, distress after meals, and "common everyday ailments" result from excess acidity of the blood and that the alkalinizing effect of Alka-seltzer, by correcting such acid condition, will be a proper treatment for the ailments mentioned.

gest that the Republican minority in Congress was running things.

In his weekly column he recorded as a Republican victory the passage of the Hatch bill, curbing political activities of most Federal employes, and said Republicans and "anti-administration forces generally" had fought the administration's big lending bill simply because it was President Roosevelt's program.

David Lasser, president of the Workers' Alliance, accused the "Garner-Woodrum-Taber axis" of "slamming the door in the cases of the millions of underprivileged."

In a statement, Lasser said "this irresponsible Tory bloc" had killed the lending and housing bill and blocked attempts to modify restrictions in the new relief bill.

In addition to Vice-President Garner, Lasser's reference was to Representative Woodrum (Dem.), Virginia, and Representative Taber (Rep.), New York, both memberes of the House Appropriations Committee.

PRESIDENT'S SON RAPS U. S. NEIGHBOR MEXICO

Elliott Roosevelt Says Blunt Words to Cardenas Might Save Lot of Trouble.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 5 (AP).—Quoting "observers" as saying there was unrest in Mexico, Elliott Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt, advocate of the "good neighbors" policy, said in a radio address today that "if conditions come to a head we may find ourselves right back where we were in 1915 when we had to police Mexico."

He quoted his informants as saying "That industrial unrest is growing, that the Mexican financial structure is caving, and that, in general, the country is lapsing into a mood of distrust and discouragement that is making it ripe for revolution."

"This condition seems to have grown steadily worse ever since President Lazaro Cardenas put over the celebrated oil snatch, in which the private property of Americans and others was appropriated by the Government," he continued.

"If conditions come to a head, we might find ourselves right back where we were in 1915 when we had to police Mexico, at extravagant expense, to safeguard property and the lives of Americans along the Mexican border. A few blunt statements from our State Department to Mr. Cardenas, who understands blunt statements much better than polite ones, probably would do that gentleman some good and, at the same time, save us a lot of future trouble."

CONGRESS APPROVES U.S. SALE OF SURPLUS COTTON ABROAD

House Passes Measure, Amended by Senate Just Before Chambers Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—The House completed congressional action today on legislation permitting the sale of Government-held cotton and other agricultural commodities to foreign nations at less than world market prices.

Acceptance of a Senate amendment to the bill was among the last acts of the House before it adjourned. The amendment, by Senator George of Georgia, limits the total amount of cotton to be sold under the measure's terms to 500,000 bales and requires that payment be made within 60 days after delivery.

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina said the legislation, which now goes to President Roosevelt for signature, would clear the way for disposal of approximately 175,000 bales of the 11,000,000-bale surplus of stored cotton to France and Switzerland for about $6 a bale less than the prevailing world price. Already on the President's desk is another bill making possible the barter of 600,000 bales of Government-held cotton for English rubber.

CHANDLER'S MAN TAKES EARLY LEAD IN KENTUCKY VOTE

Lieut.-Gov. Keen Johnson Slightly Ahead in Returns From 335 Out of 4307 Precincts.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 5 (AP).—Returns from 335 precincts out of 4307 in today's Kentucky primary for the Democratic nomination for Governor gave Lieut.-Gov. Keen Johnson a slight lead over his closest opponent, former Congressman John Young Brown. The vote stood: Johnson 22,963, Brown 18,412.

Secretary of State Charles D. Arnett, also a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, was running a poor third from the reporting precincts, with 308 votes.

The election was the first to be held under the new Hatch law, barring political activity by Federal officials.

In the Republican race for nomination for Governor, Circuit Judge King Swope of Lexington was leading John Sherman Cooper, Somerset lawyer, 7197 to 5552 on 220 reporting precincts.

Tabulation was slow because of the long ballot. Both parties have candidates for seven other State offices, members of the House of Representatives and half of the State Senate in addition to numerous local contests.

Heavy Vote in Some Areas.

The day was fair and there were indications that the vote in some sections was heavy despite the lack of the usual pre-primary interest.

Developments included the arrest and release on bond of six men in Louisville on charges of voting at two polls and starting to enter a third. Police said the men carried "written instructions" on how to vote "repeat" ballots.

James Howard, 35 years old, a farmer, died in a hospital from a bullet wound suffered shortly after the polls closed in Baxter. Royal Wolfe, 30, unemployed, was jailed for arraignment on a shooting charge. Earlier Robert Thomas, 25, was wounded in the abdomen in a fight at Ages and Delbert Cross, 30, was held without charge. Authorities said neither shooting had any connection with today's primary but were fights resulting from "old grudges."

Quiet in Harlan County.

No election disorders were reported in Harlan County, where some 300 National Guardsmen are on duty. The troops were ordered into the county by Gov. A. B. Chandler more than a month ago during a labor-contract dispute. At one time they numbered more than 1000.

LANDON SAYS GOVERNMENT IS SKINNING THE TAXPAYERS

It Hasn't Learned to Just Shear Them, He Tells Wyoming Wool Growers.

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Aug. 5 (AP).—Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee in 1936, told the Wyoming Wool Growers' Association today "you shear sheep and don't skin them—the Government has yet to learn to do that."

"It's now skinning the taxpayers instead of just shearing them," added the former Governor of Kansas.

Landon asserted the time has come for the small business man to take an active part in politics.

"It isn't any longer only a matter of civic pride, but is now a matter of our daily bread and butter to take part in politics. From now on one thing is certain, and that is that government policies tend to enter more and more into all industry and business," he said.

Congress Adjourns; Farm Funds Voted

carrying $54,000,000, or $161,000,000 less than the Roosevelt Administration had requested.

Yesterday the Senate increased the bill to $189,000,000. The principal increase was an item of $119,000,000 to continue the Commodity Credit Corporation's program of sustaining agricultural prices by making loans to farmers on their surplus crops in order to keep them off the market. A conference committee then agreed on a total of $185,000,000, including the full $119,000,000 for farm loans.

The House today with few in attendance and still fewer apparently paying any heed to what was taking place, worked away at the conference report and finally approved it. Then the Senate stamped its final approval on the deficiency measure.

House Finally Yields.

When the deficiency bill was called up in the House by Representative Woodrum (Dem.), Virginia, meticulously-dressed chairman of the appropriations subcommittee which handled the measure, he had to take some ribbing from the Republican seats over the conference committee's action in approving virtually all of the Senate increases.

Woodrum had led the Democratic economy bloc through a session which had seen much of the Roosevelt lend-spend policy stopped in its tracks. But no one doubted, when the House cut the deficiency bill, that the Senate, with its well-known anxiety to appropriate for the farmers, would restore the principal reduction in that measure.

Referring to the $119,000,000 item for the Commodity Credit Corporation, Woodrum said that in some way there has "got to be an end" to continual subsidies for agriculture.

The country, he added, was not bankrupt of ideas on that problem, but he himself, frankly, did not know what the solution was. He opposed restoring the full $119,000,000, but conceded that he did not know, at this time, what else could be done.

Representative Andresen (Rep.), Minnesota, dark, bulky and bespectacled, complained that, despite congressional farm appropriations, prices for the farmers' output were drifting steadily downward. Continuing loans, he said, would break both the farmers and the Government.

Wallace Warning Heeded.

Secretary Wallace and President Roosevelt both had said the farm loan appropriation was necessary to maintain the administration's farm-price program.

Representative Tabor (Rep.), New York, said he and Representative Ditter (Rep.), Pennsylvania, refused to sign the conference report.

"It was awful," Tabor said. "The House members gave in on everything."

The conferees trimmed about $4,000,000 out of the Senate bill. They then slashed to $1,200,000 a proposed $2,000,000 appropriation for administrative expenses of the wage-hour administration. They also agreed to make $4,000,000 available for civilian pilot training, contrasted with the $3,000,000 voted by the House and the $5,675,000 figure approved by the Senate. These and other reductions accounted for a cut of $4,000,000 in the amount of the Senate bill.

MORE PENSIONS BUT SAME TAXES

A Senate vote of 58 to 4 completed congressional action on legislation to increase outlays for Social Security and at the same time postpone a scheduled increase in taxes to support it.

The legislation was approved after months of wrangling between the House and Senate and after Senator Connally (Dem.), Tex., had pounded his desk and charged that Congress paid a $695,000,000 price for elimination of his amendment to increase the Government's share of outlays in the Federal-state program of old age assistance.

Connally's amendment would have required the Federal Government to match State old age assistance contributions $2 for $1 up to a total of $15 a month per beneficiary. Above that figure, the Washington Government would have been directed to match state contributions on a fifty-fifty basis up to an aggregate of $40.

Congress retained the present dollar-for-dollar matching basis, instead of adopting this plan, but increased the total that might be raised in this way from $30 to $40 a month per recipient.

The Texas Senator charged that Senator La Follette (Prog.), Wisconsin, had failed to stand by the Senate vote in support of the Connally amendment after he became a member of a conference committee which undertook the task of adjusting differences over the legislation.

La Follette Amendment.

Connally, waving his arms and striding back and forth on the Senate's green-carpeted aisles, asserted that an amendment by La Follette to bring 200,000 additional persons under the old age insurance program had been agreed to by the conference committee.

(Old age insurance is the system under which employers and employes both pay taxes to finance pensions for employes after they reach 65. Old age assistance is for persons now old and in need.)

La Follette's proposal, which was included in the finally-approved legislation, provides that a person who has paid some old age insurance taxes, and who reaches 65 during 1939, may be eligible for an old age insurance pension. Originally, the bill provided that only those reaching 65 in 1940 or thereafter would be eligible.

Old-age pensions will start Jan. 1, 1940, under the amended act. Under the old provision they would have started in 1942, and any person reaching 65 prior to then would have received the amount actually contributed, plus 3 per cent interest, in a lump sum. Such payments already have been made to persons reaching 65.

Connally said the La Follette proposal would cost $695,000,000 during the next 15 years and added: "The price to kill the Connally amendment in the conference committee was the $695,000,000 taken out of the old age insurance fund for people who get to be 65 this year.

"Those people have contributed very little to the trust fund, but under this amendment they will get pensions.

"The Senator from Wisconsin might just as well have been the whole conference committee himself. I feel very keenly that the Senate conferees did not discharge their duty to the Senate and make the House take a vote on the Connally amendment."

Connally said that the seven Senate members of the conference group originally had stood four to three in favor of his amendment, and, with this vote, could have obtained a separate House roll call on his proposal.

But, he added, the House members of the committee refused stubbornly to submit the question to the chamber for a vote. He said La Follette 'finally changed his viewpoint," making the Senate group stand four to three against his amendment and "collapsing" the conference.

Replying to Connally's charges, La Follette told the Senate that his conscience was easy about the conference committee action. Matching Connally's desk-pounding emphasis, he asserted:

"The Senator from Texas has stated that there was a price on my action in the committee. I have been a member of this body for nigh onto 14 years, and so far as I know the Senator from Texas is the first to question the integrity of the Senator from Wisconsin.

"Mr. President, there was no price!"

La Follette declared that he did not believe the benefits proposed in the broad social security amendments should be lost in an effort to save the Connally proposal.

Changes in the Law.

The legislation, which members of Congress agree is virtually certain to be approved by President Roosevelt, would make these major changes in existing law:

Retain for three years the present old age insurance tax of 1 per cent on employes and 1 per cent on employers. The present law would raise the tax to 1½ per cent on each next Jan. 1. Savings to taxpayers from this and other changes have been estimated at $905,000,000.

Move up from 1942 to 1940 the date on which old age insurance benefits will start.

Increase from $15 to $20 the amount the Government will contribute on a 50-50 matching basis with the states for old age assistance.

Retain in substance existing provisions permitting states to reduce taxes for unemployment compensation programs after three years' experience with their individual systems.

Provide under the old age insurance program for aged wives, widows, children and aged dependent parents.

Increase Federal grants to states for maternal and child welfare, vocational rehabilitation and public health work.

Senate Roll Call.

Following is the vote in the Senate:

MARQUIS W. CHILDS SUES SENATOR GUFFEY

Post-Dispatch Correspondent Asks for $50,000 for Attack on Integrity.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5. — Marquis W. Childs, a member of the Washington staff of the Post-Dispatch, today brought suit in United States District Court here for $50,000 against Senator Joseph F. Guffey (Dem.), Pennsylvania, charging Guffey had injured his professional reputation by statements that Childs had been paid by someone other than his employer for getting news stories on the Mexican oil situation.

Guffey objected to a news story connecting his name with that of W. R. Davis, oil operator, who put over the barter deals between Germany and Mexico, and charged on the floor of the Senate a week ago that Childs had received outside compensation.

On the floor of the Senate, of course, Guffey enjoys constitutional immunity and cannot be sued for his remarks.

Off-the-Floor Remarks Cited.

In the suit filed today the Post-Dispatch correspondent alleged Guffey had made the same remarks to several persons when not on the floor.

The suit alleges that Guffey made substantially the same statements off the floor, to newspaper reporters, that he made on the floor. Guffey is said to have made the statement before he spoke on the floor and then again following his reply to charges raised in the Senate.

In the suit it is pointed out that all Washington correspondents who have the privileges of Senate and House press galleries are strictly forbidden to accept any compensation from other than known newspaper or publishing sources. To violate this rule, the petition points out, is to barred from the press galleries.

The suit was filed by William Leahy, Washington lawyer, associated with J. Porter Henry of St. Louis.

Described Trip to Mexico.

The news story that aroused Guffey's anger was printed in the Post-Dispatch on June 15 and subsequently widely reprinted in Pennsylvania newspapers. It told how Guffey had gone to Mexico City two years ago with Walter A. Jones, an oil man who had associated himself with Davis. Later Guffey conferred with Jones and Mexican officials here in Washington.

The story was made the basis of a speech by Senator H. Styles Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, in which he demanded an investigation of Mexican expropriation of American oil properties and the part played by various Americans in subsequent deals over Mexican oil.

MARQUIS W. CHILDS SUES SENATOR GUFFEY

Post-Dispatch Correspondent Asks for $50,000 for Attack on Integrity.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5. — Marquis W. Childs, a member of the Washington staff of the Post-Dispatch, today brought suit in United States District Court here for $50,000 against Senator Joseph F. Guffey (Dem.), Pennsylvania, charging Guffey had injured his professional reputation by statements that Childs had been paid by someone other than his employer for getting news stories on the Mexican oil situation.

Off-the-Floor Remarks Cited.

In the suit filed today the Post-Dispatch correspondent alleged Guffey had made the same remarks to several persons when not on the floor.

The suit alleges that Guffey made substantially the same statement off the floor, to newspaper reporters, that he made on the floor. Guffey is said to have made the statement before he spoke on the floor and then again following his reply to charges raised in the Senate.

In the suit it is pointed out that all Washington correspondents who have the privileges of Senate and House press galleries are strictly forbidden to accept any compensation from other than known newspaper or publishing sources. E. ST. LOUIS MOVE TO ORGANIZE CITY HOUSING AGENCY

Councilman's Proposal in Conflict With County Authority's Plan for Slum Clearance.

IT REJECTS SITES CHOSEN UNDER OTHER

$1,500,000 in Federal Funds Already Earmarked for Two Projected Large Dwelling Units.

The East St. Louis City Council will apply to the Illinois Housing Authority for formation of a City Housing Authority to undertake low-rent, slum-clearance residential construction, it was announced yesterday by Commissioner Leo J. Daugherty, one of the five members of the Council. Action will be deferred until other members return from vacations, he said.

This proposal is in direct conflict with the plan of the St. Clair County Housing Authority to build two large dwelling units in East St. Louis with the help of a 90 per cent loan from the United States Housing Authority. An allotment of $1,500,000 of existing funds has been earmarked for the county agency by the USHA, which has indicated that the amount may be increased to $2,200,000.

Ray F. Rucker of Signal Hill, chairman of the County Housing Authority and general superintendent of the Aluminum Ore Co. East St. Louis plant, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that it was doubtful if funds could be obtained by a new city agency from the USHA because of the recent refusal of Congress to pass the new $800,000,000 housing bill.

Control by City Urged.

Dougherty, who is Commissioner of Streets and Public Improvements, has had several conferences recently with Oscar W. Rosenthal of Chicago, chairman of the Illinois Housing Authority, who, he said, approved he move to form the city agency. It has been pointed out, in connection with the activity of the new St. Louis Housing Authority, that, in spite of the failure of the appropriation bill, the USHA expected to have considerable reversion of unused funds from earlier allotments, which might be available.

It is Dougherty's contention that the improvebent, being intended for the city, should be controlled by the municipality. He told the reporter that a majority of the county authority were not residents of East St. Louis. Furthermore, he objected to the two sites in East St. Louis chosen by the county authority.

The site of the proposed white unit for 300 families, bounded by Twenty-seventh and Twenty-ninth streets and Gaty and Cleveland avenues, is not a slum district as required, he asserted, saying a location nearer the downtown district should be chosen. The contemplated site for 160 Negro families, bounded by Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets and Piggott and Market avenues, is in a region where the Negro dwellers largely own their own homes, he continued, but the price that would be paid them for surrendering their property would not compensate for its value to them.

Dougherty added that the county agency did not, in his opinion, have the city's welfare at heart. Observers have noted that the political backing of the county authority is opposed to that of the East St. Louis administration.

Greater Voice Offered to City.

On the other hand, Rucker told the reporter that he believed the city could be given more representation on the county authority, if it desired. He did not make clear whether this would be by enlarging the board or replacing some of the present members. He asserted that a majority of the taxing officials and civic organization representatives consulted by the county authority had been satisfied with the sites selected. These are the best available sites, he declard.

The site for whites is three blocks from the Aluminum Ore Co. plant.

Opposition to any Government-aided housing has been expressed by the East St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. At a hearing July 6 before the City Council the Central Trades and Labor Union and spokesmen of Catholic and Protestant churches approved the county plan, while the exchange objected to it.

It has been held that before the county plan could be finally approved, the City Council would have to agree to co-operate with the county authority, particularly by waiving taxes on the property for the 60-year life of the local and USHA loans, by furnishing municipal facilities and services and by demolishing 460 sub-standard houses, including those on the sites.

RESERVATIONS TO STATE FAIR

200 St. Louisans Plan to Make Trip Aug. 22.

More than 200 St. Louisans have made train reservations for the trip to Sedalia, Mo., for St. Louis and St. Louis County day at the State Fair, Aug. 22.

The observance is sponsored by the city and county Chambers of Commerce and by business and civic groups.

DEFENSE FILES DEMURRER IN NEGRO CHURCH ROW SUIT

Argues There Should Be No Resort to Law Until Church Tribunals Are Exhausted.

The defense in the suit to enjoin the Rev. Benjamin J. Perkins and others from selling the building of the Negro Metropolitan Missionary Baptist Church, Fourteenth and Carr streets, or conducting services in a tent in the 3700 block of Finney avenue under the church's name, filed a demurrer yesterday, arguing that there should be no resort to law until church tribunals were exhausted. Circuit Judge Robert L. Aronson deferred ruling until the end of the hearing, which will be resumed Wednesday.

Counsel for the plaintiffs, who continue to use the church under leadership of John Lumpus, contended that the Baptist church is a democracy, with congregational government and no tribunal of appeal. However, the defense produced as an expert witness the Rev. William Henry Harris, Negro, of Calvary Baptist Church. Cross-examined, the witness conceded that each congregation was an independent unit.

Congregational minutes were produced to show that the officers were authorized to make expenditures for a revival in the Finney avenue tent and that two years ago the church had voted to move westward, with two sites under consideration. Charles G. Butler, president of the trustees, called by the defense, denied the pastor was high-handed in his treatment of members or "rapped them down" in meetings, except in conformity with parliamentary practice.

KATHARINE HEPBURN ENTERS SOPHIE TUCKER UNION ROW

Actress Warns A. F. of L. 4-A Theatrical Groups Won't Tolerate Any Breach of Faith.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP). — Katharine Hepburn, movie and stage star, entered the theatrical union row involving Sophie Tucker today with a statement supporting the Associated Actors and Artists of America, an A. F. of L. affiliate.

"Any attempt on the part of the American Federation of Labor to disregard the just claims of the 4-A will be regarded as a breach of faith not to be tolerated by the loyal members of our union," said Miss Hepburn, now appearing in a Broadway play, "The Philadelphia Story."

The 4-A, parent body of several theatrical unions, recently ousted the American Federation of Actors on grounds of mismanagement. The A. F. A. then allied with the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, an A. F. of L. stagehands' union, but independent of the 4-A.

Three 4-A affiliates have suspended Miss Tucker who, as A. F. A. president, allied the union with the stagehands' uion after the 4-A revoked the charter and chartered a new group.

MAN KILLS WIFE, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE AT CAMDENTON, MO.

Mrs. Ralph Caviness Shot to Death, Husband Found With Throat Cut.

CAMDENTON, Mo., Aug. 5 (AP). —Mrs. Ralph Caviness, 28-year-old wife of a Camdenton laborer, was shot to death with a shotgun at her home four miles south of Camdenton today.

Her husband, about 30, his throat slashed with a razor blade, was taken to a hospital at Lebanon. A deputy sheriff accompanied him. Doctors reported there was a chance for his recovery.

Witnesses said Mrs. Caviness came running from her home crying her husband had shot her, and Caviness a few minutes later ran from the house and across a field.

When authorities arrived the wife was dead. Caviness was found later about 300 yards from the house, his throat cut.

PARKS COLLEGE GETS AIR CORPS CONTRACT

One of Seven Schools Chosen to Train Mechanics—It Will Take 48.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The War Department today announced the signing of contracts amounting to $366,863 with seven civilian air schools—one of them in the St. Louis area—for the training of 1000 airplane and engine mechanics as a step toward speeding up the expansion of the Air Corps.

The training courses will begin Monday, and are to supplement those offered at the army's own schools at Chanute and Scott Fields, Ill., and Lowry Field, Colo., while facilities there are being increased.

A contract has been signed with Parks Air College, East St. Louis, Ill., to train 48 students for $16,298. The six other schools in various parts of the country will train from 80 to 272 students. Their contract charges range from $28,469 to $101,836.

Admittedly an emergency measure, the civilian training is expected to produce some of the 18,000 additional mechanics needed to service the 5500 or more planes to be acquired in the next two years.

Pilots are already being trained at nine civilian schools as well as the "West Point of the Air" in Texas. Mechanics' courses are to continue for 28 weeks, and will begin Aug. 7 and 21, Sept. 4 and 18, Oct. 2, 16 and 30, and Nov. 13.

MISSOURI SPECIAL TRAINS LEAVE FOR NEW YORK FAIR

112 in State Group and 372 in St. Louis Delegation; Mrs. Lloyd Stark With Them.

A group of 112 Missourians left Union Station at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon on a special train for the New York World's Fair. Mrs. Lloyd C. Stark, wife of the Governor, and their two daughters were among the passengers.

About an hour earlier another special train left with 372 St. Louisans. Both groups will be at the fair Thursday, which has been designated as Missouri day. Gov. Stark was unable to leave Jefferson City because of the press of business but expects to fly to New York later in the week. He will be in Des Moines, Ia., Tuesday to review C. M. T. C. enrollees.

On the "Missouri Special" were groups from Jefferson City, Kansas City, Springfield and St. Louis. There were 61 teachers from the Springfield area and several State officials.

DAIRY DRIVER HURT IN CRASH AT CROSSING, CARGO SPILLED

Cream Pours Out Along Track for 200 Feet When C. & E. I. Passenger Hits Trailer.

Edward Mueth of Belleville, driver a milk truck for Emil Burgard & Co., Fayetteville, Ill., was slightly injured yesterday when a Chicago & Eastern Illinois train crashed into the truck near the Main and Biddle streets crossing, in St. Louis.

The train from Chicago was eight minutes behind schedule when the accident occured, Engineer John Beach said. It reached Union Station at 5:30 p. m., 30 minutes late.

The engineer said he did not see the truck and trailer unit until a moment before the crash. It was being driven across the right of way north of Biddle street.

The trailer, but not the cab, was struck, and cream was poured out along the track for 200 feet. There were about 100 cans and six barrels of cream in the load. The driver, who lives at 521 Abend street, Belleville, was taken to City Hospital for examination and have scalp cut treated.

NEW N Y A PROJECTS IN CITY TO PROVIDE JOBS FOR 707

671 Young Men and 36 Women to Get Jobs; $65,000 to Be Spent.

Projects sponsored by the National Youth Administration which will employ 707 young men and women for the next four months at a total cost of $65,830 will start here tomorrow. Of the cost $12,920 will be contributed by the city.

Most of the work for the young men, who must be between 18 and 25 years old and come from families on relief, will be in cleaning parks playgrounds and vacant lots and in aiding the regular street department cleaners. There will be jobs for 671 young men.

Thirty-six young women will be employed in seven day nurseries throughout the city. Both the men and the women will receive $20 for 50 hours of work in a month.

EX-CONVICT GETS 6 YEARS ON DRESS THEFT CHARGE

Julius Gruender Also Gets 6-Year Concurrent Term for Stealing Merchandise.

Julius Gruender, former convict, pleaded guilty of hurglary on two charges yesterday in Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus' court at Clayton and was sentenced to concurrent six-year penitentiary terms.

Gruender, who is 34 years old, was charged with taking dresses valued at $459 from the Shir-Lee Dress Shop, 7312½ Manchester avenue, Maplewood, last Jan. 27, and merchandise worth $289 from the Artistic Curtain Shop, 7209 Manchester, on Dec. 30, 1938.

Much of the stolen property was recovered last June when Gruender and Earl R. Eaves, aslo a former convict, were arrested. Eaves is awaiting trial.

PASTORS URGE CLOSING OF TAVERNS ON SUNDAY

East Side Ministerial Alliance Sends Petition to County Supervisors.

The East St. Louis Protestant Ministerial Alliance yesterday submitted a petition to the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors, asking that taverns in unincorporated areas of the county be required to close on Sundays and from midnight to 7 a. m. on weekdays.

The petition also requested that a rule be established to prohibit the taverns from providing entertainment, either paid or free. A similar request was made to the board by the Rev. C. Kenneth Powell, pastor of the Methodist Church at Caseyville.

The petitions were referred to William Albert, chairman of the board and ex-officio county excise commissioner, for study. In the meantime, the board decided to continue the present closing hour which is 1 a. m., except on Saturday and other nights preceding holidays, when the taverns may remain open until 3 a. m. There is no Sunday closing law applying to the county. The Board of Supervisors has jurisdiction over taverns only in the unincorporated areas.

The board announced that bids for the proposed 105-bed St. Clair County Tuberculosis Sanatorium would be let and opened Sept. 6. Plans call for a two-story structure, at an estimated cost of $467,200. The sanatorium will be constructed on a 40-acre tract, previously acquired, on United States Highway 50, about five miles east of East St. Louis.

Hugh M. Doss, chief of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, was seated by the board as Assistant Supervisor of Centerville Township, to fill the vacancy resulting from the death of Herman H. Burke. Doss will serve pending determination of a suit contesting Burke's election, and will be seated permanently if it is found Burke was legally elected.

The board deferred action in fixing the salaries of the three members of the newly-created County Dairy Commission and chief clerk of the commission. The board's Judiciary Committee recommended that the commissioners be paid $50 a month and the chief clerk $75. Judges of courts in the county, who appointed the commissioners, had recommended salaries of $150 a month.

WORDS WORSE THAN PISTOL

Wife Ignores Weapon, Gets Divorce When Called "Old Woman."

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 5 (AP) —Mrs. Violet E. Richter took it in silence when, she said, her husband, upon being asked to move the furniture, flew into a rage, knocked her down, and threatened her with a pistol.

But when he called her "the old woman" in front of her children, she sued for a divorce, and got it.

BABE BALDWIN BACK, PICKED UP AND JAILED

Elmer Dowling's Pal, Ordered Out of St. Louis, Says He Came to See Mother.

Sylvester (Babe) Baldwin, who was ordered to stay out of St. Louis last December after the murderous assault on Lee Baker, State's witness in the Izzy Londe bombing case, returned yesterday and was immediately arrested and placed in the holdover at Police Headquarters.

Told by Assistant Chief of Detectives Jeremiah O'Connell that he must get out of town right away, Baldwin muttered a disgruntled protest, saying that he was now selling lubricating tools, and that he had hoped to establish himself in business here. He said he had come back because his mother was sick, and because he wanted to see the prize chickens he used to raise.

He denied that in the eight months since he had last been here he had seen his associate, Elmer Dowling, who is charged in a warrant with being one of the two men who shot Baker, a Negro, and left him for dead. He said, however, that he had seen John R. (Babs) Moran, who was ordered out of St. Louis at the same time he was.

Baldwin, wearing a white shirt and light blue trousers, was taken into O'Connell's office so that all detectives who happened to be at Headquarters could see him. "Take a good look at him," O'Connell said, "and if you find him anywhere, pick him up."

During his absence from the city, Baldwin said, he had been in California, Wyoming, and Nevada, spending most of his time in San Francisco and San Mateo, Cal. He denied that he had been on any of the gambling ships off the California coast or that he had worked in any Nevada gambling joint.

Asked what he was going to do, he replied: "I had intended to stay here, but it don't look much like it now."

Baldwin was formerly boss of the bartenders' union here, but was ousted from his job as business agent during the investigation which followed the Baker shooting. He was picked up yesterday by Lieut. Thomas Dirrane and Detective Sergt. Harry Powell, who saw him at Kingshighway boulevard and Easton avenue. He gave police an address in the 3800 block of St. Louis avenue.

Izzy Londe, who was convicted at his bombing trial, largely on Baker's testimony, and sentenced to 25 years in prison, was in another cell in the holdover when Baldwin was brought in. Londe, who is free on an appeal bond, was arrested for investigation Friday night.

TRAILER DWELLERS TO BE COUNTED IN NEXT YEAR'S CENSUS

As a Rule, Auto Tourists Will Be Credited to States in Which They're Parked.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—The problem of tracking down those who live in trailers will arise during a practice census to be conducted prior to the national census of 1940.

During this trial job, which will cover St. Joseph and Marshall Counties, Indiana, beginning Aug. 15, the bureau will tackle for the first time enumeration of trailer dwellers, who have increased a hundredfold since 1930. Though license plates on the trailer may be from Maine or California, the trailer's occupant will be enumerated as of the place where his car is parked, unless he claims another residence.

Enumeration of the population of tourist and trailer camps will be an important factor in the national census since it will provide statistics on migratory labor, education and relief.

The bureau issued a plea for patience by those questioned for the census as each enumerator has 342 instructions to follow.

"Knowing this, the householder should remember the homily, 'Don't shoot the piano player, he's doing the best he can,'" the bureau said.

Information is kept confidential, "but the enumerator has a right to a truthful answer," officials said. "In turn, the enumerator is pledged not to solicit magazine subscriptions."

NURSE SAVES ANOTHER'S LIFE WHEN JUGULAR VEIN IS CUT

Knocked Unconscious in Auto Crash, She Revives, Tears Up Uniform to Aid Companion.

SELLERSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 5 (AP).—Irene Krouthamel, 24-year-old student nurse, saved the life of another nurse in an automobile accident by stripping off her uniform and tearing it into compresses to stop blood flowing from a severad jugular vein.

Although knocked unconscious and slightly injured herself, Miss Krouthamel revived last night and pulled Naomi Musselman, 22, from the wreckage. At a hospital, Dr. Clyde B. Flory said today Miss Musselman would live and added: "She owes her life to Miss Krouthamel."

BURGLAR HITS WOMAN IN HOME

Escapes With $15 After Knocking Her Down.

Mrs. Louis Willard, 611 North Eighth street, East St. Louis, was knocked down in her home last night by a Negro burglar who took $15 from a dresser drawer.

She told police he struck her when she entered the house and turned on a light. The man ran out the rear door.

FLYERS HOPE TO ROUND OUT TWO WEEKS IN AIR

Pair on Endurance Flight Radio They May Be Forced Down at Any Time.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 5 (AP). —The Moody brothers sent word tonight to "have the ground crew prepared for us to land any time," but indicated they would try to keep their little monoplane aloft until they round out two weeks of continuous flying late Sunday afternoon.

Hunter Moody, 25 years old, the older brother, reported by radio that he and 20-year-old Humphrey Moody were "feeling fine, but the motor is a little clogged and carboned, and one of our two magnetos has gone completely dead. There's a little vibration, too, but we're watching things carefully."

Leroy Murphy, chief mechanic and manager of the flight, said the motor was a little "rough," but would probably "hold out until tomorrow night all right."

With 313 hours to their credit at 4 p. m. the brothers were in their fourteenth day. The 55-horsepower motor of their little monoplane had made more than 39,000,000 revolutions since the takeoff, consuming approximately 1250 gallons of gasoline and pulling the heavily loaded ship about 25,000 miles.

At the 313-hour mark, the Moodys had bettered by 94 hours and 17 minutes the former light plane endurance record of 218 hours and 43 minutes.

EVICTIONS BRING PLANS FOR RELIEF RENT APPEAL

Group of Residents Disturbed by Cases of Families of Two Unemployed Men.

Disturbed by evictions of the families of two unemployed men, a committee of residents in the area east of Broadway and north of the Arsenal will meet Wednesday night at 317 St. George street to discuss plans for an appeal to State officials for continuation of relief rent payments.

Joe Hoffman, secretary of the Workers' Alliance, which is sponsoring the meeting, said the organization had been able to find quarters for a family of six that was evicted from a house in the 300 block of St. George street. He said relief funds were available for payment of the first month's rent but that the family was given no assurances it would not face the same crisis next month.

Another family with three small children was evicted from rooms at 330 Victor street. Hoffman said efforts to find a similar solution for this family failed because the father was classed as employable and not eligible for relief. Neighbors said they would provide for the family temporarily.

HOW NEW DEAL PROGRAM FARED IN 7 MONTHS' SESSION

of national defense although there was some cutting down of individual items, such as the appropriation for strategic war materials. It is significant, however, that even this latter appropriation was larger than for any other year. As the result of authorizations this session, national defense appropriations next year are expected to amount to more than $2,000,000,000.

On much important legislation theer were compromises and both sides can claim credit.

In New Deal Column.

The following list gives the items, exclusive of relief and national defense, which might be called New Deal victories.

1. The Agriculture Department appropriation bill of about $1,200,000,000. This included $225,000,000 for farm subsidy parity payments not provided for in the administration budget recommendation.

2. Little change in the Revenue Act, except repeal of the undistributed profits tax which, however, had been emasculated in the 1938 bill.

3. Reciprocal taxation of Federal and local governmental employes' salaries.

4. Authorization of President to reorganize the executive departments. The President's original recommendations were greatly modified.

5. Extension of time and enlargement of capital of Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Export-Import Bank and the Federal Housing Administration.

Devaluation Power Continued.

6. Continuation of the administration's power to devalue the dollar, to operate the stabilization fund and to purchase domestic silver at a subsidy price.

7. Ceiling of 30 billion dollars for bonded debt of Federal Treasury removed, but no action taken on total debt limit of 45 billion dollars.

8. Authorization of the Tennessee Valley Authority to acquire properties of the Commonwealth & Southern Co. This represented a compromise, acceptable, however, to Senator Norris of Nebraska, father of the TVA.

9. House defeated Townsend old-age pension plan, thereby forcing many Republicans who had made vague campaign promises to take a public stand on this question.

10. $50,000 appropriated for continuation of the La Follette Civil Liberties investigation.

11. Accepted Hyde Park as a depository for President Roosevelt's papers.

12. Blocked amendments to the National Labor Relations Act.

13. Blocked House action on the Barden amendments to exempt about 2,000,000 low-paid workers from the wages and hours law.

14. Defeated amendments to pay "prevailing wages" to WPA beneficiaries.

Opposition Victories.

New Deal opponents, in addition to winning on neutrality legislation, the spending-lending program and the Hatch bill, can properly claim credit for the following New Deal defeats:

1. Appropriation of $225,000,000 farm parity subsidy payments not in administration budget.

2. Elimination of undistributed profits tax from revenue bill.

3. Rejection of request to increase U. S. Housing Authority slum clearance program from $800,000,000 to $1,600,000,000.

4. Defeat of plan to complete Florida ship canal.

5. Rejection of recommendation to fortify Island of Guam.

6. Blocking of House Labor Committee amendments to wages and hours law.

7. Authorization for House committee investigation of WPA.

8. Blocking of action on President's perennial recommendation for regional planning commission.

Some Important Bills Deferred.

There were several important subjects, controversial but which cannot be labeled New Deal or anti-New Deal, which will go over until next January unless a special session is called before then. These include reorganization of transportation regulation, a bar on future issues of tax-exempt securities; insurance of cotton crops; child refugee immigration; the La Follette "oppressive labor practices" bill, and block-booking of motion pictures.

New Deal opponents did not press, perhaps merely postponed, action on resolutions putting the Senate on record for or against a third term for President and for constitutional amendments to limit the presidential office to one term of six or seven years. If the Roosevelt third-term movement becomes stronger, some such proposal probably will be considered next session.

Martin's Part in Fight.

No review of the session just ended would be complete without mention of iron discipline of Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts, in the House; of the effective work of Republican leaders, McNary of Oregon, Vandenberg of Michigan, and Austin of Vermont, in the Senate, and of the reprisals inflicted by Senators George of Georgia, Gillette of Iowa, Smith of South Carolina, and Tydings of Maryland, whom the White House vainly tried to "purge" in the 1938 Democratic primaries.

The Republicans used the same tactics so successful against the Supreme Court enlargement plan. In the House Martin was able to keep almost all his 169 Republicans on the floor, and while they let rebellious Democrats do most of the talking against New Deal proposals, they were on hand for the division, teller and roll-call votes to block or harass what had seemed on paper overwhelming Democratic majorities. The maladroit and at times misinformed New Deal leaders could not tell in advance the probable fate of several New Deal measures and their defeats were all the more dramatic for that reason.

The Republicans and the "purgees" were often aided by such skilled parliamentarians as Senators Bennett Clark of Missouri, Wheeler of Montana, Harrison of Mississippi, and in the House by Representatives Woodrum of Virginia, and Cox of Georgia.

Democrats Openly Divided.

There can be no doubt that this session adjourned in an irritably, tired, defiant mood. Politics, personal and partisan, was evident from the day it convened. The 1940 conventions influenced the members of both parties.

The Republicans are leaving Washington jubilant over their greatest successes since President Roosevelt took office in 1933. The Democrats are in a quandry, openly divided over whether they have botched their chances for a victory next year. At least one more session must be faced before the conventions. President Roosevelt lost his grip over the session just ended. The next regular session will demonstrate whether he is to remain the leader of the Democratic party.

Four Blazes Out of Control in Dry Timberland.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 5 (AP). —The smoke pall over the Northwest's forests grew deeper today as new fires destroyed dry timberlands.

At least 40,000 acres were ablaze in Oregon, with four fires out of control. There was little hope of abatement of hazardous fire conditions for the next few days.

PENNSYLVANIA TUNNEL ROOF FALLS, 4 KILLED

Rock Pins Men Converting Old Railway Shaft Into Superhighway.

SOMERSET, Pa., Aug. 5 (AP).—A 20-ton boulder tore loose from the ceiling of Laurel Hill tunnel that workmen of the late William K. Vanderbilt began drilling nearly 60 years ago and killed four men yesterday. One of them lay fatally hurt for more than an hour with an arm crushed under the stone before a physician arrived from this Western Pennsylvania mountatin town 15 miles to the east.

The physician amputated his arm but the victim, 33-year-old William Leach of Boswell, died on his way to a hospital. The others killed were Walter B. Daley, 28, of Langloth, Pa.; Olaf K. Schooling, 25, and Leonard Anderson, 26.

A fifth man, Superintendent Al Huntingdon, escaped death when he heard the rumbling of the rock fall and leaped aside.

An official of the construction company said the project was unsafe and the accident was the result of "haggling" by the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission over the type of reinforcement to be used. The tunnel is being converted into part of a superhighway.

Later, A. E. Lee, supervising engineer of the project, suspended work until he can get structural steel and "make it safe for men to work."

JUDGE VOIDS FEE AIMED AT OUT-OF-STATE PURCHASES

Kansas City (Mo.) Jurist Orders License Granted to Man Who Bought Auto in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 5 (AP). —Kansas motor car dealers won a victory today in their fight against the automobile investigation fee ordinance of Kansas City, Mo. The ordinance, passed last February, was aimed at Missourians buying in Kansas to escape payment of the Missouri sales tax.

Circuit Judge Brown Harris issued a writ of mandamus ordering the City License Commissioner to grant Joseph Elmer a license.

Elmer filed suit when he was denied a license on his refusal to pay the $20 investigation fee required of Kansas Citians who purchased cars in Kansas.

SMITH'S OFFICE MAKES NEW ATTACK ON STARK

Governor Out of Sympathy With Pensions for Deserving, Letter to Editors Says.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 5 (AP). —The charge that Gov. Lloyd C. Stark "is not in sympathy with paying pensions to the deserving" went out from State Auditor Forrest Smith's office this week as the latest maneuver in the bitter dispute between the two State officials.

The charge was contained in a letter sent by W. A. Holloway, Smith's chief clerk, to editors of a number of Missouri newspapers. It was in reply, Holloway said today, to a letter sent from the Governor's office to the same editors presenting Stark's side of the controversy.

Holloway said he wrote the letter in the absence of Smith who left last week to attend a convention of State auditors at Seattle, Wash.

The letter stressed the Governor's reduction in the Auditor's appropriation for collecting the sales and income taxes.

"It was from these two sources of revenue the money was obtained to pay pensions . . .,' Holloway wrote, "the only answer to this can be that Gov. Stark is not in sympathy with paying pensions to the deserving old as he personally asked the Legislature to reduce this amount when it was in session."

"The second reason," the letter continued, "could be that he wanted to cripple the chief collecting department of his Government so that he could be justified in calling an extra session of the Legislature which would cost the taxpayers several thousand dollars and then ask the Legislature for tax increases."

CIO UNION VOTES TO END STRIKE AT GENERAL MOTORS

Settlement Signed Whereby 14,000 Will Return to Jobs Monday After Month's Absence.

DETROIT, Aug. 5 (AP).—R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO-United Auto Workers, announced this afternoon that terms of the agreement ending the union's month-old strike against General Motors Corporation had been approved almost unanimously by the union's membership.

Union and corporation representatives signed the settlement memorandum late today.

Meanwhile General Motors, a month behind schedule because of the strike, prepared for accelerated production of 1940 models.

General Motors' settlement with the union carries a promise of no wildcat strikes during 1940 production season.

14,000 Going Back to Work.

Approximately 7600 skilled workers who have been on strike and as many more production workers, forced into idleness because of the stoppage will start back to work Monday in plants in Detroit, Pontiac, Flint and Saginaw, Mich. and Cleveland.

Among the chief provisions of the settlement were increases in wages for tool and die and other skilled workers, assurance that there would be no discrimination because of the strike, an extension of the corporation's income security plan to cover certain skilled workers, and an agreement that the CIO should have exclusive bargaining rights in some plants, estimated by the union to number 42.

Both William S. Knudsen, General Motors president, and C. E. Wilson, executive vice-president of G. M., said the CIO unions claim of exclusive bargaining rights in 42 plants was too high, indicating that in some of the plants claimed the A. F. of L. union also has committees.

Claims by A. F. of L. Union.

Elmer Dowell, General Motors director for the A. F. of L. union, also disputed the claim, maintaining that his union has committees in about half of the plants claimed.

In explaining the wage increases granted under the settlement Knudsen said it was not a blanket increase, but applied to men who have been earning below the minimum, or who have been deserving of an increase but have not received one.

Union officers, in discussing the bar on wildcat strikes, pointed out that strikes could be authorized if all negotiating machinery had broken down.

CLAYTON ROAD AND BIG BEND TRAFFIC LIGHT CONTROL READY

Automobile-Actuated System Will Go Into Operation Tuesday Night.

Newly installed traffic control lights at Clayton road and Big Bend boulevard will be officially placed in operation at 10 o'clock Tuesday night.

Lights of the six standards are actuated by traffic except during rush periods when the increased volume of traffic automatically changes the mechanism to conventional operation. Plates in the street, when subjected to the weight of an automobile when traffic is light, control operation of the lights. This makes it necessary that left turn lanes be used only by drivers who wish to make left turns. Left turns may be made from any direction, but east-bound traffic on Clayton road must use the north part of the road which divides a short distance west of Big Bend.

The $7500 cost of installation was shared equally by Clayton and Richmond Heights since Clayton road divides the municipalities.

PENNSYLVANIA STARTS WORK-FOR-RELIEF PLAN

Officials Start Finding Work for 200,000 in Local and State Projects.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 5 (AP).—Pennsylvania set machinery in motion today for a novel approach to the relief problem, a $76,000,000-a-year program requiring employables receiving State aid to work or get off relief.

Howard L. Russell, State Secretary of Public Assistance, believes the program will "do much to re-establish the work habit." He estimates 200,000 relief recipients can be put to work.

The program will be financed entirely within the State, by State and local funds, and is separate from Federal works projects such as WPA and PWA.

Examining a variety of proposed projects for approval next week, State relief officials described the program as an attempt to "buck the relief problem before relief costs swallow the taxpayer." They designated it as RWP, Relief Work Program, to distinguish it from Federal alphabetical designations.

Community Improvements.

If Pennsylvania's entire relief population is put to work, officials believe, the program will absorb in community improvement projects about $75,000,000 a year now being paid out in relief grants. They estimate operation costs at $1,000,000.

Projects are limited to those which have to do with highways and streets, buildings and grounds, parks, playgrounds and streams. One of the first proposed was to rid Pittsburgh of ragweed, a cause of hay fever.

The Philadelphia relief board received suggestions for projects to employ at least 10,000 of the more than 50,000 relief recipients in the State's largest city.

Only one city, Reading, has indicated it would refuse to use relief labor. Mayor J. Henry Stump, a Socialist, said it would be to the advantage neither of the worker nor the city.

Labor to Be Requisitioned.

Classified lists of available workers have been furnished to more than 8000 agencies qualified to requisition relief labor—tax-supported local governments, schools and charitable organizations.

Under the work-for-relief law enacted by the recent Republican controlled Legislature, relief workers must be hired at "prevailing wage scales" for various occupations. This is the standard recently abandoned for WPA labor in the 1939 National Relief Act. County relief boards determine prevailing wages. The Philadelphia board adopted union wage rates.

The State set a 40-hour maximum work week, but no laborer can get extra relief money by working longer hours than his relief check pays for.

RUSSIANS SAY THEY DOWNED 67 JAPANESE WAR PLANES

Lost Six of Their Own, They Report, in Mongolia-Manchoukuo Border Clashes.

MOSCOW, Aug. 5 (AP).—A Soviet-Mongol army communique reported today Japanese forces had been repulsed in frequent clashes since July 26 on the border between Russian-protected Outer Mongolia and Japanese-sponsored Manchoukuo.

Infantry, artillery and aerial engagements were reported in the area east of the Khalka River, where fighting has been in progress since May 11.

The communique, distributed by Tass, Russian official news agency, said 67 Japanese and six Soviet planes were downed in the air battles. The fighting was precipitated by a dispute over the Manchoukuo-Outer Mongolia boundary.

'MAYOR' OF NORTH JOLIET SHOT TO DEATH IN TAVERN; SON HELD

Youth Said to Lay Act to Father's Attentions to Girl in Place.

JOLIET, Ill., Aug. 5 (AP). — Michael Klobucher, 40 years old, self-styled "Mayor" of North Joliet, was shot and killed in his tavern today by a youth Sheriff James O'Neill identified as the victim's son, Leonard, 18.

The Sheriff said the youth told him he shot his father because of the latter's attentions to Florence Pokragac, 22, who was in the tavern at the time of the shooting. Young Klobucher and the girl were taken to the Will County jail for questioning.

Klobucher, whose tavern was one-half mile north of the city limits, headed a civic association which opposed annexation of property to the city.

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 5 (AP).—Two Joplin women were killed and a man companion was injured this morning when an automobile in which they were riding plunged over a 30-foot embankment a quarter of a mile east of the Missouri-Kansas line on the Joplin-Columbus highway.

Mrs. Yvonne Scott Denman, 20 years old, and Mrs. Margaret Kenneymore were killed. Roy C. Rowden, a cousin of Mrs. Kenneymore, suffered cuts, bruises and internal injuries.

BOLIVIA CONSCRIPTS COLLEGE STUDENTS AS RURAL TEACHERS

Dictator German Busch Announces Campaign Against Illiteracy.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 5 (AP).—Bolivia's dictator, Col. German Busch, announced tonight in a broadcast a program of "cultural conscription" to provide elementary education for the countrys' illiterate. A majority of the population, which is mostly Indian, is illiterate.

President Busch said that university students when called for military training would be required to serve only a few months in the army "and will spend the rest of the time of their military service on duty at rural schools."

The objective of his educational program, the 35-year-old executive said, was to "bring modern culture to the Indian without separating him from the land and from his traditions."

He said that 44,000,000 bolivianos (about $1,650,000) had been appropriated for primary schools.

His broadcast was part of Bolivia's independence celebration.

175 WORK ON COLORADO DAM WITH TROOPS ON STRIKE DUTY

Guardsmen Report Green Mountain Reservoir Area Is Quiet.

GREEN MOUNTAIN DAM, Colo., Aug. 5 (AP).—Crews totaling 175 men worked at the Green Mountain Dam project today as National Guard officers reported all was quiet in the strike zone where seven men were wounded.

A. K. Anderson, project superintendent for the Warner Construction Co. of Chicago, said no more men would be hired until reorganization plans were completed for the job, shut down from July 12 until yesterday by a strike of five American Federation of Labor crafts seeking recognition by the contractor.

About 350 men were employed when the strike began at the $4,000,000 project. Gov. Ralph L. Carr said troops would be withdrawn as soon as order was re-established.

MILK TRUST CHARGES TO BE INVESTIGATED

Thurman Arnold Says He'll Examine National Dairy Corporation, Borden Co.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Representative Culkin (Rep.), New York, announced after a two-hour conference with Assistant Attorney-General Thurman Arnold today that Arnold had agreed to look into alleged monopolistic practices in the dairy industry in New York and Wisconsin.

Culkin, who headed a committee of Congressmen representing dairy states, said Arnold told the delegation action was now being taken by the Government to "cure" what he said were monopolistic conditions in that industry.

Ten members of the House, including Culkin, petitioned Attorney-General Murphy yesterday to start court proceedings against the National Dairy Products Corporation and the Borden Co. of New York to force dissolution of the two corporations "into their component local parts and subsidiaries" on the ground they exercised a monopoly.

Appeal Before Supreme Court.

Culkin said Arnold was now directing his attention to a Supreme Court appeal of the Government anti-trust action against a group of Chicago milk distributors and was confident a favorable decision by the high court would aid the department in breaking up alleged monopolies in the dairy field.

The delegation demanded that the National Dairy Products Corporation and the Borden Co. be enjoined from (a) "exercising any influence over or conspiring with any bottle exchanges, truckmens union, or other organizations for the prevention of competition or the exclusion of competitive dealers of milk and dairy products from areas served by the subsidiaries of said corporations" and (b) "from entering into any agreement or from using any powers of coercion to maintain a uniform price for fluid milk or cream or other dairy products."

Destructive Influences Changed.

The petition said the corporations exercised "destructive influences" on "12,000,000 people on the farm dependent upon the dairy industry and 70,000,000 urban consumers."

Culkin told the Attorney-General that prior to organization of National Dairy in 1923 and before Borden "became so potent, the farmers in New York State had comfortable incomes." He described their condition now as "desperate."

The St. Louis Dairy Co. and the Highland Dairy Farms Co., St. Louis distributers, are controlled by National Dairy Products Corp.

3000 MORE TO BE DROPPED FROM ILLINOIS W P A ROLLS

State Administrator Says 54,000 of 166,000 Relief Workers Are Slated to Go,

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP).—Charles E. Miner, State Administrator, announced today that notices of dismissal from WPA rolls would be mailed to 3000 more workers in Illinois Monday, bringing to 7000 the number to be lopped off the rolls in accordance with final action by Congress on the 1939 relief act.

The notices are being sent to relief workers who have been on the rolls 18 months. Miner said the 7000 dismissals will go into effect Wednesday. He estimated 54,000 of the 166,000 on WPA in the State would be laid off under the act.

A reduction in WPA State administrative rolls was started Thursday with the dismissal of 320 persons. State administrative costs, Miner said, have been reduced from $202,000 to $153,000.

Miner previously had announced that the first group to be removed from the rolls would number 4000.

The East St. Louis District WPA office, employing 125 administrative workers, was officially closed yesterday, and the 10 counties in the district transferred to other districts in an economy move necessitated by the reduced appropriation.

The administrative workers are being offered jobs in district offices at Herrin and Peoria, or other jobs on projects.

BID FOR SHAW BANK BUILDING

$13,400 Offer Submitted to Court for Approval.

William H. Biggs, special deputy State finance commissioner in charge of the Shaw Bank & Trust Co., filed a petition in Circuit Judge Robert L. Aronson's court yesterday asking for approval of an offer of $13,400 for the bank building at 1301-03 South Grand boulevard.

The offer, Biggs said was made by Albert Schultz, representing an un-named real estate firm. The Court will consider the petition Aug. 15.

- Castings of Exclusive "Indestructo" Metal. A patented alloy that resists heat as no ordinary cast iron can. The entire furnace is guaranteed in writing by Sears for 20 years.
- More heat, size for size, than any other furnace. Massive 1-piece radiator. New fire pot with only a slight taper to give greater heating efficiency.
- Constant Adequate Humidity, Healthful Heat. Self-filling humidifier keeps sufficient moisture in air to safeguard health and keep furniture from drying out . . . and saves you money on fuel.

MERCILESS "TORTURE" TESTS PROVED SEARS' 20-YEAR GUARANTEE!

Six furnaces including Sears Turntable Indestructo were connected to a scientifically designed header so draft on each was the same, then fired at temperatures of 1140° to 1185° for 30 days. The pictures above show the result. The Indestructo (at right) was still intact; the others (some costing 1/3 more) were warped, cracked, or burnt out!

BILL TO DELAY BANK CHANGES IS VETOED

President Rejects Four-Year Extension to End Interlocking Directorates.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—President Roosevelt today chose for his eighteenth veto of the year a bill by Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, which would have extended the time for Federal Reserve member banks to divest themselves of interlocking directorates.

In his veto message the President said that, if Congress had decided four years ago that it was in the public interest to terminate these relationships, "it is in the public interest to terminate them now."

He said affected banks and directorates have had more than four years to make adjustments and that would seem to be a liberal time.

Indian Bill Also Vetoed.

The President also vetoed a Senate bill which would have authorized a $33,725 Federal payment to the San Carlos Apache Indians for 232,320 acres of land ceded by them in an 1896 agreement. The bill also would have reopened the lands to mineral entry.

The President in a message said the $33,725 represented in reality a payment, at $1.25 per acre, for ceded lands which have been included in homesteads, national forests, power sites, public water reserves and State of Arizona school land grant, lieu or indemnity selections. He stated these comprised an area much smaller than that specified in the bill.

Noting the remaining acreage was to be reopened to location and entry, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"While I would not favor legislation that would provide for the payment to the Indians of $1.25 per acre for this remaining acreage, I would favor its restoration to the Indians. The provision . . . reopening these lands to public entry and thus depriving the Indians of the future use of the lands, and even of their present receipts from such lands, appears to me definitely objectionable."

Veterans' Measure Signed.

Roosevelt signed a bill to increase Government benefits for 26,000 injured veterans of the army, navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

The President also signed a bill to include 44,000 postmasters under the civil service retirement system.

of losses and better co-operation between companies on those matters which have heretofore been the cause of differences, with resulting feeling, without in the slightest degree impairing the rights of any honest claimant or the benefits properly accruing to him under his policies."

Missouri Omitted in Review.

It was not the business of this committee to deal with the loss of Missouri policyholders, who were getting back only 20 per cent of the $9,893,000 in impounded excess premiums, while 61 per cent went to the companies, 14 per cent for lawyers and other costs and 5 per cent for bribery. Indeed, when the retiring president of the association reviewed the record of premiums of member and non-member concerns for 1930-34 he omitted Missouri. Competition of non-member insurers, especially in St. Louis, was one of the chief subjects of convention discussion.

Street was not without friends at the unusually large gathering in the picturesque resort. Paul L. Haid, president of the Insurance Executives' Association, New York, was an early arrival. Wilfred Kurth, president of the Home Insurance Co., New York, was there to be re-elected vice-president. Haid and Kurth wer among the 'big boys" who, Street had asserted only the month before, had heard his "long story."

Robert J. Folonie, Chicago lawyer, Street's co-trustee for the official expense fund in the settlement, was there, too, his law firm having accepted an annual retainer from the underwriters' association a short time before. However, by this time Street and Folonie no longer were on good terms, according to testimony Friday, because Folonie objected to the compromise.

Street at Another Meeting.

The following September the association met again at Hershey, Pa. Street was there. For years he had been chairman of the Subscribers' Actuarial Committee, largely an association group.

On this occasion he announced that "some day" he intended to retire as chairman. "And then," reported a trade paper, "he added in true Streetian style, 'I'll retire when I'm good and ready to do so.'" Death ended his blustering career Feb. 1, 1938, at the age of 72.

The Federal Court hearings before a Special Master, which opened at Chicago July 27, will be resumed tomorrow at Hartford, Conn.

Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City, who got $315,000 of the bond money, and R. Emmet O'Malley, who as his State Superintendent of Insurance, got $62,500, are in prison for evading Federal income taxes on their cuts. Testimony of Street's go-between, A. L. McCormack, St. Louis insurance man, who got the remaining $82,500, helped send them there.

Wife Seeks Divorce After 44 Years.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 5. (AP).—After 44 years of married life, Mrs. Lena L. Hoge, 73 years old, has filed suit for divorce from her husband, James J. Hoge, 76, former guard of the State prison at Lansing. She charges extreme cruelty and gross neglect. They have lived at Lansing many years.

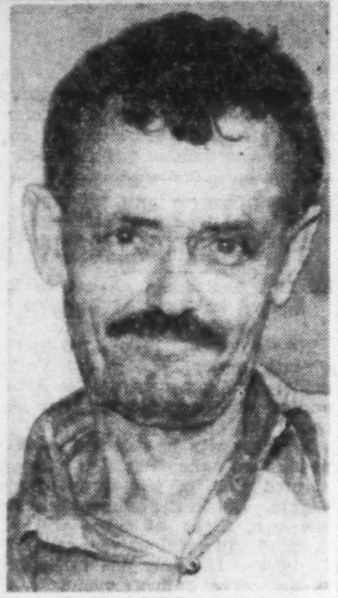
Down on the Farm

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

MRS. KATIE LATKOVICH feeding her chickens.

Farmer Inside City Grows 6000-Bushel Corn Crop

His 175 Acres Support Wife, Hired Man, 3 Horses, 100 Chickens, Cow, 27 Cats, 31 Pigs, 5 Dogs and Duck Named George.



SAM LATKOVICH

Sam Latkovich has a good stand of corn this year. He expects to sell about 6000 bushels, more than any other farmer in St. Louis.

His 175 acres, lie just east of Baden, well within the city limits. They comprise a good part of the Fifteenth Precinct of the First Ward, extending from the river to the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad tracks and from Humboldt street to Doddridge. They support not only Latkovich and his wife, Katie, but their hired hand, Alec, three horses, 100 chickens, a cow, 27 cats, five dogs, 31 pigs and a two-year-old duck named George.

Latkovich is not especially stirred at being the biggest farmer in St. Louis, nor does he often reflect that he has achieved what some might regard as a neat blending of rural and urban living. A small, cheerful man, he raises everything he needs for his family's comfort, works when he feels like it, and when he senses the approach of a minor worry, goes fishing.

More Room to Swing Cats.

He told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday that metropolitan farming in this country has a considerable advantage over any kind in his native Serbia, which he left in 1911. Over there, he said, a man can scarcely swing a cat without hitting a neighbor, whereas in St. Louis, he and his wife and Alec could swing all 27 of theirs, if they had a mind to, and not endanger a soul.

His diction, a cross-fire of three dialects—the bucolic, the outlying city and the Serbian-American—would startle a country farmer, perplex a city dweller and leave the average Serbian-American hanging on the ropes. When he perceives that his listener is beginning to feel a galloping numbness, he laughs, "I talk funny, hey?" and slaps his knee.

The Latkovich place is one of the oldest in the North St. Louis cornbelt. There are two stables, a four-room rectangular residence, a smokehouse, three chicken houses, and a corn crib. The extra stable is used in times of high water. There is a long runway leading to a floor, about eight feet above the ground. When the river gets out of its banks, Sam, somewhat like Noah, leads the three horses, the cow, the 100 chickens, the 27 cats, the five dogs, the 31 pigs and the duck named George into the stable out of danger. Then he usually turns in and sleeps until the flood subsides.

Alfalfa and Tobacco.

"Come," he said on leaving the stable, "I'll show you crops." He strode through high weeds, across a creek and up on a knoll. Then he pointed out corn stalks nine feet high, alfalfa, tobacco, sweet potatoes, watermelons, pepper plants and popcorn. The 100 acres in corn should yield about 60 bushels an acre. Corn is selling for 35 to 50 cents a bushel.

Latkovich rents his farm from the M.-K.-T. Railroad for $225 a year.

In 1920, having saved $1250, he sent for his wife and their three children. As the years went by, though, the children grew up and began to feel the urge that assails nearly all farm boys and girls, and they left one by one to go to the city. Two are now married and the youngest is living with a relative several blocks away, far removed from hum-drum farm life.

The Latkoviches live easily and uneventfully. When the time comes for the corn to be harvested, Sam hires a few men at the usual price—25 cents a day with meals, and during the other seasons he and Alec, who has lived with them since 1929, divide the work. Mrs. Latkovich keeps pretty busy, with her 100 chickens and her canning and two men to feed.

Travelers don't give much trouble; most traveling men in that section go by boxcar and usually keep going when they see Sam's signs, "Keep Out or Get Shot," and "Watch Out, Vicious Dog."

Sleeping is not difficult on the river bank, with the wind whispering in the sycamores and cottonwoods to the lulling symphony of roosters, crickets, bullfrogs and the nearby Charter Oak Stove Works. In the Mississippi, on Mosentine Island, people swim and picnic at night, and their fires can be seen across the river; and now and then an excursion boat will churn by. Take it all around, city farming isn't a hard way to live. The Latkoviches like it.

BRITISH AIR MAIL PLANE ON WAY TO NEWFOUNDLAND

Craft Refuels in Air Over Foynes, Ireland, as It Starts Service to North America.

FOYNES, Ireland, Aug. 5 (AP).—The Imperial Airways flying boat Caribou, inaugurating British trans-Atlantic air mail service, refueled in the air over Foynes today after a flight from Southampton and then headed westward for Botwood, Newfoundland.

Prime Minister Eamon de Valera and his two sons, Vivian and Turlough, were on hand to watch the plane's departure after a flight from Baldonnel.

Another stop is to be made at Montreal before flying to Port Washington, N. Y., where the Caribou is due at 4 p. m. Sunday.

The Caribou and its sistership, the Cabot, are to operate weekly mail service during August and September but will carry no passengers.

Piloting the craft was Capt. J. C. Kelly Rogers, with a staff of four, including Co-Pilot Capt. S. G. Long a native of Colorado, who is returning to the United States for the first time since he left as a youth to join the British navy.

TIFF-MINING COUNTY SENDS APPEAL TO U. S.

Committee of 3 to Ask for Federal Aid in Program of Rehabilitation.

The economic plight of Washington County, where the encroatchment of tiff-mining machinery is putting miners out of work, reducing the value of privately-owned tiff land and drying up the business of merchants, will be brought to the attention of Government officials in Washington this week.

A committee representing landowners, business men and miners left for Washington yesterday to seek a review by a Federal agency of the county's economic situation ton County, where the encroachbut for permanent rehabilitation.

Those making the trip are Jack Sullivan of Richwoods, president of Local 113 of the CIO International Union of Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers Union T. P. Lacey of De Soto, representing private landand to ask not for temporary aid Duemler, St. Louis labor lawyer who is attorney for the union.

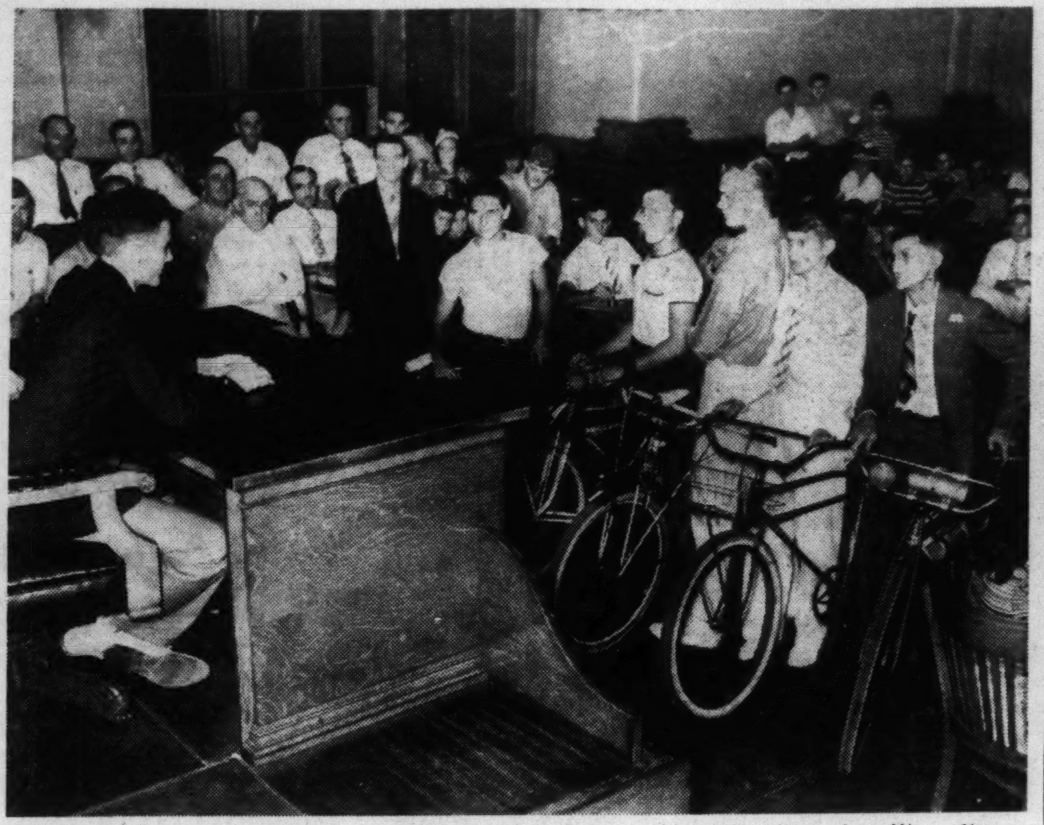
"We feel that the national government's program of scarcity is directly responsible for the deplorable condition in the tiff fields," a statement by the committee said, "and we are taking our problem directly to the national government. We are not seeking just a little more relief or WPA. We are attempting to secure a remedy for a condition where thousands of families have been definitely and permanently displaced by machinery."

The committee had hoped to have a conference with President Roosevelt, but it has been informed that Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, will receive them on instructions from the President. Interviews with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Secretary of Labor Perkins also are sought.

There are about 3600 tiff miners in the county whose fortunes have been steadily declining. "Now the merchants find they're doing most of their business on credit," Lacey said yesterday, "and it's impossible even to give away a piece of tiff land, much less sell it."

One of the suggestions the committee will make to Government officials is a program calling for the return of some of the miners to small farms. The committee is carrying with it a petition for aid signed by 3000 Washington County residents.

Children's Bicycle Court in East St. Louis



YOUNG bicycle riders in East St. Louis now are tried for minor infractions of traffic ordinances by this children's court, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Chief of Police Michael J. O'Rourke. On the bench in City Judge Ralph Cook's court, FRANK McKENZIE, 16 years old, lectured several violators yesterday and impounded the bicycles of others for a few days.

WOMAN LOSES SUIT TO SHARE AS PARTNER IN AUTO FIRM

Court Rejects Her Plea for Receivership for Don Winter Agency.

Miss Antoinette Mueller, who sought a receivership for Don Winter's automobile agency, stating she was his fiancee and had invested $2000 in the business on his promise to share profits with her equally, lost her suit yesterday. Circuit Judge Charles B. Williams denied her application for a temporary receiver and an injunction, dissolving a restraining order against sale of assets.

At the trial Miss Mueller testified Winter first came to her family's home in 1929, "broke and ill," and that later they agreed to pool their resources and efforts in the automobile business. She contributed her savings from a $30-a-week job in a tie factory, she said, working at the automobile agency evenings and Saturday afternoons.

Winter denied there was a partnership or that Miss Mueller had put up any money. He said she had told him she filed the suit, not because she wanted money, but because she wanted him. The agency is at 1403 South Twelfth boulevard. Miss Mueller resides at 2622 South Jefferson avenue.

STATE SENATOR M'REYNOLDS SAYS HE'D LIKE GOVERNORSHIP

Jasper County Man Asserts He Would Be Tempted to Run if Support Is Widespread.

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 5 (AP).—State Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage became today an "if" candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1940.

Senator McReynolds said it is "too early" to become definitely committed as a candidate, and made it clear that he is leaving the door open to either becoming an avowed candidate or declining to do so.

"If I could find as much loyalty and support elsewhere in Missouri as is being displayed in my home part of the State, naturally it would be a great temptation," he said.

McReynolds addressed 1500 persons, mostly women, at the annual picnic of the Fifteenth Congressional District Democratic Women's Club, after he had been introduced by Gene McNatt of Aurora, State Committeeman, as the "next Governor."

RULES REVISED FOR VALLEY MODEL AIRPLANE CONTESTS

All But Helicopter Events to Be Judged on Basis of Average of Three Flights.

New rules will be applied in the seventh annual Mississippi Valley model airplane meet at the Arena and at Meramec airport next Saturday and Sunday.

Winners will be selected in each event on the basis of average elapsed time of the three official flights. But in the helicopter event, the best flight of three will be counted. In previous years the best flight was the only one taken into consideration in every event.

In the gasoline motor class, the motor run will be limited to 20 seconds. Only senior and open class contestants holding power model division licenses may compete. Boys under 16 may enter planes under supervision of a licensed contestant.

BROWNS LOSE TO ATHLETICS BY 10-7 AFTER LEADING, 7-1

JOHNSON'S HOMER WITH TWO MEN ON BREAKS TIE

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—Fred (Karloff) Haney and Earle (Chaney) Mack combined their troupes here this afternoon to produce the grimmest horror spectacle since "Frankenstein" before the wide, affronted eyes of about 1000 witnesses.

After two hours and 23 minutes of something advertised, but hardly recognizable, as baseball, Mack's original Philadelphia Company was credited with a 10-7 decision over Haney's Browns.

The denouement came in the seventh inning, when Bob Johnson whaled a drive into the left field pavilion with two colleagues on base, scoring three runs, bruising George Gill severely in the self-esteem and irreparably shattering a 7-7 tie.

Among the more lurid features of the performance were 18 bases on balls—13 of them were provided by the quartet of thespians Haney presented unblushingly as pitchers—21 hits, five errors and a hit batsman.

It's There—It's Gone.

A special added attraction was a sleight-of-hand demonstration in which the Browns extracted a 7-1 lead from a hat and promptly caused it to vanish into thin air.

The Athletics made vaguely threatening gestures toward Bobby Harris in the first inning, when Johnson and Frank Hayes wrapped singles around a walk to fashion one run, but it was some time before they gave the coarser side of their natures full play.

Meanwhile singles by Don Heffner, Moose Solters and Myril Hoag, combined with a couple of walks and the first of four Philadelphia boots, gave the Browns three runs against Nelson Potter in the third inning.

In the fifth there were singles by George McQuinn, Harlond Clift and Hoag, a couple more walks and another fumble which resulted in four runs and the hurried departure of Potter.

Thereafter Bill Beckman kept the Browns in hand while Harris, Roxie Lawson and George Gill took turns dissipating the St. Louis lead.

Squander Squander.

Harris stepped aside in the fifth, leaving the bases filled and a 7-2 margin for Lawson to work on. Roxie saw two more runners come home in that inning on a sacrifice fly by Eric Tipton and a walk to Dario Lodigiani.

Then, after yielding a walk and double to the first two Philadelphia batters in the sixth, he made room for Gill, who squandered the last of the lead before retiring the side. Skeeter Newsome's pop single drove in the tying run.

An infield single by Beckman and a walk to Dick Siebert preceded Johnson's drive in the seventh.

Howard Mills pitched the eighth and actually pitched.

'BUCK NEWSOM DAY' HERE ON AUG. 20

Sunday, Aug. 20, will be observed as "Buck Newsom day" at Sportsman's Park, when the big right-hander will be honored by a group of St. Louis fans. A committee has been formed headed by John A. Hoffmann, and including a number of St. Louis sportsmen.

Hoffmann announced that the committee had set up headquarters at 1230 Boatmen's Bank Building and would welcome contributions from fans wishing to join in honoring the big right-hander. Plans are under way to purchase a souvenirs diamond ring in a special baseball design.

A scroll, with the names of all donating to the fund, will also be presented to "Loquacious Louis" before the start of the Browns-Detroit double-header.

Efforts are under way to request Del Baker, Detroit manager, to name Newsom to pitch in one of the games of the double-header. Newsom has not been seen in action in St. Louis since he became a member of the Tigers in the most sensational deal of the 1939 season. He faced his former mates once in Detroit and won, 6-2.

The committee also requested that any special groups desiring to make a presentation to Newsom, should contact committee headquarters.

Newsom has performed in a Browns uniform twice in his major league career, and last year was one of two pitchers winning 20 games.

MEL OTT'S 21ST HOME RUN HELPS HUBBEL WIN, 4-3

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 5 (AP). — Those New York Giants roommates, Mel Ott and Carl Hubbell, defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3, today with a crucial home run and some steady southpaw pitching.

With the score tied in the eighth, Ott hit his fifth homer of the last 10 games and twenty-first of the season to settle the issue. The Giants tallied once in the third on a pair of doubles by Tom Hafey and Burgess Whitehead and twice in the fifth on three singles.

Hubbell was able to subdue all the Pirates except Elbie Fletcher, who homered in the fourth and drove in Pittsburgh's other runs with two singles. It was Hubbell's fifth victory against five defeats.

Mace Brown was charged with the loss.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Cutting the Amateur's Pay.

HOW amateur athletes of various types live and prosper while apparently putting in most of time in competition yielding only "expenses" is still mystifying the world and perplexing officials of the Amateur Athletic Union of America.

Cunningham

The problem is not a new one, as evidenced by the fact that more than 35 years ago Arthur Duffey, famous Georgetown University sprinter and the first runner ever to be clocked in 9 3-5 seconds for the century, was barred from competition and his name expunged from the record books. He was charged with accepting too much expense money.

Many other famous athletes have been accused of the same offense, including the "fastest human," Charley Paddock. Glenn Cunningham's name has been mentioned in this connection, some guesses as to his income ranging as high as $30,000 a year.

The A. A. U. has brought up the problem again and under a new guise. It is suspicious that the scheduling of athletic events on professional sports programs of various sorts—big league ball games in particular—with a view to helping the gate, is resulting in payments to athletes exceeding the expense limits set by the A. A. U.

Baseball Parks Do It.

PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL recently has attempted to boost interest in games by scheduling supporting athletic features and the A. A. U. is now debating the ethics of this.

In a letter "To Members of the National Registration Committee," Secretary Daniel Ferris asks for members' individual opinions as to the legality and ethics of such athletic sideshows to baseball.

After quoting the rule, Ferris writes as follows:

"Recently the Ohio Association sanctioned a one-mile race to be held in connection with one of the professional league baseball games at Cincinnati. The race was participated in by Glenn Cunningham, Blaine and Wayne Rideout.

"A few days later the Metropolitan Association sanctioned a similar race in connection with one of the professional baseball games in New York, the same trio of runners participating, with Tommy Deckard of Indiana as a fourth starter.

"The A. A. U. has been severely criticized for having sanctioned these races. They were used as 'filler-ins' just before the start of those night baseball games."

Thus it appears that the Larry MacPhail showmanship as applied to night baseball, is likely to bring this amateur question to a real focus.

Legal, Not Ethical?

BUT WHAT THE A. A. U. can do about it is questionable. It argues of course that these athletes would not put themselves out to compete in events of no consequence, unless it was made financially profitable.

The A. A. U. hasn't been able to prove anything; but just to make things safe it would like to prevent the practice from growing.

In this connection the Ferris letter goes on to say:

"Of course the rule as it reads at present does give authority to local registration committees to give special permission for such

Andy K. Disqualified After Winning Stake At Saratoga Track

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP).—The largest first Saturday crowd in Saratoga's history, estimated officially at slightly more than 14,000 persons, saw Eight-Thirty in a sparkling victory in the Saratoga Handicap and waited breathlessly for the officials to decide the United States Hotel Stakes, $9625 two-year-old event that shared the day's card with the handicap.

After a delay of 10 minutes, a claim of foul lodged by Jockey Raymond (Sonny) Workman, against the Millsdale Stable's Andy K, Arlington Futurity winner, was allowed and Workman got Flight Command into the winner's circle. Officials decided Andy K. carried Flight Command and Rollo out for an eighth of a mile as the 16-horse field left the barrier.

Andy K. covered the six furlongs in 1:13.2 and finished a length and a half in front of Flight Command which beat Hal Price Headley's Titalator a half length with J. H. Louchheim's Smart Bet finishing fourth. The latter two were moved up a notch by the disqualification.

Water Cracker, unbeaten youngster from William F. Hitt's barns, was away fast, holding the lead for the first half. Then Smart Bet moved to the front, carried Andy K. with him and as the pair reached the stretch Flight Command ran at them getting up to finish second.

Flight Command repaid his backers eight for one while Eight-Thirty was held at a prohibitive 4 to 5. It looks now as if George D. Widener's big chestnut colt Eight-Thirty, winner of today's Saratoga Handicap is going to have something to say about racing's three-year-old championship.

Just when William Woodward's Johnstown seemed to have the divisional title in his barn he came a cropper against Challedon and Sun Lover in the Arlington Classic and finished third. Then along comes Eight-Thirty with two corking stake victories within four days at the Spa.

Rated just off the pace in second spot for the first three-quarters of the mile and a quarter $8200 stake, the Widener colt finished with a good burst of speed three lengths in front of Mrs. B. F. Whitaker's Sickle T. The Brandywine Stable's Masked General was third, another five lengths back.

Well in hand at the finish under Jockey Don Meade, the winner covered the distance in 2:03.3, a fifth of a second back of Johnstown's Kentucky Derby time.

DUROCHER AND HARTNETT ARE CHASED BY UMPS

National League managers had a tough afternoon yesterday, two of them being banished by umpires. Leo Durocher, leader of the Brooklyn club, was chased in the contest at Cincinnati, and Gabby Hartnett, manager of the Cubs, was ejected in the game with the Bees at Chicago. Despite the loss of their managers, the Dodgers and Cubs won.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers pieced together two four-run innings today in a 17-hit assault which overwhelmed Cincinnati's National League leaders 10 to 4 and avenged last night's setback in their series opener.

The Dodgers pounded Whitey Moore out of the box in the first inning with their first outburst and were never headed as they continued their clubbing against three other pitchers.

The Reds made a threatening three-run gesture in the third when Billy Myers hit a home run and this brought about the removal in the fourth of young Ira Hutchinson, who made his first start of the season for the Dodgers. Vito Tamulis, who then took over and held the Reds scoreless except for a homer by Bill Werber in the fifth, was credited with his fifth victory.

Brooklyn played half the game without Manager Leo (Lippy) Durocher, who was banished for the third time this season when he protested to Umpire Bill Stewart against a ruling that Dolph Camilli had left third base before a fly was caught in the fifth inning.

All the Dodger regulars participated in the hitting spectacle with Harry Lavagetto getting a double and three singles and Dixie Walker and Johnny Hudson each batting in three runs.

Six double plays were made in the game.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP).—Forty-year-old Charley Root set the Boston Bees down with four hits today to give the Chicago Cubs a 3 to 2 victory, their seventh triumph in their last nine games.

Rookie Bill Nicholson drove in the winning run in the eighth inning, his single sending Billy Herman across the plate. Herman had bunted safely and moved to second on Carl Reynold's sacrifice.

Both teams scored twice in the sixth inning.

Umpire George Magerkurth banished Third Baseman Stanley Hack and Manager Gabby Hartnett in the eighth. Magerkurth said Hack "swore at him" after the infielder had been called out on strikes. When Hack was ejected, Hartnett rushed out to protest and then, he, too, was ousted.

Outfielder Augie Galan was hit on the head by a thrown ball in batting practice before the game. Hit behind the left temple, Galan was not knocked unconscious, but remained under ice packs in the clubhouse during the game. Club Physician Dr. John F. Davis said he would play tomorrow.

SENATORS WIN SIXTH IN ROW BY DEFEATING THE WHITE SOX, 10-1

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Behind the somewhat wild but effective pitching of Southpaw Ken Chase the Senators won their sixth straight game today, defeating the White Sox, 10-1.

Chase gave only four hits but issued eight passes. Most of these, however, came with two out.

Third Baseman Buddy Lewis paced the Senators' 13-hit attack on Jack Knott and Johnny Marcum with five singles in five times at bat.

Knott started but was lifted for a pinch hitter in the fourth, with the Senators ahead, 4-0. Marcum took over, gave up two more runs in the Washington fourth and four more in the eighth.

George Case, the Senators' speedster, stole second base in the fourth inning, to run his record for the season to 38 thefts in 52 attempts.

CURT DAVIS BEATS PHILLIES, 5 TO 1, FOR CARDINALS' SEVENTH STRAIGHT

Both Out of the Doghouse Now

Joe Medwick of the Cardinals and Morrie Arnovich of the Phillies, both noted hitters, have come out of the doghouse in the last few days. A rift between Medwick and Manager Ray Blades flared up last Tuesday, when Medwick was removed from the game. Arnovich was left out of the starting lineup two days when he went into a slump. Joe and Blades shook hands and Joe has been belting the ball, starting with a home run in Thursday's first game. Yesterday Arnovich made his first safety in 23 times up.

Helen Jacobs' Entry Refused; Late For Draw

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP).

HELEN JACOBS' entry for the Eastern grass court tennis championships tournament, which starts at the Westchester Country Club tomorrow, was refused by the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association, it became known today.

Miss Jacobs' entry came too late to be included in the draw, officials explained.

With the former national champion absent, the women's division will miss the possibility of an attractive final between Alice Marble, seeded first, and Miss Jacobs.

Miss Jacobs will play in the doubles.

ALICE MARBLE VICTOR OVER MISS JACOBS

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP).—Alice Marble, American and Wimbledon champion, kept her 1939 tournament record unblemished when she defeated plucky Helen Jacobs 7-9, 6-4, 6-0, today to win the coveted Maidstone Club invitation tennis tourney.

For the second time in the tournament, however, Alice lost a set. Miss Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, achieved the feat first in a quarter-final engagement.

Miss Jacobs, her trap shots functioning in impressive fashion, had things her own way for most of the first set. She built up a 5-3 advantage and with her own service coming up, it appeared she might wrest the set from Miss Marble in regulation time.

Here, however, Blonde Alice inaugurated a rally that swept Miss Jacobs aside easily. Miss Marble, driving deep to the corners, gave her veteran adversary no opportunity to chop the ball. When Helen at last held her own service to once again lead, 6-5, it was due

RUFFING HITS HOMER IN HIS 15TH VICTORY

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—With Joe DiMaggio getting his third homer in three days to climax a five-run seventh inning, the world champion Yankees took just an hour and 37 minutes today to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 6 to 1, for Red Ruffing's fifteenth victory of the year.

Ruffing scattered seven hits and scored New York's first run himself with a home run in the fifth frame.

Harry Eisenstat, young southpaw recently obtained by the Indians from Detroit, went the route in a 10-hit job which matched Ruffing except for the seventh, when the champions put on their spree with two out.

Singles by Red Rolfe and Charley Keller brought in Babe Dahlgren, who had doubled, and Frank Crosetti, who had forced Ruffing. Then DiMaggio lifted a tremedous blow into the lower left field stands.

Ruffing might have had a shutout except for an error by the usually faultless Bill Dickey. In the sixth inning Bruce Campbell walked and, racing on a hit and run signal, came tearing home on Hal Trosky's single. George Selkirk's throw to the plate was good enough to catch the Cleveland speedster, but Dickey dropped the ball.

It was the Yankees' second straight victory over Cleveland and fourteenth in 16 games with the Indians.

RED BIRD NOTES

"I WISH you'd tell me," was Manager Ray Blades' reply when asked about his pitching plans for this afternoon's doubleheader with the Phillies. Morton Cooper ought to have another day of rest, but may start one of the games. Bob Weiland and Tom Sunkel also are candidates for starting assignments. Doc Prothro also was in doubt about his hurlers, stating that Kirby Higbe would probably start one and facetiously that he might work in the other himself, or it may be Ray Harrell.

Several hundred fans from Memphis, home of Doc Prothro, will attend the doubleheader and Fred Bauer, a former St. Louisan, will present the Philadelphia manager with a silver horseshoe between games.

The second game of the series attracted a Ladies' day crowd of 6939, including 2313 paid, 3283 women, 991 boys and 353 girls.

Today's games will conclude the series, and, after an open date tomorrow, the Pirates will call at Sportsman's Park.

Manager Blades moved Terry Moore to sixth place in the batting order, dropping Gutteridge to seventh.

Morrie Arnovich, benched because of a batting slump, returned to duty in left for the Phils and broke a string of 23 hitless trips to the plate with a single in the fourth inning.

Mickey Owen thought he was hit by a pitched ball in the second inning, but Umpire Dunn ruled the ball had hit the bat and called it a strike.

It took only one hour and 36 minutes to play the game.

YIELDS ONLY 4 HITS, BATS IN TWO RUNS WITH DOUBLE

Fifteenth Triumph of Year for Righthander Is Eighth Consecutive Reverse for Prothro's Eighth-Placers.

By J. Roy Stockton

Curt Davis, the old workhorse of the Cardinal staff, turned in a masterpiece of pitching at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon, beating the Phillies of Doc Prothro, 5 to 1, for his fifteenth victory of the season, the seventh successive triumph for the fighting Redbirds of Ray Blades. It was the eighth straight defeat for the Phils, their fifteenth in the last 16 games and their seventh in a row in St. Louis, where they haven't tasted victory this year.

Ike Pearson, a young righthander from Mississippi, was a very good pitcher himself for six innings, holding the Cardinals to one run during that part of the game, but faltered in the seventh and eighth and the Redbirds, bunching five of their nine safeties in those frames, pulled away in the stretch.

Davis, making his thirty-fifth appearance of the season on the hill and starting his twenty-first game, made it his ninth complete contest and almost his second shutout. Curt blanked the Phillies until the ninth, when a single by Young, and an infield out and a single by Marty produced the only Philadelphia tally. The two safeties in that final frame increased the Phillie total to four, as a single by Mueller in the second and one by Arnovich in the fourth were the only hits off Davis until the ninth.

Mize Near Record.

To add another statistical note to a game replete with arithmetical trimmings, Johnny Mize finished within one putout of the National League record and two short of the American League mark of 22. Johnny was credited with 20 putouts and had Stuart Martin made a play at first instead of a force at second for the final out in the fourth, Johnny would have equaled the National League record.

Meantime Stuart Martin was having a busy afternoon at second base and finished with 10 assists, only one short of the major league record.

Pearson, who baffled the Cardinals in the early innings with a sharp-breaking curve which he kept consistently in the lower corners of the strike zone, started his downfall by walking Terry Moore with one out in the second. Gutteridge looped a single to center, sending Moore to third and Terry scored while Young was throwing out Owen.

Pitching then prevailed until the seventh, when Gutteridge lined a double down the left field line to start the frame. Owen bunted and Gussie Suhr, after missing his lunge for the ball, blocked Mickey's path as the Cardinal catcher ran toward first and Umpire Tom Dunn upheld the Cardinal contention that it was interference, as Mickey probably would have beaten the ball to first without interference, but the official scorer ruled it a hit.

Three Doubles in Inning.

Owen then stole second and Curt Davis made his lead more comfortable by whacking a double to left-center, scoring Gutteridge and Owen. Davis moved to third on an infield out and scored on Stuart Martin's double to center.

In the eighth Moore walked, Gutteridge sacrificed and Jimmy Brown sent Terry home with a bounding single to center, to make the score 5 to 0, after which the Phils scored their lone run, already described.

As the Dodgers obliged by beating the Reds, the Cardinals' triumph reduced Cincinnati's first-place margin to eight and one-half games, a lead that could be reduced materially if the Redbirds could put two or three seven-game winning streaks together.

AUBUCHON-DENNISON WINS SECOND GAME IN STATE TOURNEY

7-RUN INNING PUTS ST. LOUIS TEAM IN FINAL

St. Joseph Follows Jefferson City Among Victims of Local American Legion Junior Champions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TRENTON, Mo., Aug. 5.—With one 13 to 0 victory over Jefferson City to its credit, the Aubuchon-Dennison Post team played itself out in front of the State tournament of the American Legion junior baseball championship by crushing St. Joseph 14 to 4 here this afternoon.

St. Joseph took the lead in the third inning when three men were scored on three singles, two walks and a sacrifice. The Northwest Missouri team added another run in the first half of the sixth on a walk and a single.

St. Louis had scored only twice up to that point, once in the first when Peistrup walked and came home on an error and again in the fifth when Obermeir walked, advanced on an error and scored on Peistrup's sacrifice.

In the sixth, however, St. Louis opened up against the leaders and pounded Speaker, starting St. Joseph hurler, for doubles by Kleine and Crooks and singles by Tschudin and Mormino. Two errors and a sacrifice added to the scoring before Speaker was relieved by J. Mazur, against whom two runs were counted on a walk and two errors. Altogether the St. Louis team counted seven runs in the inning.

The sixth-inning uprising was too much for the St. Joseph boys, who allowed five more runs in the next two innings on two hits off Winslow who had replaced Mazur.

Tomorrow afternoon St. Louis will meet the winner of the Cape Girardeau-Chillicothe game.

DECISION TOMORROW IN BELLEVILLE CASE

BLOOMINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—P. N. Martin of Evanston, chairman of the American Legion's State Athletic Committee, said tonight a decision would be handed down Monday in the eligibility case of Raymond Lunte, member of Belleville's State Championship Baseball Team.

The committee held an all-day hearing in the case today, after which Martin said there would be no decision until Monday.

Belleville won the State title, defeating Berwyn in the title series. But Coach Gil Larimer of Berwyn charged Lunte was more than 17 years old, age limit for competition. His protest was carried to the State Committee which now is investigating the charges.

Those Other Pastures.

Ball players frequently are led to believe that they would be better off if they had signed or could sign with some other club. Several Cardinal stars have learned that the grass on the other side of the fence merely looked greener. Now Jimmy Webb has learned that it's not so much who you're with as what you do for that club.

Jimmy felt for years that he was being held back by the Cardinal organization; that if he were elsewhere, he would advance to a major league salary and job. Finally Commissioner Landis made his Cedar Rapids decision and Jimmy Webb was declared a free agent.

It was a fine break for Jimmy. A brilliant fielder, he was sought by several clubs. He signed with the Cleveland Indians, probably receiving a useful bonus. Now he says the Indians are giving him a rotten deal, because they're sending him to Buffalo. He points out that he could have signed with other clubs, and that this season he played game after game with a bad knee. The Indians, he charges, are ungrateful.

Jimmy is merely one of those unfortunate border-line ball players. A brilliant fielder, he lacks batting power, and all ball clubs are trying to fill in with sluggers. Occasionally a Durocher catches on with a team needing fielding brilliance, but as a rule, you have to be able to lambast the leather, to be sure of a job and a good salary in baseball. When you can't hit, a "rotten deal" or the bench is always just around the corner.

Message to B and C.

Baseball Fans A, B and C, were sitting in the grandstand at Sportsman's Park, discussing the Medwick-Blades incident. (Pardon, Sam, but we feel like agitatin' just a little bit more.) They gave the whole thing a pretty good going-over, reviewing the records of the principals, and what different observers had said about it.

"Well," welled Baseball Fan A, to Baseball Fans B and C, "I'll tell you one thing. I was talking to Sam Breadon and Sam told me that Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize hadn't been speaking to each other all year."

Now the message to B and C is a suggestion that they make one little bet with Mister A that he was wrong, and if coming, all back that he doesn't even have a speaking acquaintance with the Breadon he calls Sam.

It so happens, Messrs. B and C, that Mister A was talking through his hat. On a recent eastern trip Mrs. Johnny Mize and Mrs. Joe Medwick accompanied the team, and the Mizes and the Medwicks went to picture shows together, dined together and in other ways passed the time in each other's company.

That and This.

Come to think about it, how about Jimmy Brown for the most under-rated ball player of the year? Leading in base hits, playing brilliantly at short or second, striving always to win, where can you find a better shortstop in the league? He's the winning type. . . . Jimmy had trouble with a few pop flies in the sun, so he's been experimenting with sun glasses, usually worn by outfielders. They're fastened to the visor of his cap and when he goes after a fly he flips them into position. . . . Too bad about Gabby Hartnett. Formerly always smiling, he's been scowling in recent photographs. . . . Frankie Frisch has been mentioned as Cub manager for 1939. If he's offered the job and a hitch develops, it will be over term of contract, not salary. Frank doesn't like one-year documents. . . . Jimmy Conzelman Jr., calls his dad, Jim the Coach, "Pretty Papa" every morning. They learn early.

Heavy mail on the Medwick incident. All indignant against Blades and the front office, except one writer, who suggests the rumpus might do for the 1939 Cardinals what the squabble with the Dean boys did in 1934. The Cards showed then they could win without the Deans, but Blades isn't going to experiment that way, without Medwick. . . . And if the Reds would only oblige by folding up as the Giants did that year.

Q. In the All-star game with the Washington Redskins were the goal posts on the goal line or 10 yards back?

A. Jim Conzelman tells me they were on the goal line, which would mean tries for point after touchdown would be made with ball 10 yards back.

ALICE MARBLE WINS OVER HELEN JACOBS

mainly to Miss Marble's loss of control on her forehand.

With the score 8-7, Miss Jacobs cracked Alice's service as Alice ran into an erratic streak, netting twice, allowing herself to be passed at the net, and then double faulting at set point.

Neither of the following sets carried any of the appeal or excitement generated in the first. In the second session, there were seven service breaks in all, plus much erratic stroking by both players. Miss Jacobs offered her chop strokes too close to back court and Miss Marble was able to return them flat on the run.

Alice forced Helen into a straightaway hitting game in the final set, and Helen, deprived of her valued subtlety, was an easy victim. The change of pace so upset her that she drove her returns far over the baseline or else smacked them into the center of the net.

Miss Jacobs could try no angle shots in this set. She played strictly on the defensive and seemed to have lost all her form in the dressing room during intermission.

The champion team of Miss Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., defeated Miss Jacobs and her partner, Mme. Rene Mathieu of France in the doubles final, 6-4, 6-2.

BEETHAM SETS NEW RECORD IN MEET ABROAD

GLASGOW, Scotland, Aug. 5 (AP)—America's invading track and field forces, headed by Charlie Beetham's record-shattering 1000-yard performance, took their first European meet in stride today, but used the races only as "time trials" for Monday's international competition in London.

The United States performers had only one individual winner, Clyde Jeffrey of San Francisco, in the 120-yard dash, in the Glasgow Football Clubs' meet, but that was largely because they were given scratch assignments in virtually every event of the handicap competition, spotting large chunks of distance to their rivals.

Beetham, the ex-Ohio State middle distance star, breezed through the 1000-yard from scratch in 2:11 for a new British record, although finishing second to E. A. Sears, who started with a 16-yard edge. Blaine Rideout, one of North Texas' running twins, wound up sixth, but took it easy all the way and seemed to be using the race as a workout for his mile effort in the international meet.

Jeffrey, in taking the 120, went out to an early lead and finished two yards in front of Roy Cochran of Indiana in 11.8 seconds. Cochran and Joe Batiste, the Tucson (Ariz.), schoolboy ace, both passed up their usual hurdles competition to go to the post in the dashes.

Batiste finished second by inches in the 100-yard dash. He came from far back but just failed to overtake Frank Watson of Glasgow in the final strides, despite Watson's original 10-yard handicap. The time was 9.8 seconds.

Erwin Miller of Southern California ran the 440 from scratch in 48.3 and Les Steers of San Francisco high-jumped 6 feet 4, but each had to be content with second place finishers behind rivals who sported handicaps. Miller failed to overtage R. McGregory, Scotland, who won in 48 flat with a 32-yard edge, and Steers was half an inch back of H. T. Wilson, Edinburgh, who had a 5½-inch handicap.

Finland's distance ace, Taisto Maki, set the second British record of the meet when he covered the three mils in 14:03.4. He finished second, however, to M. Bingham of Great Britain, who had a 190-yard handicap. The veteran Finn, Volmari Iso Hollo, won the 3000-meter steeplechase handicap, finishing in 10:22.4 from scratch.

65-Year-Old Swimmer in 10-Mile Event at Quincy

William Grossmann Swam in Races Sponsored by the M. A. A. in Mississippi River 30 Years Ago

Veteran Hasn't Been in Long Race for 23 Years — Gave Up Smoking 40 Years Ago.

By Harold Tuthill

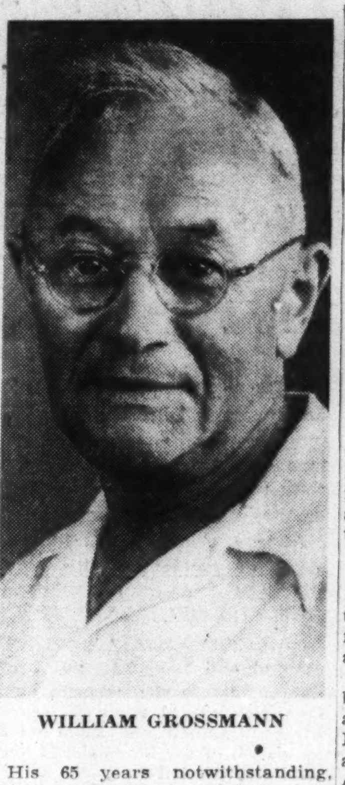
When you mention the name of William Grossmann it is like turning back the pages of swimming history for three decades. You recall the Missouri Athletic Club, now the Missouri Athletic Association, and the famous 10-mile Mississippi River swims which drew contestants from all parts of the United States.

You think of names such as Chauncey Heath, August M. Goessling, George H. Hall, L. B. Banks, M. Kaiser and H. T. Siegel and Herwig C. Toeppen of St. Louis; Randolph T. Laughlin of Chicago; Michael McDermott and L. B. Goodwin of New York, and other stars.

So if you were in the crowd which 30 years ago lined the western bank of the Mississippi along the course from the intake tower at Chain of Rocks to the Eads Bridge, you probably will remember William Grossmann. He didn't win any of the races in the nine years that he competed, but, undaunted, he would return each year to try to breast stroke his way to victory.

Just for Love of It.

Grossmann loved marathon swimming and he made a hobby of it. He assiduously avoided stimulants and tobacco, trained zealously and even if he used the breaststroke style he occasionally overtoook some of the free style swimmers who had permitted their physical condition to lapse. But whether he finished first or last made little difference to Grossmann, just as where he will finish in a 10-mile swim today won't matter much.



WILLIAM GROSSMANN

His 65 years notwithstanding, Grossmann today is going to compete in the annual 10-mile Mississippi River swim at Quincy, Ill., a race sponsored by the Quincy Y. M. C. A. The event will start at 10 o'clock this morning.

Grossmann was asked regarding the last time he swam 10 miles.

"Let me see," he reflected. "I do not recall the date, but I do remember that after I swam the race I went home and they told me that my oldest son, Joseph, had arrived during my absence. Joseph now is 23, so that's how long ago it has been."

The natural query then was, how did he keep in shape?

The little, barrel-chested, gray-haired man, then replied:

"Oh, I have swum on the Meramec River several times for three or four miles. I'm not in very good shape now, but I gave up smoking 40 years ago and except for an occasional bottle of beer, I don't touch intoxicants."

Then he rather proudly showed us a program of the fourth annual M. A. C. river swim of Sept. 5, 1910, in which his name was entered along with 42 others. He was in the first race of that series and also the last.

Forty-three Entrants.

"Look," Grossmann said, "forty-three entrants. It will be a good field if they have half that many at Quincy today."

Grossmann has four children, two boys and two girls and they have achieved minor fame as swimmers. His youngest daughter, Frances, age 12, competed in the Municipal Athletic Association preliminaries Wednesday night but failed to qualify. Mrs. Marguerite Collins, his other daughter and his sons, Joseph and Arthur, have abandoned competitive swimming. But not the "marathoner" of the family.

After the interview he prepared to leave. "I'm going over in Illinois to swim in a lake there to get in condition for the Quincy swim," he said. "If I had known about that race I would have been in it long ago."

So maybe at 65 or 66 Grossmann will be able to do what he missed in his 30s, win a 10-mile river swim.

WRAY'S COLUMN

events; but it is my opinion and that of a number of A. A. U. leaders . . . that it is a very bad precedent to establish and one that which might lead to uncontrollable abuses. . . .

"Sanctioning races at professional baseball games is getting far, far away from our ideals."

Approval or disapproval of committee members was asked and by this time has been forwarded. That the practice will be disapproved is almost a foregone conclusion.

Too Many Pro-Amateurs.

F. MARVIN PLAKE, registrar of the Ozark District A. A. U., asked his view of the matter, said: "I wrote Mr. Ferris that I heartily disapproved giving sanctions for athletic events held in connection with professional shows, except in cases of charity.

"There is no question but that they are staged as mere promotions. Three years ago I was told by a local professional promoter—not baseball — that he would give $500 if I could persuade Cunningham to run at his show!

"Another thing—we are getting altogether too many professional amateurs. How do you suppose athletes can go on for years devoting three or four days a week to active competition merely for actual expenses?"

And there we are back again to the old question—what is there in it for the young man who plans a career as an amateur?

Not so much, except for a favored few of the sports world. The Tildens of the courts, the Joneses of the links and the Cunninghams of the track have been able to get by very nicely while still amateurs.

Tilden was credited with $25,000 a year and there are those who believe that Cunningham makes as high as $40,000 a year—and still remains within the law.

It Can Be Done.

IN THE CASE of star tennis players and golfers good pay used to be earned by getting jobs as stock salesmen or insurance men. Expenses and big orders were the reward of the player who would compete in this or that tournament or exhibition. Some of them added to their incomes by writing, although this at times was frowned on as illegal.

Cunningham makes plenty of money while competing frequently in meets. This year he has been lecturing—performing university extension work. But at the same time he is being paid.

His talks are advertised by posters entitled "Running Round the World" or substantially that; and he, the speaker is advertised as the world's fastest miler.

While making his regular schedule in extension work—for which his expenses are paid—he has a chance to make a talk to the Lions, the Rotary or the Optimists club in between. At times, so this writer is informed, he has made four talks in one day. If he received $50 a talk, that's a quick $200 picked up. This goes on for many weeks.

Now there is nothing illegal in all this, but it is what might be called borderline practice. The various amateur associations have not quite been able to determine how far famous stars should be indulged before charging them with "capitalizing their reputations."

FOXX HITS NO. 27, BUT TIGERS BEAT RED SOX ON 13 HITS, 12 WALKS

BOSTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Detroit's Tigers scored 12 runs in two big innings to give Tommy Bridges his fourteenth victory today and slid into undisputed possession of fourth place in the American League.

The only consolation for the Red Sox in their 16-4 defeat was Jimmy Foxx' twenty-seventh homer in the sixth inning—a powerful blow which sent the ball onto a roof across the street from the left field fence.

The Tigers made a field day of the sixth inning with seven runs, three of them resulting from Pete Fox' triple off Freddie Ostermueller with the bases loaded.

In the next inning, Catcher George Tebbets got a homer off Bill Sayles with two out and the bases full of teammates who had walked. The fifth run of the seventh inning was scored by Earl Averill's hit with the bases loaded, just before Tebbetts' grand slam.

The victory, coming as Cleveland was losing to the Yankees, broke a Tiger-Indian tie for fourth place.

Four of the five pitchers used by Boston gave up 12 bases on balls and 13 hits.

RIGGS DEFEATS WOOD, WINS TITLE THIRD TIME

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y. Aug. 5 (AP).—Bobby Riggs performed an old chore a new way today, capturing the forty-ninth annual Meadow Club invitation tournament for the third successive time with a 10-8, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Sidney Wood, and giving an effective answer to critics of his net game with an impressive exhibition at the barrier.

Riggs, who usually avoids the net in favor of the baseline, moved forward 67 times, plaguing Wood with weak little bunts that dropped lazily into the forecourt, with which he mixed occasional brutal smashes that threatened to catapult his New York rival right off the court.

Bobby thus gained permanent possesion of the $1000 President's Challenge Cup. Wood also bowed to the Wimbledon champion last year although in much easier fashion.

Wood, who won at Wimbledon himself in 1931, gained a 3-0 advantage at the very outset of the match. Riggs finally squared it at 4-4 and then neither would relinquish his service for the next eight games.

With the score deadlocked at 8-8, however, Riggs finally negotiated the break and followed by holding service to take the set.

The veteran Wood built a 3-1 edge in the second set, but Bobby won the next four games, to put himself into position to take it.

Wood staged a comeback in the third set. He went into a 4-2 lead mainly on Rigg's over-anxiousness. At this stage, however, Riggs started a streak that carried him through the next four games to victory.

He held Wood to only eight points in that stretch, scoring with smashing flat drives. Wood attempted to lob in a vain effort to stop Bobby from levelling but it did no good.

Riggs returned to the courts later and teamed with Elwood Cooke, his Wimbledon doubles partner, to defeat Chicago's Murphy brothers, Chester and William, 11-13, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4, 6-0, in a doubles semifinal.

Mrs. Johnson Gensler of Southampton and Martin Buxby, Miami, Fla., defeated Mary Honans, Southampton, and Harris Everett, Chapel Hill, N. C., 2-6, 6-0, 6-0, in a mixed doubles semifinal.

PORTER'S MITE WINS AT ROCKINGHAM BEFORE 20,000 CROWD

RIGGS DEFEATS WOOD, WINS TITLE THIRD TIME

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y. Aug. 5 (AP).—Bobby Riggs performed an old chore a new way today, capturing the forty-ninth annual Meadow Club invitation tournament for the third successive time with a 10-8, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Sidney Wood, and giving an effective answer to critics of his net game with an impressive exhibition at the barrier.

Riggs, who usually avoids the net in favor of the baseline, moved forward 67 times, plaguing Wood with weak little bunts that dropped lazily into the forecourt, with which he mixed occasional brut smashes that threatened to catapult his New York rival right off the court.

Bobby thus gained permanent possesion of the $1000 President's Challenge Cup. Wood also bowed to the Wimbledon champion last year although in much easier fashion.

Wood, who won at Wimbledon himself in 1931, gained a 3-0 advantage at the very outset of the match. Riggs finally squared it at 4-4 and then neither would relinquish his service for the next eight games.

With the score deadlocked at 8-8, however, Riggs finally negotiated the break and followed by holding service to take the set.

The veteran Wood built a 3-0 edge in the second set, but Bobby won the next four games, to put himself into position to take it.

Wood staged a comeback in the third set. He went into a 4-2 lead, mainly on Rigg's over-anxiousness. At this stage, however, Riggs started a streak that carried him through the next four games to victory.

He held Wood to only eight points in that stretch, scoring with smashing flat drives. Wood attempted to lob in a vain effort to stop Bobby from levelling but it did no good.

Riggs returned to the courts late and teamed with Elwood Cooke, his Wimbledon doubles partner, to defeat Chicago's Murphy brothers, Chester and William, 11-13, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 6-0, in a doubles semifinal.

Mrs. Johnson Gensler of Southampton and Martin Buxby, Miami, Fla., defeated Mary Honans, Southampton, and Harris Everett, Chapel Hill, N. C., 2-6, 6-0, 6-0, in a mixed doubles semifinal.

JOCKEY ADAMS HAND RIDES TO EASY VICTORY

Belmont Futurity Winner of 1938 Beats Boston Pal by Two Lengths, Counterpoise Third.

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 5 (AP).—W. E. Boeing's Porter's Mite, winner of the Belmont Futurity last season, came up with his best race of 1939 today as he triumphed in the $4000-added Granite State Handicap mile and a sixteenth at Rockingham Park before a week-end throng of 20,000.

At the wire the three-year-old colt was two lengths in front of H. Guy Bedwell's Boston Pal, which had two and one-half lengths on Louis B. Mayer's Counterpoise, which just lasted to save the show from Belair Stud's Isolater. Eight started.

The winner, which closed little better than 8-5, ran the distance in 1:45 and paid $5.40, $3.50, $3.00. Boston Pal, which surprised by his effort considering that he started the year as a $1500 plater, returned $5.80 and $3.60 while Counterpoise, which was coupled with Quick Devil, paid $3.80. The stake carried a net value of $3590.

Counterpoise and Mrs. H. Barnett's Harp Weaver went into the first turn together with Porter's Mite and Boston Pal close behind. Belair's Isolater and Quick Devil rushed up on the outside on the backstretch to enter the contention but Johnny Adams, aboard Porter's Mite, went around Counterpoise and Boston Pal deep in the bend and it was a two-horse race from the quarter pole to the sixteenth pole.

Boston Pal held on gamely for the first eighth of a mile but couldn't hold the colt which gradually pulled away without ever being whipped by Adams.

Gloria Thompson In Class A Final

Tennis developments in this area this year indicate that the name Thompson will be one with which to conjure for many seasons to come. Mrs. Bert Thompson of East St. Louis flashed into prominence by gaining the final round of the Missouri Valley and St. Louis County tournaments and now her daughter, Gloria, has become a finalist.

Gloria lives in St. Louis with an aunt, so she therefore is eligible for the Municipal Athletic Association tournaments. Yesterday Miss Thompson eliminated Clara Rieser, 6-1, 6-0, in the semifinal round of the women's Class A singles. Miss Thompson will oppose Mrs. Alpha Cousins, victor over Shirley Lachman, 6-4, 7-5, in the final at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the Jefferson Memorial Courts in Forest Park.

In the women's doubles, Mrs. Florence Probert and Elsie Beckman advanced to the semifinals with a 6-3, 6-4, decision over Julia Saab and Mrs. Olga Smith.

In the men's doubles, Francis Poelker and Ed Serwin defeated Robert Vocke and John Stiegler, 9-7, 6-3, 6-3, to reach the final in which this afternoon at 1:30 they will oppose Leon de Mesquita and Charles Saussele.

Robert Friedman turned back Eugene Lohbeck, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2, to reach the men's singles final where he will play Henry Oldeg.

Gay Tenzer and Lillian Kreienheder defeated Mrs. Florence Porbert and Elsie Beckman, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, in a doubles semifinal. The winners will play the victors of the match between Mrs. Cousins and Harriett Boulanager and Edwina Hanstein and Mary Jane Daude at 9:30 this morning.

KINLOCH PARK TEAM TO PLAY BORBEINS

The Negro Giants from Kinloch Park will visit the National Nite Baseball Park, Kingshighway and Arsenal, tonight, meeting the Borbein Youngs in an exhibition game.

The Borbeins are municipal champions of last season. The Negro team has won 18 games while losing six.

H.F. ATHLETE'S FOOT MEDICINE $1.00 BOTTLE REDUCED TO 50¢ AT DRUGGISTS

PETER ASTRA IS CHOICE TO WIN HAMBLETONIAN

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP).—This drowsy village of 3500 persons, steeped in the lore of the trotting horse, once more is ready for the tenfold increase in its population which always takes place when the pick of the nation's three-year-old trotters match strides in the $40,000 Hambletonian. One day makes Goshen the capitol of the sports world and that one day for 1939 will be next Wednesday.

Bill Cane, sponsor of the buggy whip derby since 1930, has Good Time Park spic and span. Over a large section of the bleacher seats has been stretched a canvas to break the rays of the sun. The big betting tent has been pitched behind the grandstand.

For a week now, horsemen who, on the smallest excuse, reel off the breeding and record of horses that raced way back when, have been leaning over the white-washed fence, watching the horses go through their paces or lounging on hotel porches discussing the merits of Hambletonian candidates and such great champions as Greyhound and Billy Direct.

The grand circuit meeting at Cane's flat-ironed shaped track actually gets under way Monday, but it is toward the Hambletonian that both town-folk and horsemen are looking.

The only two reinsmen ever to win the Hambletonian twice both have entries this year. They are Ben White, winner in 1933 with Mary Reynolds and in 1936 with Rosalind, and Henry Thomas, who scored with Lawrence Sheppard's Shirley Hanover in 1937 and McLin last year.

But the betting is odds-on that Dr. H. M. Parshall of Urbana, O., will join the pair in their dual-record niche on Wednesday. The Ohio veternarian, winner with Lord Jim in 1934, will be up behind Peter Astra, top money winning two-year-old of 1938, unbeaten in four starts this season.

Peter Astra is owned by a country doctor, Dr. L. M. Guilinger of Andover, O. Peter Astra trotted a mile in 2:02¼ his last time out at Old Orchard Beach, Me. Some horsemen are predicting he'll travel around Cane's track in two minutes or better.

Chief among Peter Astra's rivals are Gauntlet, owned by C. W. Phellis of New York City, and Bagpiper, a consistent money winner from E. Roland Harriman's Arden Homestead.

TED SCHROEDER AND BUDGE PATTY TAKE TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 5 (AP).—Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., and 15-year-old Budge Patty of Los Angeles won the national junior and boys' tennis championships respectively today in the final round at Culver Military Academy.

Schroeder, seeded fifth, beat third-seeded Larry Dee of San Francisco in junior singles, 7-5, 6-4, 6-2, this morning.

Patty, the favorite in boys' singles, defeated Harry Likas of San Francisco, seeded second, 6-4, 6-0.

In doubles, Patty and Likas, seeded first, beat E. Blair Hawley of New York City and Teddy Myers of San Francisco, seeded second, 6-4, 6-4, for the boys' title, this afternoon.

Junior doubles winners were first-seeded Ted Olewine of Santa Monica, Cal., and Jack Kramer of Los Angeles. They won from Dee and Emory Neale of Portland, Ore., seeded second, 8-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Gunners Open Training at Excelsior Springs, Aug. 14

With the selection of Excelsior Springs, Mo., as the site for their training camp, all members of the St. Louis Gunners now under contract have been notified to report at camp to Head Coach John "Choppy" Rhodes on Aug. 14, to prepare for the opening of the American League pro football grind.

After inspecting several locations in Missouri and Illinois, General Manager "Bud" Yates of the Gunners closed for the resort camp just outside of Kansas City.

Rhodes expects to have approximately 40 players in uniform throughout the 30 days conditioning period at the camp. He will name his own assistant coaches and has always selected Mike Sebastian, former Pittsburgh star, as his backfield coach.

Squad Leaves Next Sunday.

Most of the players will go direct to Excelsior Springs, including Bill Donovan, who hails from Boston, and Don Kellogg, a new tackle from New York. About a dozen of the players who live here or who already have reported at Walsh Stadium headquarters will go to camp with Rhodes, leaving here next Sunday.

The personnel of the squad includes 12 backs and more than two dozen linemen. Several other players under Gunner contracts will join Rhodes' squad after the American Legion all-star game at Walsh Stadium here Sept. 8. Denny Cochran, the Billiken ace, who is expected to be one of the local pro stars this season, will play with the collegians in the all-star contest and will not be available until that time.

Two Workouts Daily.

Rhodes' program at the camp will call for two workouts daily, morning and afternoon, with a complete rest on Sunday. Intra-squad games will be held every Saturday afternoon. The entire squad will return to St. Louis for the All-Star game and then return to Excelsior Springs to taper off for the first American League contest on Sept. 17. The Gunners open on the road and play three games away from home before showing on their home grounds at Walsh Stadium.

Coach Rhodes is an ex-Nebraska U. star. After his graduation he coached high school, as well as varsity athletics and for three years was athletic director at the University of Wyoming. He also spent one season in minor league baseball.

Cincinnati to Get Vince Di Maggio

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 5 (AP).—Secretary Roy Hamey of the Kansas City American Association club said tonight Vince DiMaggio would return to the major leagues next spring as a member of the Cincinnati Reds.

Kansas City is to receive an undisclosed amount of cash and two players, to be delivered next spring, from the National League club.

DiMaggio went to the Boston Bees from San Diego of the Pacific Coast League three years ago. His defensive work was outstanding, but his batting was not up to par. The Bees sold him to Kansas City this season, and he has been a sensational home run hitter. He hit his thirty-seventh and thirty-eighth homers last night.

"It's just what I wanted," DiMaggio said before leaving for Milwaukee, where the Blues play tomorrow. "If it had been left to me I would have picked Cincinnati of all the big league clubs.

"I know Bill McKechnie, since I played under him in Boston. I think he's a swell manager and the type I like to play for. Then I believe the Reds will figure in the National League race for some time. I like all the players on that team."

Bill Meyer, Blues' manager, said DiMaggio "is a fine hustler and tops when it comes to defensive play. As soon as he corrects a fault or two he will be as dangerous as any batter in baseball."

Richmond Heights Tennis

George Finger and his son, George Jr. advanced to the second round of the Maplewood-Richmond Heights closed men's doubles tennis championship by defeating Bruce Hutchinson and Wallace Clover, 6-3, 6-2, on the West Richmond School courts yesterday afternoon. In another opening round encounter Louis Farkus and Robert Farley defeated Milton Davis and George Sherman, 6-3, 6-4. Remaining first round matches will be played today.

Phils Get Bud Hafey.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5 (AP.—The Phillies announced today they had purchased Daniel "Bud" Hafey, rookie outfielder, from the Cincinnati Reds for the waiver price of $7500.

Hafey, nephew of Chick Hafey, former National League batting champion, will report to the Phils tomorrow in St. Louis.

ANGNER STABLE WILL BE RACED AT FAIRMOUNT

General Manager D. C. Burnett yesterday arrived at Fairmount Park from Aurora, Ill., to establish residence for the 32-day meeting starting Sept. 2.

"The meeting is still a month away," said Burnett yesterday, "but interest is unusually brisk. Applications for stall room are coming in from all parts of the country, including Thistle Down, Dade Park, Washington Park, Longacres, Rockingham and Canada. Many prominent establishments are included in the list.

"Take for example that of Jake Angner. Angner has a stable of and has never raced here before, but his application reached us this morning from Thistle Down asking stall space for Faust, Black Arrow, Military, Wha Hae, Raymond, Grey Dog, Rustic Joe, Miss Joker, Romola, Busby, Miss Moran, Sir George, Aim High, Big Victory and Nanahcub. Faust, Military, Wha Hae and Black Arrow are handicap horses. Faust for years raced under the A. G. Tarn colors, while Military ran for the Milky Way Stable and in his three-year-old year was a well regarded Derby prospect. Wha Hae a few seasons back ran with the best sprinters in the country.

"I have been led to understand, too, that the stables of "Butsey" Hernandez and James Chesney, will also return for the fall meeting."

Burnett expects between 600 and 700 horses here for the meeting.

Burnett is the second official to arrive, the other being Freddie Crafton, who has been present for several days attending to stall assignments. Judge Cliff Abbo is due tomorrow, while Racing Secretary Dick Leigh is due the latter part of the week.

SCHMELING TO MEET NEUSEL IN TITLE BOUT

BERLIN, Aug. 5 (AP).—Former Heavyweight Champion Max Schmeling signed today to defend his European crown in a 15-round bout against Walter Neusel Oct. 1 at Dortmund Stadium. Schmeling, now making a comeback campaign, scored a knockout over Neusel in the eighth round at Hamburg in 1934.

MINOR LEAGUER IS SUSPENDED 90 DAYS FOR UMPIRE ASSAULT

DURHAM, N. C., Aug. 5 (AP).—Ambrose McConnell, former major league player and now president of the Utica Club of the Canadian-American League, was placed on baseball's suspended list for two years today by W. G. Bramham, head of the minor leagues.

The Utica club was fined $250 and Infielder Armand Sergiacomi of the Amsterdam club of the same league was suspended for 90 scheduled playing days, dating from July 21, for an assault upon an umpire.

Bramham announced that he was placing McConnell on probation during his suspension, and he will be permitted to continue his activities unless he runs afoul baseball law again.

Charges against the Utica president were the signing of a false affidavit and the paying of side money to Infielder Leo Schoppmeyer.

State Bicycle Trials Today for National Meet

The Missouri State bicycle series to qualify for the National championship races at Columbus, O., Sept. 2 and 3, will start this morning at 9 o'clock on a course around the nine-hole municipal golf links in Forest Park. The start and finish of all races will be on Grand drive, west of the Jefferson Memorial.

Competition will be in three divisions—senior, junior and girls' class. A field of 30 seniors, 10 juniors and 11 girls will compete in 11 races, ranging from one mile to 25 miles. Five of the races are scheduled for today and the remainder for next Sunday.

The Kansas City Bicycle Club is sending a team of riders to compete in the senior and junior division.

Today's program will include the one-mile junior, five-mile senior, 10-mile junior, five-mile girls' race and 10-mile senior with five sprints. Five points will be awarded for first, three for second, two for third and one for fourth, except in the 10-mile senior race, in which the winner will get seven points; the runner-up five; third, three and fourth, one point.

The first three point-winners in each division will qualify as the State representatives to the National meet.

The entry list:

SILVER KINGS WIN IN V. F. W. JUNIOR SOFTBALL TOURNEY

Dan Windle struck out eight batters as the Silver Kings of Post No. 291 eliminated the Toppers of Post No. 1663, 6 to 1, in one of the three opening round games played in the Veterans of Foreign Wars' junior softball tournament yesterday afternoon at the Roosevelt High School athletic field.

In the other games, the Falcons of Post No. 1145 won from the Missouri Pacific squad of Poct No. 135, 10 to 1, and the D. C. Electric team of Post 2591 nosed out the Sehnerts Market squad, sponsored by the same post, 8-6. In the fourth scheduled game the Wildcats of Post 1663 won on a forfeit from the Riverview team of Post No. 1840.

The tournament is being conducted to decide the St. Louis entrant in the National V. F. W. softball event to be conducted at the National Nite Baseball Park, Aug. 18, 19 and 20.

The semifinals of the boys' division will be conducted late tomorrow afternoon at Roosevelt with the D. C. Electrics meeting the Falcons in the first game and the other contest bringing together the Wildcats and Silver Kings. The remaining girls' game will be played on a date as yet to be decided.

Douhet, Apostle Of Terror in Air In Wars to Come

Italian General, Long Before Hitler's Rise to Power, Laid Down the Rules for Victory by Sudden, Ruthless, Paralyzing Attack.

IT HAS long been commonly assumed that Nazi Germany's threat to peace and chance of success in war is based on the "blitzkrieg" (lightning war) theory or the Douhet plan, here outlined. Englishmen still expect London to be bombed if war comes, but they no longer believe that air raids will be decisive; on the contrary, opinion is that outrages on the civilian population would result in a more determined will to victory. Many experts say it is physically impossible for Germany and any combination of allies to establish the air supremacy demanded by the plan. Nevertheless, as far as all signs go, Fuehrer Hitler still clings to the idea, hence the following comprehensive digest of Douhet's principles.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.

THE spectacular quality of "Mein Kampf" lies in the accuracy with which Hitler forecast what he was going to do and ow in large part has done. However, while e platform was Hitler's, the method was . Whatever credit is due for method ist go to the Italian, Gen. Giulio Douhet, oponent extraordinary of aerial warfare, ho died three years before Hitler entered the world stage.

A fellow countryman of his, Gen. Italo lbo, said of Douhet: "He is not a dreamer, t a herald"; but not even Balbo could have own how prophetic Douhet's words were prove. Even before Hitler's unsuccessful er hall putsch in 1923, Douhet had outned the course to follow. Just before his ath in 1930, Douhet completed his "La uerra del 19—," ("The War of 19—,") hich in the light of subsequent events reads e the sequel to "Mein Kampf."

Prophecy of 1930

t contained the following prophecy: "Gerany has been disarmed of the old arms and s been prevented from keeping an armed rce of the old type. She finds it very hard resign herself to remaining in a state of feriority and is forced by necessity to try find the means to come back through other ms than these that have been prohibited or ken away from her. Germany is the foreost nation in the world in the field of emistry and bacteriology and in that of chanics . . . and it is to be foreseen that th that intensity and seriousness which aracterizes her, she will succeed in perting the new arms in her scientific and perimental laboratories, where every conl—if such systems of control should ever effective—is vain."

This was more than a decade before the militarization of the Rhineland and crean of Germany's present huge air force.

Douhet continued: "To insure itself against possible desire among the Germans for renge, the Entente has put Germany on the rest road to this very revenge.

"Prevented from arming on land and sea, e is led to arm in the air. As we shall e, an air force adequate to gain mastery of air, especially in the first period of the flict, only requires limited weapons, a ited personnel, and small financial reurces. This force can be organized without tracting the attention of probable adverries. The possibility of freeing herself sily from the conditions of relative disarament that is imposed upon her certainly tracts Germany toward a clandestine air mament.

"This way is economical, for, by giving eir true relative value to the air force, the y and the navy, the national defense can assured with a much smaller expenditure energy."

ng Deemed a Fanatic

Ample documentary evidence there is to ve Douhet's power of foresight, if not auy, but for many years he was considered another air-minded fanatic even in his n country, where he spent a year in prison daring to express his opinions in the priy of official army channels. Just recently United States army observed the anniary of the purchase of the first military plane by any government 30 years ago.

n that same year, Douhet wrote:

"Now we are conscious of the importance the mastery of the sea. Soon it will be no important to gain mastery of the air. will be fought for."

w paid heed. A year or two later, when Congress of the United States was approing $150 to maintain its one lone plane for a year, he was preaching a new doctrine: "The arm of space will be sovereign." By 1913, when our army was buying its first tractor type plane, Douhet gave a lecture at the Ecole Polytechnique, where he had graduated at the top of his class many years before, telling an unbelieving audience:

"A new arm is born, the arm of the air. A new field of battle has been opened: the sky. A new fact has presented itself in the history of war, the birth of a principle, air warfare."

After Italy entered the World War in 1915, a few months' experience at the front convinced him that the War Ministry failed to comprehend the real nature of modern war. To him it was not a game of strategy played with armies, but a cold problem in the mass destruction of nations. Only the maximum assembly of men and machines would bring victory. But a critical monograph along this line brought him a summons from a military court and a sentence of a year in prison. He was released the day the retreat from Caporetto began. Later, a committee investigating the disaster discovered that Douhet had predicted many of its causes and he was restored to duty.

After the war a military tribunal reversed his former conviction and he was made a General in 1921. Under the auspices of Gen. Diaz, then, he published his "Il Dominio del Aria" (Mastery of the Air), which later formed a chapter of "The War of 19—." He was to foretell much more than the rearmament of Germany, and the course it was to follow, but a brief glance at his doctrine will serve as introduction to "The War of 19—," the blanks in the title of which circumstances

Hatch's 'Step in the Right Direction'

Author of "Clean Politics" Law Considers It Only Start Toward Putting All Public Office-holders Under Civil Service

Senator From New Mexico, Having Won Long Fight With Stubborn Determination, Not Disposed to Quarrel Over Credit Which Some Give to Garner.

Ready and Willing to Continue Fight at Next Session of Congress for Extension of Principle as President Roosevelt Suggested in His Message of Approval.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.

WHEN President Roosevelt signed the Hatch "clean politics" bill a small but comfortable niche in the political hall of fame was assured to its author, Senator Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico. Mild-mannered, rated as one of the most fair-minded men in the Senate, Hatch has fought for two years to put over the far-reaching reform that is now a law.

Up to the moment that the President's message reached the Senate, Hatch was not sure that his long cherished bill would become law. Just to be on the safe side, he had gathered together a big manila envelope full of material to use in a speech replying to a possible veto. He is glad he didn't have to deliver that speech, but he was prepared to make it, and he was ready to ask the Senate to override a veto. Somewhere in the makeup of this mild-seeming man is a streak of stubborness that must be a mile wide.

Both Parties in Favor of It When They Were Out

For many years there have been efforts to bar all Federal employes from participation in politics. Both Democrats and Republicans have been in favor of extending civil service restrictions to Federal jobholders but always when their party was not in power. It was a grand gesture for the outs to demand that the ins vote to keep jobholders out of the political mill, but once they were in the majority it was a different matter. Now, as a member of the majority party, Hatch has the credit for a sweeping reform that was adopted by votes of both parties, the solid Republican bloc in the House being supplemented by a number of Democrats.

Many observers would give Vice-President Garner credit for lining up the vote behind the Hatch bill. Violating his invariable custom, the Vice-President allowed reporters to quote the prediction he made from the White House steps some weeks ago to the effect that the Hatch bill would pass at this session.

Senator Hatch is not inclined to argue over the credit for the passage of his bill. He says Garner was extremely active for it, but adds that in his opinion it is unfair to ascribe this to Garner's own desire for the nomination in 1940. Garner's interest in keeping Federal jobholders out of politics arose, according to Hatch, long before there was any suggestion that the Vice-President had higher ambitions. When Hatch first introduced the bill to bar Federal jobholders from serving as delegates to national conventions in January, 1937, Hatch says, Garner commended the objective.

Hatch does not conceal his elation but does not believe his law will alter fundamentally the two-party system of American politics. He agrees with President Roosevelt that it is a "first step."

Long-Range Objective He Always Had in Mind

"The long-range objective that I have always had in mind," says the New Mexico Senator, "is to get virtually all Federal employes under civil service. I have felt all along that if we could remove district attorneys, marshals, collectors of internal revenue from politics, then it would be comparatively easy to bring them under the civil service. But first it was necessary to remove this chief obstacle.

"Then next I want to see the civil service straightened out and made to work more efficiently. There are a great many things wrong with our present civil service law and the Civil Service Commission. There is no use pretending it is perfect."

Hatch is thoroughly familiar with the background of civil service. He points to the early efforts to introduce this reform in England, going back to 1854. It was not until Gladstone strengthened the law in 1870 that it became really effective. Hatch is familiar with the extensive literature in the field.

SENATOR CARL A. HATCH

Coming up the political ladder by slow stages, Hatch is familiar, too, with the political process at first hand. He has been county chairman, state chairman, a delegate to national conventions. In 1932 he was a presidential elector, casting a direct ballot in the Electoral College for Roosevelt. His service to his State goes back to 1917 when he served for two years as Assistant Attorney-General. In 1919 he was Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of New Mexico. From 1923 to 1929 he was a district judge in his home district of Clovis.

No Handicap to Party; "Money Never Wins Elections"

Speaking as a practical politician, Hatch says he thinks the new law will in no way handicap the Democratic party. Certain Democrats have suggested that since all the "fat cats" are in the Republican party and most of the big contributions therefore go to that party, the Democratic National Committee will find it difficult to meet campaign expenses.

"Money never wins elections," Hatch says. "That is an illusion of the politicians who like to spend money. In my opinion, the greater part of campaign funds are wasted. Of course, it is necessary to have access to the voters. Money must be spent, for example, in purchasing radio time. Money spent in that way is not wasted.

"But I believe in any event that there will be some drastic changes in our approach to politics. It seems to me that in the future neither the Republicans as a party nor the Democrats as a party will elect candidates. The independent voters are going to decide elections, 10 million or more who carry neither the Democratic nor the Republican label.

"We will have to stand on principles and be willing to be judged on the basis of performance. I hope that more and more we are coming to the politics of ideas and objectives rather than the politics of the machine.

"Some critics of the bill have been prone to treat it lightly and say that we must be 'realistic' in this day and age. Well, 'realistic' is exactly what those of us sponsoring the bill have tried to be. We are realistic in the sense that we want to place all the obstacles possible in the way of wrongdoing in the use of the vast funds we annually appropriate for relief and other purposes. Last summer it was, perhaps, idealism to seek these corrective measures against the improper use of relief funds. Today that idealism has become realistic law and mandate. And I'm glad it is so."

Only a little more than a year ago Hatch was engaged in a furious—and futile—debate with Majority Leader Barkley over Hatch's amendment intended to keep WPA out of politics. Barkley was in a primary contest with Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler and his realistic argument was that if WPA were to be taken out of politics, then Chandler would defeat him with his State machine, built on State employes. The Hatch amendment was defeated by a single vote.

"There was a great deal of merit in what Senator Barkley argued at that time," Hatch says. "These state machines are built on state jobholders. Particularly pernicious is the use of the State Highway Department in politics. In my bill as originally drawn I would have barred from politics all those 'whose compensation is paid or whose employment is made possible in whole or in part by funds appropriated by any act of Congress.'

"That language, which was later struck out, would have applied to a great many state jobholders, and especially in highway departments where Federal grants in aid are essential. Of course, I believe in applying these same restrictions to state employes.

To Work to Extend Law to State Employes

"In 1937 I had a bill drawn which was introduced in the New Mexico Legislature in that year. When I come back in January, I intend to work for a national law that will apply to all state employes. The President has indicated in his message that such a law would be constitutional, and I believe there would be wide support for it in Congress, even among those who opposed the measure just passed. It is not uncommon in many states for the Governor to seek the Senatorship and the Senator would naturally want to have the same set of rules applied to his opponent as he must work under."

Politics in New Mexico have in the past been on a rather tough, pay-as-you-go basis. Numerous scandals have rocked the State. Recently a WPA scandal in New Mexico centered around Hatch's colleague in the Senate, Senator Dennis Chavez. Several of Chavez's relatives were indicted, tried and acquitted on various charges growing out of the use of WPA funds. But because a national magazine had slurred Chavez, on the ground of his Spanish origin, Hatch rose in the Senate the other day to defend his colleague.

"In the State of New Mexico," he said, "the major part of our citzenry represents two great nationalities. I used the word 'nationalities' advisedly, for sometimes a looser term is used, sometimes people even in New Mexico refer to the different 'races.'

"The people of New Mexico are not of two races. We have in our State honorable citizens of English and honorable citizens of Spanish ancestry. Long before the settlements on the Atlantic seacoast had been dreamed of, brave Spanish explorers had entered and extended their dominion over all the great Southwest. Today the descendants of those early Spanish settlers form a large part of the population of New Mexico. Also, of course, we have in New Mexico probably an equal number of English-speaking citizens of English ancestry. Throughout the years these two great nationalities have lived together, equally enjoying the privileges and advantages of our great State."

A Kansan by Birth, Lawyer and Wheat Grower

Like so many New Mexicans, Hatch is an adopted citizen of his State. He was born and grew up in Kansas, practiced law there briefly, then moved to Clovis. He has a 400-acre farm near Clovis where he grows wheat and, according to his own confession, loses money. He likes baseball and fishing. In his office he has a photograph of himself holding a catch of four magnificent trout taken in a stream near his home.

Although the most even-tempered of men, he worked himself up to a pitch of fury several times during the fight over his bill, once when he suspected Senator Sherman Minton, Democratic whip, of trying to prevent a unanimous agreement on the bill as passed by the House and sent to conference.

"Let us not be misled by anything that may be said on the floor of the Senate today," he shouted. "Let nobody be deceived by the issue that is confronted if it is thought to send this bill back to conference, for there is nothing to confer about. A vote to send it back to conference means simply this: It is a vote to send the bill to the graveyard."

"I have no dagger up my sleeve for the Senator's beloved bill," Minton said, surprised by this attack. "I have no intention to knife my friend in the back. I want him to have his bill. His heart is set upon it and I am for him. . . . . So far as I am concerned, the Senator may have his bill and God bless him."

Amused by Rashness, He Recalls Prophecy

Amused now at his own rashness, Hatch recalls that it was a year ago, just as the previous Congress was adjourning after defeat of the Hatch amendment, that he predicted to newspaper reporters that his bill would pass the Senate by unanimous consent. First came the amendments to the WPA appropriation bills, eliminating politics and campaign contributions from relief. And then a few months later came the triumph that he had never really believed possible at the time of his prophecy.

Hatch is essentially serious. It is no accident that his Senate nickname is "Deacon." His is the earnestness of a reformer. He believes that the time in which we are living is as critical as any period of American history, perhaps even more critical than the period of the American Revolution.

Deeply disturbed by the paradox of poverty in the midst of plenty, he is looking for some solution. In recent months he has been studying co-operatives and he says that in the next session of Congress he hopes to be able to further legislation aiding farmers to establish producer and consumer co-operatives.

He has three more years to go on the Senate term to which he was elected in 1936.

Grave Warning On Continued 'Pump-Priming'

International Labor Office Finds Government Can Reverse Economic Slump by Spending but Must Not Keep It Up.

By ERNEST KIRSCHTEN
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

AN increasing control over business cycles is being developed through economic planning, reports the just published Year Book of the International Labor Office, League of Nations agency charged with gathering data in the field of labor and industry. At the same time, the Year Book editors issue a warning that the social consequences of this trend "are of more than ordinary importance."

In general, the ILO staff found the year's events inimical to economic development and social advance. The armaments burden and self-sufficiency schemes are distorting the economic structures of most countries. Plans for social betterment have been postponed or abandoned. The menace of war makes the future uncertain. Governments have shown an ability to check recessions, but what has yet to be shown is how business men, working under present-day conditions, can co-operate with Governments to consolidate this success.

The Year Book editors say: "It has been practically demonstrated during the last twelve months that a recession can be reversed by deliberate Government action. On the other hand, the full success of such a measure is contingent upon means being found of achieving a high level of business activity once the decline has been checked. Provided this can be done, budgetary deficits incurred for the purpose of reinforcing purchasing power can be made good by budgetary surpluses in the intervening years.

Dangerous Dilemma

"Failing this, a dangerous dilemma arises. Either a country must continue to pile up deficits or else it must deliberately abstain from taking the necessary measures to counteract depression. The latter course is not likely to be practical politics in most countries.

"On the other hand, to incur a series of budgetary deficits is disturbing and in the end liable to impair Government credit. This danger must not be exaggerated. . . . Nevertheless, until control of the business cycle is substantially self-financing, it cannot be looked upon as satisfactory."

This discussion is based in considerable measure on American pump-priming experience and leads to the conclusion that while it is necessary to take reflationary measures from time to time to prevent a recession developing into a slump, the unsolved phase of the problem is how to stimulate private and public measures that will increase and sustain the stream of investment.

The question is raised whether increased investment is the appropriate means of securing full prosperity or whether a distribution of income permitting increased consumption by the poorer sections of the community is not a preferable solution. The very costliness of Government projects is a factor preventing the proper development of investment, it is pointed out, but blame is also attached to monopolistic conditions in certain industries which restrict output and raise prices.

Threat of the State

"In the world of today, also, there is the further possibility, affecting employers and workers alike," the report continues, "of industry being converted into part of the State machinery if free enterprise conspicuously fails to solve the unemployment problem."

The examples of Germany, Italy, Japan and Russia are at hand, and it is admitted that the influence of armaments, autarchy and the menace of war on economic and social conditions has been the outstanding feature of the year. These factors are condemned because they produce a business uncertainty that tends to impoverish every community. The more prosperous sections are affected eventually by an increase in taxation, the poorer sections by a decline in the standard of living. The huge diversion of demand to armaments must sooner or later result in "a massive distortion of the whole economic fabric," it is argued. Further, in a world made small by modern transport and communication, if one nation adopts methods which carry within them the menace of war, every other country is liable to be affected sooner or later. A modicum of social justice is as necessary between nation and nation, it is maintained, as between man and man.

A detailed study of economic developments in the various countries of the world during

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Churchill and Chamberlain.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PRIME MINISTER CHAMBERLAIN faces a growing clamor for inclusion of his foremost parliamentary opponent, Winston Churchill, in the Cabinet. So devoted a supporter of the Government as the London Sunday Observer, owned by Lord Astor, now has joined the campaign. It says that Churchill's exclusion is "repugnant to the average man's notions of national common sense and personal fair play."

There can be no doubt that Churchill's appointment would strengthen the Chamberlain Government, both at home and in its position toward the Empire's enemies abroad. The fiery former First Lord of the Admiralty, in his criticisms of appeasement and delay under both Baldwin and Chamberlain, commands wide public support.

For years, as recounted in his recent book, "While England Slept," Churchill has urged collective security, facing up to the dictators and strengthening national defense. Since Chamberlain has avowedly adopted these three policies, he could now consistently put Churchill in his Cabinet.

As an evidence of British determination toward the dictators, Churchill's appointment could scarcely be excelled. Hitler himself is on record, in an address shortly after the Munich pact, as viewing Churchill as a man who wants war—this being, of course, the Nazi label for anyone who opposes giving Germany a free hand.

If Chamberlain wants to let Hitler know in unmistakable terms that Britain will stand firm, a summons to Churchill will convey the information. W. G.

"The Revolt in Congress."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A COPY of your editorial, "The Revolt in Congress," should be sent to the President and to every member of Congress. Undoubtedly, you had in mind an "ism" not yet mentioned, but which is silently pounding at the foundations of our American institutions, namely "damphoolism," or trying to spend ourselves into prosperity.

Unsound and impractical legislation has held back recovery. Recovery depends upon confidence, and the confidence of all classes in government must be restored at once if we are to maintain our economic, social and political equilibrium.

H. H. MILLIGAN,
President, Missouri Laundryowners' Association.

Philip Caruso and James Seward.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE papers have been telling the story of Philip Caruso who has served eight months of a 10 to 20-year sentence in Sing Sing for a holdup he did not commit. He was wrongly identified by the victim because he resembled the real holdup man who has just been arrested. New York police quote this new prisoner as saying he is "very sorry an innocent guy took the rap."

There is an unhappy, greying man in the penitentiary at Jefferson City who perhaps know how Philip Caruso feels, and who can tell Philip Caruso that he is a lucky fellow. The man at Jefferson City is James Seward, serving life as the alleged killer of Andrew Deck at Herculaneum, Mo., in 1921. There are grave doubts as to Seward's guilt. Men of prominence in Missouri and elsewhere have bestirred themselves in Seward's behalf. They and other students of the case feel that evidence revealed after the trial proved Seward innocent.

The average length of a life sentence over the country is nine to 10 years. Seward has been in prison 16 years, not to mention two years he was held in a city jail. Numerous other Missouri prisoners have been paroled lately after serving the bare minimum of their sentences. The workings of the parole system in Missouri, like the workings of Fate, are indeed strange. JUSTICE.

Fears Spread of Communism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial, "Hysteria in the House," appears to me an odd expression for these times. You castigate the House for attempting to protect us against Communism, then in the last paragraph, you very properly commend it for passing a bill against Nazi and kindred organizations.

Do you have good reasons for believing we need no protection against Communistic propaganda? If so, I suggest you glance through some of the Communistic literature now being generally distributed. Also, have a talk with some of our unemployed and get their ideas on the kind of government they are beginning to think we need.

From an Acquaintance of Tiny Tom.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SEVERAL years ago my wife and I visited Chautauqua, Ill., and made the acquaintance of Tiny Tom. We were trying our hand at shuffleboard and croquet, and our clumsy efforts made it plain we did not know the games. Tiny Tom, who saw us, approached us with a smile, and showed us how.

In last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, I happened to run across an article telling of Tiny Tom's death. It was a thing of beauty. Thanks to the Post-Dispatch and to the writer of that excellent article, a dear memory was made to live again for me. D. G. BLACK.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

The twentieth century has pretty well extinguished the once comforting tradition that the emergency always produces the man. Crisis after crisis has called, but the answering "Aye, aye, sir," has not been heard.

No man of the hour appeared in that immeasurable catastrophe that rocked the world for four interminable years. We are still within the area of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the outbreak of the World War. In dimensions of magnitude, the struggle eclipsed the fabled and factual data of sanguinary annals, but nowhere appeared a military genius to bring the sodden slaughter to a dramatic climax. No "Grant before Vicksburg" emerged to smash the stalemate of the wearily endless trenches. No "Stonewall" Jackson thundered into an unsuspecting dawn out of a starlit, silent night.

No man of the hour has stormed and held democracy's stage in the bedeviled aftermath of the armistice. Perhaps of all the nations England, because of the extraordinary mission assigned to her by European events, has suffered the deepest humiliations from lack of that puissant leadership from which has flowed her stream of legend and triumph. No Pitt, no Peel, no Palmerston, no Gladstone has illuminated the great prime-ministerial office which evolution has hammered into the throne's rock of ages. Browning anticipated history's judgment of Ramsay MacDonald—"just for a riband to wear in his coat." Stanley Baldwin might, as a country squire, have "the tyrant of his little field withstood," but in Downing street he was deaf to the drums of jeopardy. And when Prudence herself seemed to beg for daring, Chamberlain may be thrumming away an empire in a key of timid indecision.

Postwar history will dismiss the long procession of French Premiers with a curt nod, pausing, it may be hoped, to give a kindly glance to Briand, a friendly wave to Herriot.

As peace came to America, with promises and problems, practical politics chose as our man of destiny an Ohio newspaper publisher named Warren Gamaliel Harding, a member of the Federal Senate, a handsome, amiable individual, untempered and untrained for the rushing surge of circumstances. Calvin Coolidge marked time punctiliously, "A Puritan in Babylon." Herbert Hoover's star flamed over our national horizon in a flood of humanitarian endeavor, and he swept into the peak of preferment the personification of "Great Expectations." Whatever it is that transmutes authority, when challenged by adversity, into supreme command—whatever that quality is, Mr. Hoover lacked. And the deepening shadows even now have begun to darken the spectacular period of Franklin D. Roosevelt's ascendancy, known as "the hundred days."

Europe trembles under the tread of Hitler and Italy has been drenched with delusions of grandeur by Mussolini, but Der Fuehrer and Il Duce are both committed to philosophies which must perish if civilization is to endure. As such, neither may qualify as a man of destiny in the historical sense.

But civilization is scanning earth and sea and sky for a Washington, a Jefferson, a Lincoln—a man of the hour.

ON THE WAY TO FULFILLMENT.

A year ago this month the Post-Dispatch gave credit to the United States navy for a unique method of smashing the deep-sea diving record. In commenting on how divers sat in a tank partly filled with water as air pressure equivalent to sea pressure at 500 feet was applied, it was remarked that "any day now, an aviator may claim an altitude record of 142,000 feet after donning an oxygen helmet and sitting in a cubby hole where air pressure has been reduced to the stratosphere equivalent." Last week, the Associated Press carried a dispatch telling how a doctor and an aviator donned oxygen masks, sat in a pressure chamber at the Mayo Foundation and made a simulated ascent from ground level to 40,000 feet in 20 minutes and back down in five without injury. That leaves something like 102,000 feet more to go before the rash prophecy is fulfilled.

THE TRICOLOR DIPS.

On the eve of the Revolution a breathless sans culotte paused before a wall in Paris and in the darkening dusk hastily scrawled the French for "It is later than you think." Anarchy came and the cobblestones were red and an assembly was born to declare the Rights of Man. But it was only the beginning. The short Corsican would come back from Elba, last his hundred days and go to another island. Another monarchy would collapse in weakness and corruption and a second Republic would rise from the workers to bring universal suffrage, a free national guard and social reforms. Then Louis Napoleon and his coup d'etat and still another empire, through which lovely Eugenie was to wear her rakish feather at Fontainbleau. But that, too, would end—end in a sorry war and the humiliations of Sedan and Versailles, and in the Third Republic. A liberty loving people heard Gambetta and Thiers, set up a new Constitution and a Parliament with Deputies elected by direct vote. And now France has come to hard days again. By Cabinet decree, with President Lebrun presiding, Parliament's life has been extended, next year's quadrennial election is postponed and the dictatorial powers of Daladier are established for two years more. French democracy is under glass, and Robespierre and Mirabeau and an angular fellow named Tom Paine are less than memories.

BOSS BROUN.

Annually the American Newspaper Guild goes through the motions of an election, but long before the result is announced everybody knows that Heywood Broun has succeeded himself as president. Everybody knows there has been no opposition. Indeed the formality of voting has been dispensed with. It isn't an election. It's an ovation.

Broun affects to be the "easy boss." Always he thrusts aside the crown. He does it more gracefully, too, than Julius Caesar did on the never-to-be-forgotten ides. He ought to. He has had a good deal more experience than Julius had. Thrice Julius waved it away. Heywood has spurned the proffer half a dozen times. Naturally, he has become adept at it. And he is letter-perfect in the self-deprecatory speech of acceptance. He has been honored far beyond his deserts. But who is Heywood Broun to veto the judgment of the delegates? Let the will of the people be the supreme law of the land. In mock humility he bows to a frenzied audience and wearily resumes the cares of state to which, he pledges, he will be as faithful as in his poor way it is given him to be.

So there he is—president in perpetuity, a milder title than tyrant, or dictator, or king, or commissar, but Broun temperamentally is a cheek-by-jowl companion of Adolf, Benito and Moscow Joe, and he rules the scribes of America with what some poet has aptly described as a rod of iron.

THE CROPS COME IN.

Was there ever a better year for that most majestic of our grains? It seems scarcely possible, if you are watching the cycle of the corn as it swings swiftly toward the golden harvest. Pass along a field of the sabled green—no, stop before it in reverential quiet. Rows of waving plumes stretch away like the aisles of a great cathedral. Their rustling is the music of unseen organs. The tassled tops overhead have done their work and in the sun the ears are rounding out. Below the surface of the well-watered ground spreads root systems more extensive than the giant superstructures now so tall that they all but touch the stars.

Wheat is no rival of the corn, and yet it is. The grain that makes our bread has its cycle, too, a cycle now complete, with threshing in progress on a thousand farms almost at the city's edge. Young shoots came up April-green last fall, slept through the winter, awakened in the spring and, under sun and rains and sun again, grew into great yellow fields, over which the wind rolled splashing waves as the bearded heads ripened for the reaper's droning blade. Now the blowers of smooth-running separators are spinning out fresh straw stacks as stock shelters for next winter, and wagons are hauling the clean grain to mills and elevators and the dinner tables of a continent.

The same favorable growing conditions which have blessed the corn cycle and the wheat's are bringing other crops of our fertile Mississippi Valley to rich fruition. Oats, cowpeas and soybeans have prospered. Alfalfa grew green and then green and then green again. Pastures, sometimes tragically burnt white by August, are as lush as May and horses and cows, hogs and sheep, and their young, crop hillsides contentedly. There has been an abundance of berries, and now the fruits are beginning to arrive, early apples, early peaches and plums, telling of the orchard yields another month will bring.

The suburban dweller who has a vegetable garden behind his house knows what a season it has been. From the first scarlet radishes and tender scallions to the second, or is it the third, planting of golden bantam, his backyard plot has been a handsome success, readily measurable in cold coin as well as in recreation and joy. Peas left something to be desired, but that was forgotten as the tomatoes, large and pink and red, came in abundance. Pepper plants have outdone one another in producing their crisp, green bulbs, and row on row, spendthrift chard, crinkly endive, carrots and beets, march up bearing their green-white, orange and burgundy fruit. Bermudas and onions in yellow and purple jackets hang in bunches in the tool sheds, and where they grew, turnips are coming along. In the corn a pumpkin vine is winding and the fence okra opens its creamy flowers to the morning.

Yes, a season of generous soil and friendly skies, one that teaches us, in the words of a singer of our ripening valley,

. . . the virile trust of growing things,
The wisdom of slow fruiting in the sun.

ST. LOUIS CONTINUES THE PNEUMONIA FIGHT.

From the Department of Public Welfare comes the good news that in some manner money will be obtained from city funds to continue the pneumonia control program from which the United States Public Health Service is withdrawing. Last winter, the Health Service's appropriation of $15,000 was the means of providing free anti-pneumococcus serum to the hospitals. The serum saved at least 60 lives. It would have been shameful if St. Louis had decided to do without this major contribution to public health.

HE RAISED THE MAINE.

Brigadier-General Harley B. Ferguson, retiring this month after 42 years in the army, ends a career that included four armed conflicts. Strangely enough, although he was brevetted for gallantry in action during the Boxer Rebellion and received the Distinguished Service Medal in France, his greatest service was done in peacetime and on the water. In 1910, as a mere Captain, he was sent to Havana as "the man on the job" to raise the Maine. In less than two years the ticklish cofferdam job was accomplished and hailed 'round the world as a wonderful piece of engineering.

After the World War he developed the industrial preparedness plan which is now the basis for industrial mobilization in the event of war and should eliminate the delay and expense experienced in supplying the military forces in 1917-18. In 1932 he was made president of the Mississippi River Commission.

Chairman Whittington of the House Flood Control Committee, in citing Ferguson's work recently, said that construction of the cutoffs shortening the Mississippi by 115 miles between Calk Neck and Glasscock was "the most significant development in flood control in the past 10 years." Major-General E. M. Markham, chief of army engineers, said after the 1937 flood that Ferguson's achievement was the "boldest, most daring, most original attack ever made on the Mississippi."

Ferguson, the army engineer, has gathered unusual laurels not only on land as a fighter but on the sea, the river and even in the complicated realm of industrialism.

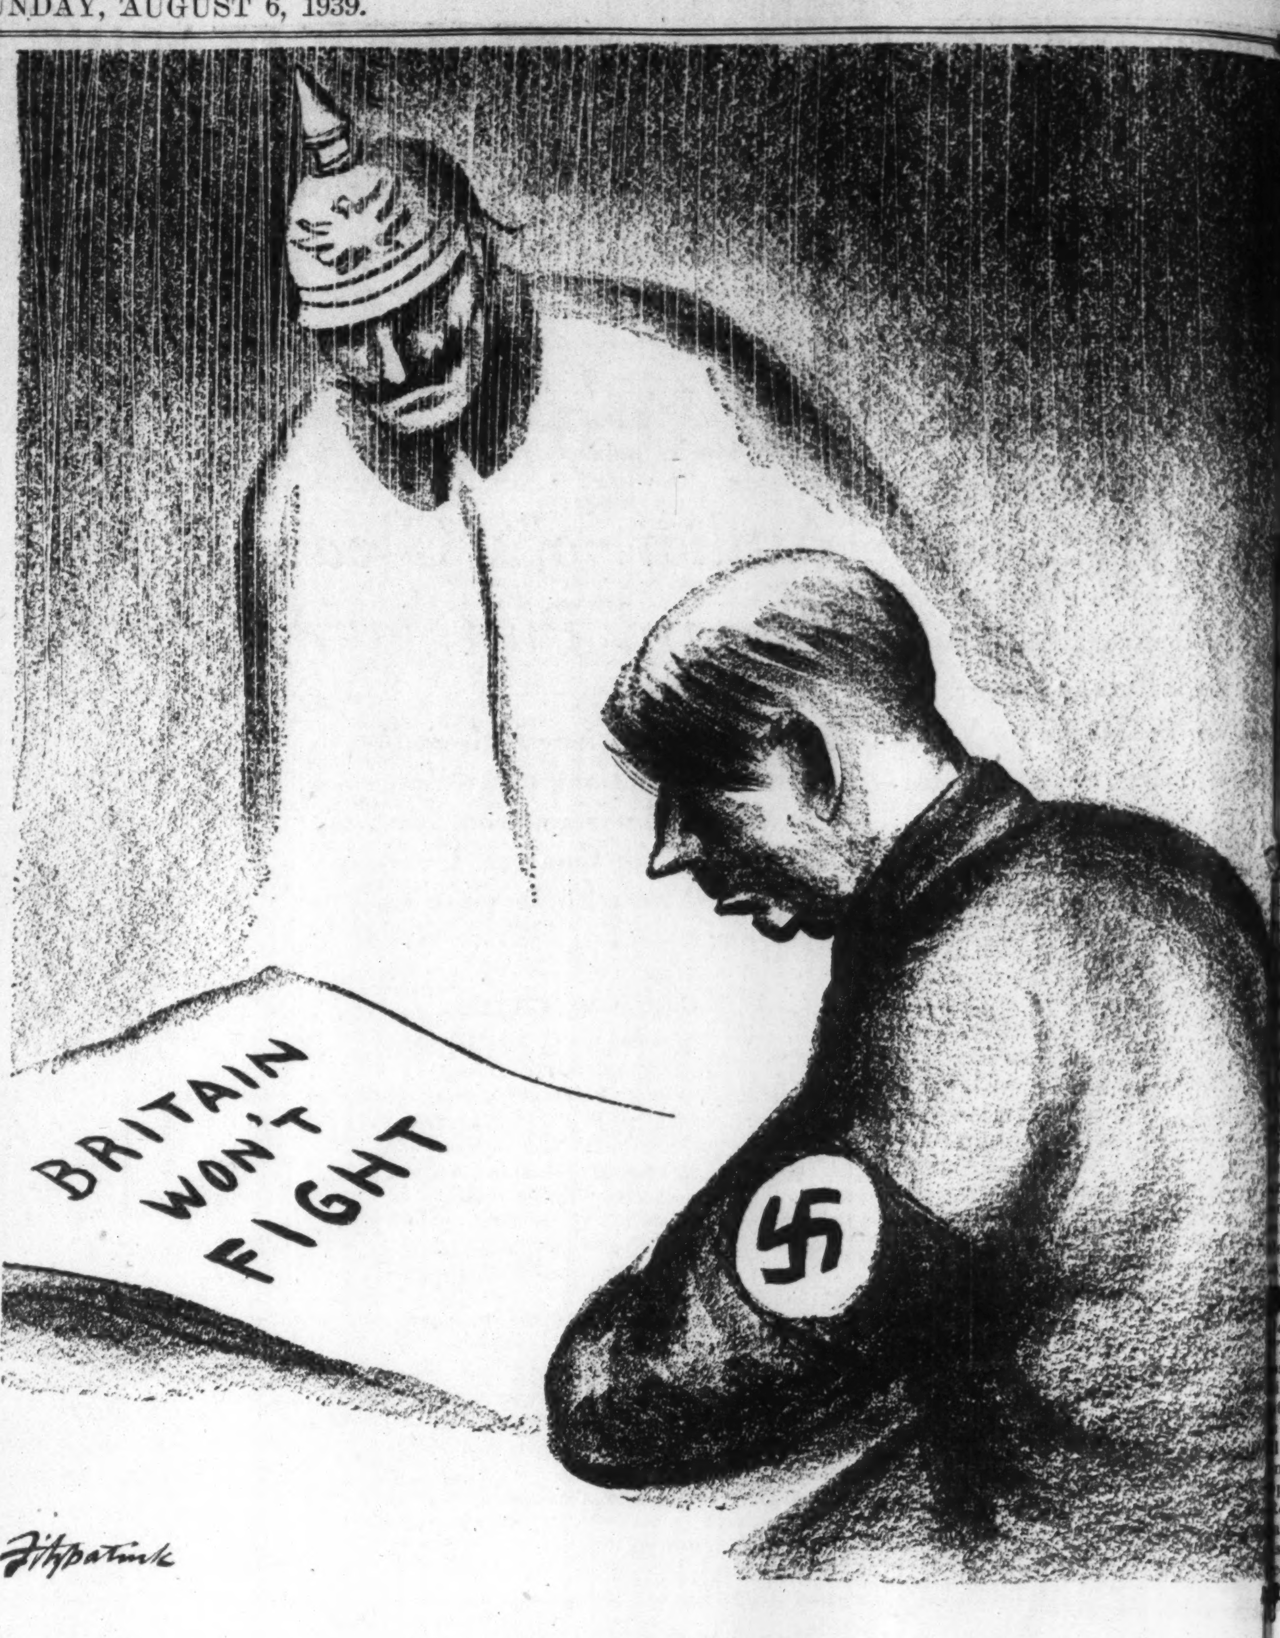
"STERBENSRAUM."

The armament race, for which Prime Minister Chamberlain can foresee no solution "except by war itself," continues to gather momentum. The world bill for the machinery of destruction and death will rise this year to 20 billion dollars, compared with 18 billions for 1938. England, Germany, Italy, Japan and Russia will each spend 50 per cent or more of its national budget on military plant. When and if a world war comes, the sum spent on the military will rise to five or 10 times the present expenditure.

Ironically enough, the watchword of the nation which is leading the procession toward armed disaster is "Lebensraum," or "living-room." Such is the gall of the Nazi propagandists. "Sterbensraum" would be a better word, for the blind lust for power is, at bottom, a cult of death. The graves of the nearly 2,000,000 German soldiers who died in the last World War stand as irrefutable evidence of this fact, but in the present fevered hour this goes unnoticed. Militarism's blind alley retains its lure.



"I MADE THAT MISTAKE."

The Quarrel With the New Deal

The Mirror of Public Opinion

London Economist views "anti-business" attitude of Roosevelt administration as of little effect on recovery in the United States; high labor costs held to be factor of greater significance; British regulation of business and organized labor contrasted with ours.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

AS an authoritative spokesman of the orthodox economic thought, the London Economist, in its appraisal of American economic conditions, has one advantage worth mentioning: It is detached from the American scene, with no political emotions or animosities to hold down.

This detachment may explain the Economist's belief that the alleged anti-business attitude of the administration is of no fundamental importance in affecting American recovery. The Economist knows, to begin with, that so far as private enterprise is concerned, capitalism has been more curbed or more nearly eliminated in Britain and also in Canada in certain important fields than in the United States by the New Deal. As one authority said recently:

"Britain combines widespread cartelization within industry and considerable governmental regulation or control of economic life.

"Many of Britain's industries—coal, iron and steel, textiles, shipbuilding and railways—have been reorganized and modernized since the war, often with governmental direction and financial assistance. All means of communication—mail, telephone, telegraph and radio—are under the authority of the postoffice, while the central electricity board controls a large portion of electrical power.

"The Government recently introduced plans for purchasing Imperial Airways and British Airways, which will be transformed into a public company like the British Broadcasting Corporation."

There has been an uproar in the United States over the TVA as an invasion of the field of private enterprise; that is the knockdown argument to prove that the Federal Government is "at war" with industry. Yet in Britain, as well as in Canada, electric power production is largely, if not entirely, under the thumb of the Government. The British Government makes a state monopoly of radio broadcasting, as it always has of the telephone service. It is now taking over the private aviation industry, which, like radio broadcasting, remains under private ownership in this country.

In spite of these conditions, private industry and enterprise have no quarrel with the British Government. Nor did they before Munich, which gave great impetus to the militarization of the British economy.

There must be important differences between British industry and American industry, especially in the way government intervention or control is regarded. How else can one account for a Tory Government in Britain doing things, without raising the least row, that in the United States the New Deal cannot do without being pilloried as the enemy of private business, or, at best, an agent of reform so cockeyed that it retards recovery and turns public finance into financial lunacy?

The British public debt is now over twice that of the United States, measured on a per capita basis, yet the Tory Government is not constantly harried on that account.

The London Economist, after rejecting the "war" between the administration and private industry as a sound theory to explain America's slowness in recovery, offers the suggestion that the root of the trouble in this country is high labor costs. It may have something solid at that point. Production has not risen with wages. Between 1929 and 1939 the average hourly earnings of American workers in industry increased 23 per cent, but there was no corresponding increase of the annual income of those workers because they worked fewer hours.

The Economist's analysis takes no account of the rise of average wage rates in Canada, between 1933 and 1937, of nearly 20 per cent; and in the past two or three years Canadian industry has still done better than American industry. Conditions peculiar to Canada may explain that—a more flourishing mining industry in particular. However, it remains true that the labor situation in the United States has been far less stable and pacific (notably in labor relationships) than in Britain or Canada.

The full recognition of unions in Britain was accomplished years before it even began in the United States under the Wagner Act. Furthermore, and not of least importance, our national system of work relief for the unemployed has tended to increase labor costs in private industry by keeping out of the labor market millions of workers who under the old-fashioned economy of pitiless competition and no unionism would have driven wages down to a purely subsistence, or "starvation," level.

Fundamentally, is unionism wrong? Is work relief fundamentally wrong? Because they tend to keep up labor costs in a business depression when, according to the classical economic formula, labor should be "liquidated," in the sense of having its earnings drastically reduced so as to decrease prices and thus stimulate production?

Whatever one's answer may be, it cannot be denied by New Dealers themselves that along the broad labor front the older capitalism of America has a genuine quarrel with them. In Europe, this quarrel has been minimized and covered up.

In Britain, organized labor has come to maturity and is able to work with industrialists on a peaceful basis of collective bargaining. Relief for the unemployed was reduced to a dole system of idleness with rations until rearmament brought the present feverish industrial recovery, which promises to eliminate the unemployed within a year.

In Germany, an authoritarian system has "solved" all these problems. Capital and labor both "heil Hitler" and are made to like it.

Meantime, the United States still suffers from the benumbing economic effects of the widespread expectancy of a major war without experiencing industrially the artificial stimulus of a war preparedness boom on a scale unheard of in all the annals of time.

TAXPAYERS HOT, ANYHOW.

From the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

A GENTLEMAN from Kentucky showed up in Washington a few days ago with some very unusual scientific theories, not to say dicta. To make a long story short, the gentleman says that the sun is not as large as the earth and that it does not give off the heat the earth gets. To boil it down, the gentleman says the scientists are all wet and he can prove it.

Whether the gentleman from Kentucky is right or wrong, the taxpayers should manage to keep hot, anyhow. Senator M. M. Logan, Democrat of Kentucky, had this new scientific theory expounded in the Congressional Record for two and a half pages, and it costs $55 to print a page.

Candidate Tydings a Typical Conservative Democrat, Suave, Urbane in Ritchie Tradition

Maryland's Anti-New Deal Senator Is Known Chiefly for His Defeat of Roosevelt Purgers Last Year.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—If the Democrats want a candidate in '40 who is a suave, urbane, slightly cynical conservative they have a perfect specimen in Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, who let it be known yesterday that he approved of the efforts of friends in Baltimore to start a Tydings-for-President campaign.

Completely in the Maryland tradition, he has inherited the political orthodoxy of the late Gov. Albert C. Ritchie. It was Ritchie's efficient political machine that enabled Tydings to advance to his present position at the age of 49. And it appears probable that he will go to the next Democratic convention, and possibly to many successive conventions, as Maryland's favorite son, the role that Ritchie held so urbanely for so many years.

Strength of Candidacy.

Whether his candidacy is to be taken any more seriously is doubtful. If the conservatives within the Democratic Party should succeed in capturing a majority of the delegates at the convention, then the lightning might conceivably strike this lanky Marylander with the ready smile. Just now that seems improbable, although the tide of conservatism within the party is still running strong. Moreover, there are other candidates, potential and avowed, who have the same states rights, anti-New Deal outlook. And they come from states situated more strategically than Maryland which has only eight electoral votes.

It is for his opposition to the New Deal that Tydings is chiefly known. When he succeeded in defeating the New Deal purgers in the primary last year, by an overwhelming vote, he received national attention, becoming something of a hero in a considerable section of the press that is opposed to the New Deal.

He was represented as a resolute David who had stood up to a Goliath of overwhelming size and strength. If there are certain distortions in that picture, the fact remains that the New Deal opposition was more unanimous and better organized in Maryland than in other states in which victims were marked for the so-called purge.

Farley Dislikes Him.

Postmaster General Farley gave some aid to the drive to banish Tydings, which was more than the Democratic boss did in any other primary contest. Farley has an intense dislike for Tydings, whom he regards as disloyal to the party that has made his career. President Roosevelt made a tour in behalf of Tydings' rival, little Davey Lewis, a former coal miner, and in the course of his tour the President held out an offer of $3,000,000 in PWA funds for a bridge at Morgantown, Md.

As for Tydings, he had practically the entire press, including the active support of the Sun Papers in Baltimore. He had unlimited campaign funds from large contributors who wanted to see him beat the New Deal. He used the states rights issue for all it was worth in Maryland, where there is an ancient tradition of individual liberty. And he never said he was against the New Deal, telling the voters he had approved the "bone and sinew" of the Roosevelt program. Actually his voting record parallels very closely that of Senator Arthur Vandenberg, a Republican presidential possibility.

Emerging victorious, Tydings took on national stature. Yesterday the Calvert Club, made up of Baltimore Democrats, came out in behalf of Tydings for the presidency. Just before he left Washington for his country estate at Havre de Grace, the Maryland Senator said the move had his approval but that is all he would say.

War Gave Him Good Start.

It is interesting that Tydings, like several others in the '40 picture, should have got a head start in politics as a result of service in the World War. He was a small-town lawyer, practicing in Bel Air, and a not too conspicuous member of the State Legislature when the war broke out. He had served in the State militia, including a term of service on the Mexican border, but he enlisted as a private.

He returned from France with a string of medals and the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. Re-elected to the Legislature, he was promptly made Speaker of the House of Delegates, largely because of his war record. Four years later he was elected to Congress, where he served two terms.

In the House he was known chiefly for his opposition to prohibition. He was always ready with a witty attack on the drys, which was good political medicine back home in Maryland, a State that never pretended to accept rohibition. Ritchie chose Tydings to run against Gov. O. E. Weller for the Senate and he defeated him by 55,000 in a whirlwind anti-prohibition campaign. In 1932 he was re-elected by a plurality of 155,000, said to be the largest vote ever given a candidate in Maryland.

"Milord" to His Enemies.

During the 1938 campaign Tydings' political enemies nicknamed him "Milord," a rather obvious play on his first name, and a not too subtle reference to his rise in the world. At the same time when they used "Milord" his political foes were suggesting that Tydings was altogether too conscious of his present high good fortune.

His career is not unlike that of a thousand other young men from a modest middle class background, young men with a facility for knowing the right people and being agreeable to them. In his own career Tydings sees the American tradition fulfilled. His father was a Government clerk. Today the Senator owns one of the finest estates in Maryland, Oakington, 535 acres, the house of 26 rooms designed by Stanford White. With sweeping lawns, old box hedges and formal gardens, it is all that the son of a Government clerk might have dreamed of owning.

The woman he chose for his wife after a long bachelorhood is the former Mrs. Thomas Cheeseborough, a daughter of Joseph E. Davies, the American Ambassador to Belgium and formerly Ambassador to Russia. Davies' present wife is the former Marjorie Post Close Hutton, one of the wealthiest women in the world, a dominant stockholder in General Foods and other corporations.

Genial Sponsorship.

With the energetic good will which is characteristic of her, Mrs. Marjorie Post Close Hutton Davies has taken her step-son-in-law under her genial sponsorship. She is reported to have said: "I have two ambitions in life, to make Joe Davies Ambassador to the Court of St. James's and to make Millard Tydings President."

The backing of so determined and wealthy a woman is no small factor as Tydings himself must realize. Marriage into the Davies' family has meant many new and important connections for the Maryland Senator. He and his wife entertain generously in their Washington town house. They dine out frequently, and are usually found at important Embassy and legation parties. Mrs. Tydings is a handsome woman, with strong political convictions of her own as well as high ambitions for her husband. With the adjournment of Congress, the Tydings have gone to spend part of their vacation with the Davies at Mrs. Davies' camp in the Adirondacks.

In Good Trading Position.

It would be difficult to say how seriously Tydings takes his own campaign. As a favorite son delegate from Maryland, he will be in a good trading position. While Maryland has only eight votes, it might be in a close contest that those eight votes would be decisive and then the Senator would be able to wield great power.

Whatever happens, he will come back to the Senate and, seemingly, unless there is some sudden and unexpected upheaval in Maryland politics, for as many terms as he may want to come back.

Deeply resentful of the fight made against him, he takes a grim satisfaction in getting back at the New Deal from his vantage point of security until 1944. For example, in the fight over the President's right further to devalue the dollar, Tydings asked the Republicans for permission to make the final speech and he talked on through midnight when the power expired. It was a satisfaction even though the Senate later restored this power to the President.

And, of course, there is always that chance, the break that might come out of a convention torn by dissension. For a man of Millard Tydings' temperament and desires, it is a grand position to be in.

FIVE FIRMS THAT PROCESSED PIGS SUE U. S. FOR PAYMENT

They Charge $15,672 Was Withheld As Credits Against "Pretended Indebtedness."

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP). — The United States was sued today for $15,672 by five packing companies that processed hogs slaughtered under the Agricultural Adjustment Act before it was declared unconstitutional.

Five separate but identical suits set forth that the Government made partial payments to the packers for the purchase and processing of the animals, but withheld the balance as credits against other taxes, "pretended indebtedness which the claimant has never admitted but, on the contrary, expressly denies"

The companies and their claims weer Wilson & Co., Inc., of Oklahoma, $1566; Wilson & Co., Inc., of Kansas, $6400; Wilson & Co., Inc., $4944; Morton-Gregson Co., defunct since 1936, $1710, and T. M. Sinclair & Co., Ltd., of Iowa, $1049.

Under the old program, 4,000,000 spring pigs and 1,000,000 sows were purchased and slaughtered by the Department of Agriculture in an effort to absorb the market surplus and maintain prices.

TRIAL OF EIGHT PILOTS SOUGHT BY AIR BOARD

Flyers Charged With Violating Regulations — First Case of Its Kind.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—The Civil Aeronautics Authority announced today that it had asked the Department of Justice to prosecute eight pilots charged with violating civil air regulations.

The announcement said the request was the first of its kind since the advent of Government regulation of aviation in 1926. The authority said the eight pilots had "consistently ignored registered communications requesting either the presentation of evidence to disprove the charge or offers of compromise on the fines to which they were liable, if they were unable to pay the full amount."

Those named were:

Harold A. Hutt, Van Nuys, Cal., accused of flying "in weather below the minimum prescribed for contact flight without being in possession of a valid instrument rating."

Richard Cavin, Springfield, Mo., a student pilot, accused of flying a passenger other than a qualified instructor.

Thoral Gilland, Tulsa, Ok., accused of flying without a valid certificate.

Herbert M. Ostrow, Long Beach, N. Y., holder of a private pilot certificate, accused of hauling two passengers for hire.

Clyde Celland, Hicksville, N. Y., accused of flying without a valid pilot certificate.

Ronald Griest, Warren, O., accused of flying an uncertified plane without a valid pilot certificate.

Capt. G. W. Bransom, Newark, N. J., accused of failing to "maintain a listening watch" while acting as pilot of Eastern Air Lines, Inc., on Feb. 3, 1939.

Theo T. Brown, Inglewood, Cal., accused of failing to obey instructions from the control tower in taking off from the Los Angeles Municipal Airport.

FRENCH TAX COLLECTIONS GAIN $136,000,000 FIRST HALF YEAR

Contrary to Rule, Increase Hasn't Hurt Popularity of Finance Minister Reynaud.

PARIS, Aug. 5 (AP).—Finance Minister Paul Reynaud announced recently that he has collected 24,927,000,000 francs (about $660,000,000) from French taxpayers in the first six months of 1939.

That's just about $136,000,000 more than in the same period of 1938. Under normal French political rules it would mean Reynaud would be just that much more popular than he was last year.

Reynaud, however, has reversed the rule. He has turned the office of Finance Minister from the post of "Cabinet Goat" into a job that has made him second only to Premier Edouard Daladier in popularity.

Some of the reasons Reynaud has retained his popularity are:

Production indices rose from 83 last October to 97 in May.

May exports were 32 per cent above exports for May, 1938, in value.

Ten times more workmen were doing overtime work in May, 1939, than in November last year.

In June, normally a dull month, there were 14,000 less unemployed than in November when the new overtime work schedules began.

CHARLES STEELE, 82, PARTNER IN J. P. MORGAN & CO. DIES

Connected With Firm Since 1900; Gave Up Active Work in Business in 1934.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—Charles Steele, 82 years old, a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., died today at his home in Westbury, Long Island.

A Morgan partner since 1900, he previously had been an attorney, making his first connection with the banking firm as an expert on railroad reorganizations.

In 1934 he gave up active participation in business. Besides his Morgan affiliation, he had been a director of such corporations as United States Steel, the Southern and Santa Fe Railroads, International Harvester and Cerro De Pasco. Three daughters survive.

FARLEY PAYS COURTESY CALL ON GERMAN POSTAL MINISTRY

U. S. Postmaster-General Received by Secretary in Absence of Chief at Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 5 (AP).—United States Postmaster-General James A. Farley, here on vacation, paid a courtesy call today on the German postal ministry.

In the absence of Wilhelm Ohnesorge, Minister of Posts, who also is on vacation, Farley was received by Jacob Nagel, a secretary in the ministry.

PYGMY WATER LILIES ON DISPLAY AT GARDEN

First of South African Species to Be Grown in This Country.

Pygmy tropical water lilies, the first of a day-blooming type that Shaw's Garden plans to hybridize into a new race of various colors and improved form, are shown in the annual display of lilies now in bloom at the garden.

The pygmy collection consists of only two kinds, but they are the first to be grown in the United States. George H. Pring, superintendent of the garden, who is in charge of the hybridizing experiment, said the garden will attempt to develop a collection of different colored pygmy hybrids, as is being done with the large day-blooming tropical hybrid lilies.

Development of the large lily is now in its twenty-sixth year under Pring's direction, and the collection has won the garden world-wide recognition. Only this year a new large pink, numbered experiment 389 but still unnamed, has been included for the first time in the public display. Pring said it likely would be given a place in the select ranks of the new lilies already admitted, "as it has beauty, form, reproductive qualities, size and everything."

Its rose-pink petals are 10 inches in diameter, the stamens are a shade darker, and the center is gold. Pollinated in 1937, it flowered promisingly last year, and five plants were grown this year from its seed.

20 Plants Displayed.

The collection of pygmy lilies, consisting of 20 plants in bloom, is displayed in a pool in front of the Linnaeus House, north of the main entrance. Seeds from a pygmy lily, named Colorata and native to South Africa, were obtained last year. Four plants developed, the seeds were saved, and the 20 plants were grown this year. This species has a blue flower, three inches in diameter, with a yellow center.

More than 30 pollinations were made last year with the African native, and one hybrid was developed. It is noticeable in the center of the pool for its longer stem, its purple-blue color and its slightly larger size.

Many attempts to cross the African pygmy with the small hardy lily, grown widely in home-garden pools, failed, Pring said, but on a trip to England this summer, he arranged to get the seeds of a yellow African pygmy and another of a blue shade. From these he plans to get a wider color variation by crossing them with Colorata.

The pygmy lily will be of distinct value to the home gardener, Pring pointed out, because its compactness makes it suitable for small pools or even as a window plant. The pygmy, with about 100 leaves, covers only an area of three feet, and averages eight flowers in bloom at a time. It is not hardy outdoors in winter.

Large Hybrids on View.

The famous collection of large day-blooming hybrids is displayed in three pools just west of the main entrance of the garden. In the center pool is what Pring described as "probably the largest display of Victoria Cruziana, the water-platter lily, in the United States." There are nine plants with 60 of the peculiar leaf-pads, 4 feet in diameter, and turned up around the edges. Each leaf will attain a size of 5 feet in diameter in about two weeks. The huge flower is white. Planted around the platter lily are night-blooming lilies, including some fine red varieties, and "Missouri," a large white, also developed at the garden.

In the pools in Tower Grove Park, near the Tower Grove avenue entrance, are several hundred night-blooming lilies of the Park Department collection developed by the late James Gurney, who was superintendent of Tower Grove Park. They are being shown under floodlights at night.

DR. J. H. KIRKLAND, EX-HEAD OF VANDERBILT U., DIES AT 79

Critic of Tennessee Anti-Evolution Law, Who Held Post 44 Years, Succumbs in Canada.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 5 (AP).—Dr. James H. Kirkland, who served as Chancellor of Vanderbilt University for 44 years—longer than any contemporary headed an American institution of higher learning, died today in Magnetawan, Canada. He was 79 years old.

Dr. Kirkland started his administration at Vanderbilt when he was only 34 years old. The institution's assets, during his administration, increased more than tenfold—from less than $2,000,000 to more than $20,000,000. He retired in 1937.

Tennessee's anti-evolution law was criticised by him, and, although he would not discuss prohibition for publication, he once told reporters privately that the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead Act, in his opinion, were "no advantage to temperance."

Chancellor Kirkland's interest in Latin, Greek and the classics in general was reflected in the list of required subjects at Vanderbilt, which was one of the last colleges in the country to abandon the "dead" languages as requirements for graduation.

Exhibition of Paintings, Photos.

An exhibition of paintings by Max Gottschalk, St. Louis artist, and photographs by Clifford D. O'Neal, St. Louis photographer, opened yesterday at the Combs-Duval Studio, 4482 Washington boulevard, and will continue through Thursday. The show is open from 4 to 6 p. m. daily.

Douhet, Apostle of Terror In the Air in Wars to Come

may now be combining to fill in with the numbers "39."

Douhet formed his thesis from a strictly nationalistic point of view. Looking across the Alps toward France and Germany, with their huge populations and resources, then out to sea, where the battleships of Great Britain symbolized the sea power Italy could never hope to surpass, he reasoned:

"As one cannot be strong everywhere, one must concentrate one's effort on that field of action which will be decisive, the air. On land and sea, one can adopt a defensive attitude, one can hold off with weak forces. . . . In air warfare, on the contrary, it is impossible to adopt a defensive position, for there is nothing to hold onto. Besides, the army can act only against enemy armies, the navy against opposing navies and, incidentally, against sea coasts.

"Air forces can act not only against armies, navies and their ports, but against all the industrial and populated centers, the functioning of which is necessary for the life of the nation."

Looking into the future, he pointed out that land and sea warfare would be similar to the World War except for relatively minor technical improvements, mostly favoring the defense, with the British fleet supreme on the water, and land forces locked in a static death struggle eventually decided by the opposing nations' resources and morale.

The Arm of Space.

But—"There has been produced something which tends to modify the very character of war, even on its aspects on land and sea. This new fact is the certain assurance of the arm of space, which, born with the World War, could not have had an appreciable influence upon it."

Douhet's hypothetical air force must not only be able to gain mastery of the air, but to exploit it with sufficient forces to accomplish the breaking down of enemy resistance, both material and moral. He describes the type of air cruisers and bombardment planes which would compose it, heavily armored and armed to break through, not surprise, the enemy defense, yet able to carry heavy bomb loads for missions of destruction once they have surmounted the stalemate on the ground and sea.

Since no offensive is even to be attempted on land or water, he would eliminate all auxiliary aviation traditionally attached to army or naval forces and devote every resource to strengthening the one offensive arm designed to bring victory.

All the Forces of the Nation.

"I have said it is not sufficient to assemble all our aerial resources in the air force, giving up all auxiliary and all defensive aviation; but that we must take a step forward that is still more revolutionary and more audacious. We must group together all the forces of the nation, in order to mass in that domain where the decision can be obtained—in the air. I have therefore launched the new doctrine on the principle—'Resist on the surface to mass in the air.'"

Douhet's "The War of 19—" was a military treatise in the form of a fanciful description of a war between Germany and France allied with Belgium. Despite its imaginary character, he included a table of strength for both sides, giving France and Belgium a superiority in land and sea forces, and equality in numerical strength in the air. The principal difference was that Germany had adopted the policy of a single air force, while France and Belgium adhered to the old policy of auxiliary aviation.

Estimate of Situation.

The estimate of the situation from the German point of view briefly was as follows:

"Our adversary has the will and the power to make war. Hence the object of our action should be to break his will and destroy his power. Therefore, the destruction of the armed forces of the adversary is not a condition of victory.

"As far as land warfare is concerned, the Germans were satisfied to prevent the enemy from gaining the victory too easily, and above all, in too short a time—before the decision itself had been obtained in another field. In particular, on land, the important factor was to resist until the warfare in the air had been fought to a conclusion.

"On the sea, after a short period of vacillation, Germany had come to the decision to abandon war on the surface, and devote herself exclusively to submarine warfare — which, as the experience of the World War demonstrated, was capable of inflicting very serious losses on the enemy's shipping and completely protecting her own coasts. After the construction of the first cruisers, changing her principles, Germany stopped constructing that type and intensified her production of submarines. . . . Except in case of complete envelopment . . . we can always keep up trade with neutral countries."

Chemical Warfare.

Douhet had no doubt in his mind that chemical means would be employed despite international agreements, pointing out that:

"All the Powers were hastening to equip themselves with aerochemical arms, each at the same time promising solemnly to abstain from using them unless the enemy should take the initiative. This showed that none of the Powers believed the others. . . . This general lack of confidence was logical and natural; no one can believe that his enemy will renounce the use of an arm that may prove useful. . . . How could the aerochemical arms be kept out and remain indifferent while all other national resources were thrown into the conflict? To wait until the enemy should take the initiative . . . would mean conceding a great advantage. . . . When confronted with the supreme, instinctive feeling of self-preservation, every agreement, every humanitarian sentiment becomes worthless to a nation; no other necessity exists except that of killing so as not to be killed."

Douhet missed the date by a few years, placing it in 1927, but outlined in general the reorganization of national defense forces since effected in Germany, with even the chief of staff subordinate to what he calls the chief executive. The term "Fuehrer" had not yet been created to this Chief Executive, the Chief of Staff had to submit his plans for approval, failing which he was "automatically relieved of his duties."

All Hope for Quick Victory.

All hope is based on winning a victory quickly, directing every action with maximum intensity and force against the most sensitive and vulnerable points to break down the enemy's will to engage in war. Air offensives must make life impossible for the enemy nation. He draws a graphic picture:

"Explosions are followed by fires. Gases that kill prevent approach to the zone bombed . . . Fires develop and spread. The poison gases persist, permeate the air . . . Traffic on the main routes will be suspended . . . On the railroad, traffic will stop. Life itself will be stopped . . . What happens in one town can on the same day happen in 10, 20 or 50 great centers, and with the news spreading, other centers will be affected. What government will be strong enough to preserve order? How can industry function regularly? Even if the appearance of order remains, even if some work can be done, will not the mere sight of a single airplane be enough to produce serious panics? Normal life cannot develop in a perpetual nightmare, under the menace of destruction and death!

"If, on the second day, 10, 20 or 50 centers are hit . . . a complete dissolution of the national government structure will take place. It will not be long before the population driven solely by the instinct of self-preservation, will demand the cessation of hostilities at any price, perhaps even before the mobilization of the army, or before the fleet has left its harbors."

Fulfillment Thus Far.

One after another of these things have come to pass: clandestine air rearmament; abandonment of attempts to gain supremacy on the sea in favor of submarine warfare; construction of the Siegfried line in anticipation of assuming the defensive on land; adaptation of the entire economic structure of the nation to massing offensive strength in the air; removal of the army chiefs who disagreed with the chief executive. How many more we may soon know.

Douhet coldly described the war he contemplated, going into such details as battle orders and probable casualties on both sides. His air force won the victory by forcing the civilian population to sue for peace after two days. It may seem fantastic, yet within a year the world has seen a whole nation wiped off the map even "before the mobilization of the army or before the fleet has left its harbors."

Perhaps that may never happen again. Perhaps the next war, so long considered "inevitable," will last two days, perhaps two years. The answer will be written by historians who have seen his theory tested—for it has not been tested yet. Neither in China nor in Spain has there been employed the type of air force or air warfare Douhet describes. Bombardment, yes, but by a few dozen, a few score planes at most. Not the incessant flights of from 200 to 500 planes, dropping explosive, incendiary and toxic bombs in the "proper proportion," day after day after day, without effective opposition, until for the enemy all hope of winning is gone.

That is what Douhet visioned.

VANDENBERG BLOCKS LATIN AMERICAN BILL

It Would Have Allowed U. S. to Build Warships for Southern Republics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Opposition by Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, blocked Senate action today on a bill to permit the Government to contract for construction of warships, naval armament, antiaircraft guns and ammunition for Latin American countries.

Administration leaders agreed to lay the measure over until next session, after Vandenberg insisted it merited extended discussion.

Vandenberg asserted it might actually result in arming Latin American republics against each other instead of aiding them against aggression from overseas. It also would "place Uncle Sam in the arms huckstering business," he said.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the majority leader, asked if Vandenberg could finish his remarks in 30 minutes. Vandenberg replied that the measure called for extended debate, adding that it was opposed also by Senators Borah and Johnson and other members of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Chairman Pittman of the committee said Vandenberg's intent was quite clear, that while the word filibuster had not been mentioned, he saw no opportunity to attain a final vote before Congress adjourned.

Representative Clason (Rep.), Massachusetts, blocked the administration's plan to modify the competitive bidding requirements in connection with expansion of the army air corps. He objected when last-minute consideration of the measure, already approved by the Senate, was sought in the House. The bill would have permitted the War Department to allocate orders for the new warplanes among the three lowest bidders instead of only to the lowest bidder, as required by existing law.

WILLIAM GREEN M'LANAHAN FUNERAL SERVICE TOMORROW

Real Estate Dealer Here From 1891 Until Retirement in 1930 Was 76 Years Old.

Funeral services for William Green McLanahan, member of an old St. Louis family, who died Thursday of a heart ailment at his summer home at Charlevoix, Mich., will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Wagoner mortuary, 3621 Olive street, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mr. McLanahan, 76 years old, was active in the real estate business here from 1891, when he organized the realty firm of Carter & McLanahan at 106 North Eighth street, until his retirement in 1930. Since then he had been spending winters in Florida and summers at his Michigan residence. His wife, Mrs. Nancy McLanahan, died in 1929.

Mr. McLanahan was a nephew of Gen. Henry Dodge, territorial Governor and later United States Senator from Wisconsin. Another uncle, and half-brother of Gen. Dodge, was Lewis F. Linn, United States Senator from Missouri. His father, William McLanahan, was secretary of the old shot tower, which stood in Mill Creek Valley, east of Jefferson avenue. His grandfather, W. W. Green, was head of the Globe Life Insurance Co.

Stock Market Sees a Harvest Of News and Is Puzzled; Prices Hold in Narrow Range

Defeat of Administration's Lending Bill Is High Light of Week for Wall Street —Average Is Off .34 of a Point.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—The stock market sees a harvest of news with puzzlement this week and prices held to a narrow range. Profit-cashing near the end converted many gains into losses.

Defeat of the administration's lending bill, news high light of the period for Wall Street, had traders wondering whether its ultimate effect would be bullish marketwise or deflationary for the next few months.

Emergence of the British-Japanese dispute in the Far East as a complicating factor in the already badly troubled European situation was a late-week jolt for the professionals. Reports as to domestic business proved a stimulus for investment buying on the recessions.

Many traders decided, after some hesitation, the smashing of the loan measures would have a final stimulating effect on private industry and came into the market on the long side in somewhat of a hurry.

The market today finished its first August week with a modest rally. The list got off to an indifferent start, but soon converted small minus marks into recoveries running to a point or so. Gains were whittled down at the close, but the Associated Press average of 60 stocks managed to retain a net advance of .2 of a point at 49.6. On the week this composite was off .4.

The Dow-Jones average of 65 stocks at 48.17 was .22 of a point higher on the day, but .34 of a point lower on the week.

Oversold Market View.

Attendance in boardrooms followed the usual summer Saturday pattern and was hardly worth mentioning. Dealings, consequently, were the lightest since July 15, amounting to only 236,980 shares. The turnover last Saturday totalled 245,360. The six-day volume was about 800,000 shares under the preceding week.

Some of the day's buying support, brokers said, was apparently due to the belief of certain traders that the market might have been oversold in Friday's sharp drop.

Wall Street seemingly was in a happy frame of mind because Congress was shutting up shop and going home.

Steels were in front throughout as next week's mill production, despite a sharp drop in the South, was expected to keep its balance. It was predicted operations at Pittsburgh would hit a new top for 1939. Virtual settlement of the General Motors strike and a contra-seasonal jump in July sales of new cars bolstered shares in this group. An estimate Class 1 railroads earned their charges in July for the first time this year kept carriers on the upward track. Large copper buying by Japan helped the metals.

Prominent on the come-back were United States Steel, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, United States Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Great Northern, Loft, Phelps Dodge, Kennecott and American Can.

Industrial Index.

The slackening of operations in steel and automobiles, regarded as temporary, largely accounted for a slower rise in the Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity. It worked out at 92.8 compared with 92.6 the previous week and 72.9 a year ago.

The index, with component groups based on latest figures, calculated on 1929-30 levels as 100, compared as follows:

	Latest Week.	Prev. Week.	Year Ago.
Composite index (h)	92.8	92.6	72.9
Automobile prod.	80.0	82.0	32.0
Steel mill act.	79.6	81.3	53.4
Cotton mfg.	113.2	112.8	104.7
Electric power use	120.9	119.2	110.2
Residential bldg.(h)	92.5	91.6	66.5
Total carloadings	67.2	66.4	59.8

h-Means 1939 high.

How the defeat in the House of the administration's lend-spend bill and the $800,000,000 housing legislation would affect business was debated in Wall Street. Some said improvement in business confidence on the relief political currents were moving in favor of private enterprise would more than offset whatever curtailment may result in Federal spending. Others pointed out record peace-time appropriations prior to the revolt against the administration would operate to keep Federal spending over the next year or so at high levels.

Utilities in Upswing.

Utility shares led a mild upswing in the stock market on news of the House defeat of the lend-spend bill. A number of stocks, including such leaders as du Pont and American Can, advanced to the highest prices quoted this year. But the list generally continued to mark time within a narrow range after its short-lived spurt nearly three weeks ago.

Still an enigma for business observers was the possible effect on autumn trade of low farm prices. The recent fall in agricultural products was mainly responsible for a recession in the Bureau of Labor statistics wholesale price index—one of the most comprehensive compiled in this country—to the lowest figure in five years.

Busy textile and machine tool plants helped give New England the lead in retail trade gains, Dun & Bradstreet reported. New England, it said, showed year-to-year gains ranging from 10 to 15 per cent. The Middle West was rated second, with gains of 6 to 12 per cent.

BAR GOLD, SILVER AND MONEY

Local bank clearings were $12,000,000 for Aug. 5. Debits to individual accounts were $21,600,000 for Aug. 4.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Bar gold 148s 6½d, unchanged. (Equivalent $34.77.) Bar silver, 16 13-16, up ⅛. (Equivalent 35.41 cents.)

COMMODITY INDEX DOWN FOR THE WEEK

Metals and a Few Other Items Rise, Other Staples Tending Lower.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—Nonferrous metals and a few other basic raw materials tilted higher in cash commodity markets this past week, but elsewhere among staples the trend generally was lower.

The Associated Press index of 35 weighted wholesale cash commodity prices, with 1926 as 100, declined to 64.41 from 64.62 in the preceding week and 67.48 in the like week last year.

Markups in cash copper accompanied reports showing supplies of the red metal were being taken freely, improving the statistical position of the industry. Copper sales in June were the highest for any month on record.

Improved demand for other nonferrous metals also was reported. Higher quotations were posted for tin and lead.

Scrap steel and rubber prices were advanced in the industrial materials division.

Selling lower among basic industrial supplies, however, were hides, turpentine, linseed oil and burlap. Cotton also declined slightly.

Mark-downs in the cash prices of hogs and lambs carried the livestock component of the Associated Press index to a new 1939 low.

It was the sixth consecutive weekly drop for the livestock component.

Oats were higher in the grains sector, but wheat, corn and rye all were down a shade.

Silk moved a notch lower in the textile division.

Among market basket items, coffee and flour prices were marked up, but cocoa and lard were less expensive.

The Associated Press commodity index, with its components, compared as follows:

BANK HOLIDAY ABROAD

London Exchanges to Be Closed Until Tuesday—Likewise Liverpool.

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Security and commodity exchanges in England today began observance of the August bank holiday, closing most offices until Tuesday. While scattered dealings took place in the money markets this morning, on Monday the holiday becomes general.

Closed until Tuesday morning were the Stock Exchange, metal and rubber markets in London and the wheat and cotton futures markets in Liverpool.

COTTON MARKET IS WAITING AFFAIR; RANGE IS NARROW

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—Cotton futures dropped back after early gains today when the market looked over the weather map. Closing prices were 1 point up to as much down following early gains ranging as high as 7 points in some contracts.

The market was still a waiting affair while traders stood by for House action on additional appropriations for the Commodity Credit Corporation. Trade was also checked in view of the Government's first official crop forecast due next Tuesday.

Early prices shifted higher on buying from Bombay, Liverpool and Japanese interests, chiefly the first. Interest dried up soon, however and liquidation got under way following a favorable weekly weather forecast.

Trade estimates for the new crop centered around 11,500,000 bales.

Many analysts felt a yield close to that figure would be barely enough to supply consumptive demands and would probably exert a bullish influence on the market.

Exports today 19,327; season for far, 33,645. Port receipts, 11,404; port stocks, 1,943,935.

Spot nominal; middling 9.55.

Final prices were 1 lower to 1 higher.

WHEAT TRADE IS LIGHT, PRICES LITTLE CHANGED

Market Affected by Uncertainty Over Action by House on Appropriation for Crop Loans.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP).—Wheat prices sagged minor fractions here today after having scored gains of as much as ⅜ cent a bushel. The undertone was steady, however, and closing prices were unchanged to ¼ cent lower, compared with yesterday's finish.

Uncertainty over final action by Congress o nthe $119,000,000 appropriation for crop loans, restored to the final deficiency bill by the Senate yesterday, continued to affect the market.

Wheat closed unchanged to ¼c lower, September 64@⅛c, December 64¾c; corn ⅛@⅝c higher, September 42⅜c, December 42⅜@½c; oats ¼@⅜c lower.

Wheat prices moved within a narrow range fractionally above the previous close, but offerings were light and interest appeared to be held in check pending action on the farm fund by the House of Representatives. Traders' inclination to take to the sidelines was augmented by a holiday at Liverpool. The English market will be closed today and Monday for bank holidays.

Winnipeg started steady to as much as ½ cent higher, but later declined slightly. The early Canadian weather map indicated only a few scattered showers fell in Southern Saskatchewan, and early morning temperatures indicated another hot day was in store for crops. Winnipeg will be closed Monday for a holiday.

Corn prices were slightly higher, aided by reports of high temperatures in the Southwest and no rainfall overnight.

Buenos Aires corn futures closed ¼@⅜c higher.

Trade in oats remained slow, but there was some selling of December contracts by elevator and Northwestern interests.

Rye prices maintained a slight advantage at the finish after having gained about ½ cent at times.

Lard prices were unchanged to slightly lower, being affected mostly by scattered liquidation.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Aug. 5.—In the cash grain section of the market today wheat was ½c higher to ⅜c lower, corn unchanged and oats unchanged.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

Wheat—No. 2 red winter, 68½@69½c; No. 3 red winter, 66½@67½c; No. 4 red winter, 64@65¼c; No. 4 light garlicky, 62c; No. 2 red garlicky, 63¼c; No. 3 red warlicky, 63c; No. 4 red garlick, 59½@60¼c; No. 5 red garlicky, 58c; No. 2 hard wheat, 67½c; No. 2 tough, 67¼c; No. 3 tough, 65½c.

Corn—No. 1 mixed, 47c.

Oats—No. 2 white, 31c; No. 2 mixed, 31c; No. 1 gray, 31¼c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 106,500 bu., compared with 240,000 a week ago and 192,000 a year ago, included 67 cars local and four through. Corn receipts, which were 15,000 bushels, compared with 21,000 a week ago and 52,500 a year ago, included nine cars local and one through. Oats receipts, which were 16,000 bushels, compared with 10,000 a week ago and 56,000 a year ago, included five cars local and three through.

COPPER DEMAND REVIVAL; PRICE LIFT ON REFINED

Highlight of Domestic Dealings Is Purchase by Japan of 2000 to 3000 Tons—Record July Sales.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—A revival in demand for copper this week—after a temporary lull following the buying splurge of early July—accompanied a general price lift to 10½ cents a pound for refined metal.

The advance in domestic markets followed sizable turnover and buoyant price trends in the London export trade. Overseas quotations rose to 10.71 cents a pound at the week end, highest since November last year.

Record sales of copper were made locally in July, figures released during the week showed. The month's total of 182,576 tons eclipsed the former top of 180,052 hit October, 1936.

Highlight of domestic dealings was the purchase by Japan on Friday of 2000 to 3000 tons of copper, the first sizable buying since the Government furnished notice of termination of the 1911 trade treaty with the Far Eastern nation next January. The sales were made in a price range of 10.70@10.75 cents.

Copper men weighed the possibility that Japan might be stepping up her buying before the six months' grace period allowed by the treaty ends.

Lead continued to move at a good clip. So good, in fact, that producers and custom units had to resort to a waiting list for buyers at one time. Sellers boosted their quotations a total of 20 points to 5.05@5.10 cents a pound. The London level, in the meantime, moved above the domestic level, thus leaving an additional margin for a further advance here. Sales for the week of 11,174 tons were the best for any week thus far in the year.

Zinc remained at 4.60 cents despite fairly good business. Dealers pointed out that the overseas quotation had not yet risen to a point where the local price could be raised without fear of attracting imports.

Principal steel interests stuck to market quotations in most instances. New business in sheet and strip continued small, although automobile companies took larger deliveries against the latter under contracts placed several months ago.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—(U. S. Dept. Agr.)—Sales of wool in the Boston market during the past week were generally slower than during July. A few houses continued to receive a fair demand for fine territory and Texas 12-month wools, and prices on these wools were mostly very firm to slightly higher, especially on good length wools. Prices were strong to higher on sales of quarter blood territory and fleece wools. Other kinds of domestic wools were mostly slower than last week with quotations steady. Greasy combing graded bright fleece wools were quoted at 28 to 31 cents for fine delaine, 29 to 31 cents for half bloods, 32 to 33 cents for three-eighths bloods and 32 to 34 cents for quarter bloods.

STEADILY IMPROVED DEMAND FOR GUILD

Only Negligible Variations Appear in Other Major Monies.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—Steadily improved demand for the guilder this week was capped Friday with a 10-point advance on news a new Holland Cabinet was in process of formation.

After a series of ups and downs in preceding weeks as Cabinet difficulties kept money traders watching The Hague, fresh pressure developed after Premier Colijn established a new "business" Cabinet, which lasted just four days.

This week, however, the price for the guilder moved almost uniformly higher. Friday the Queen asked D. J. De Geer to try to form a national Cabinet, and subsequent improvement brought the week's gains to around .15 of a cent in terms of the dollar.

Only negligible variations appeared in other major monies. The Swiss franc advanced a bit but most others, including the British pound and French franc, were unchanged.

Gold headed for American vaults dwindled still further. The total for the week, as reported by the Federal Reserve Board, dropped to $8,313,000 from $11,218,000 the previous week.

BOSTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—A dull foreign exchange market today held rates at or close to figures reported at yesterday's closing.

Closing rates:

Great Britain in dollars, others in cents: Great Britain, 4.68 3-16; 60-day bills, 4.67; Canada, Montreal in Boston, 100; Canada, Boston in Montreal, 100.00; Belgium, 16.99½; Denmark, 20.90¼; Finland, 2.07; France, 2.65; Germany, 40.13½; benevolent, 19.25; travel 25; Greece, .85⅝; Hungary, 19.70; Italy, 5.26¼; Netherlands, 53.32; Norway, 23.53; Poland, 18.84; Portugal, 4.26; Rumania, .72; Sweden, 24.12½; Switzerland, 22.58; Argentina (official), 31.20; Argentina (free), 23.20; Brazil (official), 6.05; Brazil (free), 5.10; Mexico, 17.00; Japan, 27.30; Hongkong, 28.74; Shanghai, 8; Yugoslavia, 2.31.

Rates in spot cables unless otherwise indicated.

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP).—The United States dollar continued at a level of $4.68¼ to the pound in final foreign exchange dealings today and compared with a like figure for sterling in New York late yesterday. French francs also were unchanged at 176.72 to the pound.

CHAIN STORE SALES

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—S. S. Kresge Co., operators of a national chain of variety stores, today reported July sales of $11,031,221, or 3.8 per cent ahead of $10,630,082 in July last year. Turnover in the first seven months of the year was 4.5 per cent more than in the similar 1938 period.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—J. J. Newberry Co., chain store organization, today reported July sales of $4,139,34 4.8 per cent more than the $3,949,1 July last year. Sales in the first months of the year were 6.8 per cent above the same 1938 stretch.

UTILITY LOANS IN SHORT-TIME RALLY

Interest in Issues During Week Credited to Spend-Lend Bill Defeat.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP).—Utility loans led a short-lived rally in the corporate bond market last week that carried not only a host of power issues but also many railway bonds to new highs for the year or longer.

The Associated Press averages of representative utility and rail bonds touched new peaks for 1939.

Toward the end of the period, however, values softened under some profit taking and "evening up" of accounts for the week end, and while utilities managed to hold a part of gains, industrials by Friday were just about where they started, and rails tended lower.

Some United States Governments by then were considerably lower, with dealings generally light.

Foreign dollar bonds showed an assortment of intermingled plus and minus signs.

The market showed little disposition to move in either direction today. Small plus and minus signs throughout the list were relieved only by numerous issues showing no change from Friday's figures.

Total transfers of $1,388,800, face value, were the smallest in 21 years and compared with $1,714,000 last Saturday.

Only six of the 30-odd Government loans crossed the tape during the two hour session. These had a par value of but $40,000 and final prices ranged from 5-32 of a point higher to 7-32 lower.

Corporate loans closing unchanged to a shade improved included International Telephone 5s, at 65¼, Commonwealth Edison 3½s at 123¾, American Telephone 3¼s at 109⅞, Santa Fe 4s at 110⅝, Missouri Pacific 5s at 15¼, Nickel Plate 4½s at 51½ and Portland General Electric 4½s at 81.

Dropping back minor fractions were Pennsylvania General 4½s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s, Alleghany stamped 5s, American & Foreign Power 5s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, Illinois Central 4¾s and International Paper 5s.

Foreign dollar issues followed the trend. Panama 5½s gained a point. Milan 6½s lost ⅞.

Helping to set off the sharp upturn in utilities, which was followed by rises in rails and some industrials, was defeat by the House of the administration's $1,800,000,000 lending bill, followed by the killing of the $800,000,000 administration sponsored housing bill.

Defeat of the two "New Deal" measures, brokers said, led investors and speculators to foresee possible lessening of Federal pressure on private utility operations.

While scattered profit taking and "evening up" of investor portfolios were held primarily responsible for price tapering toward the week end, traders pointed out that the small volume of transactions was also a factor.

Investment purchases by life insurance companies, banks and other financial institutions during the week were reported at next to nothing, the only "new money" coming into the market being speculative capital of private investors seeking medium-priced high-yield bonds with appreciation possibilities.

Auto News And Notes

AN EMERGENCY CREDIT plan for the benefit of motorists away from home is being offered to time payment customers of the Universal Credit Co. Under it, emergency credit certificates are issued to Universal Credit time payment customers, entitling the holders to credit for payment of the cost of emergency car repairs or for the purchase of replacement tires, accessories or other emergency needs from Ford, Mercury and Lincoln-Zephyr dealers. Ernest Kanzler, president of the Universal Credit Co., said the plan had been developed to meet a definite need. When a motorist presents his credit certificate when ordering necessary repairs or replacements, the dealer immediately obtains authorization from the nearest Universal Credit office and gets payment from that office. The customer may then repay Universal Credit over a normal period.

A DODGE DIESEL TRUCK run on which four men lived and slept in a three-ton model all the way from New York to California and return, making the round trip of 6378 miles in seven days, 18 hours and 33 minutes, has just been completed. Oscar M. Raes, Chrysler Corporation truck experimental engineer, made the trip with three drivers, leaving New York at 3:17 a. m. one Thursday and getting back at 9:50 p. m. the following Thursday. The four men drove in shifts, and slept in bunks in the truck's interior. Tom V. Moss, director of truck sales for the Dodge Division of Chrysler Corporation, pointed out that the truck run was made in time differing little from that made by modern transcontinental passenger trains. The Diesel-powered truck, he said, was of regular assembly line production and the fuel cost for the cross-country round trip was less than a cent a mile.

STORRS J. CASE has been appointed merchandising manager for the De Soto division of Chrysler Corporation, Case, who has had 10 years' continuous experience in planning and directing successful automotive sales plans, will have active charge of all De Soto's merchandising activities, including one of the most ambitious promotion programs in the company's history.

THE PACKARD MOTOR CAR Co. will be the first factory out with the new 1940 models. It will hold an announcement and drive-away meeting for distributers, dealers and salesmen at Detroit tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday. Tomorrow, the distributers will meet with Packard executives. Tuesday, a full line of the 1940 cars will be shown at the Packard proving ground. Officers of the Berry Motor Car Co., the distributer in St. Louis, and its dealers will leave tomorrow night in special cars on a Wabash train. They plan to drive away 100 of the new cars from the factory and to have them in St. Louis for display and demonstration by the end of the week. One of the new models is a Super Eight described as the most powerful and speedy stock car yet produced by any company.

EMPLOYES OF the Mendenhall Motor Co. and their families and friends held an all-day picnic at the Ganahl Dairy Farms last Sunday, more than 75 automobiles taking part in a parade from the company's headquarters to the grounds.

HUNTER AND Leroy Moody, who broke the light plane endurance record of 218 hours on Wednesday at Springfield, Ill., and continued in the hope of breaking the heavy plane record of 653 hours, use Penzoil S. A. E. 30 motor oil in their plane, according to A. Bergman, sales manager for the R. J. Brown Co., distributer. Bergman noted that Pennzoil also is used in the engines of United Mainliners and said that the U. S. Department of Commerce has extended the time between overhauls of United engines from 400 to 600 hours.

A SALES MEETING and banquet held Thursday at the De Soto Hotel by the Koochook Co., distributer of automotive replacement parts, and attended by 50 dealers and sales representatives, was devoted largely to consideration of the danger to car drivers of carbon monoxide. Talks were made by William Hudgins, president, and William Jarger, secretary and treasurer of the firm; Forest Wells, district manager for the Walker Manufacturing Co., Racine, Wis., which recently delivered a full carload of mufflers to the Koochook Co.; C. P. Ayes of the Shell Petroleum Corporation and Henry Hall, sales promotion manager for the Walker company. Hall, discussing dangers from carbon monoxide to which drivers of automobiles are exposed, went in detail into a book on this hazard published recently by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and pointed out especially the menace of defective mufflers.

THE J. & R. AUTO SUPPLY, 5920 Easton avenue, and the chain of 50 J. & R. stores throughout the country have been appointed distributers of the Cushman Auto Glide and the Moto-Scoot. Charles La Rica, manager for the J. & R. concern, says that the two lines of motorized scooters come in several models and are coming into use for commercial purposes as well as for pleasure.

the last year has produced no common pattern beyond that of planning.

"Economic planning is a term of many meanings," the Year Book points out. "In its widest sense it implies concerted economic action, normally under the aegis of the State, to attain a certain end; as distinct from permitting the profit motive and the operation of the market to work out freely within the established framework of a country. The methods used and, still more, the objects aimed at, vary greatly. Among the principal motives for State intervention during the past year, four are outstanding: more efficient organization of the economic system; special assistance to certain sections of the community; improvement of the national economic equipment, and preparation for war. These different objectives are much intermingled and seldom, if ever, clear cut."

Russia Complete Example.

Russia continues to provide the only example of complete economic planning. Its total 1938 production was valued at 100,375,000,000 rubles, compared with 90,166,000,000 in 1937. The third five-year plan calls for an annual increase of 14 per cent.

Although not going so far as Russia, other countries are carrying through industrial plans of one kind or another. Germany's four-year plan has national self-sufficiency and military strength as its objectives. The French Reynaud (three-year) plan hopes to make production remunerative. Poland recently announced a 15-year program for the economic and social development of the country. Brazil, Bulgaria, Hungary, Norway, Turkey and Venezuela also have embarked on such plans—most of them to run three to five years with state-aided industrialization and public works as the outstanding features.

Another form of planning, the American way, is that designed to prevent or attenuate depression. Its characteristics are planned public works and a monetary policy designed to support demand when it is most needed by business. Besides the United States, Sweden, Finland, Denmark, Switzerland, the Argentine, New Zealand and the Australian states of Queensland and Victoria have experimented to some extent in this field. New Zealand has decreed public works even in relatively prosperous times on the ground that work should be provided just as long as there are any unemployed at all in the commonwealth.

Crops and Prices.

Bumper crops and depressed prices focussed much attention on agricultural planning in 1938, especially in the United States and the Argentine. This is still in its formative stage, the Year Book points out, with most of the emphasis on methods of restricting production or, at least, the quantities offered for sale. More recently attention has been given to the stimulation of consumption—in the United States by the "two-price" system of distributing surplus commodities to the needy.

It was almost inevitable that domestic planning should be extended to the field of international trade. Here two diametrically opposed systems, symbolized by those of the United States and Germany, have crystalized. Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade treaties have made for freer trade with markets available to all co-operating countries, while the German policy is characterized by the extension of political and economic control over neighboring countries, as exemplified by the 1939 treaty with Rumania, and the use of disguised subsidies to meet international competition. Because Germany's mass barter method and the consequent organization of cartels permits an industry to act on the world markets as a single unit, some possibility of its imitation is seen.

How the World Fares.

How the various world Powers fared under their plans during 1938 may be briefly summarized from the Year Book accounts:

United States: World production, after moving about five points higher than the 100 per cent normal figure (1929) early in 1937, dropped to about 90 early in 1938 as a direct result of the American recession. The sag was checked by governmental action in various countries and the world level was brought up to 100 at the close of the year. Direct reflation was used in the United States after milder measures, such as cheap money, failed. Deficit spending affected business psychology so that the upturn in production came well before the actual influence of increased expenditures.

United Kingdom: The business decline was less marked than in the United States, if more deep-seated. Measures taken against it were similar to those of the United States, if different in appearance. Financing rearmament by generous Government loans (380 million pounds against 132 million in 1937) was the chief instrument of reflation. Governmental revenue was only 250 million pounds against 274 million a year earlier.

Germany: A high level of business activity was maintained by Government investment in armaments and the self-sufficiency program. Over 50 per cent of the national income was appropriated by the state. Enormous expenditures were made possible by what was in effect the large scale issue of new money and rigid control of prices, wages and profits.

France: Measures taken late in 1938 resulted in a considerable repatriation of capital and a rise in industrial production although the country has not yet recovered from the 1929 world depression.

Japan: Between 30 and 40 per cent of the national income is being used for war purposes. Production of the machine and steel industries has increased, but against this there was a decline in the output of consumers' goods.

Italy: Industrial production remained more or less unchanged because of the support of Government orders for war materials. Taxation has become increasingly heavy, recourse being had to a series of capital levies.

Poland: One of the few countries that was not affected by the American recession. After years of deflation, it now has a reflationary program. Industrial activity increased because of Government spending to add to the country's industrial equipment and defenses.

BORAH SAYS HE PLANS TO TALK TO PUBLIC ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Senator Who Hints He Will Take Neutrality Issue to Nation Indicates Series of Speeches.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, who joined others, in blocking President Roosevelt's attempt to revise neutrality laws, and who has indicated this issue will be carried to the public, disclosed today he planned some speeches soon on foreign affairs.

He announced his plan when Senator Guffey (Dem.), Pennsylvania, Administration supporter, said in the Senate he would "make two political speeches on Aug. 11 and 19" and asked for unanimous consent that these be printed in the Congressional Record.

Borah asserted this would set "a very extraordinary precedent," and added, "I am planning a line of speeches in connection with foreign affairs and I think I should like to have them in the record."

Finally, Guffey withdrew his request, saying he had no intention of establishing a precedent.

CONGRESSMAN DENIES CHARGE AGAINST HOLC OFFICIALS

McCormack of Massachusetts Says He Has Profound Respect for Fahey and LeHand.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Recent charges by Representative Church (Rep.), Illinois, that Chairman Fahey of the HOLC and Dan Le Hand, Massachusetts State manager of the corporation, handled their jobs on a political basis were sharply denied today by Representative McCormack (Dem.), Massachusetts in the dying hours of the session.

Church, earlier in the week, accused Fahey of spending more time out of his office than in it and said LeHand, brother of Marguerite LeHand, personal secretary to President Roosevelt, "allowed property to be appraised on a basis of the vote value rather than on a basis of real estate values."

McCormack told the House there was no foundation for that statement and declared LeHand conducted his office in a very fair and efficient manner. He said he had "profound respect" for both Fahey and LeHand.

ADDITIONAL SPORT NEWS

Now Is the Time.

SO far, yet not so far, describes the coming hunting season. Nimrods are moving about uneasily as the final blasts of hot weather do everything possible to keep their minds from firearms and stalking. But now is the time to plan those fall hunting trips.

Too many hunters lapse into a coma at this time of the year and when the time comes for shooting find themselves without a happy hunting grounds. Right now the wheat has been threshed and taken to the elevators, the hay has been mowed and farmers are feeling rather receptive.

By visiting those lands you have often seen and hoped to shoot over it is easy to determine the ownership and then talk to the farmers. Most of them will be very happy to co-operate, providing you promise to be careful of their property and not leave the gates open. Don't wait until opening day and expect to make any kind of a deal with them, because there will only be 40 or 50 candidates trying for the same thing.

Chuck Days.

For those who like good target practice mixed with a little wild game nothing is better than woodchuck shooting. Here again the farmers will be very co-operative, as they list the elusive chucks as vermin.

In the flats of Illinois and the northwestern and central parts of Missouri woodchucks are fairly plentiful; nothing, of course, to the numbers which prove so hazardous to Western farmers, but plenty for target work.

The chuck is one of the toughest of wild creatures. Quick, cagey and full of fight, he will battle anything that gets between him and his home in the ground. Whenever possible he quickly retreats to his hole in this way, despite the bombardment annually showered on him by sharpshooters, his family is on the increase.

Because of his wariness, marksmen rarely get a close shot, but must rely upon a high-powered rifle with a good telescope and a flat trajectory. Not only do these animals afford excellent target practice but also good practice in stalking.

Coon Hunters at Westlake.

F. A. Stanley, secretary of the St. Charles County Coon Hunters' Association, and superintendent of the Hunting Dog Exhibition to be held at Westlake Park in conjunction with the County Fair, Aug. 19, predicts a new high in coon hunting exhibitions.

Besides the drag hunts and bench shows, Stanley informs us that Sylvester Matties, president of the St. Charles group and Frank C. Scheible of the Jefferson County Coon Hunters will lead their respective bands to the St. Louis County Fair en masse. Furthermore, all sportsmen in these two groups will bedeck themselves in their new uniforms for the occasion.

Among the outstanding dogs to be on exhibition include the celebrated "Major Bowes," owned by Owen Turnbull of Troy, Mo., who has won more than 50 blue ribbons. A litter mate of "Bugle Ann,' canine heroine of the movie by the same name, will also be exhibited. Both are fox hounds of the first water.

Last week in this column Mr. A. H. Allison of St. Louis County was referred to as an officer of the St. Louis County Coon Hunters. Mr. Allison quickly called the writer's attention to the fact that he was a "fox hunter" and not a "coon hunter." Perhaps apologies would be in order, Mr. Allison, but remembering the coon hunters it had best be said that both are fine organizations and it would be quite an honor to be an officer of either.

St. Louisans on the Gulf.

R. L. Jordan and Robert Black, both of St. Louis County, have been doing some successful deep sea fishing if we are to believe the press releases from Sea Island, Ga. While fishing in the Gulf off the coast of Cumberland Island the pair took numerous amberjack, bonito, barracuda and dolphin.

PART THREE ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 6, 1939. (C) PAGES 1—12C

LOCUST STREET LEASE BY FIRM FROM RIVERFRONT

Tiemann Hardware & Supply Co. to Occupy Five-Story Building Owned by Washington University.

The five-story building at 2647 Locust street, owned by Washington University, has been leased by the Tiemann Hardware & Supply Company for a term of 10 years. It will replace the concern's present building at 210-16 Walnut street, which is to be razed to make way for the Jefferson Memorial Park project.

The Henry R. Weisels company and the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. represented the lessee in the negotiations. Isaac A. Hedges acted for the university.

Of the slow combustion type, the Locust street building occupies a lot 55 by 134 feet. It has approximately 40,000 square feet of available floor space, including the basement. It is equipped with a modern steam heating plant, sprinkler system and electric elevator. In addition there is a 20-foot lot on the east available for shipping and parking purposes.

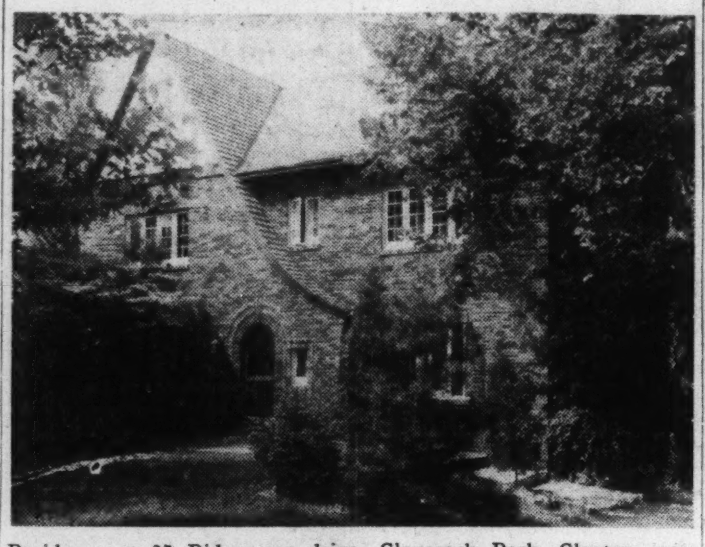
Besides hardware, the Tiemann company deals extensively in mill and industrial supplies. It was established in 1895 by Fritz Tiemann. It has been in its present building 28 years.

First Floor Display Room.

A display room, featuring tools, mill and factory supplies, will be installed on the first floor of the building, which is to be remodeled and altered at a large outlay to conform with the requirements of the new tenant A large overall concern formerly occupied the building.

Washington University is erecting a three story fireproof building on an adjoining lot at the northeast corner of Locust street and Beaumont avenue for the General Electric Supply Corporation, a subsidiary of the General Electric Co. Replete with modern appliances, the new building, with side drives and parking space, will occupy a lot with 175 feet on Locust and 134 on Beaumont. It has been taken by the General Electric under a 25-year lease.

Claverach Park House Acquired



Residence at 37 Ridgemoor drive, Claverach Park, Clayton, purchased by Thomas J. Coty, attorney, from Miss Placide Daues. The Dimmitt-Rickhoff-Bayer Real Estate Co. effected the sale.

JARMAN SHOE COMPANY TAKES OLIVE STREET CORNER

The Jarman Shoe Co. has leased the ground floor of the building at the southeast corner of Seventh and Olive streets. Featuring men's shoes, it operates stores in the principal cities of the United States.

The leased quarters front 22 feet on Olive and 48 feet on Seventh, and include a mezzanine floor. The lessee plans a store front, that will transform the exterior of the building. The interior is to be remodeled, equipped with the latest type fixtures and air-conditioned.

A. M. Kunz, vice-president of the Isaac T. Cook Co., represented the lessee. Arthur S. Martin & Son acted for the lessor.

APPAREL STORE FOR WASHINGTON AVENUE

Harry Livingstone Inc. Leases 5-Story Building at 705 for Long Term.

Harry Livingston, Inc., with headquarters in New York, has leased the five-story building at 705 Washington avenue, owned by the E. O. Standard Real Estate Co. for a long term.

Fire-proof in construction, the building has a frontage of 22 feet 6 inches on Washington avenue, by a depth of 150 feet. It has both freight and passenger elevators.

The exterior of the structure will be refurbished and enhanced with a modernistic store front. The newest type of store fixtures will be installed. Contracts also have been let for extensive alterations. Air-conditioned, the store promises to rival the smartest of its kind in the retail section.

The concern is a retailer of ready-to-wear apparel for women, men and children, with stores in the principal cities. The Washington avenue store will be its initial venture in St. Louis.

A. M. Kunz, vice-president of the Isaac T. Cook Co., represented Harry Livingston, Inc. Arthur S. Martin & Son acted for the Standard interests.

It is understood negotiations are pending for the eight-story building at the northwest corner of Seventh and Washington avenue, formerly occupied by the Hub Furniture Co., an Eastern concern, as the prospective lessee. Tentative plans have been drawn for the remodeling of this building, including the installation of equipment.

HOMES COSTING $90,896,000 BEGUN IN JUNE

Residential Mortgages, Recorded, Exclusive of Farms, Totaled $360,868,000.

June home mortgage recordings, other than on farm properties, reached a record high for the year in value and number, with $360,868,000 and 128,005—a gain of $11,414,000 and 3401 respectively over May, the previous record month—officials of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced yesterday.

Residential construction in June, while far ahead of the comparable 1938 month, declined from May due to a seasonal trend and to about one-third fewer United States Housing Authority projects launched in June than in the previous month, according to a study by the board's Division of Research and Statistics of building permits reported to the United States Department of Labor.

Construction of 24,821 homes,

University ity Project.

Sam Rich, builder, has completed plans for the erection of a four-unit apartment building at 8036 Delmar boulevard, University City. Each will contain three bedrooms with two baths, dining room, breakfast room, kitchen and screen porch. An eight-car garage will be incorporated in the basement of the building.

LOOKS COUNT But You Want a STURDY FRAME Too!
Short-lived as they are, even in automobiles, you demand a sturdy frame.
How much more, then, should you demand a stable, rigid frame in your home—an investment you make once in a lifetime.
But permanent stability is impossible if your home is built with green lumber. Shrinkage, which takes place after construction, causes plaster cracks, uneven floors, open joints and sticking windows.
Sure, when you're considering a new home, insist that its style and outward appearance please you. But look under the surface, too. Demand permanently rigid construction. A sturdy frame. Specify Goodfellow pre-shrunk stablized lumber. Resent a substitute.

SMALL HOME TERMITE PROOF IN CONSTRUCTION

Primarily as a protection against termites, the Ball Lumber Co. is constructing small homes with rigid floors of combined steel and concrete.

The unique construction, heretofore used only in large residences, office buildings and industrial plants, combines open-web steel joists with a poured concrete slab into a solid and integral unit. The resulting floor is termite proof and fire resistant. Known as the joist form system, this construction devised by Laclede Steel Co. engineers and designed for the lumber company, in construction of small homes, has been developed by two St. Louis firms. The advantages of the system are available to the residents of the St. Louis area before any other section of the country.

Steel joists have been used for years in floor construction since the open-web design permits wiring, piping and heating ducts to be run through the web, resulting in a ceiling entirely free of unsightly and dangerous exposed plumbing and wiring.

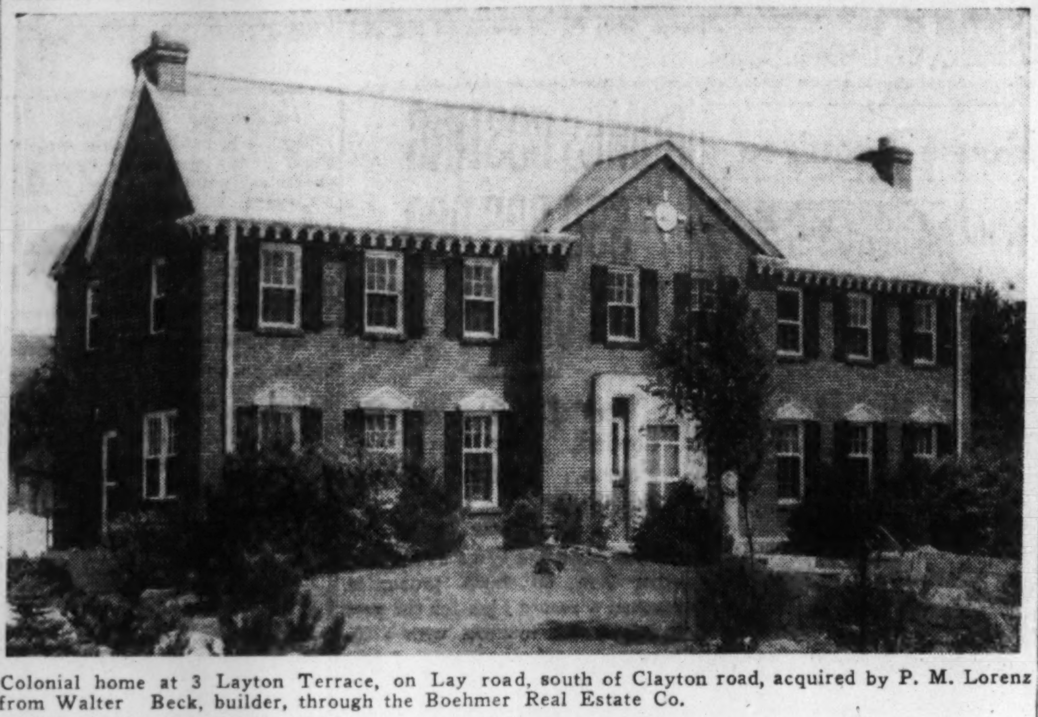
Commercial Building Leased; Homes Acquired



Colonial home at 3 Layton Terrace, on Lay road, south of Clayton road, acquired by P. M. Lorenz from Walter Beck, builder, through the Boehmer Real Estate Co.

having an estimated value of $90,896,000, was started or projected in June, as compared with 30,084 costing $109,566,000 in May, and 16,469 valued at $61,464,600 in June, 1938. The figures apply to all cities of 10,000 or more population.

Six-Month Financing.

The June recordings brought the cumulative figures for the first six months to $1,798,144,000 which had been advanced on 649,767 homes, each of which was valued at $20,000 or less. Financing activity in the second quarter of the year, aggregating $1,014,673,000, was almost a quarter-billion dollars greater than that reported in the first three months.

Savings, building and loan associations again held first place in June as principal institutional lenders on homes, accounting for 32 per cent, or $113,479,000 of the total value, compared with 31.4 per cent or $109,652,000 in May. The value and percentage of the total for the other groups in June follow:

	Value.	Pctg.
Banks and trust companies	$89,563,000	25
Insurance companies	30,017,000	8
Mutual savings banks	12,048,000	3
Individuals	58,967,000	16.3
Others	56,794,000	15.7

Savings and loan associations had top place in the six months recordings with 30 per cent of the total, followed by banks and trust companies with 25 per cent.

The value of urban home mortgages recorded in June by Federal Home Loan bank districts follows:

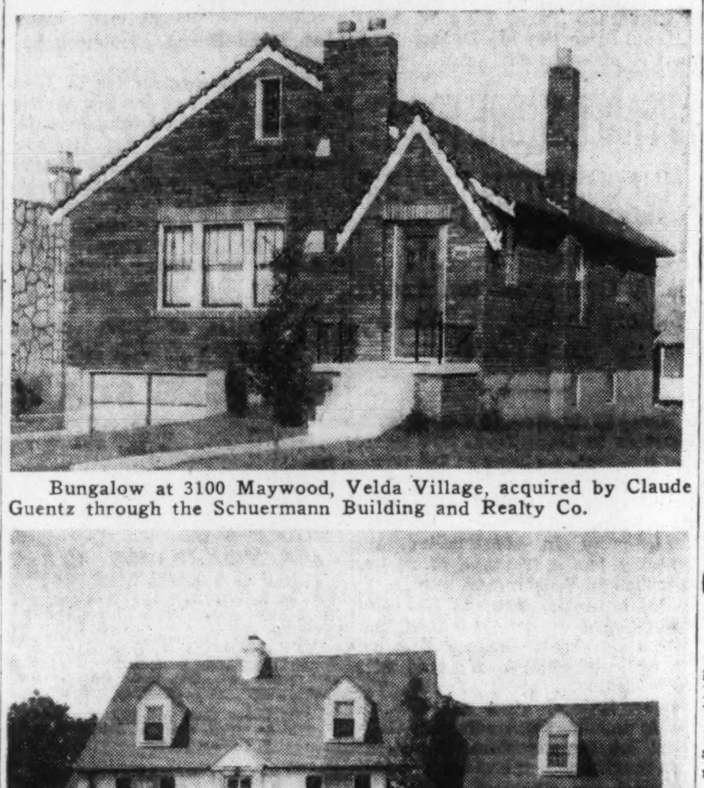
Los Angeles Leads.

Los Angeles, $47,389,000; Winston-Salem, $45,440,000; New York, $44,488,000; Cincinnati, $38,429,000; Chicago, $29,678,000; Pittsburgh, $27,839,000; Boston, $26,839,000; Little Rock, $24,596,000; Indianapolis, $23,855,000; Des Moines, $22,313,000; Topeka, $16,900,000, and Portland (Ore.), $13,102,000.

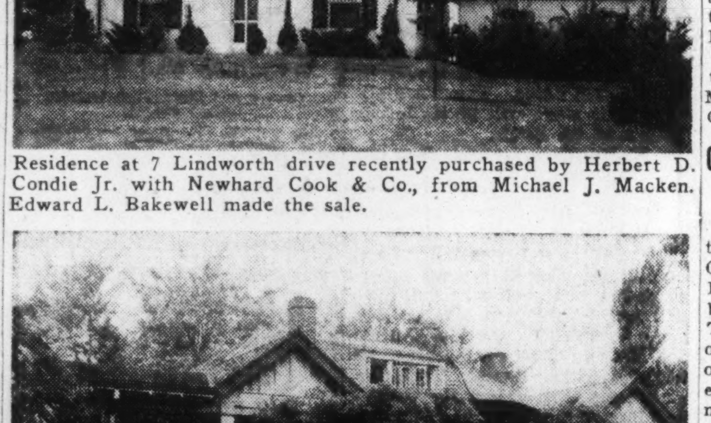
The bank districts' estimated value of dwelling units constructed during June:

New York, $20,035,000; Los Angeles, $12,990,800; Cincinnati, $10,526,000; Winston-Salem, $9,923,500; Indianapolis, $7,737,600; Pittsburgh, $6,633,400; Little Rock, $5,611,700; Chicago, $5,226,600; Boston, $4,029,900; Des Moines, $3,897,700; Portland, $2,385,100, and Topeka, $1,898,200.

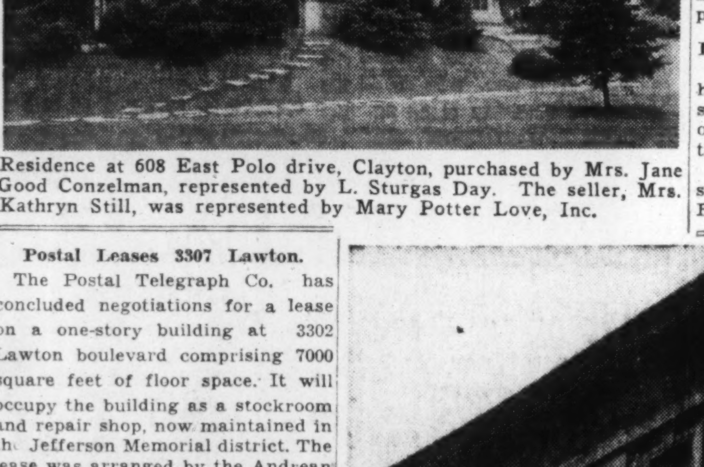
There were 142,107 residential units, valued at $510,059,100, started in the United States in the first half of this year, as against 97,347, valued at $346,527,000 in the same period of 1938.



Bungalow at 3100 Maywood, Velda Village, acquired by Claude Guentz through the Schuermann Building and Realty Co.



Residence at 7 Lindworth drive recently purchased by Herbert D. Condie Jr. with Newhard Cook & Co., from Michael J. Macken. Edward L. Bakewell made the sale.



Residence at 608 East Polo drive, Clayton, purchased by Mrs. Jane Good Conzelman, represented by L. Sturgas Day. The seller, Mrs. Kathryn Still, was represented by Mary Potter Love, Inc.

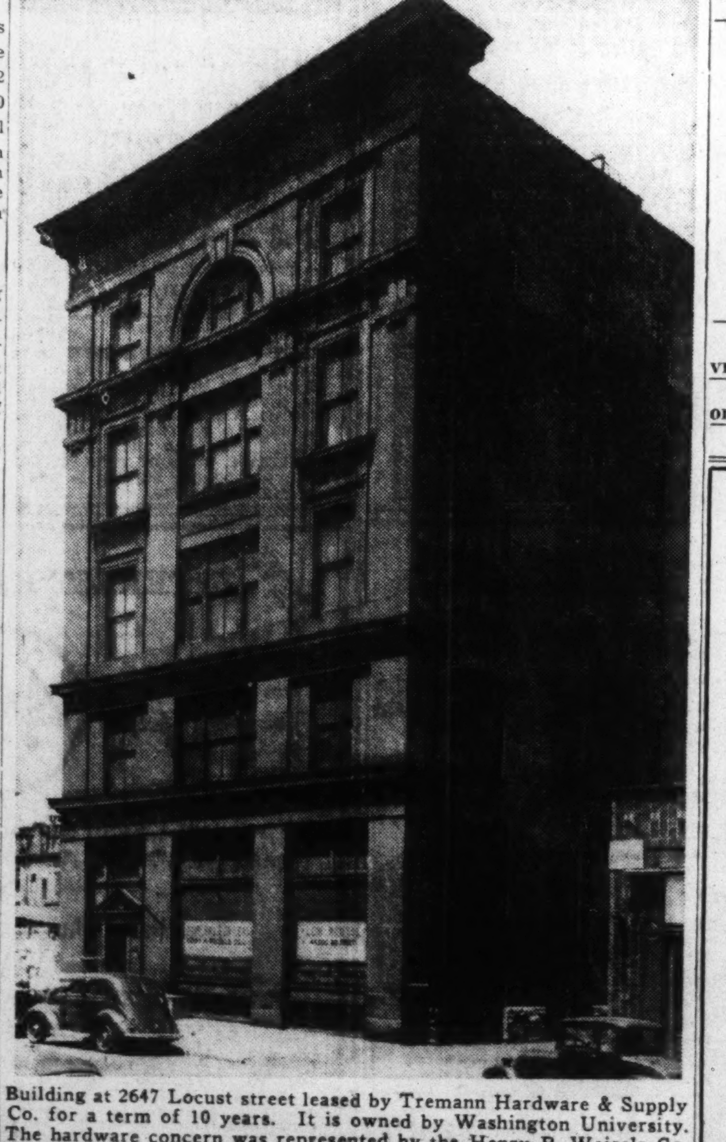
Postal Leases 3307 Lawton.

The Postal Telegraph Co. has concluded negotiations for a lease on a one-story building at 3302 Lawton boulevard comprising 7000 square feet of floor space. It will occupy the building as a stockroom and repair shop, now maintained in the Jefferson Memorial district. The lease was arranged by the Andrean Leasing Co.

Leased for Laboratory.

The F. Burkart Manufacturing Co. has leased the premises at 2317-23 Madison avenue, comprising 12,000 square feet of floor space. It will be used for an experimental laboratory for the manufacture of plastics and laminated products.

The leased was arranged by the Andrean Leasing Co.



Building at 2647 Locust street leased by Tremann Hardware & Supply Co. for a term of 10 years. It is owned by Washington University. The hardware concern was represented by the Henry R. Weisels Co. and the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. in the negotiations. Isaac A. Hedges acted for the university.

WEBSTER GROVES TRACT ACQUIRED

Continental Realty Co. Buys 60 Acres on Kenrick Rd. Opposite Seminary.

A 60-acre tract opposite the Kenrick Seminary in the southeastern section of Webster Groves, has been purchased by the Continental Realty Co., represented by George M. Kempland, president of the Kempland Realty Co. with development plans. It was owned by the Wildore Realty Co., which was represented in the negotiations by the Dimmitt-Rickhoff-Bayer Real Estate Co.

The land is bounded on the east by Kenrick road, formerly known as Laclede road, on the west by Edgar road, on the north by East Jackson and on the south by St. Joseph's Convent of Mercy. It has a total frontage of approximately 3300 front feet, with 750 feet on Kenrick road, overlooking Kenrick Seminary.

Supplementing large shade trees, small parks will be made an attractive feature of the new development.

There will be lots in the proposed subdivision for approximately 200 homes, which the purchasers contemplate erecting during the next year or two. Each lot will have a frontage of 65 feet or more.

MANUFACTURING CONCERN ADDS TO PRESENT QUARTERS

The Hunter Hartman Manufacturing Co. now occupying the first floor of the building at 2669 Washington avenue, has leased the entire second floor of the same building. The expansion will give it 5000 square feet of additional space.

The company manufactures and distributes battery chargers and wheel stabilizers. Lee Hunter is president and Milton D. Hunter is vice-president of the company.

The Andrean Leasing Co. arranged the lease.

GROUND ON EASTON AVENUE BOUGHT FOR BOWLING ALLEY

Approximately 100 by 160 feet of ground on Easton avenue east of Belt has been purchased by Emil Waebel and Chris Spoenemann. Plans for a building for a bowling alley, with the latest devices, are under way. The ground was part of a large lumber yard which included the northeast corner of Belt and Easton avenue.

The transaction was handled by the real estate department of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co.

GRAVOIS ROAD PROPERTY BOUGHT AS INVESTMENT

A building housing a market and tavern at the southwest corner of Gravois and Tesson roads in St. Louis County has been purchased by Albert Traube as an investment. The site has a frontage of 392 feet on Gravois by a depth of 135 feet on Tesson. Plans contemplate the erection of a building for a super market on the corner part of the site when the present lease expires, it was announced.

The George J. Wanstrath Real Estate Co. negotiated the sale. The purchase price was not announced.

Pencil Concern in New Quarters.

The Mid Continental Pencil Co. has leased quarters at 2119A Olive street, comprising 5000 square feet of floor space. It formerly was in the State National Life Building.

The Andrean Leasing Co. represented the lessee and the Burghoff Realty Co. the lessor.

MORTGAGE BANKERS CITE OBSTACLES TO HOME BUILDING

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP).—S. M. Waters, president of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, said today most of the association's members believe more people do not build their own homes because of "uncertainty over continued employment."

This problem and possible ways of solving it will be one of the principal topics for discussion at the association's twenty-sixth annual convention in Detroit in October, Waters said.

Ninety-seven per cent of the association's members in 65 representative cites who were polled cited employment uncertainty as the primary barrier to new home construction.

Next in importance, and cited by 74 per cent, as a deterrent to more new building was "high cost of labor and materials." But 28 per cent said they did not hold labor and material costs too high. Many said they felt this has been "highly over-exaggerated."

Of those who did view labor and material costs as too high, the report showed that many believed this factor would take care of itself and become adjusted.

The third most important deterrent to home building was a belief that "you can buy cheaper than you can build." This was given by 67 per cent of the members reporting.

HERMAN J. STERNBERG ADDS TO KIRKWOOD RESIDENCE

Herman J. Sternberg, president of the Sternberg Building Co., has purchased nine acres adjoining his residence standing on a three-acre site at 750 North Taylor avenue, Kirkwood.

The sale was made by the George J. Wanstrath Real Estate Co. for the account of Monsignor Leo J. Steck. The consideration in the present transaction, was not disclosed.

The land acquired in the present transaction will be added to the present site of the residence, a modern 10-room structure with four baths.

CHEMICAL CONCERN LEASES BUILDING AT 1030 N. 19TH ST.

The Standard Chemical Co. has taken a five-year lease on the three-story building at 1030 North Nineteenth street, comprising 12,000 square feet of floor space. It now occupies quarters at 1227 Olive street comprising approximately 5000 square feet.

The concern plans to take possession of its new quarters Sept. 15, when necessary alterations to conform with its requirements will have been completed. It manufactures maintenance fixtures and supplies.

The lease was arranged by the Breitt & Naumer Realty Co.

BUILDINGS AT 908-16 CASS AVENUE ARE PURCHASED

The property at 908-16 Cass avenue has been purchased by Jean Gene Miller Investment Co.

Comprising approximately a half city block it consists of a three-story building in front, and a two-story building in the rear with a total of 29 flats. The transaction was handled by the Mullin-Walters Realty Co. The consideration was not disclosed.

University City Home Acquired.

The residence at 7418 Stanford avenue, University City, was purchased by J. I. Goldenberg, represented by Cornet & Zeibig in the negotiations.

The house consists of three bedrooms, dining room, kitchen and bath. The premises include a garage for three cars.

Goldenberg is connected with the General Grocery Co. The seller, William E. Henry, was represented by Dimmitt-Rickhoff-Bayer.

FIRE-SAFE—TERMITE-PROOF
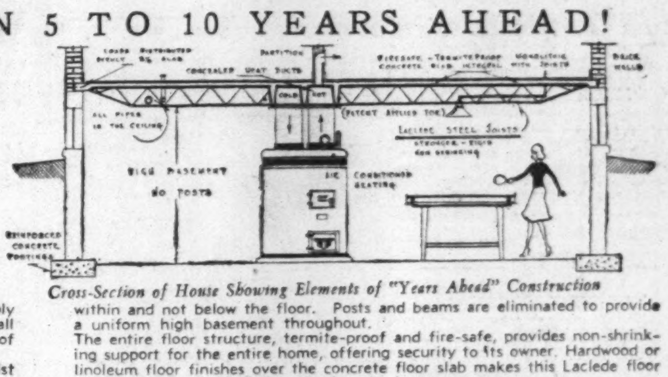
HOUSE IN THE $3500 PRICE CLASS



Cross-Section of House Showing Elements of "Years Ahead" Construction

In High School Lane, Ball Lumber and Supply Co. offers for the first time in the field of small home construction a FIRE-SAFE, TERMITE-PROOF, PERMANENT Steel and Concrete floor construction with AIR-CONDITIONED HEATING.

This modern construction designed especially for Ball Lumber and Supply Co. by Laclede Steel Company engineers provides advantages for the small home owner heretofore available only in the most expensive types of building.

By means of special structural framing, the well-known Laclede Steel Joist is employed with an integral rigid poured concrete floor slab.

Air-conditioned heating ducts and all pipes and electric lines are contained within and not below the floor. Posts and beams are eliminated to provide a uniform high basement throughout.

The entire floor structure, termite-proof and fire-safe, provides non-shrinking support for the entire home, offering security to its owner. Hardwood or linoleum floor finishes over the concrete floor slab makes this Laclede floor comfortable, sound-proof, and pleasant in appearance.

No one can afford to miss seeing this "years ahead" construction by Ball.

SALESMEN WANTED

An Honest Opportunity

To succeed in selling will be given to 3 men, who can meet the following requirements. Married, age 30 to 50, must have late model car, personal appearance should be above average, past selling experience is not necessary as we fully train any acceptable applicants. If you can show us that you are the right man, we will pay you a weekly salary plus commission; bonus monthly for making quota.

The average salesman on our staff has been in our employ over 6 years. New men average about $130 per month their first year, with real money-making possibilities in ensuing years.

If you can sell or suspect that you can, you may find our dignified clean cut work to your liking. Apply in person 10 to 12 or 1 to 4 Monday. The first interview will be brief and certain men will be requested to return Tuesday or Wednesday at which time we will go into the matter thoroughly regarding compensation and future. Make up your mind now to come in Monday. W. V. Sweeney, Director of Sales.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

$20,000 A YEAR OPPORTUNITY

Distributorship available for one of America's greatest opportunities! Hundreds of dealers will be under your supervision, working for you, making profits for you. Every community in aggressive, home-loving America wants and is waiting for a sound low cost housing plan—your dealers can offer the masses of working people the world's greatest prefabricated houses at unusually low prices on the FHA plan, where their cost is less than the rent they now pay and get nothing for. Here is your opportunity for complete financial independence. The line is most complete, including tourist cabins, summer cottages, refreshment highway stands and good residential houses of any size. Shipped complete and ready for occupancy after few hours work on part of purchaser. Every unit gives you and your dealers big profit—your cost only $90 on good one-room house. The factory has the facilities, capital and ability to build any sectional structure from small brooder houses or farm building to finest residential homes. Factory sold in four months over $250,000 of CCC buildings to U. S. Government; $500 cash capital required to handle distributorship. Get the full facts, it's the most wonderful opportunity in business today! Men in our organization making more than they ever earned. One man earned over $10,000 in one month. Write Dept. D, Box 187, Lafayette, Ind., for details.

ARE you interested in a business of your own? Then why not consider a super-cream ice cream store? In this new field there are excellent locations available right in this section. Or we can locate you in any other section of the country you desire. To those who can qualify with a good credit report, we will finance up to 65 per cent of the equipment over a period of three years. This is an excellent opportunity to those who are aggressive and wish to get ahead in a business of their own. For further information or appointment, address your correspondence to Box J-158, Post-Dispatch.

$20,000-A-YEAR OPPORTUNITY

Air conditioning and refrigeration division of one of most aggressive organizations in country now has opening for permanent distributors this area. Experience unnecessary. You supervise dealers and benefit by all their purchases. We teach you personally. Line includes world's greatest room coolers and refrigerators. Unusually low prices. Manufacturer rated over million dollars. Under our plan you need only $1000 capital. Apply Sales Director, 2440 N. Meridian, Indianapolis, Ind. If approved you will be invited come at once for appointment.

NOW! A NEW LOAN PLAN
Pick your own monthly repayment

You can borrow from $20 to $300 without asking others to sign with you. Decide on the amount of cash you need, then choose the payment which suits your budget. You may repay in 2 to 20 months, as your income permits. Below is a table showing sample repayment schedules. Other amounts and other plans are available. Note how you may repay your loan in a very few months to keep the cost to a minimum. Note, also, what small payments can be made if you wish.

Cash Loan You Get ↓	Amount you pay back each month (including all charges) for following periods:
	2 mos.	4 mos.	6 mos.	8 mos.	10 mos.	12 mos.	16 mos.	20 mos.
$50	$25.94	$13.29	$9.08	$6.97	$5.71	$4.87
100	51.88	26.58	18.15	13.95	11.43	9.75	$7.66	$6.41
150	77.82	39.87	27.23	20.92	17.14	14.62	11.49	9.62
200	103.77	53.16	36.31	27.89	22.85	19.50	15.32	12.83
300	155.65	79.75	54.46	41.84	34.28	29.25	22.98	19.24

This table is based on prompt repayment. Larger payments can be made at any time or in advance of the due date to reduce the cost. Tardiness will increase the cost of the final payment. Payments are calculated at Household's rate of 2½% per month on unpaid balances.

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW FOR GEO. (HI-WHEEL) SCOTT

Switchman Who Got Nickname From Record Movement of Cars, Succumbs at 59.

Funeral services for George H. (Hi-Wheel) Scott, veteran switchman for the Terminal Railroad Association, who died Thursday of a heart ailment at Missouri Pacific Hospital, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Drehmann-Harral Mortuary, 1905 Union boulevard, with burial in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mr. Scott gained his nickname about 35 years ago for his speed in dispatching freight cars. At one time he set the then-difficult record of assembling and moving 500 freight cars within 12 hours. Similar car movements are now made within six hours, but Scott's record was remarkable because at that time yard space was limited, and there were fewer locomotives for the work.

Born in England, Mr. Scott worked in Pittsburgh before starting to work for the Terminal Railroad Association in 1908. He retired in April, 1938. He was 59 years old, and resided at 4215 Shreve avenue. His wife, Mrs. Fannie L. Scott, and four children survive.

KANSAS CITY RECALL PETITIONS TO BE STARTED WEDNESDAY

Charter Party, Which Had Requested 38,000 Blanks, Gets Promise of Only 10,810 From Clerk.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 5 (AP). —The Charter Party announced today circulation of petitions for the recall of Mayor Bryce B. Smith and six Democratic Councilmen would start Wednesday.

Charles W. Regan, City Clerk, agreed to furnish 8650 petition blanks Wednesday morning and an additional 2160 blanks as soon as they can be prepared. Hal W. Luhnow, Charter Party chairman, who had asked for 38,000 blanks, accepted the smaller number under protest. About 40,000 qualified signers are necessary to assure a recall election.

"Nobody ever has doubted that we could obtain the bare minimum necessary to assure the election," Luhnow said. "If they are afraid to let us make a showing we will have to proceed as best we can."

Meanwhile, Chief L. B. Reed continued his shakeup in the Police Department, now under State control. He expressed regret at the wholesale demotions and pay cuts, but said he hoped to build the department up through the merit system.

200 C I O MEMBERS PARADE AT EAST SIDE SWIFT PLANT

Organizer Broadcasts Appeal From Sound Truck, Which Leads Procession of 35 Autos.

A parade and demonstration at the Swift & Co. packing plant at National City was held yesterday noon by about 150 CIO members from St. Louis and 50 members of the affiliated United Packing House Workers' Union from the nearby Armour & Co. plant.

The 35 automobiles were headed by a sound truck which Vernon Ford, United Packing House Workers' organizer, used to tell the Swift employes that their interests were not served by the Swift Employes' Association, which, he charged, was a company union. CIO members said about 200 of the 1100 Swift employes were dues-paying CIO members.

In a statement to reporters following the demonstration, Bernard Saunders, president of the Swift Employes' Association, organized after the National Labor Relations Board held the plant's Employes' Protective Association was a company union, said his organization had 950 members. He denied it was a company union.

MISSING CIRCUIT CLERK WHO TURNED UP ILL HOSPITALIZED

John W. Crumpley of Lawrence County May Have Had Heat Stroke.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 5 (AP).—Circuit Clerk John Wesley Crumpley of Lawrence County, who disappeared from his home in Mount Vernon last Friday, entered a hospital here today, suffering from nausea and fatigue.

Crumpley was brought here by Sheriff Clyde Reidn of Lawrence County last night after the Circuit Clerk appeared at an Ava garage and identified himself, saying he had heard radio reports of the search for him.

At the home of a brother here, Crumpley could recall few details of his wanderings during the past week. He had $75 in his pocket when he disappeared, of which only 20 cents remained when he arrived at his brother's home last night. Physicians gave a tentative diagnosis of heat stroke.

100,000 POLES GO TO KRAKOW TO CELEBRATE THEIR FREEDOM

Pilsudski's Successor as Army Chief to Address Demonstrators at Noon Today.

KRAKOW, Poland, Aug. 5 (AP). —One of the greatest demonstrations in the recent history of Poland began here tonight.

Visitors estimated at 100,000 jammed Krakow to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Pilsudski Legion's departure in 1914 to fight for independence.

Housing facilities of this former capital, with a population of 250,000, were taxed to the limit.

The high point of the celebration will be tomorrow noon when Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, the Polish Commander-in-Chief who inherited Joseph Pilsudski's baton, will address a mass meeting.

67 NON-UNION MEN FORCED TO QUIT JOB

Railway Workers Run Out of State at Tracy, Mo., by 300 Kansas City A. F. L. Members.

TRACY, Mo., Aug. 5 (AP).—About 300 men who said they were members of the Kansas City local of the A. F. of L. Laborers' Union, forced 67 non-union workers to leave their job of wrecking the abandoned Altamont branch of the Rock Island Railroad today.

The workers were tearing up track just west of here. The Kansas City men, arriving in 50 automobiles, herded them west on Highway 62 to their camp, loaded them on two construction trucks and forced them to drive across the Missouri River to a point near Fort Leavenworth, Kan. The men did not resist.

Sheriff George Elliott and three deputies watched from an automobile but took no action.

"There was no fighting and I didn't see anybody hurt," Elliott said. "I was not going to interfere as long as no laws were violated."

May Gardner, in charge of the job for a McAlester (Ok.) contractor, was in Kansas City at the time buying food supplies. All the non-union men are from Oklahoma. He returned later, Elliott said, and telephoned his employer, then said he was going to take the men back to Oklahoma tonight. The men, meanwhile, were stranded outside of Leavenworth without money, clothes or gasoline.

Elliott said the Kansas City men returned there about 4 p. m., two hours after they had told the non-union workers to "get out of the State and stay out."

The non-union men had been living in box cars near Beverly, Mo., since July 25.

A. F. OF L. COUNCIL TO CHECK LABOR RECORDS OF OFFICIALS

Meets Tomorrow to Draft Convention Plans, Report on CIO Split

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, convening at Atlantic City, N. J., on Monday, will draft an agenda for the federation's national convention beginning next Oct. 2, the last one before the 1940 election. It will have before it the record of the members of the Seventy-sixth Congress, and of administrative officials.

Noting this, the A. F. of L., which says it has a present strength of 3,902,979 members, announced today:

"The executive council will consider recommendations as to the application of the Federation's nonpartisan political policy to the coming election. The labor records of members of Congress and other elected officials will be carefully examined with the object of designating those worthy of labor's support."

The A. F. of L.'s four-year war with the Congress of Industrial Organizations will receive attention at the council meeting. Taking cognizance of the failure of all peace efforts up to this time, the A. F. of L. announced that the council will draw up its conclusions on the responsibility for failure to effect peace, for presentation to the convention.

JAPANESE ENVOYS END TALKS SAID TO BE ON JOINING AXIS

One Goes Back to Rome, Other to Berlin, Without Disclosing Result of Parley.

VILLA D'ESTE, Italy, Aug. 5 (AP).—Japan's envoys to Italy and Germany today ended unexpectedly a conference here at which they were reported to have considered Japanese adherence to the Italian-German military alliance.

No reason was given for the termination of the talks, two days ahead of schedule, nor was there any statement regarding the outcome of the meeting.

Lieutenant-General Hiroshi Oshima, Ambassador to Berlin, left to return to his post and Toshio Shiratori, Ambassador to Rome, departed for Genoa, presumably on his way to Rome.

The possibility of increased collaboration by Japan with Germany and Italy, its partners in the anti-comintern pact, is to be explored with Fascist and Nazi leaders by a Japanese delegation which is due Aug. 26 in Naples.

CABINET APPOINTMENT DELAY

Roosevelt Granted More Time to Name Successor to Swanson.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—The House completed congressional action today on a bill to permit President Roosevelt to delay appointment of a successor to the late Claude A. Swanson as Secretary of the Navy beyond the legal limit of 30 days.

The Senate passed the bill Friday night after Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, said he had been advised an appointment would be forthcoming within 60 days. Charles Edison will continue as acting secretary until Swanson's post is filled.

67 NON-UNION MEN FORCED TO QUIT JOB

Railway Workers Run Out of State at Tracy, Mo., by 300 Kansas City A. F. L. Members.

TRACY, Mo., Aug. 5 (AP).—About 300 men who said they were members of the Kansas City local of the A. F. of L. Laborers' Union, forced 67 non-union workers to leave their job of wrecking the abandoned Altamont branch of the Rock Island Railroad today.

The workers were tearing up track just west of here. The Kansas City men, arriving in 50 automobiles, herded them west on Highway 62 to their camp, loaded them on two construction trucks and forced them to drive across the Missouri River to a point near Fort Leavenworth, Kan. The men did not resist.

Sheriff George Elliott and three deputies watched from an automobile but took no action.

"There was no fighting and I didn't see anybody hurt," Elliott said. "I was not going to interfere as long as no laws were violated."

May Gardner, in charge of the job for a McAlester (Ok.) contractor, was in Kansas City at the time buying food supplies. All the non-union men are from Oklahoma. He returned later, Elliott said, and telephoned his employer, then said he was going to take the men back to Oklahoma tonight. The men, meanwhile, were stranded outside of Leavenworth without money, clothes or gasoline.

Elliott said the Kansas City men returned there about 4 p. m., two hours after they had told the non-union workers to "get out of the State and stay out."

The non-union men had been living in box cars near Beverly, Mo., since July 25.

A. F. OF L. COUNCIL TO CHECK LABOR RECORDS OF OFFICIALS

Meets Tomorrow to Draft Convention Plans, Report on CIO Split

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP).—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, convening at Atlantic City, N. J., on Monday, will draft an agenda for the federation's national convention beginning next Oct. 2, the last one before the 1940 election. It will have before it the record of the members of the Seventy-sixth Congress, and of administrative officials.

Noting this, the A. F. of L., which says it has a present strength of 3,902,979 members, announced today:

"The executive council will consider recommendations as to the application of the Federation's nonpartisan political policy to the coming election. Mary Lumaghi Is Married to Judge Douglas

After Family Service and Reception, Newlyweds Leave for Bermuda Honeymoon —To Live in Jefferson City.

MEMBERS of the two families witnessed the marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Lumaghi and Judge James Marsh Douglas of the Missouri Supreme Court last night at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Louis F. Lumaghi, 30 Windermere place. The Rev. Dr. Truman B. Douglass officiated.

The bride was escorted to the altar, improvised by floral decorations concealing the library fireplace, by her brother, Louis F. Lumaghi. White flowers decorated the mantel ledge while the fireplace itself was banked with palms and fern. Candles burned in candelabra at either side.

The bride was unattended. Her dress of white chiffon was designed with heart-shaped neckline and sleeves puffed to the elbow. From the tight-fitting waist with modified bustle in back, the skirt fell full to the floor. Family rose pointe lace was used to fashion her coronet, from which fell a finger-tip length veil. She carried white stock.

Francis P. Douglas served as best man for his brother.

After the ceremony, guests greeted the bridal pair informally before being served, buffet-style, from the dining room. This room, as well as other lower floor rooms, had decorations of white flowers.

Mrs. Lumaghi was gowned in light blue chiffon with which she wore gardenias.

Out-of-town guests were the bride's sister, Mrs. George Frierson Jr. of New Orleans, and her young child, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Edwards of San Antonio, Tex., cousins of Judge Douglas.

Mrs. Douglas is a graduate of Mary Institute and Smith College. The year of her debut she was maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet Ball. She is the granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Octavius Lumaghi and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Greene. She is a niece of Mrs. Teresa Lumaghi and Miss Mayne Lumaghi. Her younger brother is Charles Greene Lumaghi.

Judge Douglas is a graduate of Washington University and its school of law. His parents are the late Judge and Mrs. Walter Bond Douglas and his sisters are Mrs. Edgard Schmit and Miss Marjorie Douglas. The second brother is William C. Douglas. The family home is at 4305 Delmar boulevard.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the pair will reside in Jefferson City.

Tennis Devotees At Tournaments On Eastern Shore

By a Special Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.

TENNIS enthusiasts are enjoying a rush season with important tournaments each week in scattered summer resorts. This week end Southampton, L. I., has the spotlight with its forty-second annual tournament. Dwight F. Davis and his son, Dwight Davis Jr., who with their families are spending the summer there, have been two of the most regular spectators at the Meadow Club, where the finals will be played tomorrow. Dwight Davis Jr., whose own Davis Cup will be fought for within the next few weeks in Merion, Pa., is honorary chairman of the tennis committee.

When the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club had their fifty-second annual tournament last week in Seabright, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Uzal McCarter were on the side lines watching Alice Marble and Bobby Riggs, the Wimbledon champions, smash forehands and backhands. Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor came down from Newport last Sunday for the playoff of the finals on the grass courts.

Mrs. McCarter, the former Virginia West, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter West, former St. Louisans who live in Boyce, Va. After the semi-finals last Saturday, the McCarters, who spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. McCarter, in Rumson, went to the dance at the Seabright Beach Club. One of the high spots of the evening was the appearance of Charles Farrell of the movies, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Borden of Rumson. Between dances, guests gathered at small tables set up on the club terrace, overlooking the beach and the surf.

Two weeks ago, all the visitors of the tennis world were at Easthampton for the Maidstone Club's tournament. George Drake Scott was on hand at these grass courts, some distance from the club, acting as linesman for the final matches. Other St. Louisans at the matches were Mrs. Robert Sherman, her

Harriet Edwards Sets Wedding for October

MISS HARRIET VIRGINIA EDWARDS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Blair Edwards has chosen 4:30 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, Oct. 7, as the date for her marriage to Horatio Nelson Spencer Jr. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. George H. Tolley at the Edwards home, 5870 Clemens avenue, in the presence of the families. There will be an informal reception afterward.

The engagement of Miss Edwards and Mr. Spencer was announced in June. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Nelson Spencer, 4324 McPherson avenue, and the brother of Selden M. Spencer, who married Miss Mary Alice Collins last May.

To Return Home in Two Weeks.

Mrs. Cabanne Smith who has been visiting members of her family will remain two weeks longer before returning to her home in Houston, Tex. Mr. and Mrs. Borders have recently moved to their new home at 217 Linden avenue.

Garden Reception at Her Parents' Summer Home, After Church Wedding in Grand Haven, Mich.

GRAND HAVEN, Mich., Aug. 5.

MORE than 150 St. Louis friends, some of them summering here and in other Michigan resorts, others motoring from St. Louis purposely for the event, attended the wedding of Miss Nancy Mitchell and Robert Neill Jr., late this afternoon. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Alfred Mitchell, whose St. Louis home is at 6 Windermere place, and who for several years have owned an elaborate establishment called Fern Hollow Farm at Spring Lake, near here.

The ceremony was performed in the quaint little St. John's Episcopal Church, on the main street of Grand Haven, by the Rev. Henry Hanson. Decorators brought from nearby cities transfored the chancel into a bower of ferns and summer flowers—white larkspur and stock—with blossoms covering the communion rail, and arranged seven branched candelabra filled with lighted candles at either side of the altar.

In the front pew at one side sat the bride's family, Mrs. Mitchell gowned in chartreuse chiffon jersey made with bateau neck and tucked bodice, and the skirt falling in criss-cross folds to the floor. Her natural straw picture hat was crowned with olive green doeskin, and at her shoulder she wore orchids to blend with her costume. At the other side were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neill of the Congress Hotel, parents of the bridegroom, Mrs. Neill in beige crepe with chartreuse polka dots. Her gown was made simply with a high rolled collar and short sleeves and her hat was beige straw trimmed with chiffon. She wore white orchids.

The bride and her father, who gave her in marriage, were preceded down the aisle by a large wedding party—her cousin, Mrs. Benjamin Wilkins Durham, as matron of honor, and eight bridesmaids. They were her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Samuel West Mitchell and Mrs. Thomas Crane Mitchell; Mrs. Arthur Stanley Bland Jr., Mrs. James Carscaden Willison, Mrs. Alanson C. Brown Jr., Mrs. Charles M. Spence and Miss Ara Postlethwaite, St. Louis, and Mrs. Jerome Beaudrias of New York. Mrs. Orrin Sage Wightman Jr. was prevented from participating because of illness in her family.

The attendants were gowned alike in crisp white pique, fashioned on princesse lines, with fitted bodices and full skirts stiffened at the hems. Necklines were heart shaped, and sleeves, full at the shoulders, were fitted tight to just below the elbows. Their hats were tiny white pique discs trimmed with bright red carnations and white veiling, worn low over the foreheads and secured in back by carnation bands. The red note was emphasized in small colonial carnation bouquets frilled with white and tied with red streamers which reached the floor.

The bride's gown was fine point d'esprit embroidered with frequent coin dots. The bodice, with heart neck and long fitted sleeves puffed wide at the shoulders, was finished by a wide crushed inset girdle which accentuated the bride's slender waist. The skirt was full to the knees and fell in a demi-train from a deep billowing ruffle 40 yards around Her tulle veil was fastened to her hair at one side by a cluster of fresh gardenias. Mrs. Neill carried gardenias fringed with lilies of the valley, and wore as her only jewelry her husband's gift, a spray pin of pearls set in old gold.

James Parker Hickok was best man. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Samuel West and Thomas Crane Mitchell; Mr. Durham, Mr. Willison, Mr. Spence, Richmond Coburn and Harold Lee Harvey, all of St. Louis, and Hugh Murray Jr., of Carlisle, Ill.

Fern Hollow Farm was the setting for the reception after the service. The receiving line, headed by the parents of the principals, formed in the garden overlooking sunlit Spring Lake, before a natural hedge of blue delphinium, lilies and white lilacs. Later, as the guests were seated at small garden tables for supper, a strolling orchestra played.

The house itself was decorated with flowers taken from the garden and arranged in epergnes and low bowls. The wedding party was seated in the guest house across the garden court. White drapery traced with smilax coverd the walls, and on the candle-lighted table larkspur and stock decorations similar to those at the church were repeated.

Mr. and Mrs. Neill departed immediately after the reception for a wedding trip in Canada. They will live at 5142 Waterman avenue on their return to St. Louis.

St. Louis guests included Mr. and Mrs. Claxton E. Allen, Mr. and Mrs.

Misquamicut Club Scene of Gay Parties

By a Special Correspondent.

WATCH HILL, R. I., Aug. 5.

SOCIAL activity in Watch Hill moved at a slower pace this week, following one of the gayest week ends thus far. Most of the entertaining took place at the Misquamicut Club, where on Tuesday the women's golf team met players from the Point Judith Club of Narragansett Pier and the Fisher's Island Club. The Misquamicut team, led by Mrs. de Koven Phelps of Chicago, scored 29½ points, defeating Mrs. Edwin H. Vare Jr.'s (Glenna Collet) Point Judith players and Mrs. H. A. Jackson's Fisher's Island team. Afterward the players attended a buffet luncheon on the terrace.

Wednesday night Mr. and Mrs. George Marion Brown, formerly of St. Louis, gave a dinner at the club. The Browns have as their guests this week end their granddaughter, Mrs. James Richmond, and Mr. Richmond of New York. Early this week Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. O'Gorman Jr. of St. Louis came over from Narragansett Pier for a visit with them.

The practice of having hostesses for the Sunday tea hour at the club will be inaugurated tomorrow

Annual Regatta Feature Event At Edgartown

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass., Aug. 5.

THE annual Edgartown Yacht Club regatta presented a gay scene last week-end in Edgartown Harbor, as 196 sailing craft participated in races arranged to fit every type of sailboat involved. Miss Clara Dinsmore of Edgartown piloted her 30-meter boat, Ingrid, to win the feature race, outwitting all her skilled rival skippers on the 12-mile course.

Towns on the island were busy spots as summer residents hurried about, dressed in old racing garb by day and gala attire by night, when parties were held.

James Gaff Hinkle of Chestnut Hill, Mass., and his sister, Miss Jean Hinkle, members of the Wianno Yacht Club, participated in the regatta. Mrs. Hinkle is the former Miss Mary Francis Dickson of St. Louis. In the first division of the Wianno seniors, Mr. Hinkle took fourth place, racing from Wianno to Edgartown in his sturdy one-designer, Fantasy. Miss Hinkle annexed first and third places with the Fantasy in the races here. Robert Perkins Brown Jr., of the Edgartown Yacht Club, husband of the former Miss Josephine Garrett of St. Louis, came in third among Vineyard Interclubs, racing his boat, Stella.

In the race around the island Sunday, a distance of about 80 miles, Mr. Hinkle had a berth on the 40-foot cutter of Frederick G. Crane of Dalton, Mass. They came in third, while the Tioga Too made first place and the Ayesha second.

St. Louis summer visitors were active socially for the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. George Donald Gibbins entertained the following guests at the Yacht Club at dinner Thursday evening: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perkins Brown Jr., Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. Rensselear W. Lee, and Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Cartier of Princeton, N. J. Mrs. Brown's other sister, Mrs. C. E. G. Tuthill of Evanston, Ill., formerly of St. Louis, gave a terrace luncheon Friday, as the guests watched the sail boats pass her seaside summer home.

Mrs. Lee gave a small dinner party at her summer home that evening before the Yach Club ball, a feature event of the week-end. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Gibbins. The following evening, the St. Louis summer visitors were present at a dutch treat dinner at the Yacht Club, preceded by a cocktail party.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibbins' daughter and son, Miss Barbara and George Donald Gibbins Jr., have with them for the summer their cousin, Miss Patricia Isaacs of Ponte Vedra, Fla.

Mrs. Brown's brother, John Garrett, has been staying at the summer home of his mother, Mrs. Thomas H. Gaarrett. Frederick Taussig was a guest at the Harbor View Inn over the regatta week-end.

HYANNISPORT, Mass.

MR. AND MRS. HOWARD HOLMES recently put into Hyannisport Harbor aboard the 80-foot yacht, Harwell, which they had chartered to cruise these waters. Also aboard was Mrs. Holmes' brother, Arthur Brooks, and his son. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. William La Beaume of New York, formerly of St. Louis, who disembarked at Woods Hole. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes were entertained at luncheon at the Beach Club of Centerville by Mr. and Mrs. F. Ewing Glasgow, who were accompanied by Mrs. Charles F. Brown of Kirkwood. Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson Scudder had cocktails Sunday aboard the Holmes yacht, as did Mr. and Mrs. Charles Falvey of Boston. Mrs. Falvey was the former Miss Margaret Wright of St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes departed Monday on board their yacht for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Sheldon gave a dinner for 14 girls last Saturday evening at Sally Fowler's Shop. Afterwards, the guests played bridge at the Sheldon summer home. Present were Dunham Dodge, his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson Barstow, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coit Day, Mrs. Douglas Stewart and Mrs. George W. J. Bissell of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Edward Robert Blagden of Greenfield, Mass., formerly of St. Louis, and Mr. and Mrs. Clare Hill Draper of Boston.

Other St. Louis entertainments included a cocktail party given Sunday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Day at their summer home. Mr. Dodge and Mr. and Mrs. Barstow entertained a small group Tuesday evening at dinner at their summer home. Mrs. Blagden gave a dinner party Wednesday evening at her summer home, her guests including Mr. Dodge and Mr. and Mrs. Barstow. Mrs. Bissell was hostess at dinner yesterday evening at her summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kaime of New York, formerly of St. Louis, are guests at the Paine cottage in Hyannis.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Morier of New York are spending the first two weeks of this month at the Stoneleigh Gables Inn. Mrs. Morier is a former St. Louisan.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Scudder, who were guests here at the Stoneleigh Gables, had cocktails Sunday at the Hinkle summer residence at Osterville. Present were Mr. and Mrs. James Gaff Hinkle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anthony Hinkle and Miss Jean Hinkle.

Mrs. James Hinkle paired with Mrs. Adele Biscoe to enter the annual Cape Cod tennis championship at Wianno.

Mr. and Mrs. Scudder departed

Informal Parties For Colonists at Douglas, Mich.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DOUGLAS, Mich., Aug. 5.

A CHANGE in the resort population marked the end of half the season. Cottages rented for the month of July and vacated Monday or Tuesday, were occupied later the same day by other families, many from St. Louis, who have leased them for August. The departure of early resorters for their homes was the occasion of many farewell parties. Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Stryker invited a large group for cocktails Sunday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Stryker's brother, Ralph Irvine, and his bride, who have since left for their home in Detroit. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Benoist Carton, Mrs. Milner Donovan, Mrs. Francis York Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Auguste Chouteau Jr., Mrs. Louis Desloge, Mrs. Walter B. Muckerman, Mrs. Edward Muckerman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph White, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Franciscus, Mr. and Mrs. George Heneghan, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Logan and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Logan; Mr. and Mrs. John Donovan, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bardenheier, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Niedringhaus, Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. McKeown, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Bartlett, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Funsch, Dr. and Mrs. Oscar P. Hampton Jr., Mrs. Paul Schnoebelen, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ring, Mrs. William H. Arnold, Miss Margaret Sanger and Dr. and Mrs. G. O. Broun.

The Strykers themselves, and their two children, Sue and Bill, returned home a few days ago, Mrs. Edward P. Hall, her daughter, Mrs. Frank Lutz Thompson, and her young grandchild, have arrived to take possession of their cottage.

Saturday, before their departure Monday, Mr. and Mrs. George Logan gave a cocktail party at the home of Mrs. Logan's sister-in-law, Mrs. Hugh Fullerton, for Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Porter, Dr. and Mrs. Stryker, Mr. and Mrs. James Darst, Dr. and Mrs. Hampton, Dr. and Mrs. Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Franciscus, Mr. and Mrs. McKeown, Mr. and Mrs. Ring, Mr. and Mrs. Desloge, Mrs. W. B. Muckerman, Mr. and Mrs. Heneghan and Dr. and Mrs. Funsch.

Mr. and Mrs. George Heneghan, who, with their daughter, Marilyn and their son, George Jr., left Douglas at mid-season, were hosts at a large but informal affair Friday, July 28. From 5 to 6 o'clock the following guests were asked to call: Dr. and Mrs. Funsch, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bardenheier, Dr. and Mrs. Stryker, Mr. and Mrs. White, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. O'Donnell, Miss Rosemary McCabe, Mrs. Daniel Reardon, Mr. and Mrs. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. McKeown, Dr. and Mrs. Bartlett, Dr. and Mrs. Seibel, Dr. and Mrs. Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Desloge, Mrs. Schnoebelen, Mrs. Edward J. Wynne, Mrs. William D. Walsh, Mrs. Milton Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Donovan, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Vieth, Mr. and Mrs. George Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Logan, Mrs. Vincent Beckman, Mrs. Raymond LaDriere, Mrs. J. Emerson and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Heneghan.

Another party last Friday evening was that given by Mr. and Mrs. James Dowling. Beach Carnival and Boat Parade Attracts Charlevoix Resort Colony

CHARLEVOIX, Mich., Aug. 5.

THE spectacular Venetian boat parade, colored lanterns gleaming and flags flying on 50 participating yacht and cabin cruisers, was held Monday night on Lake Charlevoix. The largest boat on which a 30-piece orchestra played, led the parade from the Coast Guard Station on Lake Michigan into Round Lake, past hotels, cottages and into Lake Charlevoix, returning to Round Lake, where the boats anchored in fan-shaped formation, at which time there was a display of fireworks. Each boat carried merrymakers, not only from Charlevoix but also nearby North Michigan resorts, who sang and danced as the procession sailed on. Simultaneously on shore a carnival was held. Cabannas were lantern-lit, numerous beach suppers were held and amusement and refreshment stands set up.

The Ironton Players presented "Yes, My Darling Daughter," by Mark Reed, Tuesday evening. Several dinner parties preceded the performance and Lake Charlevoix was filled with visiting yachts, transporting spectators from the resorts.

Leonard Matthews returned to his home in St. Louis Sunday, after spending a month with his family in their cottage here. He will return the first of September for another week's vacation.

Robert L. Lund arrived early in the week to join Mrs. Lund and is a guest in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Austin Porter Leland, for two weeks.

Mrs. Gordon Geilfus, the former Miss Doris O'Neil, is convalescing in the Charlevoix Hospital after a two weeks' illness. She expects to return to her cottage early next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmert Griffin of East St. Louis, with their children, have leased a cottage on the Second Terrace for the balance of the season.

Charles D'Arcy Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith Fox, celebrated his second birthday anniversary at a party for a group of children Saturday in the cottage of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Fox. His father and grandfather came from St. Louis for the day.

Mrs. George A. Radford has opened her cottage on the shore of Lake Michigan in Bay View, and is expecting several members of her family to join her during the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Lortz and their sons, Samuel Pingree and Russell Jr., accompanied by Billie Walker Jr., motored from their home in St. Louis this week for a month's visit with Mrs. Lortz's mother, Mrs. Samuel S. Pingree, at her Log Cabin on the First Terrace.

Mrs. William Noyes Bemis entertained 50 guests at a barbecue supper Tuesday on the lawn of her cottage at the Belvedere. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lund, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Matthews, Mrs. Richard Vernon Clark, Mrs. John Wallace Fristoe, Mrs. Edward N. Beach, Mrs. Charles B. Fox, Mrs. Joseph Hickey, Mrs. Russell Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lammert, Mr. and Mrs. Guilford Duncan, Mrs. Joseph Dixon, Mrs. Louise Witherspoon and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Campbell.

Eugene B. Stinde arrived on board the yacht of Jerome J. Schotten, with Charles Stone and Arch de Bow. Mr. Schotten and Mr. de Bow will cruise back to Chicago. Mr. Stone will return to St. Louis in two weeks and Mr. Stinde will be a guest at the Belvedere Club, where he will be joined by Mrs. Stinde and their daughter, Miss Lola. Miss Stinde attended the wedding of Miss Nancy Mitchell and Robert Neill Jr. today. Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Clark returned to St. Louis after cruising for two weeks with Mr. Schotten earlier in the month.

Austin Porter Leland arrived the middle of the week to spend the remainder of the season with his family at their cottage on Belvedere avenue.

Mrs. Bertram B. Culver, with her sister, Mrs. Edward Higbee, were guests of Mrs. Culver's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lammert, for several days earlier in the week at their cottage here.

Pointe Aux Barques Hostesses Give Social Affairs

POINTE AUX BARQUES, Mich, Aug. 5.

BIRTHDAY anniversary celebrations for Frances Farish Brodhead are of unusual significance, for she was born in the hospital at Bad Axe near here four years ago and is known as the Pointe Aux Barques baby. On July 26 each summer resorters of all ages gather for the celebration. This year her godmother, Mrs. Cornelius Tompkins, and her aunt, Mrs. Robert W. Knapp, provided two birthday cakes, and there were other refreshments and favors. Young guests from St. Louis included Marie and Judy Garesche, Terry Shepley and Alby Horton, and the older ones were Mrs. Tompkins, Mrs. A. T. Terry, Mrs. John H. Farish, Mrs. Rowe Garesche, Mrs. Knapp and many Detroit friends.

Thursday evening Mrs. Charles A. Dean gave a dinner which was attended by Mrs. Edward G. Hotchkiss, Mrs. Garesche, Mrs. Knapp, Mrs. Brodhead, Mrs. John R. Shepley, Mrs. Carter Sales and Mrs. C. W. Toles. The same night Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Farish gave a bridge party in honor of Mrs. L. S. Trowbridge of Detroit.

Thursday was a long, progressive farewell to Mrs. Trowbridge. Her friends gathered at the cottage of Mrs. Cornelius Tompkins for cocktails, then went to the Club House for luncheon, as guests of Mrs. Albert Terry, after which there was a bridge party with Mrs. George Begg of Detroit as hostess. Later Mr. and Mrs. Murray W. Sales entertained at dinner. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Farish, Mrs. Knapp, Mrs. Brodhead, Mrs. Terry, Mrs. George Begg, Mrs. Sales and her mother, Mrs. Wood.

Dr. and Mrs. Elsworth Smith are occupying Apple Tree Cottage, which is owned by Miss Mary Mitchell of St. Louis. Miss Mitchell remained in St. Louis to welcome her nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Macbeth, who have been making their home in San Diego for several years, but have returned to St. Louis to live. Dr. and Mrs. Smith expect to be at the Pointe until the middle of September.

Many guests from Detroit arrived at the Pointe Saturday. They were entertained that night at a cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Sales and later all attended a Dutch dinner at the club. In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Brodhead, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Horton, Mrs. Garesche, Mrs. Knapp, Mrs. Hotchkiss and Mrs. Shepley.

Miss Elizabeth Mitchell arrived Friday to spend 10 days with Miss Jane and Miss Emma Lee Garesche.

Edward G. Hotchkiss Jr. and John Brodhead Jr. returned Sunday afternoon from Wequetonsing where they spent the past week as guests of Mrs. Gordon Carewe and her son, Stephen.

At noon Sunday Mrs. Shepley entertained for Mrs. Sales and her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Satley, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parker and their guests, Miss Eleanor McVeigh and Frank Cottar. Mr. Cottar is the son of William Cottar, formerly of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Farish and their daughters, Mrs. Knapp and Mrs. Brodhead, left Monday by motor for a trip to New York. While in the East they will stay with Mr. Farish's relatives, Miss Juliette Farish, Mrs. M. L. Frith, Frederick and J. Gratz Farish, who make their home in Flushing.

HARBOR BEACH, Mich.

A MARIONETTE show, planned and presented by Lucy Jobson and Joan Molliter, was the feature of last week's amusement calendar at Harbor Beach. Two plays were given at the Beach Casino Thursday. "The Three Wishes," a familiar fairy tale, and a romance, "Lucy Lavendars' Hero." In the audience were the following St. Louisans: William N. Claggett and his son, Billy; Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Van Buren Jenks and their children, Jackie and Jerry; Mrs. James C. Ward and her daughters, Anne, Grace and Jamie; Mrs. Marshall McCarthy, Miss Berkeley Sloan, Miss Betty Fitzgerald, Mrs. Ernest Kroeger, Mrs. Robert Knapp and Mrs. John Brodhead, who had driven over from Pointe Aux Barques to spend the day with Mrs. Ward. Mrs. Ward gave a luncheon before the show for her guests and a group of St. Louis friends.

Thursday night, Mr. and Mrs. William Claggett entertained guests for cocktails in honor of their son, William N. Claggett Jr., who is visiting them for a few weeks with his older son, Billy. Mrs. Claggett Jr. remained in St. Louis with her infant son, Frank Morgan Claggett, born July 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knoop of Cincinnati, who are occupying the Wurlitzer cottage, gave a large cocktail party Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenks have as their guest, Morris Messick of St. Louis. Other guests from St. Louis include Edgar Woodward and Allen Green, who are staying with Mrs. Samuel McPheeters, and William Talbot and Miss Katharine G. Randolph, who are with Miss Eleanor McCarthy.

Mary Frances Ray Engaged to Be Wed

ABOUT 35 young women, invited to the home of Mrs. A. G. Miller on Barrett Station road yesterday afternoon, were told of the engagement of Miss Mary Frances Ray and Eugene A. Rodman. Miss Ray is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ray, 6818 Kingsbury boulevard, and Mr. Rodman the son of Mrs. Emma Rodman of Los Angeles, formerly of St. Louis.

Guests were informally received by the hostess, her mother, Mrs. Thomas Ashley Taylor; Miss Ray and her mother; and Mrs. Alfred H. Buschman, 414 North Bompart avenue, Webster Groves, aunt of the prospective bridegroom. The news was disclosed by Mr. and Mrs. Miller's young son, Thomas, who walked among the guests wearing a sandwich board. Both the front and back boards were white, decorated in blue with wedding bells and names of the engaged pair.

In the dining room, four young women assisted at the tea table: Mrs. William Blanke, Miss Adele Dwyer, Mrs. Edward Palmer and Miss Elizabeth Ray, sister of the bride-elect. They served at the table centered by a low bowl of white snapdragon, asters and sweet peas. A miniature bride and bridegroom stood in the middle of the bowl. White candles in silver holders provided illumination.

Miss Ray is a graduate of Mary Institute and attended Washington University. Her sorority is Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Rodman, who has lived at Los Angeles with his mother and sister, Mrs. Warren Fromme, for the last year, is a graduate of the University of Missouri. He belongs to Delta Upsilon, social fraternity, and Scabbard and Blade, military organization. For several years before going to California he made his home here with Mrs. Buschman.

The prospective bride and her mother and sister will leave about Aug. 27 for Los Angeles to visit Mrs. Rodman for a month or six weeks. No date has been set for the wedding.

H. H. Reinhardt Weds Miss Odessa Johnson

MISS ODESSA JOHNSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander Cousley, 7540 Henrietta avenue, became the bride of Harvard Harry Reinhardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Reinhardt, 3530 Connecticut street, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. W. Wippmer at Messiah Lutheran Church.

The bride's gown of white satin was designed on simple lines with short sleeves. Her finger-tip length veil was held in place by a coronet of lilies of the valley. She carried gladioli and baby's breath. Mrs. Charles Clifford Caudron, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Her dress of pale yellow striped taffeta was made with low, square necklines and full skirt, floor-length. She carried yellow gladioli and blue delphinium. The bridesmaids, Miss Charlotte Gay and Miss Areola Reinhardt, sister of the bridegroom, wore similar dresses of robin egg blue marquisette. Their flowers were salmon-shade gladioli and delphinium.

Leroy Reinhardt served his brother as best man, and J. William Little and Mr. Chaudron were ushers.

The church was simply decorated in white flowers placed before a green bank of palms and ferns.

The reception took place in the garden of the Chaudron home, 7543 Hiawatha. Guests were served from a buffet table.

Mid-Summer Events Fill Grand Haven Social Calendar

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

GRAND HAVEN, Mich., Aug. 5.

AUGUST ushers in the height of the summer season with its tennis and golf tournaments, sailing races and parties. Aside from festivities incident to the Neill-Mitchell wedding today, the resort was the scene of the Western Michigan Regatta and the third annual Coast Guard celebration, which began Thursday with a parade, the dedication of the new pavilion, a balloon ascension, greased-pole climbing contests and midget auto races. Friday there were elaborate and spectacular Coast Guard maneuvers all day, and a Venetian night parade in the evening. Fifty craft of all kinds glowing with colored lights glided along the lake under a full moon. After the parade a dance for visiting yachtsmen and Coast Guard officials was given at the Yacht Club. Saturday morning the fete ended with a sham battle between the National Guard and Coast Guards men.

Boats from White Lake, Torch Lake, Reids Lake, Crystal Lake, Black Lake and Spring Lake entered the Western Michigan Regatta which began Friday and ended today. There were luncheons and races all three days. The annual Commodores' Ball, the largest of the summer, took place tonight, and tomorrow afternoon the awarding of trophies will be followed by cocktail parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hawes entertained last evening at a dinner for St. Louisans who are here for the Neill-Mitchell wedding. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Preston Postlethwaite and their visitors, Mrs. Abner McGehee and Mrs. Samuel Cochoran of Little Rock and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Pangman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert White, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freeman and Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter Jr. At the same time, the wedding party and members of the family attended the rehearsal dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Beaudrias. Mrs. Hawes' daughter, Mrs. Harold Wilson of Phoenix, Ariz., accompanied by her two daughters, Susan and Cary, arrived Wednesday to be here about a month. Mrs. Wilson is the former Miss Martha Corbin Smith of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter Jr. were host and hostess last Saturday at a dinner for Spring Lake and St. Louis friends at their home, Clifton. Guests were seated at the long dining table and at smaller tables about the room. St. Louisans present were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mitchell and their house guest, Mrs. Dozier Tilton; Mr. and Mrs. Preston Postlethwaite, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Pangman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert White and Noel and Henry Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Sewell Pangman are spending the week-end with the Cecil Pangmans. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Douglass Campbell, who are also guests at the Pangman cottage, expect to leave tomorrow with the Benjamin W. Durhams for a week in Canada, where they will visit Mr. Campbell's family and several other friends in the vicinity of Toronto. Mr. Pangman and Mr. Campbell spent two days last week fishing at Ludington, Mich.

Albert White, his mother, Mrs. James Charles White, and his son-in-law, James C. Willison, will leave for St. Louis tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Willison have been staying at the Whites' guest house on the beach, which has been the scene of several informal swimming parties for members of the Neill-Mitchell wedding party.

Mr. and Mrs. U. deB. Daly of Rockford, Ill., formerly of St. Louis, are the guests this week end of Mrs. Claude Hopkins at her home on Spring Lake.

Gay Week End Planned For Narragansett Guests

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NARRAGANSETT, R. I., Aug. 5.

A FESTIVE week end at Narragansett started this afternoon with the annual Scotch mixed foursome tournament between the Watch Hill and Narragansett golfers on the links at the Point Judith Country Club. The event was followed by a tea at the club house in charge of Mrs. Rowland Hazard. Tomorrow at the country club one of the large cocktail parties of the season will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Justi of Philadelphia who have invited more than 100 guests.

This afternoon at the Dunes Club a combined cocktail party and swimming exhibition was staged at the club pool. Robert S. Holding Jr., Lucien E. Smith and Harold Knowlton planned the event, with David Adair Jr. in charge of the aquatic exhibition in which national title holders and former Olympic team members participated.

The second large wedding of the season takes place next Saturday when Miss Alice Knight Sturges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rush Sturges of Providence and Narragansett, will become the bride of Mr. John W. A. B. Bohlen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Bohlen of Wynnewood, Pa. The ceremony takes place at high noon at Peace Dale Congregational Church and will be performed by the Rt. Rev. James DeWolf Perry, Bishop of Rhode Island. A reception will follow at Shepherd's Run, the country home of the bride-elect's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Magnus gave a luncheon at the Dunes Club recently, their guests including Mr. and Mrs. Craig Biddle, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Doeller, and Balfour S. Craib. Mr. Craib is at the Hotel Carlton for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Conroy of Cincinnati, O., gave a luncheon at the Dunes Club recently, their party including Mrs. William D. Orthwein II, Miss Betsy Mahaffey, Edward Magnus, Balfour S. Craib and J. Banigan Sullivan. Mrs. Orthwein gave a dinner party this week at her residence, Quarterdeck.

Tennis Tournaments At Eastern Resorts

father, Benjamin G. Chapman Jr., and Miss Sheila Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander T. Fraser. The Frasers' house, on Dunemere lane, is surrounded by lawns and gardens as it is on the edge of the golf course, known as the hurricane course since last fall's storm.

Mr. and Mrs. George Drake Scott, who formerly lived in St. Louis, but who now make their headquarters on Long Island, are spending the summer with Mrs. Scott's mother, Mrs. Walter Keck, in her cottage on Apaquoquo road. George Scott's mother, Mrs. Henry Clarkson Scott, has arrived there to spend the month with her son and daughter-in-law and their three sons, Peter, Thomas and Henry. She is at the Sea Spray Inn on the sand dunes.

Though the gray shingle cottages at Easthampton look quaint with their climbing pink rose bushes and informal gardens, they make up one of the smartest resorts on the East Coast. Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor and other top flight personalities gather here year after year for their sunburning and bathing. Mrs. Frederick Hattersley, who was the former Leila Chopin of St. Louis, divides her time among New York, Easthampton and Palm Beach. This summer she has arranged weekly duplicate bridge tournaments at the club.

New York is far from dull these hot nights with many New Yorkers choosing to spend the week in town, cooling off Saturdays and Sundays at nearby resorts. A gay spot Wednesday night was the Waldorf's Sert Room, where Irene Castle McLaughlin gave a dinner for 24 guests, followed by dancing on the roof. Mrs. McLaughlin divides her time between Lake Forest, Ill., and the Waldorf Towers. Among her guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart, Raoul H. Feischmann, Mrs. Clara Bell Walsh, a former St. Louisan, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Boyer. Philip Boyer is a brother of Francis Boyer, who married the former Mary Brooks Holmes of St. Louis. The Philip Boyers' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Boyer Jr. of Gwynedd Valley, Pa., are the parents of a daughter, born last Monday. Mrs. Boyer Jr., the former Alice Mildred Carter, is a cousin of Mrs. F. Ewing Glasgow and the Thatchers of Boston and Cape Cod.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Turner Childress were at the Biltmore for a few days this week before leaving yesterday for Hot Springs, Va. They will pick up their sons, Wade and John, who have been visiting their great-aunt, Mrs. William Maffit, and return to St. Louis next week.

Mrs. Crunden Wade and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Walter Crunden, are here at the Barclay for 10 days. Mrs. Wade will go to Hot Springs to visit Miss Ellen Bates and Mrs. William Maffit at their place, The Patch, and later will join her mother, Mrs. Frank P. Crunden, in Fish Creek, Wis.

WIANNO, Mass.

MISS BONNIE LANGENBERG, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Langenberg, recently gave a dinner for 20 guests at the summer home of her parents, in honor of her house guests, Joseph Plumb of New York and Charles Newton of Scarsdale, N. Y., who had left their two-masted schooner, Glad Tidings, at Marion, to spend the week end at the Langenberg home. Miss Kathleen Wallace arrived recently from St. Louis to visit Miss Langenberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Channing McGregory Wells Jr. of Southbridge, Mass., have recently built a summer home on the estate here of Mrs. Wells' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dana of St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Wells attended the weekly dance of the Wianno Club last Saturday.

CENTERVILLE, Mass.

THE Beach Club recently had its first club buffet supper on the broad veranda facing the sea. Many St. Louisans were among the 80 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Gardiner Bridge gave a luncheon for 20 guests last Saturday at the club. Mr. Bridge is related to the Bridge family of St. Louis.

OYSTER HARBORS, Mass.

MISS ANN CARY WILLIAMS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gates Williams, has as her guest at the Williams' summer home her cousin, Miss Georgie O'Neal Williams, who has been spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Williams Jr. at Watch Hill, R. I. Miss Williams also has with her Miss Ann Rutledge, daughter of Mrs. Lynton T. Block of St. Louis.

FALMOUTH, MASS.

FALMOUTH, one of Cape Cod's 15 townships, represents the dignified heritage of three centuries. Reminiscent of early Falmouth is the village green, shaded by stately elms. In 1742 the town fathers decreed the site is forever to remain a place for villagers to meet and play. One of the two Paul Revere bells in existence hangs in the Sir Christopher Wren tower of the old Meeting House overlooking the village green.

The annual fete for the benefit of the Falmouth Nursing Association was held here Thursday, when the green was transformed into a miniature fairground for the day. A large group of active workers, including both summer and year-round residents, spent days in preparing for the occasion. In the afternoon Mrs. Arthur W. Bell of Boston, president of the Nursing Association, was chairman and in charge of the tea tables. She was assisted by a corps of young women of which Mrs. Boyle O. Rodes was one. Mrs. Eugene D. Nims sent large baskets of flowers and prize vegetables to the booths selling these articles.

In the evening one of the streets of the triangle surrounding the green was roped off for block dancing which lasted until the Paul Revere bell rang the midnight hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Nims gave a large supper party Sunday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Clyde MacDermot of Los Angeles, Cal., who departed the next day for New York. They will return by motor to California. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gilson Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Felix Coste of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Garrett McClung of Lexington, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Plant of St. Louis and Thomas G. Ratcliffe Jr. of New York.

William R. Compton of New York, formerly of St. Louis, is spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Nims at the Larches. Mrs. Compton is visiting her sisters in Bellefountain, O. Mrs. George C. Long of Hartford, Conn., Mrs. Nims' sister, who spent the last two weeks in St. Louis with her daughter, Mrs. Judson Bemis, has returned to the Larches for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Bruce Crane, who has been a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Nims since July 4, left Wednesday for her home, "Sugar Hill," Dalton, Mass., where she is entertaining a large house party for the Symphonic Festival in the Berkshire Hills held at "Tanglewood," the gift of Mrs. Gorham Brooks of Brookline to the Boston Symphony Orchestra for the permanent home of this summer festival. The first of the six Berkshire concerts was given Thursday night in a specially built structure accommodating 5000 persons with Dr. Koussevitzky conducting. A series of concerts will follow for two weeks. Stockbridge and Lennox as well as houses in other nearby places are filled with guests for this music festival.

Samuel Plant, who spent a week in Chicago on business, later went to St. Louis for a brief visit with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leicester Faust, and their daughters, Miss Lilly Claire Faust and Miss Ann Faust, before their departure for the Pacific Coast, where they will tour the Northwest, returning to St. Louis after Labor day. Mrs. Plant remained aboard their yacht, "Lili Ana," in Great Harbor, Woods Hole, during Mr. Plant's absence. The yacht is at anchor in Nantucket Harbor this week end, while Mr. and Mrs. Plant view the regatta and entertain aboard St. Louis friends.

Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Vincent Cowdry have delayed their arrival in Woods Hole until next month. Accompanied by their son, Edmund Vincent Jr., and their daughter, Miss Aline Cowdry, they will occupy their summer residence for the month of September.

The Junior Assembly Dancing Club, in which Edmund Cowdry Jr. is an usher, had its fortnightly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight L. Rudd Friday night. The younger set of Woods Hole attend these dances which begin at 8 and end at 11 o'clock.

MARION, Mass.

ACROSS Buzzards Bay from Cape Cod is Marion, Mass. Young people in Marion and the surrounding summer colony enjoyed a dinner dance Friday evening, at the Marion Tennis Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nagel, who have a summer residence at Marion, have as guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Sweetser and their daughters, Miss Hope, Miss Ann and Miss Elizabeth Sweetser. Miss Ann Putnam, another granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nagel, is also their guest.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lehmann of St. Louis, who spend their summers in Marion, are among the visitors here.

Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd left the Wianno Club on Monday for Magnolia, Mass., where she will spend several weeks. She also expects to go to Rye Beach, N. H., later in the season.

OSTERVILLE, Mass.

MR. AND MRS. OSCAR BIEBINGER have as their guest their daughter, Mrs. E. E. Morris of Rochester, N. Y., at their summer residence at Osterville on Cape Cod. Another daughter, Mrs. T. R. Parkhurst of Maplewood, N. J., has taken a cottage near her parents, where she and her children are enjoying sailing and the Craigville Beach Club at which members of the Biebinger family are frequent guests.

At Centerville, the adjoining and interlocking village of Osterville, the weekly concert of the newly organized Association for Music and Art on Cape Cod took place Thursday. Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Parkhurst are patrons of these musical evenings at the Mary Young Theater in Centerville. This two-piano concert was by Ralph Lawson and Miss Emily Bunker.

Mrs. Robert M. Roloson of Chicago, formerly of St. Louis, is in summer residence at Evergreen, her estate in Osterville. With her at present are Miss Ida Mellier and Miss Margarite Mellier of St. Louis. Mrs. Roloson will give a luncheon for 20 people Tuesday, most of whom will be the St. Louisans of Osterville, Wianno and Hyannisport.

Mrs. Roloson's son, Richard M. Burnes and his wife and young daughter, Jane Nelson Burnes, spend week ends with Mr. and Mrs. Roloson and Miss Ida and Miss Margarite Mellier motoring down from their country place just outside Framingham, Mass.

KINGSTON, Mass.

MRS. J. ARCHER O'REILLY is at Abrams Hill, her summer residence near Plymouth, Mass., where she has as guests her sister, Miss Martha Sever of Cambridge, Mass., and Frances Sever, her brother, for week ends. Mrs. Archer O'Reilly Jr. and young daughter, Jane Sever O'Reilly, are spending the summer with Mrs. O'Reilly. This beautiful old house on Abrams Hill was the summer residence of the Sever family of Cambridge.

Elliot O'Reilly motored from Kingston to St. Louis early in July. He and his father, Dr. Archer O'Reilly, will come to Abrams Hill late in August for a vacation after which Elliot O'Reilly returns to Harvard Medical School.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Mayher visited Mrs. O'Reilly for a few days recently while motoring in the East. Mrs. Percival Barnes and daughter, Judy, also motored East and spent a week with Mrs. O'Reilly in Kingston.

NANTUCKET, Mass.

IT is the height of the season for Nantucket, with the regatta taking place today and tomorrow. The Yacht Club is the center of all entertaining held in connection with this outstanding event. Last week end, the regatta was held at Edgartown, Marthas Vineyard, when that harbor was full of boats of all classes, those entered for the races, and those observing. This week end these large yachts and many of the smaller craft have come to Nantucket to participate.

There is a marked increase in entries over last year, and judging by the large attendance at the Yacht Club ball last night more guests are on the island for this occasion than for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. G. Meyer are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. G. Donald Gibbins for the regatta.

Mr. and Mrs. David Burruss of Hamond, Ind., arrived in time for the ball and regatta and are also guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. G. Meyer for a week.

Mrs. Meyer entertained the St. Louis group at tea at the Yacht Club this week including in her guest list many who were aboard yachts in the harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Upthegrove arrived Wednesday and are occupying the same cottage they have leased for the month of August for the last few seasons. They entertained guests for the ball and regatta.

Mrs. George Dobler gave a tea at the Yacht Club for some of the visitors regatta week end. Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. G. Meyer and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. White, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Ottman of New York, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Edgar of New York and Mrs. Robert Benchley were among the guests.

Miss Eugenie Evans and Mrs. J. Wallace Thorsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gwynne Evans, gave a clam bake for 30 guests Saturday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. G. Meyer Jr. at Tom Never's Head on Nantucket Island. Several St. Louisans were among the guests. Mrs. O. Theadore Hess will join her sisters Aug. 10 to spend the remainder of the summer at Mr. and Mrs. Evans' summer residence in Nantucket.

Mrs. Harry Sprague left Nantucket on Monday, for a short visit in Dennis, Cape Cod, where she has been several seasons. From Dennis she will join Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Messick at Magnolia, where they have a house for the summer.

Ludington Attracts Late Vacationers

By a Special Correspondent.

EPWORTH HEIGHTS, LUDINGTON, Mich., Aug. 5.

MANY new vacationers have arrived at Epworth to enjoy the cooling breezes of Lake Michigan during the month of August. Ex-Congressman and Mrs. W. L. Hensley of Clayton have taken Bywater, one of the most colorful and attractive cottages on the beach, and will stay until Sept. 15. Their son, Walter Jr., was with them for several days. Tomorrow, Dr. and Mrs. Andy Hall, their daughter and son-in-law will arrive with their children. Mrs. Hall and the children will remain till the close of the season but Dr. Hall will go on to Rochester, Minn., to study at the Mayo clinics. Later this week, Mrs. Blanche Harry Hopkins will come to visit Mr. and Mrs. Hensley until they close their cottage in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harper Cobbs, who have been guests at Epworth for several summers, arrived on Aug. 1 to enjoy another vacation season.

Mrs. John Cowan Atwood and her son, Harry Baker Atwood, of Ferguson arrived the first of the week to join Mrs. Atwood's daughters, Mrs. Clarke P. Fiske, Mrs. William Armstrong and Mrs. Henry B. Eaton who have been occupying her cottage during July. With them was Miss Mary Stuart Fishback of Versailles, Ky., who will be their guest for a fortnight. This week, Mrs. Fiske, with her children and William Armstrong Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Phillips of Kirkwood have gone to North Manitou Island for a week of fishing. News of St. Louisans In Paris This Summer

By a Special Correspondent.

PARIS, July 27.

IN spite of international tension, tourists are plentiful in Paris this summer, While many residents have left the capital for various resorts, the boulevards are humming with Americans.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fuller of 6444 Ellenwood avenue, arrived here recently, and stayed at the Plaza Athenee for about 10 days before going to Cap d'Antibes. They passed through Paris again on their way to London, where they stayed at Grosvenor House. After visiting the Lake Country, they sailed Aug. 1 from Southampton.

Miss Virginia Henwood, daughter of Judge Berryman Henwood of St. Louis and Jefferson City, has been in Paris for the last month as the guest of Mlle. Haumesser of the Rue des Saints Peres. Miss Henwood left Friday for Venice. Later she will return here and go to England, sailing from Southampton Sept. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Hamilton Colket have left their apartment in Paris for Spa in Belgium, to remain until the middle of September.

Mr. and Mrs. Clegg Monroe of Palm Beach are studying singing at the chateau of Fontainbleau. They are staying at the Hotel de l'Aigle Noir at Fontainbleau. Later they will go to Lucerne for the music festival, and then to Merano in Italy. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe arrived in Italy in April and have motored in their own car through Italy and along the French coast to Mont Saint Michel. If conditions are favorable they expect to take an apartment in Paris for the winter, probably going to Rome for Christmas. Mrs. Monroe was Mrs. David R. Calhoun of St. Louis.

Nelson Dean Jay has left his apartment in the Avenue d'Iena for a short visit to Zurich, where he is at the Baur au Lac.

Biarritz is enjoying a pleasant season this year and among outstanding events in the Pyrenees resort was a large reception given by Mrs. Samuel Nave, who was Miss Minnie Holliday of St. Louis, at her villa, Mon Terrier. Among those who attended were Alexander Weddell, the American Ambassador to Spain, and Mrs. Weddell:

ANNOUNCEMENT has been sent here by Dr. and Mrs. Edward N. Roberts of Cincinnati of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Roberts, to William E. Crutchfield Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Crutchfield Sr., 224 South Eighth street. The announcement was made at a dinner given by Mrs. Roberts for her daughter's friends. The wedding will be in September.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Lindenwood College. Mr. Crutchfield is on the research staff of the College of Medicine in Cincinnati. He attended Washington University, Kirksville State Teachers' College and the University of Missouri.

Miss Doris Elizabeth Lehmann, daughter of Mrs. Arthur E. Lehmann, 321 Monroe street, was married in the family home to R. J. Crossman of Tuscola, Ill., at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. The ceremony was read by the Rev. C. H. Rohlfing of the St. John's Evangelical Church. A wedding breakfast was served.

The bride wore a rose beige going-away dress. There were no attendants. The pair left later in the day on a trip to Canada. They will be at home to friends Sept. 1 in their newly built home in Tuscola, Ill.

The bride, daughter of the late A. E. Lehmann, is a graduate of Lindenwood College and attended the University of Illinois. Last year she was a teacher in the Arcola (Ill.) high school. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh H. Crossman, who, with their two daughters, Miss Mary and Mrs. Robert Burgett, were present for the wedding. He is a graduate of Milikin University of Decatur, Ill., where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Out-of-town wedding guests besides the immediate family were Miss Margaret Schrader of St. Louis and Miss Aline Schultz of Champaign, Ill.

Miss Lucille Jameson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jameson, formerly of St. Charles but now of Quincy, Ill., became the bride of Russell Smith of Quincy, at 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, July 27. The Rev. Frederic Niedner officiated at the Immanuel Lutheran Church here. A wedding dinner was served afterward at the Hotel St. Charles.

The bride wore a blue chiffon afternoon dress with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hesskamp. Mrs. Hesskamp wore dusty pink chiffon with white accessories and had gardenias at her shoulder.

Ignatius Vogt and his son, Henry Vogt, 1701 Gallagher avenue, spent last week end in Cleveland at the national poultrymen's convention.

Mrs. Senter Ebeling, 1066 Jefferson street; Miss Ruth and Miss Myrtle Wolter, 1111 Jefferson street, and Miss Irene Poeser, 125 North Fifth street, spent the latter part of last week at Lake Taneycomo in the Ozarks.

Mr. and Mrs. Glennon Goellner, 1026 Clay street, observed the second anniversary of their wedding at their home last Thursday evening, July 27.

Mrs. Fred R. Jacoby left last week for Wells, Nev., called there by the death of her brother, Walter Goble. She has remained to visit her mother, Mrs. A. W. Goble.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Bradshaw of Omaha were visiting friends and relatives last week at Portage Des Sioux, Mo., and in this city. Mr. Bradshaw is a Federal attorney.

Ray Ford Jr. visited former schoolmates here last week. Harvey Achelpohl, Thomas Rothrock and Marvin Platz were his hosts, after having just returned from visiting him at his home in Lexington, Mo., where his parents, Maj. and Mrs. R. C. Ford Sr., are at Wentworth Military Academy. Maj. Ford was formerly principal of the local high school.

Miss Erna Nolle returned home early this week after a two-week trip to Bermuda. She went by train to New York and sailed from there.

Mrs. Wright Johnson of near O'Fallon, Mo., and formerly of this city, is spending the summer in Orlando and Felsmere, Fla., visiting her nephew, Hunter McCluer, and Mrs. McCluer. She will leave there Aug. 13 for New York to visit her son, Montgomery Johnson. Later, she will go on to Seattle, to be with another son, Carlisle Johnson.

Miss Rosilyn Weil, 211 North Third street, daughter of Mrs. Essie Weil, has been touring the East. In New York she attended the World's Fair.

Mrs. Lucien Gallais spent last week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Thompson, 427 Kingshighway. She has been spending the summer in Columbia, Mo., where her husband has been teaching summer courses at the University of Missouri.

Miss Mildred Phanschmidt of Quincy, Ill., spent last week end as guest of Miss Fay Cluny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emery E. Cluny, 1709 Tompkins street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Duggan, 115 South Eighth street, accompanied by the latter's mother, Mrs. George Faherty, and Miss Elizabeth Singer, both of St. Louis, were the guests of friends and relatives in Chester, Ill., last week end.

The W. R. C. were entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Emmett Leiper, 444 Houston street.

The Women's Jefferson Club held a swimming party at the pool in Blanchette Park Thursday evening. A watermelon feast and business session followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Hagan of Wentzville, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Edelen and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Boehmer, both of St. Charles, are on a fishing trip in the Rainy River district of Ontario.

Mrs. Melvin Baker and daughter, Doris, of Camdenton, Mo., spent last week at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Nesslage and Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Baker.

MISS MILDRED KAY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Kay, 711 Alhambra court, and Clifford Saunders, son of Mrs. D. J. Saunders, 620 North Tenth street, were married Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's Church. The Rev. P. J. Byrne read the mass, and the Rev. Msgr. Charles Gilmartin performed the marriage ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of illusion net over white satin fashioned with a tight bodice, and a full skirt made with inserts of Alencon lace. Her veil was held by a coronet cap of lace with clusters of tiny buds at either side. She carried a sheaf of white delphinium.

Miss Ruth Kay, her sister's maid of honor, wore a frock of mimosa-colored net made with a tight fitting square-necked bodice and full skirt. She had a picture hat of leghorn with streamers of royal blue velvet falling to the floor. She carried a bouquet of gerbera in Indian summer shades.

Miss Virginia Saunders, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. She wore a frock of yellow net of the same design as that of the maid of honor and her large hat had streamers of blue velvet. Her flowers were gerbera.

Paul Saunders, brother of the bridegroom, and Joseph E. Macner of St. Louis were groomsmen. Mark Evans and William and Robert Saunders were ushers.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to relatives and intimate friends at the home of the bride's parents. An afternoon reception was held for a larger number of guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Saunders have departed on a two weeks' trip in the West and will be at home after Sept. 1 at 3200 State street.

Minnette Schimmel To Be Wed Today

THE wedding of Miss Minnette Schimmel, daughter of Mrs. Morris Schimmel, 722 Kingsland avenue, and Victor Hermelin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hermelin, 6647 Washington boulevard, will take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Hotel Coronado.

Rabbi H. Eichenstein will officiate at the ceremony, to be held in the French room in the presence of the immediate families. After the wedding and informal reception there will be a dinner.

Otto Schimmel will give his sister in marriage. She will wear a gown of ivory faille taffeta, fashioned with a heart-shaped neckline, short puffed sleeves and a fitted bodice. The full skirt is slashed down the front to reveal a cascade of lace-edged ruffles. A coronet of fresh flowers, sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley, will secure the fingertip tulle veil. The bride will carry an ivory prayer book.

Mr. Hermelin and his bride will live at 7236 Dartmouth avenue on their return from the honeymoon. He is a graduate of the School of Engineering of Washington University. Mrs. Hermelin attended Washington University Law School.

gray hair at my age?

Certainly not, I can't afford it!

Canute Water solves my problem

If you have gray hair, simply wet it with Canute Water and allow to dry. A few applications, (all in one day, if desired) completely re-colors it . . . similar to its former natural shade. Attention only once a month will keep it that way.

Curl your hair or get a permanent, if you wish, There's no interference. Neither will sunshine, salt-water or shampooing disturb the color. Your hair remains clean and natural to the touch and looks natural in any light.

SAFE!

No Skin Test Needed

Canute Water is pure, safe, colorless and crystal-clear. It has a remarkable record of 25 years without injury to a single person. It was also tested and proven perfectly harmless by a Noted Scientist in one of America's Greatest Universities.

No Other Product Can Make All These Claims

Is it any wonder that we sell more Canute Water than all other hair coloring preparations combined?

STRAYER REPORT FOR ABANDONING 36 CITY SCHOOLS

It Says These Grade Buildings Are Antiquated and in Some Instances Are Not Safe.

WOOD JOISTS USED IN ALL BUT FOUR

New Structures Suggested for Some, While Replacement of Others Is Held Unnecessary.

Abandonment, as soon as possible, of 36 of the 110 elementary public schoolhouses of St. Louis on the ground that they are antiquated and generally unsatisfactory, have inadequate sites and, in some instances, are unsafe, is advocated in the report of the Strayer school survey.

The report, made late in April, continues to receive public attention. It is so voluminous that laymen consulting it have not attempted to assimilate all its sections at once.

Either immediate abandonment or closing as soon as circumstances may permit is proposed for 26 of the 92 white grade schools and 10 of the 18 Negro grade schools. All these structures are of old-fashioned wood-joist construction, with brick walls, erected in the latter third of the nineteenth century, except for four portable units in frame buildings. In some instances the report suggest new buildings (some at different locations) while in other it says replacement is unnecessary.

The Board of Education has no funds for new structures, beyond its present limited construction program, but would need a bond issue for more work. It is putting up one new school to replace two white schools and two to replace two Negro institutions.

List of Schools, Findings.

Summaries and quoted excerpts from the survey report concerning the condition of buildings suggested for abandonment follow:

Adams (Built in 1878; three additions)—Additions were "poorly made." Site of 1¾ acres too limited. "This building is unattractive. There is little to be found that is commendable and rehabilitation costs would be excessive. Three rooms in the basement, used for speech correction, visual aids and parent-teacher meetings, are below acceptable standards of lighting and ventilation."

Ames (1873; annex in 1892)—Site less than one acre; playground space "completely inadequate." Exterior and interior "unattractive." "The educational program must be of a very limited nature because of the lack of art, music, library, assembly and gymnasium provisions." District overlapped by four others.

Arlington (1899, reconstructed in 1905)—Inadequate cellar play space; site less than two acres. Rehabilitation costs would be excessive.

Benton (1894, addition in 1903)—Site 1.4 acres; playground "very limited." No play rooms or gymnasiums. "Unfortunately all toilets for children are in the basement."

Cloak Cages in Corridors.

Blair (1882; three additions) — "The interior is very unattractive, with cloak cages in the corridors. Blackboards are between windows in classrooms. Toilets in the basement of the kindergarten unit are almost without any light." Site less than ¾ of an acre; "playground space very limited and in bad condition."

Carondelet (1871; playroom added in 1935)—Site less than one acre, and expansion would be expensive. "Interior is generally unattractive and poorly planned for a modern educational program. There are no outstanding values in building or site which makes it desirable to retain this."

Charless (1895)—Site of ½ acre. All toilets in basement. No play room, auditorium or gymnasium, outdoor playground space very limited. "The structure is in poor condition and the classrooms are dark and unattractive."

Chouteau (1894; addition in 1898)—Site little more than half an acre. Central classrooms inadequately lighted. Structure "too old to be of further use."

Clinton (1866; addition in 1906; branch in 1867)—Site slightly more than one acre; playground space "totally inadequate." "The interior is very unsatisfactory in its general design." The board is erecting a new school to replace this and the Peabody.

Lighting Poor at Dozier.

Dozier (1887; three additions)—Site less than 1½ acres; very limited playground space. No auditorium, music facilities or gymnasium. "The artificial lighting is very poor. The toilets in the basement, although clean, lack adequate natural light."

Fremont (1897)—Site less than one acre; playground space very limited. "The school has fixed seats, high ceilings and narrow corridors."

Grant (1892; addition in 1906)—Site less than three-fourths of an acre; playground "very small." "The interior is in poor condition. Toilet rooms are in the basement. Provision for administration purposes is so limited that the teachers are required to use the corridors as auxiliary work rooms."

Gratiot (1882; two additions)—One-acre site. "This is one of the poorest units in the city. The play room and toilets are in the basement. Window location in classroom is such that natural lighting is inadequate. The environment makes this an undesirable place for a school."

Recommendations for Hodgen.

Hodgen (1884; two additions)—"There is a large playground area across the street which is owned by the board. There are fixed seats in the classrooms and blackboards on three sides of the rooms. Toilets are in the basement. There is no play room. The building is surrounded by streets and alleys. If it is necessary to retain this building for any length of time it is recommended that the interior be completely redecorated, that much of the blackboard space be replaced by bulletin boards, that movable furniture replace the fixed seats and that toilets for both sexes be provided on each floor."

Howard (1894; addition in 1906)—Built as a parochial school and bought by the board in 1902. "The site of one-half acre is extremely limited and the playground is very inadequate. Toilet rooms are in the basement and there are no play rooms. The corridors are used for coat storage. The environment in the rear of the building is very poor. There are fixed seats in the classrooms and an excessive amount of blackboard." If retained long numerous improvements should be made.

Irving (1871; three additions)—Site less than ¾ of an acre; playground "entirely inadequate." "Classrooms have fixed seats. The building is in an inferior condition and should be abandoned at the earliest opportunity. If this building is to be maintained in service for any period of time, considerable expenditure will be necessary in waterproofing walls, retreading stairs, enlarging playground area, redecorating and replacing composition-board ceilings with fire-resistive material."

Longfellow (1891; two additions)—Site less than 1½ acres; playground extremely limited. Toilets in the basement. Classrooms are "bilaterally lighted."

Marquette School.

Marquette (1894; two additions)—Site 1½ acres, with limited playground space available, but the playground on the opposite side of McPherson avenue is adequate. Questionable whether the white population will need this school more than a few years.

Mount Pleasant (1900; addition in 1928)—Site ½ acre. "The building is only utilized to about 50 per cent of its capacity. It has very little to commend it. The basement gymnasium, the outdoor play space and the non-fire-resistive condition make this unit undesirable for further use."

Peabody (1872; addition in 1899)—Site ¾ of an acre; playground very limited. Play room in basement; no gymnaisum or auditorium. "There is inadequate natural light in the classrooms. The walls and ceilings are unattractive. Toilet facilities for children are in a dark basement." The new Clinton-Peabody School will replace this.

Penrosee (1894-95)—Site ½ acre; play area very limited and play rooms are in basement. "Pupil toilets are in the basement. The artificial light in the building is entirely inadequate. The corridors are used for the storage of coats. The color scheme is uniformly unattractive. The kindergarten is large but poorly lighted and equipped."

Finding at Pestalozzi.

Pestalozzi (1870; addition in 1909)—Site less than ¾ of an acre; playground very limited and no provision for indoor play room. "If this unit continues for any definite period of time, the site should be expanded by acquisition of adjoining tenements."

Riddick (1870; three additions)—Site three-fourths of an acre; playground "very inadequate." "The building has very low utilization caused by the migration of white population from this area. The unit has almost nothing to commend."

Rock Spring (1898; addition in 1906)—Site less than one acre; playground very limited. District has lost population, reducing utilization of the school. Toilets and playroom are in the basement. If necessary to retain this school long, playgrounds should be enlarged, toilets placed on each floor and general redecoration done.

Schroeder (five-room portable unit on leased site)—One room not used. Site less than one-half acre and "entirely inadequate for any school purposes." It is too close to the city limits to become a desirable place for the construction of a permanent building. It probably would be cheaper for the board to provide transportation for the children than to maintain a unit at this point."

Washington (1893; addition in 1902)—Site less than three-fourths of an acre; playground very limited. Toilets, poorly lighted, are in basement.

(Facts as to the Negro schools whose abandonment is proposed will be published in a subsequent issue.)

Vincos to Give Affair Sept. 17 at Y. M. H. A.

The Vincos, a young men's organization, will give its second annual Jewish Queen's dance Sept. 17 at the Y. M. H. A., Union boulevard and Enright avenue.

The queen is selected from candidates sponsored by various organizations. Last year's winner was Miss Shirley Kornblum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Kornblum, 739 Heman avenue, University City.

Betty Jean Ellis Wed To Lawrence D. Lee

MISS BETTY JEAN ELLIS and Lawrence David Lee were married at 8 o'clock last night at the home of the bride, 4459 West Pine boulevard. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Ellis of Taylorville, Ill. Mr. Lee's father is James Lee, 3830 Shaw boulevard.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white lace and net, fashioned on princesse lines. Her veil was fingertip length with tiara of irridescent net and seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white gladiolas and lilies of the valley.

Bridesmaids were Miss Vera Holderread, cousin of the bride, and Miss Mary Lee, sister of the bridegroom. The first was dressed in yellow net and Miss Lee in Nile green. They wore tiny flowered hats, held in place by velvet ribbon. Their colonial bouquets were of salmon-colored gladiolas. Leo Ohlman was best man.

Among out-of-town guests were Mrs. Ward Reid, the bride's grandmother of Greenville, Ill., and Mrs. Ida Grace Hunter of New York, great-aunt of the bridegroom.

After a wedding trip the bridal pair will live at 4459 West Pine.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Flint Return.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Torrance Flint, 5843 Clemens avenue, recently returned from an extended trip in the East. They visited in New York, Niagara Falls, and took a cruise on the Great Lakes. During their absence their children, Terry and Peggy, viisted their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Justin T. Flint, at their summer cottage at Chautauqua, Ill.

Surprise Dinner Party.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Straube surprised them with a dinner party at the Northwestern Hotel at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. The occasion was the celebration of the Straube's thirty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Luncheon Tomorrow For Democratic Group

THE South St. Louis Democratic Women's Club will give a luncheon and card party tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the Saum Hotel. During absence of the president, Mrs. Eugene J. Sartorius, who is vacationing in Mexico, the first vice-president, Mrs. Henry C. Heckemeyer, will preside.

In charge of the arrangements are Mrs. Eugene L. Padberg, Mrs. Edward Albrecht and Mrs. Ma[illegible] Hastey. Serving as hostesses will be Mrs. Paul Krause, Mrs. Henry J. Roettger, Mrs. Fred F. Planthold, Mrs. Jack O'Connell, Mrs. Charles R. Randell, Mrs. John J. O'Reilly, Mrs. William J. Zeller, Mrs. T[illegible] Mulderig, Mrs. Irene Becker and Mrs. Minnette Boody.

Silver Tea Thursday.

A silver tea will be given by the Republican Woman's Club of St. Louis at the home of Mrs. Elmer Gaskill, 4947A Terry avenue, Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

THE HARDEST THING IN THE WORLD TO REALIZE IS THAT YOU ARE SLIPPING
Perhaps it is fortunate that we do not always see ourselves as others see us. But when it comes to making progress in our work, in earning more money, facing the cold facts is courageous even though sometimes upsetting.
How long has it been since you had a promotion?
How long has it been since you found an extra bill in your pay envelope?
The best insurance policy against slipping is—more and modernized training. Thousands of men are taking out this insurance by study of I. C. S. Courses.

EVENTS OF INTEREST TO BE PLENTIFUL IN OZARK REGION

The calendar of events for the Ozark section in Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma is filled with county fairs, home comings, harvest shows and rodeos for the months of August, September and October. Many of these celebrations are traditional as are the dates.

The fifty-ninth annual reunion and homecoming at Cassville, Mo., will begin Aug. 9 and continue through Aug. 13, with entertainment, music and exhibits each day. Tontitown, Ark., the Italian settlement just east of Siloam Springs, will hold its forty-first annual grape festival this year on Aug. 10, 11 and 12. The program includes races, dances and contests. South of Wyandotte, Ok., near Turkeyford, the Seneca-Cayuga Indians hold their annual green corn feast during the three days preceding the new moon in August. The new moon comes on Aug. 14 this year so the tribal dances will take place on the 11th, 12th and 13th.

Dates for the Craig County Fair at Vinita, Ok., have been set for Aug. 30 and 31 and Sept. 1 and 2. During the first two days exhibits will be set up and judged at the fairgrounds and on the last two days they will be open to visitors. The final two days of the Craig County Fair concur with the first two days of the fifth annual Will Rogers Memorial Rodeo in Vinita on Sept. 1, 2 and 3. Four well-known women bronco riders, including Ruth Mix Horner, daughter of Tom Mix, and a number of trick riding performers will be seen. The third annual Pierce City fall festival and harvest show will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 21, 22 and 23.

The Washington County Fair in Fayetteville, Ark., will be held Sept. 25 through the 29th. There will be a show of saddle horses, a stock show, poultry exhibit, horticultural exhibit, parade, carnival and many other features for this annual event. Special prizes will be awarded in the dairy show division.

The Neosho centennial and harvest show, Sept. 27, 28, 29 and 30, will commemorate the laying out of Neosho as the county seat of Newton County, Missouri, and events in the history of the city and county up to the present day.

Wednesday the 27th will be entry day with a parade of bands and show horses, and horse show. The second day will be given entirely to judging. Friday will be school day with a schools parade in the morning and the Ozark regional folk-festival in the afternoon. On Saturday 12 bands will participate in a mass band concert followed by a parade with bands from all over the district and floats depicting historical incidents during the past 100 years in Neosho and the vicinity. Saturday night will be the coronation ball with the crowning of the centennial-harvest show queen. Newton County residents are planning to dress in period costumes for the celebration.

Aurora, Mo., has announced Oct. 2, 3 and 4 as the dates for the Tri-County Fair there, and Siloam Springs, Ark., will have its big fair Oct. 27 and 28.

INTERNATIONAL LIFEBOAT RACES IN SEPTEMBER

Six entries, representing four of the world's merchant marines, have been received by the International Lifeboat Racing Association, Inc., for its races to be held Saturday, Sept. 9, in the narrows off Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, it was announced by Fred B. Dalzell, association president. The entries are: The Hamburg American and North German Lloyd lines, the Norwegian American Line, the Italian Line, the United States Lines and the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

This year's race will be the thirteenth annual running of the classic, which has been held in New York waters since 1927 for the advancement of safety of life at sea. There are two main events, the lifeboat race and the capsize race, and the winning crew of the lifeboat race is given temporary custody of the Joseph W. Powell Trophy and the title of champion lifeboat crew of the world's merchant marine. The trophy must be won three times for permanent possession. The lifeboat crew of the S. S. Conte di Savoia of the Italian Line, and the lifeboat crew of the S. S. San Jose of the United States Fruit Co. each have one leg on the trophy.

Rowed in Monomoy lifeboats, standard boats of the U. S. Coast Guard, the lifeboat race will start at 12:30 in the afternoon, following the capsize race at 11:45 in the morning. Entries are expected to include representatives of all of the world's large merchant marines.

PRESIDENT TO DEDICATE PARK

President Roosevelt will go to Asheville, N. C., to dedicate the Great Smoky Mountain National Park about Aug. 15, according to W. Neal, chairman of the North Carolina Park Commission, which is co-operating in making the arrangements. The dedication is to take place four or five days after the adjournment of Congress and will be held at Newfound Gap. It is expected that 25,000 people will attend. The President's address will be broadcast over a number of radio networks.

Pequot Descendants.

On St. David's Island, Bermuda, live many descendants of the Pequot and Mohawk Indians who were captured by American colonists during King Philip's War and sold into slavery at the Coral Isles.

HUDSON RIVER VALLEY ONE OF HISTORIC SPOTS AND PARKS

Hendrik Hudson, exploring for the Dutch, first sailed up the river that bears his name in search of a short route to the Orient. The quiet charm of the Catskill Mountains, the richness of the Taconic countryside on the east side of the river and the majesty of the Palisades on the banks of the river just north of what now is New York City, won over the thrifty Dutch who settled these communities. The imprint of these pioneers still is seen and felt in this historic valley where today thousands of vacationists enjoy their annual relaxations from toil.

In this area the visitor will find colorful scenery, historic sites, bridle paths, hiking trails, boating, bathing, golf courses and a fine system of motor parkways. On the west side of the Hudson River is Palisades Interstate Park, with its 11 miles of shore front, parking and picnicking areas, boat basins and bathing beaches. Northward the traveler comes upon the United States Military Academy at West Point, with its halls and armories and beautiful reservation, five miles long. Next is the Storm King Highway, a road cut out of solid rock, 200 feet above the Hudson. Newburgh is the site of Washington's headquarters. The old Senate House, first capitol of New York State, erected at Kingston in 1676, now is a public museum.

The route on the east side of the river covers alternate stretches of urban and rural communities, with rolling farmlands. Here are Philipse Manor Hall at Yonkers, built in 1682, now a museum; near Peekskill, Camp Smith, summer training camp of the New York National Guard; at Beacon, Clarence Fahenstock State Park; Vassar College at Poughkeepsie, institution of learning for women; at Hyde Park, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's home; near Staatsburg, Margaret Lewis Norrie State Park; at Rhinebeck, the Beekman Arms, the oldest hotel in America, and at Kinderhook, "Lindenwald," the ancestral home of President Martin Van Buren.

In the Catskill section is the Catskill Forest Preserve of 231,000 acres, set aside for the camper, fisherman and hunter. Catskill, Saugerties and Kingston are generally considered the three gateways to the Catskills. Here are such places as Haines Falls, Woodstock, artists' colony; Ashokan Reservoir; Pompey's Cave and underground lake and the Delaware Trail in the southwestern part of the Catskills.

TROUT SEASON UNDER WAY IN WESTERN NATIONAL PARKS

Trout season is under way in the Western national parks, attracting hundreds of anglers to such areas as Lassen Volcanic, Sequoia, Olympic and Mount Rainier national parks. A California fishing license is required in Lassen Park.

Anglers are having their day in Yosemite National Park. Fishing is better this year due to streams being past the flood stage earlier than in past years owing to light snowfall during the past winter. A limit of 20 fish per person per day is in effect, provided that the number of golden trout cannot exceed 10. Lake Eleanor, which is a source for trout eggs at the Frog Creek station, is closed, as well as its tributaries within one mile of the lake. So far this year 415,000 eggs have been taken for stocking park lakes and streams. As in other California national parks, a state license fee, $2 for residents and $3 for non-residents, is in effect in Yosemite.

At the present good fishing is reported in an hour's hike from Giant Forest in Sequoia National Park, where anglers can battle rainbow, Loch Leven, German brown and eastern brook trout. Later in the season longer hikes to fishing waters are necessary, but the skillful angler is generally able to take the limit which is identical with the State law.

"Normandie" Has New Record.

The French Line flagship "Normandie" established a new record for cabin class passengers when it sailed for Southampton and Havre on Aug. 2. Four hundred and eighteen passengers were listed. The nearest previous record was made by the same ship on Aug. 3, 1938, when it sailed with 403 cabin class passengers.

TUNA FISH

Presto!

Every woman a mealtime Magician... thanks to this QUALITY tuna!

THERE'S many a magic culinary triumph you can "pull out of the hat"... if you use this superior quality tuna! For remember...there's no halfway quality in tuna! It's either delicious, tender, and rich in food value . . . or it isn't!

A tuna salad, a tuna cocktail, tuna en casserole, is either a brilliant success... or a dismal failure! So, take no chances, insist upon this well-known brand. Containing Vitamins "A" and "D", and Iodine, that effective preventive of nutritional goiter, it is a "rich" food, but not a "heavy" food; easy to digest; quick to assimilate. A "luxury" food at the price of "staple" foods!

Additional Guests At Macatawa Park

By a Special Correspondent.

MACATAWA PARK, Mich., Aug. 5.

MACATAWA PARK has had a great influx of summer residents this past week, among them a number of St. Louisans. Mrs. Charles Stone and her daughters, Miss Lora and Miss Charlotte, arrived Tuesday to take possession of the "Wynelle" cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. King and their son Tom stopped at Macatawa Park Monday for a short visit with Mrs. Martin E. Galt. The Kings were en route to Ludington, Mich.

Mr. Galt arrived this morning to be with his family for the rest of the summer. A son, David, will leave St. Louis Aug. 12 for Memphis, Tenn., for a short visit, after which he will motor here.

Among the recent arrivals at the Macatawa Park Hotel are Mr. and Mrs. John Frier, with their two children, Jack and Frank, of Webster Groves. They arrived last Tuesday. Last Saturday Mrs. A. E. Irwin and her two sons, Jack and Eugene, arrived for a stay of two weeks at the hotel. Other St. Louisans at the hotel are Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Higgins, their daughters, Alice, Mary, Ella and Elizabeth, and their son, Edward Jr., and Mrs. J. A. Krebs, her daughter, Miss Margaret, and her sister, Miss Margaret Shaughnessy.

Mrs. Florence Zimmerman, who was a guest at the hotel for several weeks, departed last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Hampton are spending a few days at the Inverlochy cottage.

Mrs. Thomas Hudson Thatcher of Ferguson and her son, Hudson Jr., motored up from St. Louis last Tuesday and are in the Avalon cottage. Wednesday Mrs. Thatcher's daughter, Mrs. John Walker Barriger III, with her children, Betty, Ann, Jack and Stanley, arrived to join them.

Miss Janet C. Cocke has arrived for a visit of several weeks with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Mullen.

Miss Rebecca MacMillan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walker MacMillan of Kirkwood, who was the guest of Mrs. Mullen for 10 days, left last Monday morning. Joseph Mullen Jr., accompanied her to St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Farr of Ferguson, with their son, Allen Jr., arrived Wednesday and are occupying a cottage on Interlake Walk.

Christian Peper, who, with Mrs Peper and their two young children was a guest of Mrs. Peper's mother, Mrs. Lawrence C. Kingsland, at her cottage last month, returned home Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. Duff S. Allen, with their children Patricia, Mary Rita, Duff Jr., Richard and Robert, are recent arrivals at Macatawa Park. The Allans have leased a cottage near the Breakwater.

Mrs. Marie Brace and her son, Billy, who have been in Santa Monica, Cal., arrived Tuesday and will be in Maryland cottage for the rest of the summer. With Mrs. Brace at present are Miss Patricia and Donald Camien, daughter and son of Herbert Camien.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gruendler, accompanied by their children, Jean and Billy, arrived Tuesday to take possession of Augusta cottage.

Many St. Louisans At Bolton Landing

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BOLTON LANDING, N. Y., Aug. 5.

THE St. Louis colony here is increasing every day. Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Meyer are at their cottage for the month. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Frees and C. W. Frees Jr. are at the Sagamore Hotel.

Mrs. Isaac H. Orr and her son, William, attended the tennis tea Monday on the veranda of the Sagamore Hotel, at which plans were made for the tennis dance to be held Friday night in the French Village. The ninth annual Sagamore amateur tennis tournament begins Tuesday and will continue until next Sunday. There are already 100 entries. Miss Carol Lewis of Fayetteville, N. Y., women's singles champion, will defend her title, and with Robert Dixon, with whom she won last year, will defend the mixed doubles title. Howard V. Stephens Jr. of St. Louis, who won the mixed singles last season, is in Europe. Ike Macy, St. Louis, is chairman of the tennis committee, and his son, Ike Jr., is a member of the junior committee.

The Sagamore Horse Show, of which Donald Church Bixby is honorary president, began yesterday and will end tomorrow. Mr. Bixby's daughters, Gloria Mae and Patricia, and his nephew, W. H. Bixby Jr., are participating, and his niece, Miss Martha Bixby, was hostess at the horse show ball this evening.

The first of the horse show activities was a masquerade held Thursday night in the French Village, at which committees were headed by Miss Virginia Stevens and her fiance, Harvey Lambeth, whose wedding is scheduled for Aug. 26 in the Episcopal Church of Saint Sacrament here.

Miss Stevens, her fiance; Miss Katherine and Miss Stella Bixby and Mr. Lambeth's brother, James, attended a dinner party given by Miss Carroll Kiernan Tuesday night preceding the Junior Night dance.

Miss Stella Bixby is a committee member for the next tennis event—the Sagamore Junior tournament—Aug. 16-20.

Helen Broida to Be Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Broida, 5315 Pershing avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen, and Arthur King Meyer, son of Samuel Meyer, 6246 Enright avenue. The wedding will be an event of early October. Miss Broida is a graduaate of Washington University.

AUSTRIAN NAZIS DRIVE OUT MANY MONKS AND NUNS

Seizure of Catholic Church Property Forcing Thousands to Emigrate or Readjust Lives.

HOSPITALS, SCHOOLS TAKEN FROM THEM

Some Find Work as Cooks, Clerks or Craftsmen — Younger Men Required to Enter Army.

BERLIN, Aug. 5 (AP).—The Nazi Church policy in Austria has forced thousands of Catholic monks and nuns to emigrate or to readjust their lives.

The transition—which still is very active—is the result of the numerous Nazi occupations of monastic lands and buildings ,the closing of parochial schools and the secularization of the hospitals.

When Germany absorbed Austria in March, 1938, there were some 13,000 nuns and 3400 monks in a country which was almost 95 per cent Catholic. The majority of the nuns were nurses in public and private hospitals or conducted private boarding schools. By the beginning of 1939 they gradually were being replaced in the hospitals by Red Cross or other nurses, and last September all confessional schools were closed in keeping with the Nazi policy of monopolizing the education of youth.

As a result, the nuns were forced to look for new fields of endeavor or to emigrate. Many chose to leave. The Augustine nuns, for example, sought havens in South America, Switzerland and France.

Those who stayed are trying to make a living by needlework, as cooks or as private teachers. Many younger nuns hurry off to offices and factories each day in working clothes after devotions in their cloisters, and in the evening they return to monastic routine.

Nazi Explanation of Seizures.

The monks so far are not as hard-pressed as the nuns, but they are expected to emerge from the present transitional process much poorer.

Nazi organs, such as the Voelkischer Beobachter and Das Schwarze Korps, have shown that the Nazis have their eyes on Catholic church property. Das Schwarze Korps, for instance, remarked that that church owned land which it was not putting to the service of the people, although the state has to reclaim land to feed its citizens.

Since then Nazi spokesmen in Vienna readily have acknowledged that several monasteries have been taken over but, they insist, by legal means. They said that under an arrangement 150 years old a number of monastery properties belonged to the state but had been leased to various orders, and the Nazis merly refused to renew the leases.

Most prominent among the monastic orders are the Benedictines and the Cistercians, who went into Austria as pioneers with the first German settlers. Through the centuries they accumulated wealth and their schools became renowned. Other orders chiefly occupied themselves with spiritual duties or specialized in nursing, in music, or in theological and historical pursuits.

Monks Find Other Work.

When the blow against the confessional schools fell, the monks for the most part remained where they were but turned their efforts into new channels—to parochial and administrative work or to teaching religion in the elementary and higher schools. Many emigrated, however, especially the Jesuits, who settled in Switzerland.

A new field—paradoxically because of the Nazi racial theory—also opened for the clergy, including monks, in ancestral research. Parochial chancelleries are kept busy seeking out and copying birth, baptismal and wedding certificates of parents and grandparents for German citizens, all of whom are required to obtain official recognition of their Aryan descent.

Lay brothers, if they are young enough, are required to enter the labor service and the army. Others have become craftsmen.

Much Property Sequestered.

Numerous buildings in Austrian cities and much Monastic land, from which the monks drew their principal income, have been sequestered by the Nazis on various grounds.

At Salzburg Nazis ordered the Capuchin monks to leave the cloister tey had occupied since 1602 in order to make way for a home for young mothers.

Nazi authorities closed the Cistercian Abbey of Stars in the Austrian Tyrol, giving mismanagement as the reason, but reliable sources at Innsbruck said the monks were accused of propaganda against the Italian Government for its repatriation of Germans from the Italian Tyrol. Most of the 48 monks found haven with relatives.

The palace of Archbishop Sigismund Waitz and part of the Franciscan cloister of Salzberg were seized by the Nazis to make room for the SS (black-shirted Elite Guard troops) and the secret police.

There have been other instances where monasteries have been closed or their property turned over to Nazi workers' organizations.

1936 RETAILERS REGISTERED IN CONVENTION'S FIRST WEEK

Style Show Will Be Repeated Twice for Merchants Attending This Week's Sessions.

Registration at the American Retailers' Association convention last week totaled 1936, with 26 states represented, it was announced last night. The second and final week starts tomorrow.

Three thousand persons attended the style show and entertainment program at the Municipal Auditorium Monday night. About 2000 attended the dance at the Statler Hotel, which followed the auditorium program.

Another program will be given at the Auditorium tomorrow night and a third Tuesday night. The style show tomorrow evening will include music by Gene Krupa's orchestra. Radio stations KSD, KMOX and KWK will broadcast both programs. The association, which holds semiannual conventions here in buying seasons, has 5000 members, merchants in 41 states.

Daguerras Meet Tomorrow.

The Daguerras will meet tomorrow evening, at 6:30 o'clock in the gardens of the Von Dach Studio, 1900 Goodfellow avenue. A dinner preceding the meeting, will be served by the hostesses, Mrs. Rose Von Dach and Mrs. Frank M. White. Plans for an all-day boat trip Friday, Aug. 11, will be discussed.

PART SIX ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 6, 1939. PAGES 1—8H

This New York

by Lucius Beebe

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.

IN her recent and highly perceptive column about Manhattan's current generation of men-about-town, Dorothy Kilgallen noted that almost to a man they were gainfully employed and either earned their own livings or supplemented private incomes by some occupation or other.

Although this is probably nearer true today than ever before, it is not an entirely new manifestation along the Gotham boulevards and many oldtimers will recall that a substantial proportion of the glamour boys of Edwardian times were not above being on the payroll of champagne and automobile firms or those of Broadway producers.

Diamond Jim Brady, who corresponded, at least in the matter of approximate physical dimensions, to the rotund Eddie Reeves of today, was a high-pressure salesman of railroad equipment; George Kessler and Manny Chappell, the top-notch wine salesmen of the lobster palace era, were the lineal antecedents of Fred Wildman and the glittering Jack Kriendler; John Drew, Maurice Barrymore and Wilton Lackay have contemporary counterparts in Franchot Tone and Frederic March; Charles Dana Gibson's drawings were as popular in their time as those of the wicked Peter Arno of today; Vernon Castle was the Paul Draper of his time. Reginald DeKoven was a predecessor of Cole Porter, and Clyde Fitch of the trans-Atlantic commuter, Noel Coward.

—O-O—

SUPER-ADDED to the New York scene, too, is a certain group of glamour boys whose members we all, police included, are certain work for their living, but whose precise business or profession doesn't seem to be available for the record. There was the self-styled "Egyptian" who haunted El Morocco and La Conga two seasons ago and was indisputably well upholstered in the wallet until his sudden disappearance from the scene, which was nicely timed to coincide with an investigation into the local narcotics trade by Federal agents. He managed to be seen with a number of night life celebrities and was well known as a lens louse (local usage for a character who tries to insinuate himself into photographers' shots where he is not wanted), but the Egyptian Consul never seemed to have heard of him.

Then there was the glitter lad who was always around (and who is still circulating today) during the season which saw so many holdups of night club patrons and whom nobody quite dared call a spotter, but who was not really popular with the better waiter captains and doormen. And there were the two cafe regulars whom the police finally did toss in the pokey after a spectacular series of Long Island gem lifting in the smartest country houses. The glamour boys embrace a remarkable variety of professions.

—O-O—

● AROUND THE TOWN: A number of members of the Century Club are holding a gala dinner to celebrate the defeat of the Battery Bridge project, which aroused so much indignation among many New Yorkers. . . . To match the Pennsy's all-coach, de luxe overnight flyer on the New York-Chicago run, called the Trail Blazer, the New York Central is putting in service a rival train of the same class—the Pacemaker. . . . Old patrons and travelers familiar with the premises of Locke-Ober's celebrated restaurant in Boston's Win[illegible] Place, where hundreds of Har[illegible]d students have gloried and drunk deep, will learn with sorrow that Nick Stuhl, its venerable manager, is thinking of retiring next year, to France. . . . Nick was the friend of many of the vanished great; the elder Mr. Morgan, Mrs. Jack Gardner, Thomas W. Lawson, Caruso, Theodore Roosevelt and Eben Jordan. . . . Staid and conservative Brooks Brothers are actually stocking white suede evening pumps to go with summer dinner jackets. . . . Big changes in the decor at El Morocco may be expected in the fall, but all rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, it will not move its geographic location.

● EILER JORGENSEN, managing director of the Danish Pavilion at the fair, has named an arrangement of aquavit after this department. . . . This department hastens to indorse it as the best of all aperitifs and a sine qua non to viewing Cousin Grover's urban rodeo. . . . Tallulah Bankhead the other evening made way for the exit of a well known comedian who was climbing out of the Chateau Moderne. . . . "Age before beauty," she cracked—"and I'm thinking of your jokes!"

CIRCUS IN TOWN EVERY DAY---AT ZOO

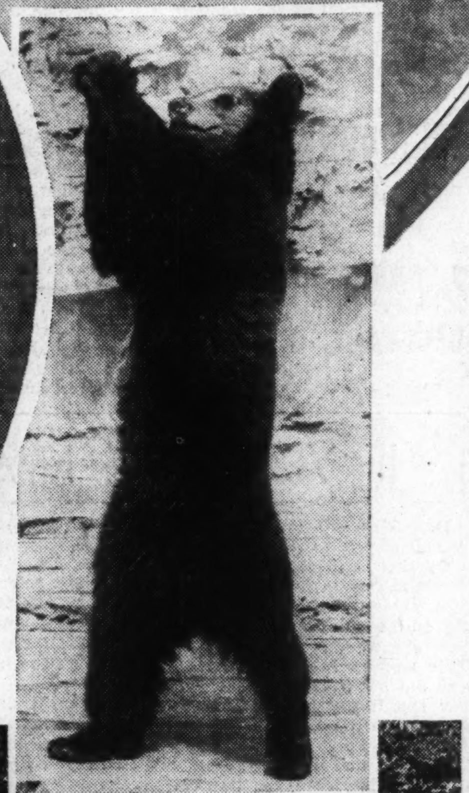
It's Happy, the Panda, That Now Draws the Crowds, but Chimps, Lions, Elephants and Bears Have Their Following, Too.

By OTTO FUERBRINGER

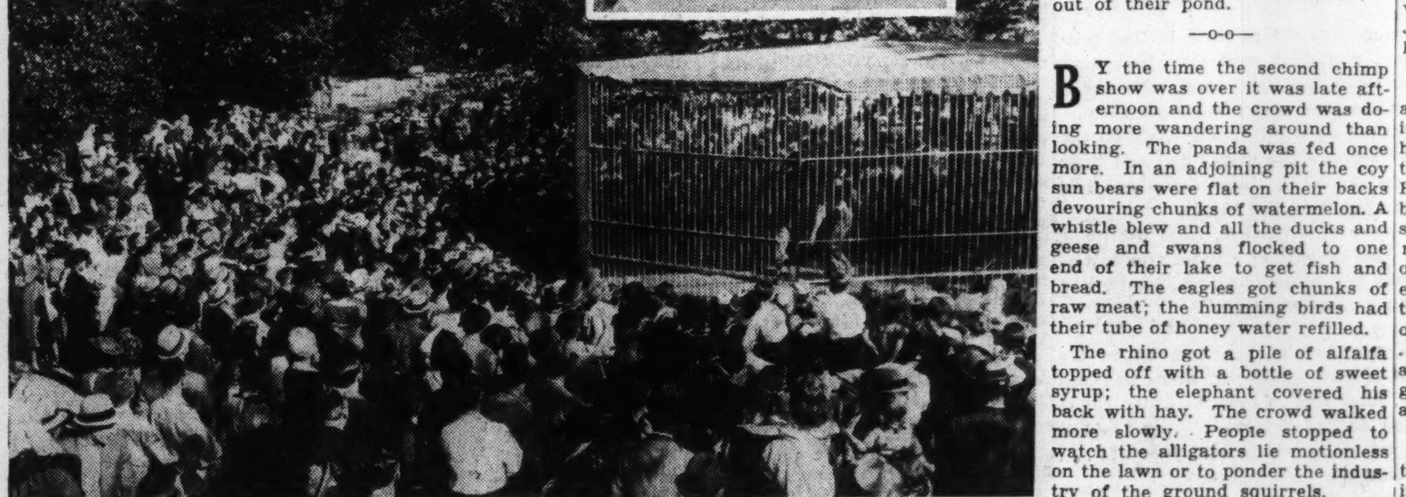
ONE WAY OF BEATING THE HEAT PROBLEM.

HAPPY, PRESENT HEADLINER OF THE BIG SHOW.

"I'VE GOT THE ST. LOUIS BLUES . . ."



AT LEFT, ACKNOWLEDGING AN INTRODUCTION?



ON A SUNDAY AFTERNOON—AT THE CHIMPANZEE ARENA.

THE death last week of Jackie, the gorilla, removed one of the most authentic personalities from the St. Louis Zoo, but it diminished by only a fraction the gigantic free show which is on exhibit every day in Forest Park. Jackie was one of the stars of the show and he had the traditional eccentricities of a prima donna. He was better known to the keepers, the friends of the management, and the reporters who cover the Zoo, than to the public. He was like an actor who is more famous for his wit off-stage than on. It was never certain just when Jackie would appear and his most celebrated performances were his bouts with the keepers on the comparatively hidden lawn behind the monkey house.

Although a slight aura of scientific endeavor surrounds the Zoo, it is primarily a circus. If it printed posters, Jackie's name would have been high on the list. Top billing, at present, belongs to the giant panda. The list of others who have had the headline position is diverse and includes the Indian rhino, the giraffes, a cageful of spirited humming birds, and the trained chimpanzees.

The Zoo management carefully nurses the theory that attention must be centered on its current main attraction. It has found that people are more apt to come out when they can say, "Let's go and see the panda," than when they just have a vague feeling that they would like to go to a zoo. The management has also learned that it doesn't do to have too many stars. Director George P. Vierheller had a good offer from an animal dealer on a sea elephant the other day, but he turned it down with the remark that the panda was still packing them in.

A second panda, of course, wouldn't hurt and Vierheller thinks he has a line on another of the bear-like beasts right now. It's a baby, four months old, and if it ever arrives here, Vierheller thinks, its appeal will be tremendous.

The formula seems to work out pretty well. Every summer Sunday an estimated 25,000 or more persons pack the spacious and rambling grounds. In a movie short on the Zoo which was released a few days ago the commentator said that the Zoo is maintained for the "amusement, amazement and education" of the citizens. But it is largely for amusement.

Realizing this, Vierheller some years ago started the training acts in which chimpanzees, young lions, jaguars and young elephants show their tricks. Wherever possible the animals are permitted to be as free and natural as the restrictions of captivity will allow. The rule against feeding is relaxed to permit the bears to beg for popcorn. Young chimps are fed ice cream and soda at the refreshment stands. The elephant, the llama and the ancient turtle roam the grounds.

—o-o—

THERE were easily 25,000 people out last Sunday. It was a sunny day and there was a light breeze. The first to arrive came shortly after 6 o'clock; it was dark when the last stragglers left. All morning long a crowd stood in front of the panda's barless pit, although it wasn't until noon when Happy was lured out with some food. There was a loud chorus of oh's as Happy came out of her cool concrete den into the warm sunlight. Her plate of oatmeal mush had been set high on a rock so that all could see. She walked pigeon-toed around the pit, sniffed a bit at the crowd, and then climbed the rock to lick up her meal. She scoured the pan clean and then went back to her den. In a few minutes she came out again, looked at the pan to make sure it was empty, and then went back.

It wasn't much of a show except for the fact that every move a panda makes is an appealing one. Vierheller came by with a group of friends. "You should have seen Happy last night," he said. "She got tangled up in her tire and rolled around so fast she fell in the moat." He explained that Happy is liveliest in the early evening, after she has had her third feeding of the day and chewed up some bamboo shoots.

It was feeding time in the monkey house, too. Interest in the house these days centers on Bimbo, the orang-utang and a Nigerian baboon, both of which have young offspring. Bimbo's baby is five months old and she is just now beginning to let it out of her grasp. A keeper reported that the baby had chinned itself the other night after the crowd had gone. Bimbo's meal was all vegetables and fruit. She first draped the long vegetable greens around her shoulders and over her head and then settled down to eat the fruit. Apes very sensibly start their meals with what they like best. When the baby reached out to grab a piece of lettuce, Bimbo slapped its paw and pulled it back in her arms.

The baboon is much more casual about her baby. Bimbo carries hers in her arms; when the baboon walks she just lets the baby hang on as best it can.

In another cage Jiggs, a four-year-old orang-utan with a resplendent coat of red hair, was eating an avocado while hanging upside-down on a tree limb.

The cage usually occupied by Jackie, the gorilla, was empty. For at that moment Jackie was getting an injection of glucose in a vain effort to save his life. He had been sick for three weeks with intestinal parasites.

Zoo crowds know little about the attachments which the men at the Zoo form for some of the animals and about the expert care the animals get when they are sick. Some years ago there was a movie called "Zoo in Budapest" which had a nice sequence of a zoo doctor tenderly bandaging the leg of an ailing antelope. That is one of the few times the subject has ever received public attention.

Jackie was strapped down to a board to receive his glucose injection, which took 20 minutes to administer. He didn't seem to mind it very much; what irked him was the paregoric he had to swallow later on. In the last days of his illness Jackie was under the care of Henry M. Kennon, who had just finished the tedious job of getting the panda properly acclimated. Before that Kennon had charge of the bird house, where he was as solicitous with the fragile humming birds as he was rough when he fought with Villa in Mexico years ago.

—o-o—

KENNON had little hope for Jackie's life last Sunday. "But I hate to give him up," he said. He had fixed him some orange juice and egg nog; jello, junket, apple sauce, and oatmeal; and had offered him butter bread, ice cream, malted milk, and every fruit and vegetable available.

After Jackie had taken his paregoric he curled up on a burlap sack and went to sleep. Suddenly there was a roar from the crowd in front of the cages in the house. "Jiggs must have spit on them," Kennon said.

In the afternoon all three of the training shows were playing to as many people as could stand or sit in the warm sun and get an adequate look. The high point of the elephant act is a sequence in which one of them plays a calliope while the other does a hula dance with a grass skirt around its ample hindquarters.

The main attraction of the lion show is the speech of Mike Kostial, the trainer. It has taken Mike many years to perfect it, but he now gets out some choice phrases as he bullies and persuades the lions to jump, balance on a ball, or play on a see-saw.

Mike, who comes from Yugo-Slavia, was for years terrorized much more by the English language than by the beasts in the cage. Even now he still has his difficulties. Last year when lion quintuplets were born at the Zoo a contest for names was held and the cubs were finally christened Spike, Butch, Skeets, Toots, and Babe.

It is a real struggle for Mike, off whose tongue such lion's names as Menelek and Parkyakarkus roll with ease, to issue commands to "Bootsh," "Skeetsh," and "Tootsh."

That name-picking contest, incidentally, is probably the last one the Zoo will hold in some time. The names, suggested by the daughter of a Lithuanian immigrant, were chosen because they were colloquial American. Letters from poetic ladies and sensitive young men rolled in on the Zoo, however, protesting that the names were harsh and ugly.

Three more lions were born last spring, but they are still unnamed and probably will remain that way.

The chimps provide the best entertainment, of course brightening up their routine of tricks with insolence toward Leon Smith, their trainer, and with unannounced scampering around the cage. It is always a pleasure to watch them mimic man in his more vulgar and silly moments. The crowd seems amazed at the bicycle riding, the handsprings, balancing and tight-rope walking, but it laughs the loudest at an impromptu Bronx cheer or some aggressively unruly act.

The chimps invent a lot of their own tricks, the lions are coaxed into their stunts with hunks of raw meat, while the elephants just have to repeat and repeat until they catch on. Some years ago there was a trained seal show, too, but the management decided the seals afford enough pleasure just gliding through the cool water. On a hot day there are people who stand for hours watching them duck in and out of their pond.

BY the time the second chimp show was over it was late afternoon and the crowd was doing more wandering around than looking. The panda was fed once more. In an adjoining pit the coy sun bears were flat on their backs devouring chunks of watermelon. A whistle blew and all the ducks and geese and swans flocked to one end of their lake to get fish and bread. The eagles got chunks of raw meat; the humming birds had their tube of honey water refilled.

The rhino got a pile of alfalfa topped off with a bottle of sweet syrup; the elephant covered his back with hay. The crowd walked more slowly. People stopped to watch the alligators lie motionless on the lawn or to ponder the industry of the ground squirrels.

At least part of the continued interest in a zoo comes from the chance to watch some members of the animal kingdom doing precisely what they want to do, without worries, without inhibitions. Yet when you stopped people in the crowd to ask them what they liked and why they came they were almost inarticulate. They were drawn by the snakes, they said, but in the end it turned out they liked almost everything. They had come because they had heard so much about the panda, or because they were in town for the day, or their children begged them to go out.

There was one man who had come out for a purpose. He hunted in Canada, he said, and he wanted to study the bears. "That Peninsula Bear standing on the high rock," he said, "that's a fine sight. I'd like to meet one like that in Canada."

The Grapes of Wrath

by Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5.

"THE Grapes of Wrath" is still the subject of a Hollywood whispering campaign and has been ever since Twentieth Century-Fox bought screen rights to the story . . . "It'll never be produced," run the stealthy rumors. . . . Repeated denials from Darryl Zanuck have failed to flag them down, and today — within a few weeks of the production's scheduled start--they're as prevalent as ever.

Latest movie word on this controversial novel of migrant Oklahomans in California is that the script was finished a few days ago by Nunnally Johnson and turned over to Author John Steinbeck for approval, as originally agreed upon. . . . The 418-page novel was cut to 150 pages of script, with all the symphonic interludes eliminated, along with many unimportant characters and situations—among them the ageless turtle so vividly described in the first chapters and the helter-skelter crookedness of the used-car lot. . . . Johnson claims "Grapes of Wrath" proved one of the easiest adaptation jobs he ever tackled for the screen, declaring "It wrote itself."

—o-o—

ZANUCK is still much up in the air with his casting problems. He complains happily that everyone in the United States is trying to make the choices for him. . . . His chief worry is about Alice Brady, whose physical condition may not permit her to take the strenuous key role of Ma Joad. . . . Zanuck is known to have set his heart on Alice for the assignment, pointing to her hardy pioneer mother roles in both "In Old Chicago" and "Young Mr. Lincoln" as substantial proof that she would be the ideal choice.

If Alice isn't available, then the plum will almost certainly fall between Beulah Bondi and Aline MacMahon. . . . Henry Fonda is still top choice for Tom Joad, and the philosophic preacher finds both Walter Brennan and John Carradine waiting anxiously to win the nod.

—o-o—

MEANWHILE, another Steinbeck enigma apparently is being whipped at the Hal Roach studio, where "Of Mice and Men" has been getting a great going-over for the past three months. Reportedly, its greatly tamed film script has been treated to a purity seal by the Hays office and nothing now remains but the choice of a cast before the starting bell.

One major change in the revised story is the substitution of a bird for the mouse which the giant half-wit Lennie of the play took such fiendish delight in fondling. . . . But this won't necessitate a shift in the title, for, as Director Lewis Milestone points out, mice had nothing to do with the title, anyway.

Kibitzers declare Burgess Meredith will play George, the role that carried Wallace Ford to such a smashing triumph on Broadway last season and that Betty Field is a cinch to play the girl wife of loose morals. . . . Lon Chaney's son, Creighton, who travels Hollywood's byways as "Lon Chaney Jr.," has been signed to play the hulking Lennie.

—o-o—

WATER eventually finds its level and you can apply the same reasoning to the "series" movies which have been glutting the market for the past two years. . . . When the Hardy family pointed the way to big box office returns on successive stories of that type every film maker in town hurried to launch one, two and even three such projects. . . . The expected happened—the good ones survived, the weak ones leveled off and into the red. . . . The Hardys, the Jones family and the Kildares have been the only groups to maintain their swift pace at the top.

—o-o—

IN ORDER to help exhibitors get the most from limited marquee billing space, title of the Marx brothers' comedy, "A Day at the Circus," has been changed to "Marx Brothers at the Circus." . . . Tossing their final gags into the film, the zany comedians have scattered—Groucho to Europe, for his fourth overseas trip; Harpo to Bomoseen Lake, Vermont, where he'll join nine other Broadway literati (who own the place), and Chico to Banff and the New York fair. . . . Eddie Buzzell, the director, is staggering around trying to decide on a rest cure. . . . Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels allowed RKO to test their young son, Richard, for a role with Carole Lombard in "Vigil of the Night"—but "just for fun." . . . They had no idea he might prove acceptable and, now that the studio is enthusiastic to the extent of wanting no other child, Ben and Bebe demur. Both know the movie ropes better than most screen parents and can't decide whether the young man should follow an acting career.

"Show Some Affection"

by Dr. George W. Crane

of Northwestern University

CASE M-187: George, aged 9, is my oldest child. "Do you know why I've been good this week?" he questioned me as I was trying to finish typing my week's batch of Case Records. It was just before last Christmas.

"Santa Claus is coming to town!" I sang out as I paused in my typing.

"No," he shook his head to add emphasis. "But I thought that's what you'd say."

"Then I don't believe I can guess," I replied.

"Well, it's because of my visit to Bill and Tom's house last Saturday," he continued. "Their sister wanted to go downtown and she had to use her own money for the street car.

"Besides, their father is grouchy. Oh, I don't mean like you," he tactfully added. "He is VERY grouchy. And he said a lot of things. I can't tell you all about it, but he doesn't treat their mother very well.

"They're not like you and mama. I had never been in a house like that before. So I was glad to come home. And I decided I'd be good," he added with the artlessness so refreshing in children.

—o—o—

● THIS COMPLIMENT was doubly valuable to me, for I grow irritable with the children frequently and don't have half the patience of their mother.

Judy occasionally parades around the house chanting, "My Daddy's an old grouch! My Daddy's an old grouch!" Sometimes this is said to tease me into pursuing her, but often she means it, and I regret to confess the description is probably quite apt, for I grow brittle-tempered at times and snap at everybody.

But I have a rule that I always apologize at least before bedtime, for I was brought up on the precept that people should never let the day close on their anger or malice.

That's not a bad rule by any means, even for adults. Many times it irritates me to acknowledge my faults, and it is very galling to say, "I'm sorry." But I follow this rule, anyway, just as I brush my teeth even when I'd rather skip this chore and go to bed.

—o—o—

● THE OTHER MORNING I strode into the kitchen to say good-by to Mrs. Crane. I took her in my arms and was kissing her, when George came into the room.

"Break it up! Break it up!" he said with a knowing grin.

But you see he appreciates my fondness and affection for his mother, as his remarks at the opening of today's Case Record prove.

Incidentally, it is very good for children to observe some tangible evidences of affection and love between their parents. It reassures them regarding the stability of their own homes.

Moreover, it proves to them that any previous quarreling between the parents or irritable repartee was just superficial. They know that basically their father and mother are devoted.

—o—o—

● SOME CHILDREN grow up in homes where they never witness the father kiss the mother. In fact, some mothers are also cold and undemonstrative, rarely kissing their own youngsters.

Children may thus develop the habit of coldness and physical indifference in imitation of their parents. Later they may marry a person who has been accustomed to an affectionate home life. Their coldness will then finally become so intolerable as to bring on divorce.

My office records are full of cases of this sort. Don't parade your honeyed terms of endearment before the public, but certainly show your children that you love them and also their father or mother.

"Use That Mistake"

By Elsie Robinson

USE THAT MISTAKE! Stop regretting it. Stop letting it fester in your heart and mind, sending its poison through your lifestream. Stop letting it blot out ambition and block action.

Put away your fright and humiliation, your wounded vanity and futile rage, and look at it with clear, impersonal eyes. See it as it really was—not as your fevered memory has made it seem.

ELSIE ROBINSON.

It wasn't all bad. There was goodness in that mistake. There was courage in it . . . misdirected, perhaps, but still courage. There was imagination in it. There was energy in it. There was, chances are, a certain beauty . . . a gallant motive that went wrong . . . a clean hope that miscarried.

All these fine things were in that mistake when you first made it. You have forgotten them, but they were really there. And they are there now! Then use them.

Once—do you remember—you picked up a bit of driftwood on the beach. It was a scarred and twisted thing. The waves had had their way with it. The rocks had gnawed at it . . . and the winds had washed it . . . and the sand had scoured it to the heart—

It was far and far away, that piece of driftwood, from the noble thing it once had been . . . when it rose as part of a great tree towering over the forest. It was as far from that splendid tree as our twisted acts are from the dreams which once inspired them.

—o—o—

● A BLEACHED and battered fragment of life, cast up on the beach to rot—that was what it had become. And yet, there was still something in it which drew you . . . some hidden purpose which called to you. So you lifted it up . . . and carried it home . . . and laid it on the hearth that night when you sat alone, weary with your life . . . wondering if it was worth while going on.

And suddenly your weariness vanished . . . and your wonder brightened to glory. For your bit of driftwood had caught fire . . . and, out of its hidden heart, there burst a marvel of beauty . . . violet and emerald, sapphire, ruby and gold.

Like a shower of jewels they leaped and fell—those sparks from the driftwood's heart—like a miracle wrought in flame. Yet there was really no miracle about them. The driftwood was simply giving up its secret treasure. It was giving back the sunlight it had gathered in the forest. It was giving back the mineral salts from the tides . . . and the loot of the driving storms . . . and the beauty of the passing light.

—o—o—

● ALL THROUGH THE YEARS life had been storing that treasure in the driftwood's heart . . . as life stores treasure in the heart of a man in his long and dangerous passage. And now, at the touch of the flame the beauty was released again. It was breaking in glory! It was pouring about you like a fountain of jewels, warming your blood, quickening your pride, filling your veins with songs . . .

• All that from a battered bit of driftwood!

Use your mistake as you used that driftwood. Forget that it was a mistake. Forget that it hurt and humiliated you. Remember only that it was a part of your life . . . and that every part of life holds hidden treasure—beauty and wisdom and strength!

THE WORLD AS WOMEN SEE IT

SHE TURNED DOWN MOVIE TESTS

Which Makes Sarah Selby, Here for Role in Civic Theater Production, a Unique Young Woman

By Virginia Irwin

CHICAGO
NOW PL
ST. LOUIS
SAN DIEGO
HOLLYWOOD

SARAH SELBY . . . HER CAREER LED HER TO HOLLYWOOD, BUT NOT INTO MOVIES.

WHEN "There's Always Juliet" opens at the Civic Theater out on Warson road Aug. 15, a brown-haired, blue-eyed young woman visiting here from Hollywood will have the leading role. Her name is Sarah Selby, and in private conversation, she talks like a tornado—with gestures. She once made St. Louis her home, went to Washington University and worked on local radio stations. Three years ago she landed in Hollywood, but not in the movies. Today out of the 2000 members in the Los Angeles local of the American Federation of Radio Actors, she is one of only about 40 who work on the big coast shows and work steadily.

Miss Selby, believe it or not, has turned down movie tests. She knows her radio, likes it, and is doing better than all right in it. Besides, there's this business of television in the offing. Some day she hopes to be a producer of television shows.

"Right now I'm busy learning the 104 sides for the role of Leonora in 'There's Always Juliet,' and, believe me, it's a tough job after being used to just reading your lines from paper in radio shows," she said in describing her vacation activities, and then explained to your benighted correspondent that by "104 sides" she meant 104 pages. Which, if you ask me, is a lot of pages to memorize—especially when you're supposed to be taking a rest after a winter of hard radio work.

Sarah, however, is delighted with her opportunity to appear in the Civic Theater production. She doesn't mind work and never has. It just happens that she has the big role of the show. Probably if the Civic Theater folks had merely offered her a walk-on part, she'd have taken it anyway. She believes in taking what you can get and seeing what it leads to. She's taken a lot of inconsequential roles in her day and by a somewhat winding route, they've taken her to Hollywood and radio success.

"After I finished Washington University I went to New York and studied dramatics with Madame Maria Ouspenskaya and with Richard Boleslawski of the Moscow Art Theater," Sarah said in reviewing her experiences. "Then I dithered around in the theater for a while, took a lot of those impossible walk-on roles, and eventually came back to St. Louis and mother. Here I worked in various radio stations, principally KMOX, and played several leads in plays at the Little Theater. When summer came and things began to get quiet in radio around St. Louis I decided to go to Chicago, where I met Thomas Wood Stevens. He invited me to join his Shakespearian company in San Diego. I was sure I'd be a flop at Shakespeare, but I tried it and it was marvelous experience."

During the summer of 1936, movie scouts spotted Miss Selby in San Diego and offered her movie tests. She turned them down but induced them to introduce her to the right people in the big coast advertising agencies handling top-flight radio programs. With entree to the men who mattered, she soon sold herself and during the past three years she has worked on most of the big radio programs emanating from Hollywood.

"When I went into radio on the coast the advertising people explained to me that it was the movie stars who got the big parts," Sarah said. "They said I'd get the hard work, no glory and very little pay. But I wasn't to be discouraged. I've worked hard and if I haven't made a fortune or smeared myself with glory, I've at least gotten to the point where I work steadily on the big shows."

—o-o—

SARAH has many amusing anecdotes about her experiences on radio programs with the various movie stars and there is no bottom to her well of Hollywood information. In conversation, mention of one movie name suggests another and for a solid hour she regaled me with her impressions of cinema personages.

"When I was on the Big Town program with Edward Robinson, I really got a lesson in hard work," Sarah recalled. "No one works harder than Robinson. He is not only the editor of the paper in the program, he actually edits the show as well. He cuts here and adds there, and then maybe on next rehearsal he tears the whole thing up and starts over. Eddie Cantor and Al Jolson were a surprise to me, too. I expected them to be as funny in person as they are on the program, but they're not. They are intensely serious and nearly worry themselves to death that they won't seem funny to the audience."

Herbert Marshall is Sarah's nomination for the swellest guy in Hollywood.

"He makes every woman in the room feel that he's there for her alone," Sarah laughed. "I was on the Lux Theater and the Texaco programs with him and both shows had quite large casts, but Herbert Marshall never forgot a name or a face and he always had a friendly greeting. Marlene Dietrich is quite different. She would come in for rehearsal, never say anything to anyone and never smile. For the Lux show we always rehearsed five days and I had a grand opportunity to study the Dietrich personality. But what impressed me most was her clothes. Each of those five days she wore a different suit, but all cut exactly alike. The only difference was in material."

Virginia Bruce, Sarah describes as "a darling, with no affectation, and the sort of person who'd wear just what you and I would wear." The late Jean Harlow was another of Sarah's favorites, "a swell girl, perfectly natural."

"I shall never forget," Sarah said, "one Lux show starring Jean Harlow and Robert Taylor. There was a rehearsal on the day the Prince of Wales made his abdication speech and Robert Taylor had just bought a show car. You know all the stars in Hollywood—the real people—run around in Fords but they have to have show cars, too, for premieres and the like. Well, Robert Taylor drove up to the studio that day in the most magnificent super-de-luxe show limousine you have ever seen and while the abdication speech was being broadcast, Miss Harlow, Taylor, Claude Rains and I sat in the car and listened to the speech. We all cried. Even the men. I'll never forget it."

Other Hollywood names with whom Sarah has worked include Cecil B. De Mille, Dick Powell, Robert Benchley, Tyrone Power, Charles Boyer, Irene Rich, Ginger Rogers, Irene Dunne, Fred Astaire, Leslie Howard and Constance Bennett. And while these stars walk off with the gravy and the good parts, Sarah is just a voice—sometimes fairly big, sometimes infinitesimal—in the supporting cast. But she doesn't complain. She knows that she's doing her work and doing it well.

—o-o—

"OFTENTIMES a big star is unable to attend one of the rehearsals," she explained, "and then one of us lesser lights steps into her role. Many times I have seen a member of the company do the star's role so many times better than she does it, but the public wants the satisfaction of saying, 'I heard Constance Bennett or Marlene Dietrich last night.' It's the movie people who have made radio on the West Coast. If it weren't for them, all your programs would come out of New York."

Out in Hollywood, Sarah rents a tiny little house that was once the guest house on the Helen Twelvetrees estate. If and when she realizes her ambition—producing television shows—she may take a larger place, but right now she's perfectly happy there. In fact she's too busy to be anything but happy any place. Besides her regular work on NBC and Columbia shows, she has spent two hours each day during the past six months making telecasts for the Mutual Broadcasting Co.

Only recently she was again urged to have a try at the movies. Her answer was a polite but emphatic "nothing doing." When she finishes with her Civic Theater role, she's going right back into radio.

"The fall shows start in October," she explained, "and when the agencies start casting I want to be there. The vacation has been swell, but it's been hectic. Besides learning my role in 'There's Always Juliet,' I've been rushed to death. Everyone in St. Louis has been so sweet. It's been let's do this, let's do that, until I'm just about exhausted."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Selby, 6258 Enright avenue, Sarah is called "Sally" by her St. Louis friends, but she prefers to be known professionally as Sarah Selby. The "Sally" is all right now for the gay, sophisticated comedy roles in which she specializes, but some day she may want to play some more Shakespeare and then the "Sarah" would sound much better.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION -o- -o- -o-

By Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a young woman with university training. I occupy with my mother a flat owned by several sisters. Recently I have been forced into an extremely anomalous position by one of these women. This woman says I looked at her and did not speak. I don't remember the incident. Since then she has made tiresome scenes, managed to get her sisters involved in the affair, and will not speak. The situation is ridiculous, but embarrassing.

The other day I ran down the steps on an errand—this woman was sitting on the steps—and as I was in a hurry and the gate has a faulty catch, I slammed the gate with more vehemence than usual. Now, Mrs. Carr, I have never slammed a door in anyone's face in my life, but that is what she accused me of. Bridling, she followed me into the hallway and shouted after me: "You needn't hold your head so high. You just show your ignorance. I'm just as good as you are." Since that time the air has become cooler and cooler. What to do, what to do? This is an absurd problem I know, but please don't laugh.

QUANDARY.

I'm sure you haven't meant to be rude or act in a superior manner, but some types of older people are quick to take offense especially at young people whom they think are acting smart-alecky. The best thing for you to do, since you have to live in close contact with this woman, no matter how impersonal you want to be, is to approach her with all humility, apologize for any snub you may have accidentally given her, and explain your behavior. Try to be sincere, no matter how flippant you may take the situation privately. Everyone comes in contact with persons whose talk bores them and whom they would like to pass by with a brief nod, but it just isn't possible. If you consider yourself more of a lady than this woman, you will be that much more gracious—but not obviously so. After all, you have hurt her feelings, and that is a social error.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

MY HUSBAND and I are planning a trip to Tampa, Fla., in October and we would like to know what kind of clothes to wear. We do not know as we never have been there.

ANXIOUS.

Light colors and lightweight garments are worn at all seasons in Florida; however, there are storms and sea breezes that require a quick change to warmer clothing.

—o-o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL YOU kindly print the name of school here in St. Louis where I may study library work? F. S.

The only library school in St. Louis, that in connection with the Public Library, has been suspended. The nearest is at the University of Illinois.

—o-o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL YOU please advise how I can overcome my bashfulness around girls? I go out frequently with girls, to shows and other places, but the girls think I don't like them and never go out with me again. Please tell me what I can do to get over this backwardness.

B. R.

Perhaps my leaflet, "Masculine Popularity," would help you. Send stamped, addressed envelope and I will mail it to you.

—o-o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WHEN THE wedding invitation is only to the church and not the reception, are you supposed to send gifts? If so, when—before the wedding or after it? When you have a reason for not attending, should you write a note of regret?

MRS. V. R.

If your invitation is only for the church ceremony and it is to be a large wedding where many are invited, you need not send a gift. You may, of course, do so, if you know the bride or her family well and would like to send a gift. Not being invited to the reception does not put you in the class with chance acquaintances, as many receptions are for the family only. Gifts are usually sent to the bride's home in advance of the date. If the wedding is a small private one and you feel for any reason that a place has been reserved for you or that you will be missed, you might send a note of regret. In the usual large church wedding, however, it is not necessary.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A WIDOW 46 years old and you are the only one to whom I can present my problem. I am fairly good looking and have a large sum of money left me by my husband five years ago. My problem is: I am deeply in love with a man who is 28 and who seems to love me. Recently I discovered he has many debts. Do you think I am wise for loving a man so young? Do you think he is after my money?

R. J. D.

From a practical standpoint, I think it unwise to marry a man who has nothing but liabilities. From the standpoint of honor, I believe no really manly man would offer such a proposal. I can think of no better way to test his love than to demand that he clear himself of debt and prove that he has the means or ability to support a wife. From a sentimental standpoint, to marry a man 18 years your junior, even though you love him enough to support him, you are running a great risk of its turning out in time to be a one-sided attachment.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A BOY 16 years old and have lots of friends. There is one boy who comes to see me a lot. I try to be a good host and ask him what he wants to do. But he either says, "It doesn't matter" or "I don't care." What shall I do, go on suggesting something or wait until he suggests something to do.

PUZZLED.

Go on suggesting things to do and judge by his manner whether he likes to do them. Many people prefer for someone else to take the initiative and make suggestions. But whether he thinks it is more polite to let his host suggest entertainment, or whether he just lacks ideas, he probably enjoys the things you suggest or he wouldn't keep on coming over.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WOULD YOU please tell me if a college education is necessary to be a radio announcer? Also, how old must one be to become an announcer? I do not know whether I have the qualifications, but I have always wanted to find out. M. C.

A college education is not a requisite for radio announcing, but a good deal of education and information is highly desirable from every standpoint, including that of the listener. A wide vocabulary, so that you know the meaning and pronunciation of unusual words, good diction and enunciation, and a poise that will hold up in all situations are good assets. The best way to find out if you have the qualifications is to apply for an audition at one of the local stations and practice reading aloud to someone who will correct your errors in speech before taking the audition. Perhaps one of the radio magazines can give you further suggestions, but the stations themselves are the individual judges.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WE HAVE A PIANO in this hospital, but no sheet music of any kind and no funds to buy any. I am wondering if any of your readers might have some music—popular, sacred, semi-classical, classical—which they would let us have?

MUSIC LOVER.

—o-o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I'M GOING to California Aug. 20 for two weeks and I would like to know if a dark rose three-quarter length coat with fur collar would be suitable. Also I have a black and white ensemble. Would white or black accessories be worn or both?

GRATEFUL B.

The dark rose coat would be very suitable to take along for wear on cool evenings. I am afraid it might prove too warm for daytime wear unless you are going to a very cool part of California. You will probably see white accessories worn later in California with black and white clothes than here, so they would be perfectly suitable. However, white is harder to keep clean, so for your own convenience you might prefer to wear black. Keep your accessories all one color if possible to avoid getting a spotty effect.

Dear Martha Carr:

WHAT ARE the obligations of a man and woman to each other when they are engaged to be married?

H. R.

Your question is somewhat vague and certainly takes in a lot of territory. A man and woman engaged to be married do not show attentions to others of the opposite sex. They see to it that their fiance or fiancee is invited to all important social gatherings which they attend, in so far as they can. When in public they conduct themselves with the same unanimity which well bred married couples have, not airing their private grievances or differences; neither do they look moony-eyed or have public love scenes. Financially, they are still single. A girl may drive her fiance's car or select the furniture for their home, which he buys, but these large articles do not belong to her until after the marriage, and her fiance does not buy her unduly expensive gifts or articles of wearing apparel. Too, neither does anything to bring discredit or disrespect to the other, but aside from those generalizations, I am afraid you would have to bring up a more specific question to receive a satisfactory answer.

Girl about Town

COMPARED to the average o fice, filled with battered o furniture, chairs with speci snag edges, a few warped calenders, and curtainless windows, the old New England antique furnished office of Stratford Lee Morton, St Louis insurance executive, is a thing of beauty and a joy to collectors. Furniture ferreters would sigh with envy should they see, a we did the glowing maple pieces which, Morton says casually, date back around 1700, the Carl Wild prints of early St. Louis of which there are none outside the histo ical society, the intriguing lamps books, bits of pewter, and other objects which can scarcely b maligned by the name "knick knacks." As for stenographers accustomed to ancient, not antique office fixtures, they would run, no walk, to the nearest applicatio blank.

The entrance door to this unusual office is a green Colonia door with brass knocker. Th waiting room, really a receptio hall, contains a lovely Sherato secretary, about 1750, some Hitchcock chairs of 1820, a tilt top table, long bench, brass lamp, an several of the Wild prints.

MORTON'S private office, com pletely antique except for drape ies, panelling, and studio couc has a corner cupboard of 1700, pu chased for Morton in Virginia, a old blacksmith's bench, a schoo master's desk, and another secre tary filled with historical books.

The prints include an 1840 on of the Cahokia pond, now the sit of the Mart Building, an 1837 on of the Old Cathedral, views of ol St. Louis, and a recently acquire early Currier and Ives print of th discovery of the Mississippi. Ther is an original letter of Lincoln, on of Washington, lamps from Mo ton's collection of 800 lighting tures, on the desk a music bo "only 60 years old" and practicall just a pick-up, on the window si a gleaming copper kettle and "bee hive" of woven grass. T bee hive's side is slightly scrape as it blew out the window the oth day and down to the street. How ever, to an object that has been existence two centures, a 17-stor drop is a mere nothing.

Morton's office has been fu nished thus both because he has liking for old furniture and becau it seemed appropriate for an ol New England concern. Sight-see ing tours are not a part of th day's business, but we'll wage many an antique collector will dis guise herself as a messenger b in order to sneak into this off and breathe its rarefied atm phere.

PERHAPS you haven't notic in your hurried scurry to the late double feature, but, as was broug to our attention, there has been grand demobilization of mov ushers in the past few years. Tho lofty guards who once stood ramrod position, gallantly uphol ing yards of braid, buttons, an gleaming epaulets, clicked the heels in martial manner, an frightened mere movie goers in stumbling down dark aisles rath than accosting such august perso ages, have ripped off their tri mings, relaxed their stance, and short, become more human an more popular.

We dropped in at one of th downtown picture houses the oth day to talk this over with the ma ager.

"Our boys have two uniform he told us. "In winter they we double breasted coat, four-in-han tie, and light trousers, very bu ness like."

The summer uniforms, noticed, have slight vestiges of th military in stripes and buttons, bu nothing like those of the gaud 20s. The ushers themselves stan "at ease," courteously direct sea seekers, and have even been kno to smile at patrons.

"There's not a clicking heel or military salute left here," the ma ager boasted with a grin.

by Clarissa Start

COMPARED to the average of fice, filled with battered oa furniture, chairs with special snag edges, a few warped calenders, and curtainless windows, the old New England antique furnished office of Stratford Lee Morton, St. Louis insurance executive, is a thing of beauty and a joy to collectors. Furniture ferreters would sigh with envy should they see, a we did the glowing maple pieces, which, Morton says casually, date back around 1700, the Carl Wild prints of early St. Louis of which there are none outside the hist ical society, the intriguing lamp books, bits of pewter, and other objects which can scarcely b maligned by the name "knick knacks." As for stenographers accustomed to ancient, not antique office fixtures, they would run, no walk, to the nearest application blank.

The entrance door to this unusual office is a green Colonia door with brass knocker. Th waiting room, really a reception hall, contains a lovely Sherato secretary, about 1750, some Hitchcock chairs of 1820, a tilt top table, long bench, brass lamp, and several of the Wild prints.

MORTON'S private office, completely antique except for draperies, panelling, and studio couc has a corner cupboard of 1700, purchased for Morton in Virginia, a old blacksmith's bench, a schoolmaster's desk, and another secretary filled with historical books.

The prints include an 1840 on of the Cahokia pond, now the sit of the Mart Building, an 1837 on of the Old Cathedral, views of ol St. Louis, and a recently acquire early Currier and Ives print of th discovery of the Mississippi. Ther is an original letter of Lincoln, on of Washington, lamps from Mo ton's collection of 800 lighting tures, on the desk a music bo "only 60 years old" and practicall just a pick-up, on the window si a gleaming copper kettle and "bee hive" of woven grass. Th bee hive's side is slightly scrape as it blew out the window the othe day and down to the street. However, to an object that has been i existence two centuries, a 17-stor drop is a mere nothing.

Morton's office has been furnished thus both because he has liking for old furniture and becaus it seemed appropriate for an ol New England concern. Sight-seeing tours are not a part of th day's business, but we'll wage many an antique collector will disguise herself as a messenger bo in order to sneak into this offi and breathe its rarefied atmo phere.

BUSTER KEATON TEACHES ALICE FAYE THE CUSTARD PIE COMEDY TECHNIQUE.

MODERN BATHING BEAUTIES—IN EARLIER AND PRETTY DARING COSTUMES.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 5.

THE old-time fans who have longed for a return, on the screen, of the gold old, sure-shot custard pie and bathing beauty days, are going to get an eyeful of both before very long with a lot of once famous pie casters and more or less ancient cinema directors for Darryl Zanuck is making a saga of the movies out at Twentieth Century-Fox called "Hollywood Cavalcade" in technicolor.

The old comedians and old bosses will be strictly on the level—played by themselves—but while the bathing beauties will be just as beautiful and as curving, they will be more or less synthetic reproductions of the originals. Bathing beauties who looked perfectly grand in 1913, say, just don't stand up under the years. Even the pies, which will be just as squashy, have been improved upon due to the march of time and the improvements in photography. The film will look back over the years, the romantic, cockeyed years when the most fabulous town in the land was in the making—the time of the picture will be from 1913 until Al Jolson startled a placid world with "The Jazz Singer" in 1927, and thus talkies were born.

Zanuck, the studio boss, assigned the picture to Director Irving Cummings and gave him Don Ameche and Alice Faye for the co-starring leads.

There is considerable logic in Zanuck's first choice for just last month Cummings observed the thirtieth anniversary of his entrance into motion pictures, first as a leading man and for the last 20 years as a director.

What Cummings interprets on the screen will be the years he lived through, the years when he was a handsome leading man, sported about the countryside in a dashing Stutz Bearcat and wooed such stars of the time as Mabel Normand, Phyllis Haver, Marie Prevost and others.

The picture will open as Hollywood was emerging from the swaddling clothes days. Mack Sennett had just come on the scene and started tossing about his famed custard pies, D. W. Griffith had established the new technique of the fadeout and closeup, Jack Cooper, the comedian, had just purchased the first big, all-white White automobile for $11,000 and startled the town.

Santa Barbara, up the coast from Hollywood a little more than 100 miles, had started into film production. Irving Cummings had just been signed to play in a 30-episode serial. He spent his week-ends in Hollywood, Santa Monica and Edendale dashing about in his Stutz at the reckless speed of 30 miles an hour!

Sennett introduced his bathing beauties and shocked a prim world, thus releasing women from a number of somewhat confining styles as a consequence.

Film producers and directors went about their work very secretly because there was a war on with the big companies back East. The Eastern outfits claimed all camera patents and sent thugs out to the coast to steal, wreck and otherwise cripple studios using "their" cameras.

Hollywood overcame all this. But for a long time directors would pile their casts and camera equipment in hearses or other unsuspected vehicles and start out for an unannounced filming location to be gone the whole day. Cameras only held 100 feet of film and scenes were short (today cameras hold 1000 feet). They kept the day's filming hid.

Never has the town had such a convenient arrangement as existed on the roof of the old Hoffman restaurant in downtown Los Angeles. A film company, the old Biograph, had scenery painted on sheets of canvas, actors stood in front of the canvas and in broad pantomime conveyed the story to celluloid. At mealtime, waiters brought up food to the roof, and in the evenings the cast stretched out for a peaceful night. In two to five days, a film was finished.

There were other problems and Hollywood soon learned that all the pirates were not on the high seas. Film companies made pictures only to have some thief duplicate the print and peddle the film from then on as his own.

This little difficulty was overcome by film companies painting their trademarks on the scenic background of each scene, usually near the principals, so the trademark could not be cut out and the picture stolen and released under some other title.

There are some callous souls who contend the town still has its share of pirates, but purists only scoff at such skeptical gentlemen. The town is pretty well organized and little escapes the astute gentlemen behind the big desks who run the studios.

At the opening of "Hollywood Cavalvade," Don Ameche, who portrays a director, and Alice Faye, who is a composite of Mary Pickford, Mabel Normand, and other stars of the day, open with the Sennett comedy days and live through the various movie cycles—from comedies, to drama, to epics, to colossal spectacles.

Ben Turpin, Chester Conklin, Hank Mann, Jack Cooper, Marjorie Beebe, Crete Sipple, Midgie Dare, Jack Costello, Philip Sleeman, Marshall Ruth, George O'Hara, Frank Hall Crane, Barry Johnson, Heinie Conklin and other notables of the silent era appear throughout the $2,000,000 technicolor film.

—o-o—

BUSTER KEATON was signed for one of the supporting leads, and, in fact, it is Buster who winds up like Dizzy Dean and hurls a custard pie into the beautiful and winsome face of Alice Faye. Alice not only takes one pie but 19 in various sequences. Buster never failed to score a direct hit.

"Why should he?" asked Director Cummings. "He tossed enough in his time to be letter perfect."

Even Alice commented that "if I ever have to be hit again by another custard pie, I'll certainly get Buster to do the throwing. There are no retakes with him."

This custard-pie sequence that opens the picture is worth another line or so. The pastry chef, Ernest Ulrich, at the studio's Cafe de Paris experimented several days before he hit upon the exact pie formula. He had to work out a pie that would hold together while sailing through the air until it smacked its object, and the pie had to look like a custard. The pie formula used in the old days wouldn't work because it didn't look like custard and they didn't have technicolor then to prove otherwise.

THE KEYSTONE COPS LIVE AGAIN.

Ulrich finally perfected a pie that would hold together for 30 paces. It was made out of heavy whipped cream mixed with sugar for better body and it was colored — for the technicolor camera's benefit—with egg coloring.

Ulrich made in all 100 pies, 59 of which were used—in one sequence Faye gets angry and starts tossing pies right back and Keaton takes quite a few—that's after Alice has learned how to toss them.

Alice dons a bathing suit with others who will remind theatergoers of the days of Phyllis Haver, Marie Prevost, Carole Lombard—yes, she was one of Sennett's bathing beauties, too—Mabel Normand and others. The camera crew and beauties went to Santa Monica beach where famous old Castle Rock still stands, the rock that Sennett made famous with clusters of his beauties in the foreground of the landmark.

Cummings, a student of those times, too, didn't let any of his bathing beauties go into the ocean, either—just exactly like the old Sennett days.

Sennett, who was signed by Zanuck to play himself in the picture, and to serve as technical adviser on the picture, recalled how the bathing beauty first came to the screen.

"It really was a publicity stunt at first," Sennett said. "I couldn't get pictures of my comedians published in newspapers and magazines. I thought if I had a good-looking girl don a daring bathing suit and stand close enough to one of my comedians so he couldn't be cut out of the photograph, the picture would get printed. It worked. Then I reasoned if the photographs were of such interest to get published, why wouldn't bathing beauties on the screen draw.

"They drew criticism from all over the country and millions of dollars into the boxoffice. We censored our own pictures fairly rigidly and avoided too much trouble."

From that day on women's styles began to follow a new trend.

The Keystone Cops comprised the third comedy period. Mal St. Clair, who was a Keystone Cop of old, directed these comedy scenes with the advice and help of Sennett. This period showed a marked development in pictures inasmuch as the comedy was furnished by the police while the drama or love story often was played "straight" in contrast to the dizzy doings of the law.

Thus Faye is able to break over into serious drama.

Ameche will bring to mind the old days of Griffith and Cecil B. DeMille—who still is going strong—and many other famed directors who ruled Hollywood's film sets, strode about in grandiose fashion, togged out in riding habit, leather leggins or boots and dragging about an inevitable megaphone—a huge one—with their name all over it.

—o-o—

THE old Cooper-Hewitt lights, first film lights and forerunners of the neon tube, will be seen. Cummings recalled when he left Broadway 30 years ago to make his first picture, "The Face at the Window," at Mount Vernon, New York, in one end of an old barn, Cooper-Hewitt lights were used. It required 30 minutes at least to get them working, meanwhile, Cummings recalled, the actors would stroll to the other end of the barn and idle the time away handing hay to the somewhat annoyed cows and horses.

Faye and Curtis are married in the film and subsequently become known as "Lovers of the World," reminiscent of the days when Mary Pickford was known as "America's Sweetheart" and she was married to Douglas Fairbanks, and they became the social arbiters of the screen colony.

But never has a town received such a shock as Hollywood did in 1927 when Al Jolson made "The Jazz Singer." Sound was thought a novelty. Even Jolson turned down an interest in his own picture, preferring a straight salary.

"I thought sound would be just a flash in the pan," Jolson said.

The picture grossed $5,000,000, an all-time high talkie record.

Jolson was signed again by Zanuck—who was then at Warner Brothers when "The Jazz Singer" was made—to re-do the Kol Nidre song for "Hollywood Cavalcade"—just 11 years after the song changed the entire entertainment world.

Importance of Kindergarten In Child's Life

"School Without a Kindergarten Is Like a House Without Its Stairway."

By Angelo Patri

CHILDREN have a brief period when their senses are very sharp. This occurs along about the fifth year. They are intensely active, getting about all over the place, touching, tasting, smelling, hearing, asking and learning with tremendous speed the countless bits of life-lore that go to form the foundation of their future learning. The better use that this period of intensive learning is put to, the richer the child's equipment for school education. The better training a child gets at this time of his growth, the richer his intelligence thereafter. Once past, this season of growth is over for good and all. It cannot be made up. It is one of the now-or-never periods of child growth.

Many school systems overlook this opportunity for educating their pupils. Some of them make children wait until their seventh year before starting school work. Most begin at the sixth year. Good sense in education insists that the place and the time to begin are in the fifth year of life, in the kindergarten.

—o-o—

THERE ARE still people who think that kindergarten is a place where children are amused. They play games and sing childish songs, led by a rather futile and not-so-intelligent teacher. That sort of thing is a waste of taxpayers' money and a poor influence on children. These notions are as old as human ignorance. The most elementary understanding of children's growth confutes them.

When children are 5 years of age they are inquiring, intelligent people who need to learn how to put the knowledge their senses gather to good use. They need to have their unending questions answered by someone who knows how to answer by directing the child to first sources, the field of his own activities. "Look here and you will see," is the real kindergartner's answer to many a childish inquiry. "Try this and see what happens," is her way of helping little children clarify their ideas.

These children are not equipped for sitting still and listening to wise words. They are equipped by Nature—and remember that Nature always has the last word as well as the first—to rise, look, see and do. Their chief characteristic at this stage of growth is activity. They are endowed with almost limitless energy and can keep going long after the exhausted adult drops in his tracks. This is Nature's way with the human child, and her way is not to be denied. She has good reasons for her method.

IN THE OLDER DAYS the little ones had many opportunities for discovering the ways of life by personal search, trial and error. They followed their active mothers about the place, taking part in the ceaseless round of work that life in those days demanded. They learned about plants, animals, weather, housework, industry of many kinds, people, books, birth, sickness and death; the whole human cycle was known to them early. There was not so much need for the school work then. That is all behind us and school must take the place as far as may be, of the old-style home.

Kindergarten is the place where the senses are trained to function in learning. It is the place where the children's activities are directed toward usefulness, their social instincts cultivated and organized, their personalities helped toward favorable development, their human qualities stressed. Kindergarten is where school education properly begins. Once well established, it means saving of holdovers in the first grade, better quality pupils in the first grade, better coordinated children for home and school to train. A school without a kindergarten is like a house without its stairway, inconvenient, wasteful, showing the builders to be men without vision.

Velveteen Dresses

Velveteen is a fabric that lends itself well to clever junior styles. One advance fall model in velveteen causing much comment is a brown velveteen dress with both neckline and two skirt pockets drawn into a shirred or gathered effect with a chartreuse velvet ribbon. Another attractive junior dress of brown velveteen has a high fitting skirt and bolero jacket worn with a white satin blouse, with white flowers appliqued around the waistline of the brown skirt.

Still another velveteen more in the traditional vein is the black velveteen Eton jacket with scalloped edges and huge red bow tie worn with a white blouse and a skirt of red and blue plaid woolen.

Gold Jewelry

Gold jewelry used with this fall's black dresses will be larger than ever, it is indicated by advance samples. Huge gold balls on thin gold chains are especially prominent and some of the simply made early fall black dresses are being sold with gold ball necklaces.

THAT BOOPS-A-DAISY BUSINESS -:- -:- -:- By Inez Robb

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.

WHERE the next European war will break out is any man's guess, but the next great American revolt is already brewing in the ballroom.

A man may be weak enough one winter to allow himself to be strong-armed into doing a rigadoon called the Lambeth Walk, but if the American male permits himself to be brow-beaten during the coming winter into performing that new ballroom saraband called Boomps-a-Daisy, I'll eat my hat without catsup.

The newest importation from London, where the Lambeth Walk originated, was revealed at the Astor Hotel to these unbelieving old eyes as the little gem which the Dancing Masters of America—now in session here—aim to sell the country before snow flies.

Nor is this all. Irene Castle has invented a ballroom trifle herself. She sat up all night inventing the Castle Rock and Roll, but more of that anon. Boomps-a-Daisy is the real menace.

There's no point in trying to be delicate about this new dance. We might as well face the fact that its climax is the point at which a gentleman backs up and deliberately bumps a lady in the bustle with his own bustle, yodeling "Boomps-a-Daisy" as he does so. This was a funny situation in comedies 20 years ago, but until a day or so ago it would still get a gentleman tossed out of Roseland, to say nothing of Mrs. Astor's.

"Hands and knees and Boomps-a-Daisy" go the words to a waltz tune, "I Like a Bustle That Bends." In the meantime, a lady and her partner face each other, playing patty-cake for a few measures before they bow, a la Alphonse and Gaston, to each other.

This is the signal to go into reverse, with both doing a half circle until they are back to back. Then it is that the gentleman, if indeed such he be, backs up into the lady's bustle without so much as a "by your leave."

Now they whirl face to face, and if you think the lady is going to haul off and let him have it in the kisser, you don't know what ballroom dancing is coming to.

The gentleman makes an apologetic bow. His partner, who looks no better than she should, even in a bustle, does a half curtsy, gives him the eye and says "Oh!" good and loud. There follows a soupcon of waltzing—probably as a sop to the conventions—before it starts all over again.

This, my friends, is what has been imported from London to succeed the Lambert Walk, which turned ballrooms all over the country into shambles last winter. The dancing masters of America are mad, but mad, over the dance and are convinced it is ripe for a winter when Paris has decreed that women will wear bustles and like 'em, bustles—it now appears—that must be equipped with shock absorbers and tail lights!

As for Irene Castle's Rock and Roll, "it has the lilting quality of a polka," she explained, as she gently fumed at alligators and jitterbugs.

But, by golly, when grammaw showed me the polka it didn't have three phases known as "banking the turn, side slip and kicking the bucket." These are the three phases of the Castle Rock and Roll, certain to make it popular with Joe College and his girl.

Satin and Moire

Satin and moire are two fabrics becoming increasingly popular among the first black formal dresses. One of the black satin gowns seen recently was of the type every woman wants once in a lifetime, one with a low cut, much shirred bodice, plain but flaring skirt, and slim shoulder straps. Another was similarly cut but made more informal by the addition of a gold stitched jacket. Outstanding among the moire formals was the strapless gown outlined at the top with pink ribbon, with black moire and pink ribbon puffed sleeves completely detached from the dress except for a small connecting ribbon under the arm. A moire dress immediately wearable was the one with yoke and sleeves of white eyelet embroidery.

Let Me Suggest

By Josephine Walter

MANY a woman has struggled valiantly all spring to make her yard and garden a thing of beauty only to find that, with the first warm days, every one retreats indoors and there are none to gaze upon and admire her handiwork. True, she may have lovely flowers to cut and bring into the house, but this is scant reward for all her hours of labor. A few well-placed lights will greatly enhance the beauty of the garden and will prolong the hours when it may be enjoyed.

Many people have the impression that lighting of a yard and garden is only possible of achievement on a large estate where vast distances allow for such treatment and where expense does not count. This is entirely erroneous for the lighting of a small place may be as charming as the lighting of a large one; just as a small garden may be as effective and attractive as a large one, if done in the proper scale. Then, too, there have been such great strides made in lighting equipment of all types during the past few years that such illumination is possible for the slimmest purse and the smallest of gardens.

—o-o—

Garden lighting may easily become a hobby, just as gardening itself is. Naturally, it takes some study and thought and even the trying out of various effects before the desired results can be achieved. And the expense will depend to a great extent on whether you have an amateur electrician in your home to help with the actual work. But the time and effort spent will be well worth it when you are able to enjoy many evening hours out of doors in cool comfort and beauty. Incidentally, by adroit lighting, it is very easy to attract bugs away from the seating areas into the trees and shrubs.

—o-o—

● THERE ARE are few basic principles of garden lighting which may be of help in the successful planning of your lighting equipment for the yard. First and foremost, the lighting equipment itself should be concealed, so that the fairy-like illusion of the effect will not be spoiled by a knowledge of the means by which this is achieved. This is quite simple because there are almost always trees, shrubs, bits of rockery or walls behind which the lighting equipment may be concealed. Always be careful, too, when planning your lighting that the light itself is placed in such a position that it will not shine into the eyes.

—o-o—

Second, select the most interesting spots of the yard or garden to illuminate. Almost every place has certain accenting features that give it interest by day, and it is these same features that should be spotlighted by night. It may be a pool and fountain, a flower bed, or even a lovely stretch of lawn or a favorite tree. If your yard has any interest at all by day, this interest can be high-lighted by night. In addition to bringing out these beauty spots, you will probably want to light your terrace or barbecue pit if you dine outdoors or do much entertaining in the garden. It is nice to have this lighting separate from any other in the garden, so that you may turn it off when you wish to relax in the dark, and enjoy the lighted parts of the garden.

● FINALLY, there must be a feeling of unity about the lighting as a whole, especially if you use more than one lighted area in your garden. There should be, if possible, some type of background illumination to tie all the specially lighted features into a whole; the larger the area lighted, the more important this becomes. It is nice, if possible, to arrange the lighting so that it is easy for a guest to find his way around the yard without falling into flower beds or over rock walls.

The equipment available for gardens is extremely varied and efficient and selection need only be governed by the amount of space you wish to light and the amount of money you feel that you can afford to spend. Most new houses are built with outside lighting plugs, which have metal caps to protect them from the elements and, where not available, they can usually be installed at not too great an expense. If not, by adroit wiring, the porch or garage outlet may well be used. For more elaborate lighting, a permanent underground wire, inclosed in lead-covered or non-metallic cable, buried about a foot underground and equipped with weatherproof outlets wherever needed, is the ideal arrangement.

There is a wide variety of metal lamp shields attached to the top of spikes that can be pushed into the ground for lighting flower beds and rock gardens. There are also lamp shields in the form of birds and animals that will blend into the garden picture. For lighting a lily pond, there is an artificial lily pad, made of metal which fits over a light bulb which is screwed into a water-tight socket and attached to a waterproof electric cord. Rocks, especially hollowed out to hold a light bulb, are also an excellent means of hiding the source of light.

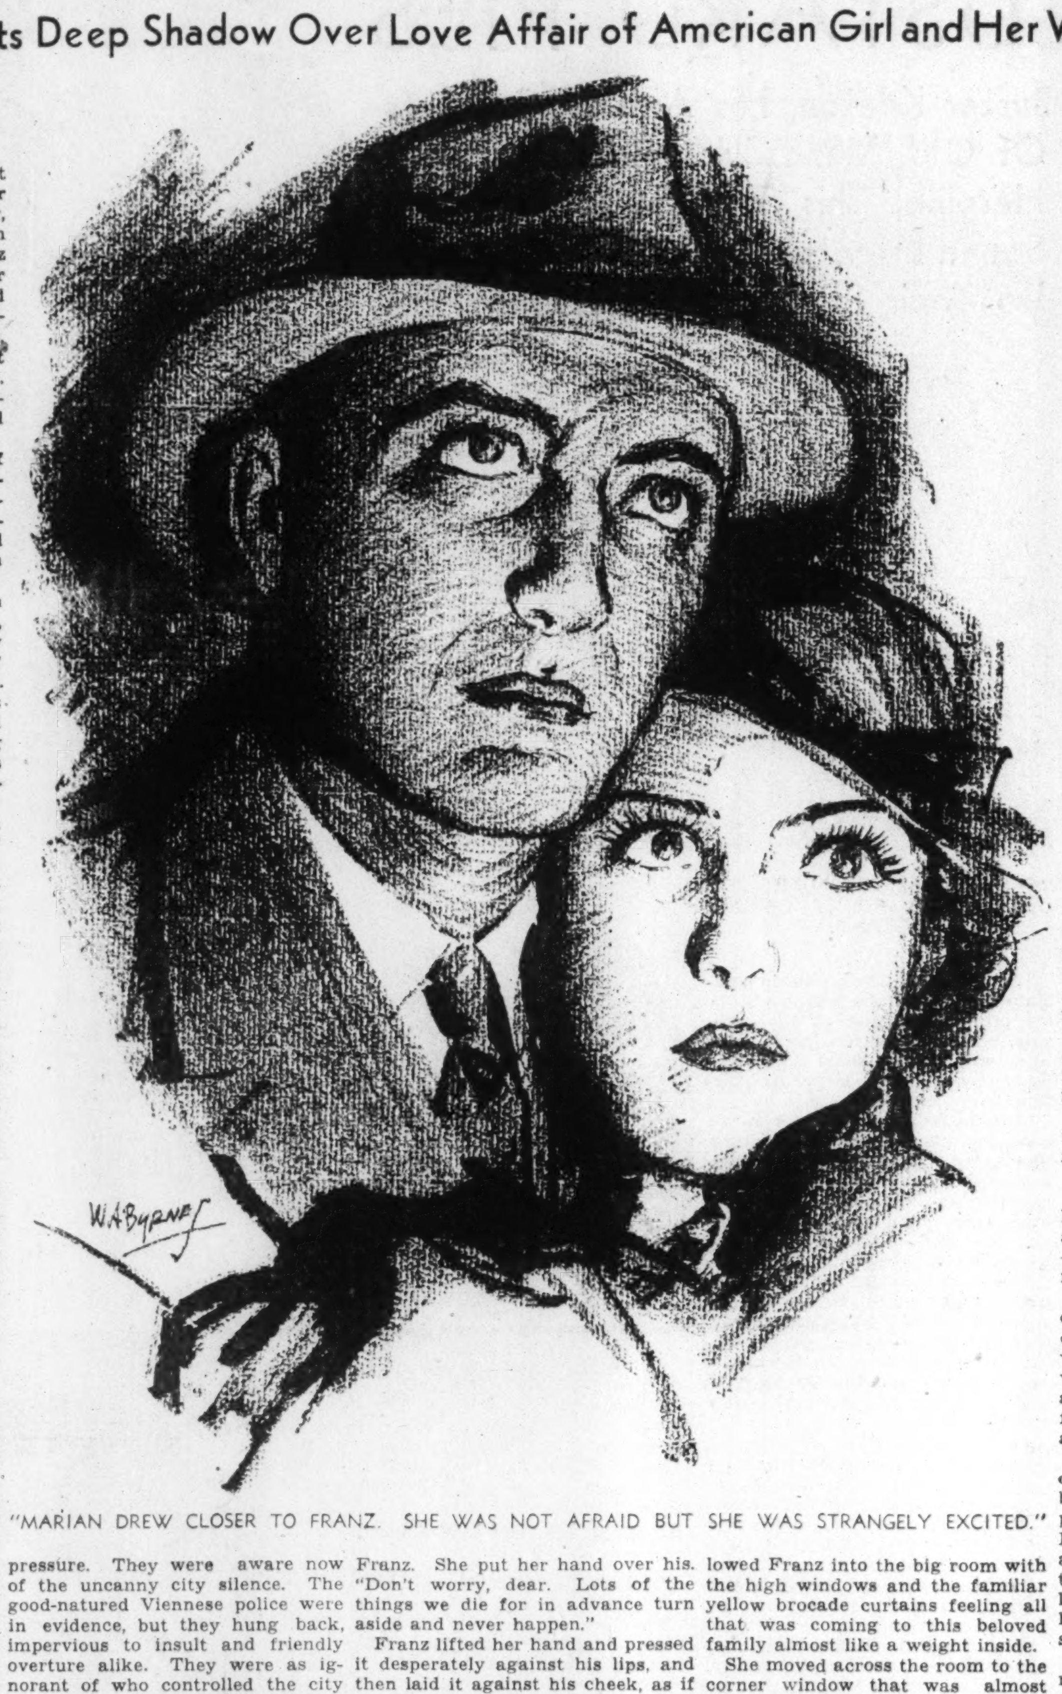
Power Politics Casts Deep Shadow Over Love Affair of American Girl and Her Viennese Sweetheart

By Olga L. Rosmanith



"MARIAN DREW CLOSER TO FRANZ. SHE WAS NOT AFRAID BUT SHE WAS STRANGELY EXCITED."

CHAPTER I.

THE date was already important to Marian because it was her twenty-first birthday. Friday, March 11, 1938. Far away from home but not homesick. Franz Grunewald was sitting beside her in the cafe. A cafe where one could be relaxed, peaceful, and happy because of its clublike atmosphere, Gemutlichkeit was more important than hurrying the customers away. Because this was the city of homelike cafes where everyone talked for hours. This was Vienna.

Tonight the universal topic of conversation was Schuschnigg's stirring speech in Parliament announcing Austria's permanent independence and his overwhelming personal triumph. And then the radio began to speak.

Chatter ceased. Smiles faded from faces. People stared at each other, eyes wide, and alarmed. What lay behind the ominous announcement? The plebiscite had been postponed.

Marian looked at her companion's face and saw the youth quenched in it, leaving the bronzed young features worn and old. "What is it?" she whispered under the sudden roar of exclamatory voices.

Franz pushed the table from them and got up. "Let's get out of here," he said abruptly.

Outside it was balmy and delicious with false premature spring. A soft veil of green filmed the black tracery of the trees in the ubiquitous city gardens. The cafe was in the Alserstrasse in the region of the Allgemeines Krankenhaus, the great city hospital. They walked up toward the university, in tense mutual silence. As they neared the Rathaus Platz Franz Grunewald spoke. "I don't know what it means," he said heavily, "but I think it means the end of everything."

Marian's heart began to beat heavily. The words did not frighten her so much as the unfamiliar tone in the young man's voice. She slipped her arm through his in her frank friendly manner. "Oh, no—nothing is ever the end of everything. What can possibly make you say that?"

"Hitler. This is the end of Austria as a country. That's what it means. Hitler is coming in."

They heard the voices before they turned into the Rathaus Platz beyond which lay their home. It was like a chorus—a syncopated chorus of voices trained to their hoarse chant. Heil Hitler—Heil Hitler—Hitler—Hitler—Hitler.

Marian drew closer to Franz. She was not afraid, but she was strangely, uncomfortably excited. She was comforted by the contact of his lean, swinging strong body. He pressed her arm to his side. "Perhaps we'd better go 'round the back. Looks like some trouble brewing."

"Oh, no, Franz. This is history. We mustn't miss it. Let's go see."

They advanced into the circular arena ideal for demonstrations in front of the soaring Gothic beauty of the Rathaus.

—o-o—

NOT even the rough bands of youths surging through the Vienna streets the last few days shouting Hitler had prepared them for this astonishing sight. Orderly companies of young Nazis were arriving rhythmically one by one, waving a forest of red banners punctuated by the black swastika on its white circle. They ranged themselves methodically on the terraced Rathaus steps, watched by a silent and bewildered crowd.

The crowd seemed to thicken by magic as people poured in. The statues of philosophers and musicians were being used as grand stands, boys clung like monkeys to the massive lamp standards and the creaking branches of the Rathaus garden trees. A procession with torches filed in from the ring and massed its high-held moving flames before the center tower lighting the scene with a lurid light. Franz lifted Marian with him on to a park bench and put his arm around her.

She saw his face in the red glow. He was not thinking about her. He was watching the spotlight that was moving over the towers and galleries looking for something. It found what it sought. Two boys appeared high up on a gallery waving a Nazi flag. There was a great roar from the crowd and then the voices rose in a chorus like surf thundering on the shores. Deutschland Ueber Alles. Marian heard the strangled groan in Franz's throat with her heart rather than her ears, because where he was concerned, she knew almost everything.

"Franz," she said soundlessly. But he heard her. For a moment they looked deep in each other's eyes, seeing things which had lain deep in them come to the surface. Flames flickered over their faces and the shadows of smoke. He said—"the terrible thing is that I love you."

Now the groups of Nazi youths were dispersing and the torch bearers were thinning out into a procession to march endlessly around the ring. Franz and Marian had no choice but to move with the crowd that passed their home in the Reichratstrasse. Franz held her arm tightly protecting her from pressure. They were aware now of the uncanny city silence. The good-natured Viennese police were in evidence, but they hung back, impervious to insult and friendly overture alike. They were as ignorant of who controlled the city at this moment as the people who besieged them with passionate questions.

The news vendors broke through the thinning crowds and thrust the single-sheet special edition into their hands. Franz looked at it under the street lamp. He said bleakly—"no more Austria."

He opened the little door cut into the great entrance door of the apartment house and drew Marian inside. She was weak with the emotion of her happiness and the strange terror of the night. "You say that, Franz, as if you were saying 'no more life.'"

"It's the same thing, Marian."

"Franz! Have you forgotten what you just said?"

"No. I was a madman to say it. To complicate our lives. You couldn't live here now. I couldn't ask you to share my life. When you leave Vienna you will leave it forever."

"Oh, no, Franz."

"Yes, Marian. You of all people. Outspoken, daring, independent, free——"

The hausmeister limped down from the mezzanine window to see who was there and what they were doing. Franz cut his loquacity short. The small glass and iron elevator waited for them, but the same thought occurred to them both. They could be alone a little longer. They began to climb the stairs.

The Von Plasy apartment was at the top, on the fourth floor. The occupants of the apartment below were away. Franz paused in his steady climb and drew Marian beside him on the stairs. They sat together indifferent to the chill of the cold stone. "I don't know what made me tell you, Marian. It's hopeless now. And in any case I'd meant to wait."

"Why is it hopeless, Franz? You've no politics, have you? It isn't as if you were known as anti-Nazi."

"I am, of course—whether they know it or not. But I must be loyal to Onkel Josef. He's been more to me than a father."

Marian remembered everything with a pang that went through her like the thrust of a sword. She was no fool to imagine that any possible slight to the Nazi regime would be overlooked. And Prof. von Plasy's recent book, exposing the fallacy of Hitler's race theories, was no mere slight. For less than that great thinkers in Germany had been martyred in the name of treason. He would surely be expelled from the university if nothing worse. Marian pushed her fears from her in her desire to comfort Franz. She put her hand over his. "Don't worry, dear. Lots of the things we die for in advance turn aside and never happen."

Franz lifted her hand and pressed it desperately against his lips, and then laid it against his cheek, as if the touch were necessary to him. "I wish I could think that, too, even for a few blessed minutes. But I've studied this thing. What's been going on in Germany. It's got to be faced. It means the old man's doom.

Marian was conscious of her heart shaking her as they sat silent again, leaning warmly against each other while the elevator whined slowly up the shaft to the floor below them. A door opened and closed on a brief gust of excited voices. The elevator whined slowly down again. Marian's mind began to function as if something clicked alive in it. "Franz, darling has the old man got a passport?"

"Yes, of course, dear."

She jumped up, pulling him with her. "Then let's see if he's at home. Don't you see—he must escape tonight—while there's still time. We must pack for him, get him to the station, send him anywhere he can get a train for. Just so long as he gets out."

—o-o—

HER force galvanized Franz into action. He jumped up beside her and caught her to him impulsively. For an endless minute they strained together comforting each other with eager lips. I will never leave him, thought Marian exultantly, I don't care what it's like—nothing can be ugly when life is so beautiful—so filled with love.

Franz pushed her from him almost roughly. "Every time I kiss you it will be harder to say good-by to you."

She ran after him as his long legs consumed the last flight of stairs four at a time. "Good-by, Franz? You're crazy. I'm not leaving. When?"

She wanted to linger outside the door of the apartment while they settled the dispute, but he would not listen to her. His face had settled into grim lines which made him look like a stranger. "This was your idea, Marian, but it's a good one. If we're going to get him out before they think of him, there's no time to lose."

It seemed to her his hand shook a little as he tried to fit the key in the lock. The big awkward key which surely no one would tolerate in any capital city but Vienna. It turned at last and he stood aside for her to enter the warm dark hall with the deer's antlers high on the walls. Under the sitting room door a sliver of light showed. She heard Frau von Plasy's breathless hurrying voice talking, and then the professor's response, deep toned and slow.

She knew then they were talking about his escape already. She followed Franz into the big room with the high windows and the familiar yellow brocade curtains feeling all that was coming to this beloved family almost like a weight inside.

She moved across the room to the corner window that was almost level with the galloping quadrigas on the roof of the parliament house and looked up the street to the Heldenplatz and the shadowed curve of the Neue Hofburg beyond the trees. The torchbearers were still tramping the ring, chanting and shouting.

"It will go on all night," said the professor calmly, as if he were watching her, reading her thoughts.

"That is good," said Franz, "the excitement will cover your flight. Now is the time to get out."

"I have talked till I am tired," breathed Frau von Plasy hardly above a whisper. "And it is no use." She sounded utterly tired out.

"I don't understand you. You must have a good reason, Onkel."

"The best, Franz. My place is here with my wife. She cannot go. Her passport is not now in order"——

"But I am here, Onkel. I will see to that. I will take care of her"——

"I know you would try. You're a good boy, Franz. But you don't see far enough. Haven't you heard yet of hostages—reprisals?"

There was only one answer to this. Franz said reluctantly—"Yes."

"And there is Johann, too. I would not leave Gisela and she would not leave him."

Marian turned from the window into the warm lamplit room whose atmosphere was like a sheltering embrace, so strong was the domestic genius of the woman who made it home. "I think we're all worrying about nothing," she said. "After all, science is science. Why should you be persecuted for scientific truth—punished for—for publishing it? It would be different—it would be used as an excuse if you were Jews."

The professor smiled at her, the light glinting on the gold rims of the glasses that enlarged the clear kind eyes that looked so young above his iron gray beard.

"You are an optimist, Marian—it is remotely possible you are right"——

"I hope so," breathed his wife. "I hope so"—— she looked at Marian sharply. "You look white—exhausted. Have you had anything to eat?"

"Yes, dear. But I am tired. I think I will go to bed."

—o-o—

SHE wanted to be alone in her narrow slip of a room whose window looked down into the office windows at the back of the Parliament house, offices which were apparently seldom used. Franz followed her out into the hall and caught her in his arms again. Now he was tender—so tender that the tears pricked her eyes. His breath moved against her ear. "I love you so, liebling, I love you."

"I love you, darling"——

"Oh, it is wonderful. How long have you known it?"

"All last week, Franz. And you?"

"From the beginning—the very beginning. The first day I saw you. I met you at the station. Remember? You had only half a face and one eye because you were wearing the craziest little hat."

Marian laughed softly in the darkness. "But why didn't you tell me long ago? Why didn't you tell me?"

She felt his sadness communicate itself. "Then it was too soon. Now it is too late."

"No—no——"

His lips were warm again on hers for a brief moment. "There are only minutes left now to enjoy—but minutes are beautiful. Gute nacht, mein liebling. Schlaf wohl."

Sleep well! Marian opened her door softly and went in. Would she ever sleep again? She went to the window and looked down. There were lights in the office windows and two men were rearranging the furniture. Already, she thought, already.

The street lamps, arabesqued her ceiling when she had put out her bed lamp. She lay looking at the patterns of shadow and dusky gold. Franz had loved her a whole year and had not told her. It was not true that she had only known she loved him a week. She had loved him a whole year, too. Now it seemed like a whole year wasted.

Voices still chanted in the city, now near, now far away. They were not disturbing her. She had never felt so wideawake. She was worrying about her parents. What news would they be getting over there? Would they be in a panic wondering about her safety?

Hilde von Plasy, the professor's 18-year-old daughter, was at Marian's home in Long Island, by the system of exchange which obviated the payment of money. She was studying English and becoming sophisticated in the new world while Marian was studying voice and absorbing the mental treasures of the old without financial strain on either parents.

Marian marveled that her father had not already been through on the telephone inquiring about her safety, urging her to go at once to the Consul to arrange about coming home. But the wires would be jammed, of course. The whole world would be trying to get on the telephone to Vienna.

But I won't go, she thought, not even if it isn't safe. There is no war. Things will settle down. Life will go on. Music will go on. Love will go on.

No, she thought, I can't ever leave Franz. I might as well be dead. I can't imagine life without him. There could never be anybody else—never—never.

St. Louis Fashion Parade

by Sylvia Stiles

If you like to date your fashions according to the fad for dating this and that, then 1880 is the time to keep foremost in your thoughts as you go about selecting costumes for the fall style parade. In case you don't know what that year brought forth in the way of startling modes, get out your family album. There's a picture of the belle of the era wearing a "watered silk," or moire frock, as we call the fabric today. The bodice is cut to fit the waistline tightly, while the skirt is caught into a pronounced bustle drape at the back. Pleating was in vogue and jewelry was lavish. Bengalines, taffetas and velvets were other important fabrics, and you'll be seeing them again before the leaves start falling.

—o-o—

EVIDENTLY the millinery designers have decided not to take too seriously the fad which some of the college girls have started this past spring and summer of wearing their hair in braids. Those close-fitting hats of the autumn certainly leave no space for coronets. Perhaps the persistence of the campus queens in going bareheaded has made the hat stylists a trifle defiant. What to do with coiffures is one of the problems of the moment. One St. Louis woman, seeking the counsel of a well-known New York beauty expert, has returned home with her hair rolled upward at the sides and cut so that it flattened against her head at the back—a hairdress which is being recommended for various types of hats.

—o-o—

That new silhouette which is looming for autumn is having its influence upon accessories as well as upon coats, suits and dresses. There's a novel sash, for example, which is a newcomer and indicates the way the fashion winds are blowing. In addition to being wide, draped and shaped to fit the waistline, this sash has a cluster of loops at the back to suggest a bustle. Arguments for such a sash are obvious—you can transform a trim-backed frock into one which has the bustle theme merely by adding the sash and discard it for some other whim if you don't like the effect. Also you have the practical advantage of bringing an old frock up-to-date merely by investing in this tricky belt. Grosgrain ribbon and satin ribbon are being used most extensively.

—o-o—

● WHAT ABOUT skirt lengths? This is one of the first questions which concerns women at the beginning of a new season. Right now the answer focuses attention on knees to such an extent that it's rumored the girls will be rouging their kneecaps just as they do their faces. A few of the French girls are doing this, and any fashion that smacks of Paris has an appeal some women can't deny.

—o-o—

We might have guessed that there was some scheming back of the simplicity characterizing the first autumn necklines. The high necks of black frocks, finished only with narrow bands or with bindings, looked like good news to the tailored woman, but she'll resemble Old Lady Gloom unless she invests in an elaborate metal or beaded collar. Gold filigree and pearls unite to provide some of the most handsome of dangling collars, while simulated pearls, rubies, emeralds and gold links are fringed into other impressive necklaces covering the tops of blouses.

—o-o—

● THE COATS that look like dresses and dresses resembling coats are so confusing there's no telling what error a busy woman may make in donning her clothes. The popularity of coats devoid of fur trimming and made of ribbed fabrics suggesting faille has something to do with this deception. Fitted waistlines, full skirts and buttons extending straight up the front of the dresses as well as the coats likewise add to the muddling of fall apparel. Equally as many frocks as wraps are devoid of belts, many collars add wide lapels and sleeves are trimly cut.

—o-o—

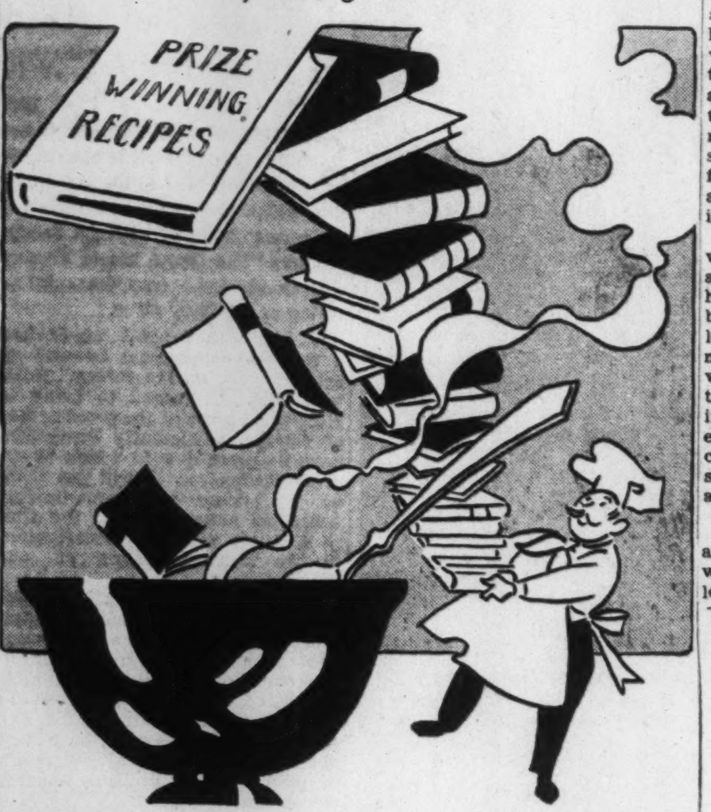
THE CHOICE of a basic wardrobe shade for fall and winter isn't so easy as it has been because of the widespread interest in brown and green. Formerly the well-dressed woman considered only black, but with certain of the warm shades ranking so high in exclusive fashion circles, black loses some of its snobbishness. The selection of a black coat trimmed with brown fur may prove a happy compromise. Another alternative is the choice of taupe or grayed brown. This tone which is being launched for the new season blends beautifully with the softness of sheared beaver, one of the smartest of furs.

—o-o—

NOW THAT waistlines are being reduced to a minimum by the fashion designers, stays are appearing in unexpected places. Some of the fall suit skirts, for example, have boned waistline sections to emphasize a princess line. The skirts are built up above the waistline and gored so that they hug the figure closely, the stays being necessary to hold them in place.

GEORGE RECTOR GIVES PRIZE-WINNING RECIPES

By George Rector



RECENTLY in going through my files I unearthed a group of recipes—prize winning recipes—which I judged two years ago. The recipes are just as good today as they were then and perhaps you will find a place for them in your menu planning to add change and variety.

The first recipe I'll give will be for marinated herring, which turns out as an honest to goodness hors d'oeuvre; that is, one that is eaten at the dining table with a knife and fork. The woman who sent me the recipe explained that it was an old Russian lenten dish that was a complete meal when served with a baked or boiled potato. You may like to try it this way, although I favor the dish as an appetizer.

Then there was a recipe for Mexican tongue with a sour sweet sauce and as this made our mouth water we selected it for testing. We were entirely pleased as having found something a little different. Another recipe which struck our fancy was a pot roast with claret gravy. There was a notation at the end of the recipe saying that the claret could be omitted, but then I shouldn't tell you about this, as the wine does give a special flavor which I think you will appreciate.

The woman who sent the eggplant recipe wrote: "You wouldn't think one baking dish could hold so much superb flavor." There couldn't be any doubt about that.

By the way, this judging and testing of recipes was the hardest task I ever had. There were thousands of good home recipes submitted and comparatively speaking only a few were selected for prizes. No one was more disappointed about this than I, but then we were limited and couldn't do much about it. I hope you will like our selection.

MARINATED SALT HERRING

(Russian Style)

Six salt herrings, one pint sour cream, two tart apples, grated; one onion, grated; 12 peppercorns, four cloves, two bay leaves; vinegar to taste.

The salt herrings are soaked in water to cover for 12 hours. Then cleaned and skinned. Cut in small pieces or left whole. The milk and roe taken out of the herring should be cleaned, chopped and beaten with vinegar, cream, grated apples, grated onion and spices. Pour dressing over the herring. Let stand several hours to one day to marinate.

MEXICAN TONGUE, SOUR SWEET SAUCE

Put tongue in kettle, cover with boiling water and cook slowly for two or three hours. Remove tongue to cutting board and cut away roots and skin. Put tongue back in liquid, add one tablespoon of salt and let cool. Make sauce as follows:

One cup vinegar, one-half cup tongue liquid, one cup sugar, two-thirds cup large seedless raisins, one lemon, cut in thin slices, 24 whole cloves.

Boil all ingredients together for five minutes. Put the tongue in a glass or earthen baking dish and pour the sauce over it. Bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes, basting often.

POT ROAST WITH CLARET GRAVY

Five-pound pot roast, dredged in flour, two tablespoons shortening, four carrots, sliced thin, four onions, sliced thin, two pounds veal bones, cut into small pieces, one cup hot water, one cup claret wine.

Melt shortening in kettle and when very hot lay in pot roast, browning well on all sides; add sliced vegetables and brown. Add veal bones, water and wine and reduce heat. Cook slowly about three hours, adding more wine and water as the liquid cooks down. When tender remove meat to hot platter, strain gravy and thicken with a little flour and water. Pour gravy in a separate bowl and serve immediately.

EGGPLANT PARMESAN

One medium-sized eggplant, dry crumbs, one egg, beaten and diluted with two tablespoons water; one pound chopped beef, one onion, chopped; two and one-half cups tomatoes, drained; one teaspoon sugar, one cup grated Parmesan cheese, salt and pepper.

Slice eggplant in one-fourth-inch slices and peel. Dip in crumbs and then in egg and in crumbs again. Fry on both sides in a little fat until browned. Season beef with salt and pepper. Form in very small balls and fry. Cook onion in little fat until brown. Add well drained tomatoes and sugar, season to taste with salt and pepper. Put layer of eggplant in bottom of greased casserole, then meat balls. Sprinkle with one-half the cheese and one-half the tomato mixture. Cover with remaining eggplant, cheese and tomatoes. Bake in moderate oven (325 degrees) one hour.

JAPANESE PLATTER

Two cups cooked rice, five eggs, one-half cup grated cheese, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one can peas, drained; parsley, six tablespoons butter, melted.

Mix the melted butter, salt, peas and half the grated cheese thoroughly with the rice. Spread on buttered oven proof platter. Make five small wells in the rice, drop an egg into each, sprinkle the remainder of the cheese over the rice and bake in a moderate oven until eggs are set and cheese melted. Or set the platter under a moderate broiler flame to cook the eggs and melt the cheese.

Omelet With Noodles

Beat six eggs well, adding two tablespoons cream, salt and pepper. Cook in butter in an omelet pan until browned underneath. Mix one cup of grated cheese with two cups hot, well-drained wide noodles and turn into the fold of the omelet. Garnish with parsley and slices of crisp bacon and serve immediately.

Fruit Drin Topper

Here's news for differing summer thirst-quenchers; top off each glass with some chopped candied fruit (the kind that comes packaged already for fruit cakes).

Evening Dresses In Smart Shades

SOME of the smartest summer evening gowns are solid black, solid white, or a combination of the two smart daytime shades. One all-white formal to gladden the heart of a slim, sophisticated young woman is the white satin, tight fitting, strapless evening gown, with a single halter strap extending from the front of the bodice around the neck. The otherwise unrelieved silhouette has a narrow white ruffle around the top of the bodice and the barest suggestion of a flare in the skirt.

Another white dress of chiffon is worn with a black velvet jacket, and an all-black crepe dinner suit has wide white pique revers. A black and white dotted satin strapless gown is relieved of its formality by the addition of a small white sharkskin bolero, and among the black and white gowns causing much applause from the younger set is one of black and white checked taffeta with narrow black straps and a ruffling of black lace around the bodice.

Wipe off parchment shades with a cloth dampened with olive oil. It will remove all soil and make them look like new.

HELPFUL SWIMMING HINTS

By Johnny Weissmuller and Eleanor Holm

LESSON 21.

THE synchronization of the armstroke and "frog kick" which we began in the previous installment, depends entirely on remembering that the armstroke must be one step behind the kick at every point.

Thus the legs snap together in the kick, and, as the snap finishes and you are gliding forward on its momentum, the arms sweep sideways and downward to their power-giving motion. All the power-giving elements of the stroke are together.

Once you have mastered this combination—and its mastery is nothing but timing, there are certain general hints that should be helpful.

One is that neither your hands nor your feet should ever break water. In competitive swimming, a breaststroker will be disqualified if any part of his foot breaks the water. Another reminder applies equally to crawl and backstroke swimming—keep your fingers together, hands cupped. And when you pull your arms, be sure the palms of your hands are turned so that they always apply pressure in the direction the arms are moving.

As in the crawl and backstroke, relaxation is all-important. The breaststroke is a very graceful stroke to watch in action. It is also an excellent stroke for an easy swim. Smoothness is its key. If the kick and arm motion are properly harmonized, the stroke cannot fail to be smooth.

Do not work too hard. Every movement should be a slow, easy one except for the spread and pull of the arms and the snap of the kick. These are your power sources. Everything else leads up to them and should be gentle and easy.

One interview from our search to find one American who has not been benefited by aluminum

JOE WANTED THE REAL LOW-DOWN (AND GOT IT)

JOE: Aren't you fellows stretching it just a bit when you say that the only reason there can be an aluminum business is because it saves money for ordinary people like me?

US: That's the net of it, Joe. Every pound of aluminum we sell is bought to make something cheaper or better. When a man in Boston makes a part of his shoe-machine out of aluminum, what he is really driving at is to make shoes cheaper for you to buy.

JOE: My wife is buying a new dress tomorrow. What's aluminum got to do with the cost of that?

US: That's easy. The people who make rayon find aluminum the best metal for many parts of their machines. The dye people use aluminum vats. The machines on which cloth is woven have aluminum parts; so do sewing machines. Using aluminum is one of the many things these people do to produce a dress your wife will rave over, for what you can afford to pay.

JOE: I get the point. But I work in a machine shop, and I know that aluminum costs more than most other metals we work with.

US: Steel costs more than iron, but it does things iron can't do. Aluminum is like that. When saving weight will save money, aluminum is usually the cheapest way to do it. And we're doing everything we know how to make it still cheaper.

JOE: What's the point of that?

US: So we can sell more. That's what we're in business for, you know.

JOE: Sounds like common sense to me. And thanks for the low-down. Why don't you put our talk into one of your ads? It clears up a lot of things I didn't realize before.

P. S. Here it is; and Joe's not the one we're looking for. Aluminum Company of America, 1931 Gulf Building, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The Screen in Review

by Colvin McPherson

THE great Western cycle of 1939, which the motion picture public remembers in terms of "Dodge City," "Union Pacific," "Stagecoach," "The Oklahoma Kid," "Let Freedom Ring" and so on, is nearing an end. One of its last gasps, "Frontier Marshal," is at the Fox Theater.

After having spent so much time in dance halls that we haven't gone home for meals, after having toted such heavy artillery that we are beginning to sag under the weight, after having become bow-legged from riding the range, we film fans will find it a relief to return to sophisticated comedy or shoot human beings while riding in luxurious motor cars. Or maybe not. Perhaps the next cycle will take us into Africa or the Northwest, maybe we won't get home for years.

"Frontier Marshal," nevertheless, is to be enjoyed. It is the most candid and the least stagey of all the year's Westerns. It makes Tombstone, Ariz., the equal in general hellishness of Dodge City, Tonto, Lordsburg, Cheyenne and End-of-Track. And when the smoke has cleared away, Randolph Scott is as much an empire builder as anybody else and gets a girl as his reward, too.

Scott plays an authentic figure, Wyatt Earp (pronounced "Earp" as in "bearp"). Famed Indian scout and odd-job man on the frontier, he takes employment as marshal in Tombstone and spends his time cracking the bad boys' heads together.

The two places he goes looking for violence are the gambling halls—the Bella Union and Palace of Pleasure. Going with him there, the customers get to hear "Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl" and "Down Went McGinty" and see Eddie Foy, the celebrated comedian of away-back-when, amiably played by his son, Eddie Foy Jr.

Scott, or Earp, saves the life of a tubercular killer, Doc Holliday, played by Cesar Romero, and they become fast friends. Earp saves Holliday, Holliday saves Earp, Earp saves Holliday, Holliday saves Earp and when this has gone on for 70 minutes, a grand gun-battle occurs, Holliday is counted out and that's your picture.

A second feature, "Grand Jury Secrets," about a smart-aleck newspaper reporter who uses a portable radio to get his stories, is appended to the program but is overshadowed by two short subjects. One of these is "Zoo," about the animal collection in Forest Park, and the other "Sons of Liberty," a two-reeler in color about Haym Salomon, the Jewish patriot who gave his own fortune and solicited other funds for Washington in the Revolutionary War.

"Sons of Liberty" was made by the patriotic Warner Bros. and was originally intended to be a feature picture. Paul Muni was to play Salomon, according to announcements a year ago. Then Claude Rains was named for the part.

The upshot was that the Warners eventually did make a film with some of their better known players—Rains, Gale Sondergaard, Donald Crisp, Henry O'Neill and Montagu Love, using a screenplay by Crane Wilbur and the ace direction of Michael Curtiz. A full-length feature was made and chopped down to 20 minutes. The result is a gem among short subjects.

Not only is the color superb and the staging far more generous than in the ordinary short subject but performances are better. Rains is genuine as Salomon and Montagu Love, as Washington, is real enough to use on coins and stamps and schoolroom walls. The little preachment on tolerance is subordinated to patriotism and "Sons of Liberty" has several moments which will make any American feel like standing and cheering.

Mickey the Kid.

AT the St. Louis Theater, haunt of the Dead End Kids, the Little Tough Guys and various other gangs of guttersnipes, one juvenile delinquent alone holds forth. This is Tommy Ryan, who, as "Mickey the Kid," is son of a fugitive killer, Bruce Cabot, and as tough as his old man, or, to use a less familiar phrase, his father.

Fleeing from the Federal men, his father leaves him with his maternal grandmother in a quiet hamlet somewhere. Mickey has a few schoolground encounters with other little men, but turns out to be the right sort. In fact, he is a hero, saving all his little friends from a blizzard. His old man is a hero, too, but a dead one.

What makes "Mickey the Kid" most enjoyable, however, is ZaSu Pitts, as a housemaid. Few bits in recent pictures have been any funnier than ZaSu testing a half dozen eggs to see which two are boiled.

"Million Dollars Legs" is a title in tribute to Betty Grable but the second St. Louis feature, in which Miss Grable is exhibited, is about crew racing at college. "Crew" is a synonym for "boat," a term better known in this part of the United States.

Business was good, or good enough, during the past week for "Bachelor Mother" and "Career," at the Ambassador, and "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever" and "They All Come Out," at Loew's, for those programs are to remain at their respective theaters. "Each Dawn I Die" and "Indianapolis Speedway" did rather well at the Fox, too, so get their second week at the Missouri.

Soprano In Concert With Federal Orchestra

Carrie Deal Smith, soprano, will be soloist with the St. Louis Federal Orchestra in its concert in Heman Park, University City, at 8 o'clock Friday evening. Other concerts this week will be given in the World's Fair Pavilion in Forest Park at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, in the Washington University quadrangle at 7:30 o'clock tonight, at the Holy Ghost School, 4528 North Market street, Wednesday night and at Forder School, Mehlville, Thursday night.

Town Square Group In 'Star-Spangled,' About Chicagoans

"STAR-SPANGLED," a comedy from the 1935-36 season on Broadway, will be presented for the first time in St. Louis Friday night at the Town Square Theater, which stages its shows in a roof garden at Delmar boulevard and Euclid avenue. The play will have five later performances on Friday and Saturday nights.

Robert Ardrey, author of the comedy, is one of the younger American playwrights and has been represented on Broadway also by "Casey Jones" and "How to Get Tough About It." Lately he had been commissioned by Guthrie McClintic to do a script for Katharine Cornell.

His subject in "Star-Spangled" is a Polish family, the Dzieszienewskis, who reside in the northwest part of Chicago. Mary, a widow, has a daughter, Anna, and three sons. Anna dances in a movie theater and wants to become a great emotional actress. One son, Greg, is a convict who escapes from prison and comes home. Another, Vincent, hopes to be elected to the Legislature, and the third, Stan, is a moronic ball player in the Texas League. The clash of ambitions and Greg's desire, to kill the political boss on whom Vincent is relying for support, create the complications.

The Town Square cast has Eula Morgan in the role of Mary, Harriet Barnes as Anna and Gene Marshall, Gilbert Croft and Gene Banks as the sons. Alexander Evans, Warren Smith, William Oliver and Edward Thurman have minor roles.

"Star-Spangled," according to the original schedule of the Town Square Theater, would have closed the season, but a fifth production, not yet definitely chosen, will have four special performances from Aug. 30 through Sept. 2.

STAGE PLAYS AND MUSIC

OPERA AUDITION FOR 'BABETTE'

WILBUR EVANS IS THE JOVIAL MONDRAGON IN THIS WEEK'S PRODUCTION

THE TITLE ROLE IN THE VICTOR HERBERT SUCCESS OF LONG AGO WILL BE TAKEN BY NANCY McCORD.

FROM the early years of the century, when Victor Herbert was at the height of his glory as a composer, when Fritzi Scheff was a shining theatrical star and light opera flourished, Municipal Opera tomorrow night, will bring to life Herbert's "Babette, a work it has never done before. Placing of the show in this year's repertory was in special tribute to the composer. who was born 80 years ago last February and died in 1924.

"Babette" had its premiere on Nov. 16, 1903, and starred Miss Scheff, who was induced to leave Metropolitan Opera to sing its title role. The singer won a personal triumph and in subsequent Herbert compositions, notably "Mlle. Modiste," made theatrical history.

The score, considered Herbert' most difficult, has 15 duets, waltzes and marches. Titles of some of them are "On the Other Side of the Wall," "Letters I Write," "I'll Bribe the Stars of Heaven," "My Lady, 'Tis of Thee," "Poor Pierrot," "Butterfly Waltz," "Borrow Trouble," "He Who'd Thrive Must Rise at Five" and "It's a Way We Have in Spain."

In the company selected for the production, Nancy McCord is Babette, Robert K. Shafer sings oposite her as Marcel. Wilbur Evans, who was in four Municipal Opera productions in 1937 and lately has sung on the radio with Jeanette MacDonald, returns in the role of Mondragon. Robert Chisholm, Joseph Vitale, Douglass Leavitt, Helen Raymond, Annamary Dickey, Arthur Kent, Al Downing, Eleanor Searle, Dorothy Johnson, Robert Betts and Frederic Persson are the other name players.

Solo dance roles will be taken by Valya Valentinoff and Nina Stroganova, along with two newcomers, Cesar Tapia and Teresita Osta, in Spanish numbers.

Tapia acquired some of his skill in the bull-fighting ring at Mexico City. When revolution drove him and his family out of the country, he turned to dancing and fame came to him quickly. He has spent six months in China, a year in Japan, and made several tours of Europe. Two years ago he appeared in several New York Metropolitan Opera productions. He has danced in the movies, also on Broadway.

Miss Osta was seven years old when she arrived in this country with her family from Spain. Her father was a musician, and her brother, Emilio Osta, has been a concert pianist and accompanist for Spain's greatest dancers, including the late Argentina and Escudero. Miss Osta, too, has danced in the movies and recently returned from an eight months' recital tour of Mexico.

—o-o—

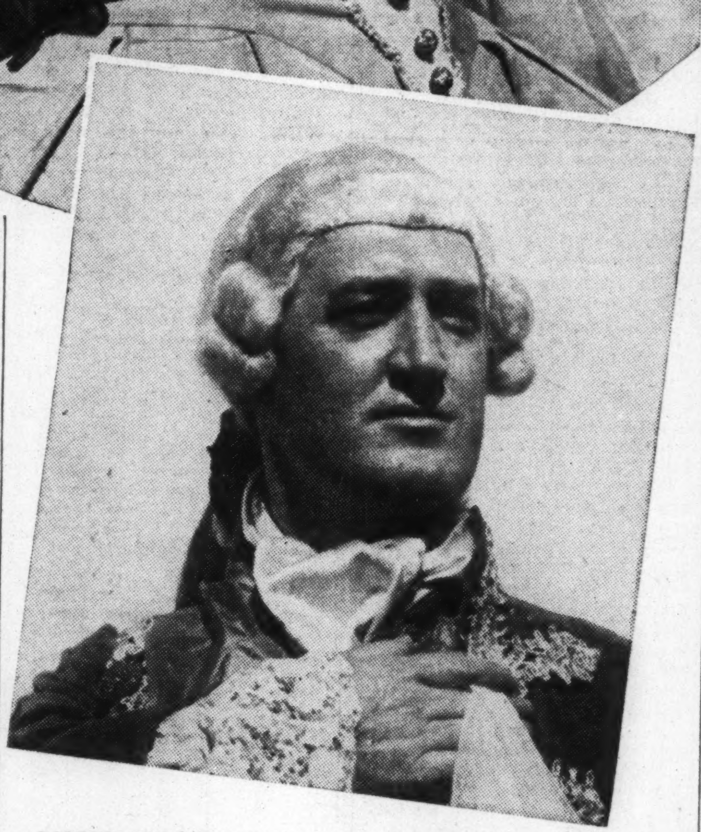
THE book and lyrics of "Babette" were written by Harry B. Smith, who was the librettist also for "The Fortune Teller," "Sweethearts," "Wizard of the Nile," "The Serenade," "The Viceroy," "The Enchantress," "Angle Face" and "The Girl in the Spotlight."

"Babette," in three acts, tells a story of Belgium during the time of the country's occupation by the Spaniards under Philip II. A spirit of revolution is rife against the invaders and upon this hangs the plot. Babette is the professional letter writer of the village, who falls in love with Marcel, a young artist, but supposes him to be enamored of Vinetta, daughter of Baltazar. Mondragon and Marcel, discovering that Baltazar is a spy, and really in league with the Spaniards, determines to outwit him.

In the second act Babette and her father appear disguised as strolling players, and learn that Baltazar and Vinetta, as Spanish envoys, have just arrived at an inn. With the assistance of Mondragon, they plan an exchange of costumes. Baltazar and his daughter are persuaded to don the stroller's clothes while Van Tympel and Babette appear as courtiers. The act ends with the arrest of Baltazar and Vinetta as mendicants and the departure of Babette and her father to interview the King of France at Versailles.

In the last act both the real and the fictitious envoys meet at the Court of France, It looks very dark for Van Tympel and his daughter, but the King, in admiration of Babette's singing talent, promises to grant any request she may make. She asks pardon for her father and permission to marry Marcel and he readily assents, thus bringing the opera to a happy ending.

Beginning Monday night, Aug. 14, Municipal Opera will revive George Gershwin's "Song of the Flame," with a cast including Lansing Hatfield, Nancy McCord, Lester Allen, Robert Chisholm, Doris Patston, Joseph Vitale and Norma Gallo. The season will be completed with the American premiere of "Victoria and Her Hussar," beginning Aug. 21.



ROBERT CHISHOLM, IN LACE AND BROCADE, IS BALTAZAR.

'There's Always Juliet' Next at Civic Theater

The cast of John Van Druten's comedy, "There's Always Juliet," which requires only four persons, will be made up of Sarah Selby, Julian Luckett, Dorothy Gillan and Frank Corley, when the Civic Theater presents the play in six performances beginning Tuesday night, Aug. 15. The comedy was chosen especially as a vehicle for Miss Selby, former actress with the St. Louis Little Theater, who recently has been living in Hollywood and for three years has been taking part in chain broadcasts of dramatic plays from Hollywood. She is now on vacation in St. Louis.

"There's Always Juliet" centers around two characters, Leonora Perrycost, a young Englishwoman, and Dwight Houston, an American architect, who meet at a tea in London. They are mutually attracted but Dwight is unexpectedly called to America and must carry on his courtship speedily. The ensuing comedy shows how he overcomes all objections.

Author-Producers To Star Paul Muni

NOW entering its second season on Broadway, the Playwrights' Company, composed of Maxwell Anderson, S. N. Behrman, Sidney Howard, Elmer Rice and Robert E. Sherwood, has three manuscripts ready and several others in various stages of completion.

The first to be tested is Howard's "Madam Will You Walk," set for production in October, with the author staging the show and Robert Edmond Jones doing the settings. After that will come Anderson's "Key Largo," bringing Paul Muni back from Hollywood, and later on Anderson will be represented again by a musical comedy written in collaboration with Kurt Weill. Elmer Rice's next work, already outlined on paper, will be a many-scened play of New York life, similar to his Pulitzer prize winner, "Street Scene."

In four tries last season, the Playwrights' Company scored three hits—the Pulitzer prize drama, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," now being filmed in Hollywood; "No Time for Comedy," the comedy starring Katharine Cornell, and "Knickerbocker Holiday," a musical that had a comfortable Broadway run and pulled itself out of the red by a profitable road tour. The one flop was "American Landscape," which the Playwrights still consider an outstanding work, despite the cool reception it got.

In fact the five dramatists consider that they have achieved precisely what they set out to do. That aim, as it was expressed by Maxwell Anderson at the time of the company's formation, was to create an organization that would enable its members to have a home in the theater and to put on their plays in their own way.

"In this country," said Anderson, "a playwright has always been a bird of passage, selling his script where he could, or where its chances looked best. We five men came together because we shared several strong and positive ambitions for the theater, some of them selfish, and because we wanted to quit hoboing from one office to another."

Samuel Goldwyn Aspires To Be Musical Impresario

Success of Picture Producer in Presenting Jascha Heifetz Leads Him to Plan "Great Music Festival," With All Kinds of Artists.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 5 (AP).

SAMUEL GOLDWYN, who is noted in these parts for astute decisions and bright sayings, is backing with cash his belief that the American public will pay to see outstanding classical productions. The reception which preview critics gave his "They Shall Have Music," marking the screen debut of Violinist Jascha Heifetz, provided the inspiration to produce "The Great Music Festival" next summer. He is negotiating with Conductor Arturo Toscanini and Composer Deems Taylor regarding acting or advisory roles.

"I know that great music has a definite commercial as well as artistic place on the screen," Goldwyn said. "I intend to bring to Hollywood some of the great artists of Europe, particularly those who have no place now in which to express themselves. I will put them in a picture with outstanding American artists so that the film as a whole will be a contribution to the musical history of our time."

The chances are that Mr. Goldwyn will do just what he says. Since he has become in recent years the most unpredictable of Hollywood producers, the most concerned with artistic merit as well as a shrewd innovator and successful business man, he will go about it in his own way, get reams of publicity and probably emerge the winner.

As yet there is no announcement from Toscanini but if the great conductor does decide to come to Hollywood and exercise the supervision that distinguished Salzburg at its best, he will not be without company or precedent.

Leopold Stokowski broke into pictures with "Big Broadcast of 1937," took a prominent place in "100 Men and a Girl" and did the virtually impossible in winning the friendship of the elusive Greta Garbo, which is no slight record for a conductor. Lately Stokowski and Walt Disney have been collaborating on a cartoon which will have a Stokowski score.

Recently Paramount enlisted Dr. Walter Damrosch, 77-year-old dean of American conductors, to make his debut in Bing Crosby's picture, "The Star Maker." Word comes now that Dr. Damrosch has dedicated his new and second opera under the title of "Cyrano de Bergerac," to Bing.

LOS ANGELES itself, as a movie, radio and vaaction center, has more than its share of musical activities and draws many famous artists and conductors from this country and abroad to its concert stages. Among these is Conductor-Composer Albert Coates, here to conduct summer symphonies at the Hollywood Bowl, who has his own idea for stimulating the American musical life.

Coates believes the United States could reap a great musical harvest by adding to the Preisdent's cabinet a Secretary of Arts. The Secretary of Arts, Coates proposes, would establish bureaus in each state—just as bureaus operate under the Secretary of Agriculture, for example—to put music upon a firm economic basis.

"The time is ripe now," said Coates. "World conditions have forced the greatest musicians to live in America. They are on hand to aid in perfection of technique which will enable American musicians to express what in the future is to be known as American music."

Portly, energetic Coates, Russia-born of English parents and trained at Petrograd, Leipzig and London, is making his first visit to this country in 11 years. In an interview he was unenthusiastic at what he found here.

"At the moment music in America seems to have no real goal," he observed. "We have too many musicians who get nowhere. Most of them do not make a living. Excellent musicians are pushed aside by those more able to afford exploitation."

Russia, said Coates, has the right idea—and an American Secretary of Arts would help the United States along the same path.

"The secret of it all lies," he explained, "in the fact that the Russian musicians, encouraged in the beginning by Peter the Great, went to the music centers of Europe for their education but returned to their own country for their inspiration.

"Composers, singers, instrumentalists absorbed the Russian idiom, hence the distinctive Russian character of their music. In the same manner, Americans who have traveled abroad for their technique and who have studied under teachers educated abroad are now ready to turn to America for the real inspiration which will make their country's music distinctly theirs."

Examinations for radio operator licenses will be held in Room 516, in the Federal Building at Market and Twelfth streets, this week as follows: Friday, 9 a. m., all classes of commercial operators; 12 noon, Class A and B amateurs; Saturdays, 9 a. m., Class A and B amateurs only. These examinations are for applicants living within 125 miles airline distance from St. Louis.

J. B. Priestley, the British author, is writing a novel especially for radio. He has been commissioned by the British Broadcasting Corporation to write a book that can be read on the air in 12 chapters without dramatization or sound effects, starting in September. The radio novel will be titled "Let the People Sing," and its locale will be rural England.

Michael Loring, the baritone, will shift his song programs to Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4:30 p. m. and Fridays at 5:30, on the CBS net.

Here and There on the Air

Power and Quality of Short Wave Stations, W2XAD and W2XAF, Stepped Up—University of Chicago to Survey Popular Opinion on Round Table Topics—Network News—Studio Gossip.

IN ADDITION to installing new type 100,000-watt tubes in connection with special beam transmitting aerials to give an effective broadcast power of around 600,000 watts, General Electric has further increased the carrier power of its short wave stations, W2XAD and W2XAF, and improved the quality of transmission. This has been effected by installing peak limiting amplifiers which enable the two stations to broadcast their programs at a higher power level. New line equalizers have been placed between the Schenectady, N. Y., studios and the transmitter to extend the tonal range of the broadcasts from 5000 to 8000 cycles so as to include the harmonics and overtones of virtually all musical instruments.

TESTING a special survey technique worked out in collaboration with the department of sociology, the radio department of the University of Chicago is preparing to sample the opinions of Chicagoans on the discussion subjects before the Round Table broadcasts on Sundays and to report the findings on the air. A telephone map of Chicago, with income and occupation breakdown, will be used in the survey. The speakers in the Round Table discussions, which are carried on KSD at 12:30 noon Sundays, will interpret this poll of opinion.

Using Buenos Aires and Rio de Janiero as his bases of operation, Edward Tomlinson, the NBC's authority on South America, will broadcast on-the-spot reports on political and economic conditions in Eastern South America in a weekly 4:15 p. m. Thursdays series on the WJZ net set to start Sept. 7. He will interview the presidents and other high officials of the various countries and between broadcasts will tour the hinterlands.

HILDA SCOTT, 16-year-old student in Hickman High School, Columbia, Mo., and James Gardner, 18, of Blewett High School, St. Louis, will take part in a People's Platform discussion of the question, "What Does Youth Owe America, and What Does America Owe Youth?", at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday on the CBS net and WBBM (770 kc.).

Miss Scott and Gardner were the first prize winners in a youth forum competition. Miss Scott won first prize for the best essay of the 317,161 entered, writing on the subject of the coming broadcast. Born in India where her parents were missionaries, she was brought to this country 12 years ago on the death of her father. She plans to enter the University of Missouri this fall. Gardner won first prize in the art division of the competition, against 44,310 others, with an oil painting titled "New Frontiers for American Youth." He plans to enter Carnegie Tech.

The other speakers in the broadcast will be 18-year-old Irene Krantz, of Hackensack, N. J. and Philip Craig, 18, of Jacksonville, Fla. Both won scholarships in the 1939 Elks' National Foundation competition.

CHARLEY STOOKEY, who has gone from KMOX to be the CBS network's farm reporter, will devote his program at 3 p. m. today to the Kansas wheat situation . . . Parker Fennelly and Arthur Allen, the Stebbins Boys of past radio years, will play the leads in a Radio Guild performance of a Merritt P. Allen comedy of Vermont rural life, at 5:30 on the WJZ net and WENR . . . Billie Bailey will sing with James Melton and Francia White at 7 p. m. . . . Pickups from the lighthouse on Beacon Island off the Massachusetts coast, the Ambrose Channel lightship at the entrance to New York harbor, the North Point Light on Lake Michigan, off Milwaukee, and the dangerous Tillamook Rock lighthouse on the Oregon coast at the entrance to the Columbia River, are planned for a broadcast at 8 o'clock tonight on the WEAF net and WMAQ, marking the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Lighthouse Service.

Nine-year-old Lorin Maezel, who rehearses and directs music of famous composers from memory, will conduct the National Music Camp concert next Sunday. Born in France of American parents, the boy early displayed musical talent by reading at sight the score of a Haydn symphony. Since 1838, he has conducted the University of Idaho orchestra, the WPA orchestra of Los Angeles and the National High School Orchestra. He will conduct network concerts by the National High School Orchestra from the New York Fair Aug. 18 and 20.

Tomorrow, Joe Emerson will observe the beginning of the sixth year of the Hymns of All Churches program. . . . Fayette Krum's new serial, Thunder Over Paradise, is set to start tomorrow on a run at 8 a. m. Monday through Friday on the WJZ net. . . . The CBS net's serial, When a Girl Marries, will be moved to the 10:15 a. m. spot. . . . A new Monday, Wednesday and Friday serial on the CBS net is called Uncle Jonathan. It centers around a mythical newspaper, the Bottsville Bugle. The title role is played by Orth Bell, a veteran radio actor. . . . A serial of married life titled Harvey and Dell, set for 6:45 p. m. Monday through Saturday on the WJZ net, comes from the studios of WBZ, Boston. . . . Lew Lehr, the comedian, is billed for tomorrow evening's Magic Key period.

Ethel Barrymore will play Information, Please, expert Tuesday night, and Capt. John D. Craig, the deep sea diver, will be on the Inside Story program. . . . Gabriel Heatter will direct Dave Elman's Hobby Lobby program Wednesday evening. Thursday night, WLW will broadcast a Lost Plays hour performance of David Belasco's "La Belle Russe," at 7 o'clock, and WBBM will carry the Columbia Workshop production of William Saroyan's drama, titled "Radio Play," at 8 o'clock. Arch Oboler's play will be carried by WMAQ at 7:30 Saturday night.

Saroyan's play is a comedy at the expense of broadcasting. Raymond Scott and his band and choir will take part in the production, and Jerry Colonna, the comedian, will play the role of an opera singer.

Maxine Sullivan will begin her song series on the CBS net on Tuesday instead of today.

HENRY HUNTER, the movie actor, has returned to Chicago from Hollywood, to play the title role in the serial, The Affairs of Anthony, which he had when the serial was first broadcast last fall. He also steps back into another role, that of Jerry Quick, the assistant forest ranger, in the Uncle Sam's Forest Rangers part of the National Farm and Home Hour . . . Dave Elman, conductor of the Hobby Lobby program, who started on a vacation two weeks ago, was stricken with appendicitis at Fargo, N. D., and was taken to a hospital there for an operation. He is reported to be convalescing nicely . . . Del Casino, the radio singer, is slated for the leading role in a movie based on the life of Rudolph Valentino. He is distantly related to the late motion picture star . . . Frank Parker has been given a contract renewal for the Burns and Allen show, which will be back Oct. 9 on the CBS chain . . . Last Tuesday, Jane and Goodman Ace began their tenth year on the air . . . A new CBS net show, titled Court of Reflection and scheduled at 8:15 p. m. Saturdays, comes from San Francisco and features Jimmy Brierly, singer, the Buccaneers male trio, Dorothy Lee, actress, and Jack Joy's orchestra . . . The Melodies "hit" program of a decade ago will be resumed Aug. 20 for a run at 3 p. m. Sundays on the WEAF net. It will feature Jimmy Shields, a young Canadian tenor; the Norsemen Quartet and O'Artega's orchestra.

Reports from New York are that One Man's Family may be shifted in the fall to the first half of the hour Thursday night which will be vacated by Rudy Vallee's variety show after Sept. 28, and that Eddie Cantor may take the remainder of the hour. . . . Vicki Viola, a West Coast radio actress, has landed the lead in the Career Woman serial. . . . Jimmy Fiddler is to vacation from radio from Aug. 10 to Sept. 12. . . . Arthur Tracy, the one-time Street Singer, has returned to New York from a long series of singing engagements abroad. . . . The football game between the College All-Stars and the New York Giants, professional champions, will be broadcast Wednesday night, Aug. 30, on the WJZ net.

Mozart 'Haffner' Symphony at 1:00 This Afternoon

JOHN HERRICK, baritone of the Revelers Quartet, and Henrietta Schumann, pianist, will be the soloists with the string quartet in today's Radio City concert, at 10 a. m. on KWK. "Southland Symphony," by Allen Grant, NBC pianist on the Chicago staff, will be played in the National Music Camp concert at 12 noon on KWK. Elgar's "Froissart" overture, Mozart's "Haffner Symphony" and Sibelius' tone poem, "Tapiola," are programmed for Howard Barlow's concert at 1 p. m. on KMOX. Mischa Mischakoff, violinist, will be the soloist with the Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra at 1 p. m. on WMAQ. Brahms' Fourth Symphony, Warlock's "Capriol" suite and a Bach Prelude will be played by the NBC Symphony at 6 p. m. on WJZ and the WJZ net, Izler Solomon, conductor of the Illinois Symphony, directing. At 8:30 p. m., WLW, WSM and the WEAF net will carry the National Symphony concert in Washington and WENR will broadcast a Grant Park concert. At 9 p. m., WLW will broadcast part of a Cincinnati grand opera performance.

Other radio concerts this week will include:

Tomorrow—At 6:30 p. m. on KSD, Margaret Speaks and Alfred Wallenstein's orchestra; Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Song of India," "Marchita," a song by Puccini, and Herbert's "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and music by Coates, Lehar and Grainger. 8 p. m. on KSD, concert conducted by Josef Pasternack.

Wednesday—7:30 on KMOX and CBS net, New York Philharmonic Orchestra. 8 p. m. on KWK and WLW, National Symphony Orchestra, and on WENR and WBBM, Grant Park concert.

JOSEF PASTERNACK, symphony, opera and radio conductor of note, will take over as musical director of KSD's 8 p. m. Monday concerts tomorrow. Pasternack, who began conducting for radio in 1928, plans to continue the series of international music nights. His program for tomorrow night will include the prelude to the third act of "Lohengrin," a medley of "Lorelei," "Du, Du Liegst Mir Im Hertzen," "Za Ein Knab" and "Puppchen," and "Two Hearts in Three-Quarter Time." Opal Craven will sing Brahms' "Lullaby" and the Continentals Quartet, "Gaudeamus Igitur."

Miriam Hopkins is billed for George Jessel's period Wednesday night on KSD.

Jose Iturbi, the pianist and conductor, will be Bob Burns' guest at 8 o'clock Thursday night.

Lucille Manners has programmed the Intermezzo from "Cavaleria Rusticana" among her songs for KSD's concert at 6 p. m. Friday.

Labor Leaders Interviewed in New KSD Series

A. F. of L. and CIO Officials Scheduled—Double Melodies Program to Start Tomorrow at 5:45.

LEADERS of the American Federation of Labor, the CIO and industry will be interviewed in a series of programs scheduled on KSD at 8:30 Friday nights and presented by the NBC and the United States Department of Labor with Marshall Domock, Assistant Secretary of Labor, as the interviewer. William Green, president of the A. F. of L., started the series last Friday night. Sidney Hillman, president of the CIO Garment Workers' Union, will be interviewed next Friday; Daniel Tobin, president of the Truck Drivers' Union of the A. F. of L., Aug. 18; Philip Murray, vice-president of the CIO, Aug. 25; Matthew Woll, vice-president of the A. F. of L., Sept. 1, and Lee Pressman, CIO general counsel, Sept. 8. The business leaders will be interviewed Friday nights, Sept. 15, 22 and 29 and Oct. 6, 13 and 20.

Alice Frost, who has the title part in the Big Sister serial, will take the second feminine role in Tuesday night's Mr. District Attorney broadcast in which Raymond Johnson, playing the lead, will be supported also by Eleanor Silver, Maxine Jennings, Maurice Franklin and Leonard Doyle.

One of the songs from the "Wizard of Oz" movie will be featured by Johnny Green and his orchestra in Tuesday night's Johnny Presents period on KSD.

Music from George White's "Scandals of 1939" will be played by Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra Wednesday night as the curtain rises on the Atlantic City premiere of this new revue.

WASHINGTON U. TO ISSUE RESEARCH WORK PAMPHLETS

Booklets Will Show How Institution Is Serving Social, Industrial Life of City.

Washington University is preparing to issue a series of pamphlets designed to show how it is serving the educational, social and industrial life of St. Louis, it was announced yesterday.

The pamphlets, being prepared by a committee headed by Harry B. Wallace, a vice-president of the university corporation, will point out the facilities which the institution offers for research and experiment, beyond the primary function of instruction in classroom and laboratory.

Chancellor George R. Throop said St. Louisans were not familiar with the work the university was rendering and was prepared to render. He said the work of the various departments would be described, and that an effort would be made to point out the needs for present support and the possibilities of future growth.

Other members of the committee are Dr. Edmund V. Cowdry, professor of cytology; Dr. Thomas E. Blackwell, comptroller; Douglas V. Martin Jr. and E. K. Harrison, alumni representatives.

Loretto Sisters' Retreat.

Two hundred Loretto Sisters from Loretto schools in 11 states will begin the annual eight-day religious retreat today at Webster College. The Rev. Thomas J. Motherway, S. J., of Chicago, is retreat master.

BUSINESSES TO BE GROUPED FOR UNITED CHARITIES DRIVE

Lists to Be Made to Permit Thorough Solicitation of Employes in Campaign.

A plan for the grouping of business and industrial organizations by types, in order to permit thorough solicitation of employes in the United Charities campaign, was announced yesterday by Dudley French, chairman of the employes' division.

Employing organizations will be listed in 20 specific groups and one miscellaneous for purposes of the drive. The list includes headings of retailers, brewers, chemical firms, apparel concerns, newspapers and utilities. About 2500 men and women will be assigned to solicitation under group chairmen. The employes' division got 135,000 subscriptions, aggregating more than $600,000, in last year's drive.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS' MEETING

Minnesota Governor to Be Among Speakers Here.

Undersecretary of the Treasury John W. Hanes and Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota will speak at the convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters, opening Sept. 25 at Hotel Jefferson. The meeting will continue for four days.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, former United States Minister to Denmark, now a faculty member at Monticello College, Godfrey, Ill., also will speak.

SCOUTS AT IRONDALE LEARNING LIFE-SAVING

Nature-Study Hikes, Basket Weaving Also on Program This Summer.

Nature-study hikes, basket weaving, and instruction in swimming and life saving are included in the program this summer at Irondale, one of the two St. Louis Council Boy Scout summer camps. Both Camp Irondale and Lion's Den will continue to Aug. 20.

Last night, at a council campfire, names of candidates for the Order of the Arrow, national scouting society, were announced in a tapping ceremony. The Order of the Dagger, an organization of scouts attending Irondale for the second time, is also preparing this week for initiations.

A new feature this season at Irondale is night swimming in the illuminated pool. A swimming party, following an all-day hike, was held there last Wednesday.

Under a new system which permits each unit to plan its own activities for the two-week session, many troops are holding merit badge tests in order to qualify for advancement in rank. Some units already have held courts of honor at the camp.

There is a large enrollment in a class of basketry conducted by Ed Greve, chairman of the camp's troop committee. Water safety has been the principal study for members of Troop 362, of Richmond Heights.

Athletic contests are part of the daily program, but the campers enjoyed themselves most last week when a baseball team of troop leaders defeated the camp staff team by a 5 to 2 score.

Troop 163 of Curby Memorial Church will begin its seventh annual lone troop camp today on the outskirts of Columbia, Ill. Scoutcraft and merit badge work will be emphasized. A special campfire and parents' night will be held Wednesday.

Scout Elmer Taylor Jr. was advanced to Eagle scout rank in a court of honor held recently by Troop 74, Tyler Place Church. Commissioner P. W. Judah of the Central District made the award and also advanced Scouts William Swenson, Norris Clark and William Denny to Life rank.

Twenty experienced scouters will serve as patrol leaders in the St. Louis Council scout leadership training course to be held Aug. 26-27 at Irondale. William J. Puffer, educational director of the council, is in charge.

Jesuits to Conduct Novena.

The Jesuit Fathers of St. Louis University High School will conduct a nine-day novena at the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes, adjoining St. Raymond's Church, 931 La Salle street, beginning tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

56 ST. LOUIS U. DEGREES

They Will Be Given to Summer Session Students.

Twenty St. Louisans are among the 56 candidates who will receive degrees from St. Louis University for studies completed during the summer session, it was announced today by the Rev. Wilfred M. Mallon, S. J., director of the session. A number of the graduates are members of religious orders.

There will be no formal commencement exercises. Recipients of degrees will receive notification by mail.

W. M. FENWICK IN SERVICE OF KATY RAILROAD 50 YEARS

Passenger Traffic Manager Given Diamond-Studded Emblem by President of Lines.

William M. Fenwick, passenger traffic manager of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Lines, received a diamond-studded gold service emblem yesterday from Matthew S. Sloan, president of the railroad, in appreciation of his 50 years of service for the company.

Fenwick began working for the Katy Lines as a messenger when he was 15 years old. Five years ago he became general passenger agent. He worked as messenger and stenographer at Sedalia, Mo., and Parsons, Kan. In 1896 he became division clerk in the passenger traffic department in St. Louis. In 1900 he was made chief rate clerk and in 1903 chief clerk. He lives at 530 Union boulevard.

GAY SARATOGA OPENS AGAIN

THIS country's oldest race track opened its diamond jubilee season last Monday at Saratoga Springs, New York, and demonstrated, by the quality of its patronage, that it is still one of the most fashionable of amusement resorts. The track is operated by the Saratoga Association for the Improvement of the Breed of Horses, but it has always attracted many people who were more interested in social affairs than in equine genetics. Around the turn of the century appearance at the Saratoga races was almost a must for a socialite, and the lace parasols and wasp waists on the porches of the United States and Grand Union hotels were as much a part of a Saratoga August as the scampering of Thoroughbreds around the green-bordered, oval track. Opening day this season, the seventy-fifth, was the most festive in years, enlivened by many gay parties and attended by a large number of people of wealth and social prominence. Here are some of the scenes and persons photographed at the track that day.

POLICE VS. PICKETS IN CLEVELAND

THE strike of 7000 tool and die makers, members of the CIO-United Automobile Workers, in 12 General Motors plants flared up in violence last Monday morning in a riot outside the Fisher Body plant at Cleveland. Forty-six persons were injured when clubs were swung, tear gas discharged and bricks thrown in a battle between 200 police and members of a picket line of 5000 unionists. Police charged the trouble started when a brick was thrown through the window of a car carrying non-striking workers into the plant. There was another clash in the afternoon when mounted police charged the picket line to force passage for an automobile. After a night in which 300 workers were besieged in the plant, a "riot zone" 500 yards deep around the plant was ordered cleared, except for five pickets at each gate. Strikers said the order was illegal, and began a court fight on it. Meanwhile, they picketed workers' homes. Negotiations were being conducted at Detroit to settle the strike, begun July 5 over demands for wage increases, overtime pay adjustments and union labels on G. M. C. tools.

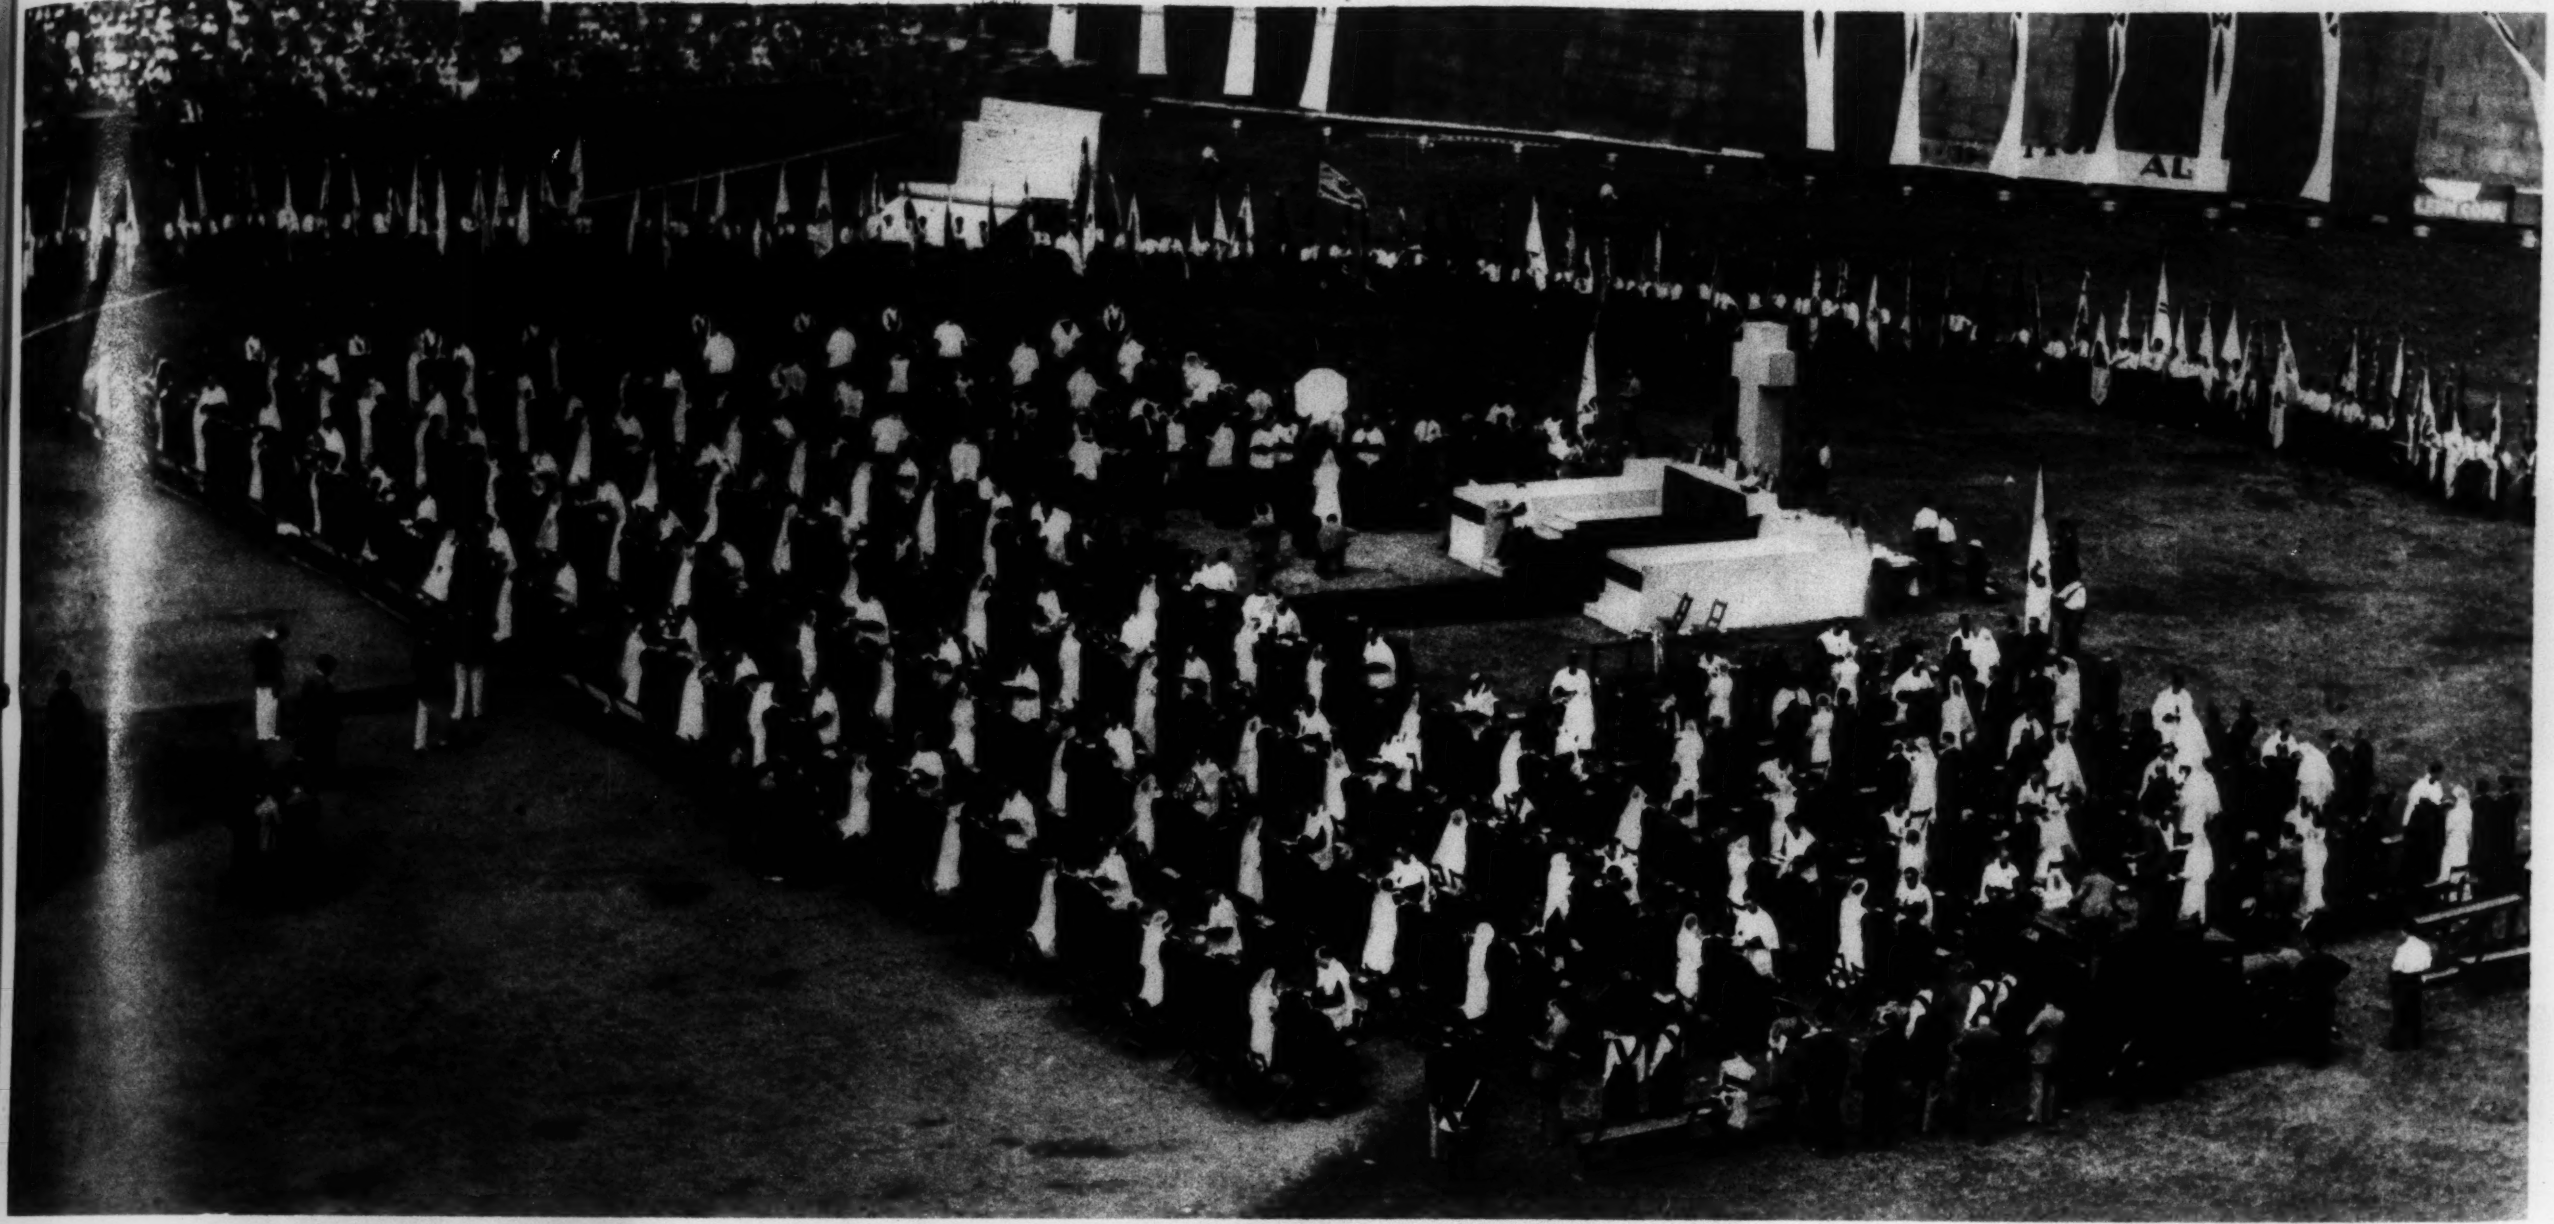
Fighting Divorce With Mass Marriage

Why and How 106 Couples Were Made Man and Wife at One Time in Montreal



General view of the mass marriage in the Montreal baseball park, designed as a publicity stroke to "sell" marriage to the world. The altar was built just behind second base.

The dressing room of the Montreal Royals' baseball team was used by the Archbishop and five visiting bishops.

The organist played hymns over loud-speakers, while choirs and thousands of Jocists (members of the Jeunesse Ouvriere Catholique) joined in.

A MASS marriage of 106 young French-Canadian couples at the Montreal baseball park July 23 to "combat the unfavorable publicity marriage is getting from the world's divorce courts," also was the beginning of an experiment to test the value of thorough pre-marital preparation.

The brides and bridegrooms, all members of the Jeunesse Ouvriere Catholique (Young Catholic Workers' Movement), had taken marriage preparation courses for a year under the supervision of the Reverend Father Henri Roy, founder of the movement. He had reported a survey of 35,000 members of the J. O. C. in 123 cities and towns indicated 50 per cent of newlyweds were not mentally prepared and 20 per cent were not financially ready for marriage, and that the majority of marriage failures were due to lack of knowledge of important aspects of marital life. For the next five years the marriages of the 106 couples will be subjected to regular surveys and at the end a textbook on the results of the experiment will be compiled.

Thirty-seven of the brides were below 21 years old, three were over 30, and 14 were older than their husbands. The average bride was 23, the average bridegroom 26. The men earn an average of $25 a week. The ceremony took place before an audience of 25,000 in the stadium. The men met their brides for mass and holy communion at a cathedral, had wedding breakfast at a hotel, then all proceeded to the stadium. The girls wore white, and the men, with the exception of one who donned morning clothes, had blue suits. A priest and two witnesses were assigned to each pair for the wedding ceremony. One pair, Henri Seguin and Therese Seguin of Montreal, knelt at a red leather throne to the left of an altar before Bishop Coadjutor Georges Gauthier. Words of the ceremony, in French, were carried throughout the park by an amplification system. Only one pair kissed at the end.

Hours later, during the games and pageantry that followed as part of the J. O. C. annual congress, 125 persons, mostly girls, collapsed from exhaustion, excitement and heat.

An out-of-town couple marching through the archway of J. O. C. banners at the stadium.

As the 106 couples entered the stadium, the large bell in the foreground tolled.

ST. LOUIS GETS SCOOTER CONSCIOUS

Sometimes it's better to have a motor-driven scooter than an automobile—as, for instance, when the parking space is like this. The tank holds a gallon of gasoline which is good for about 100 miles.

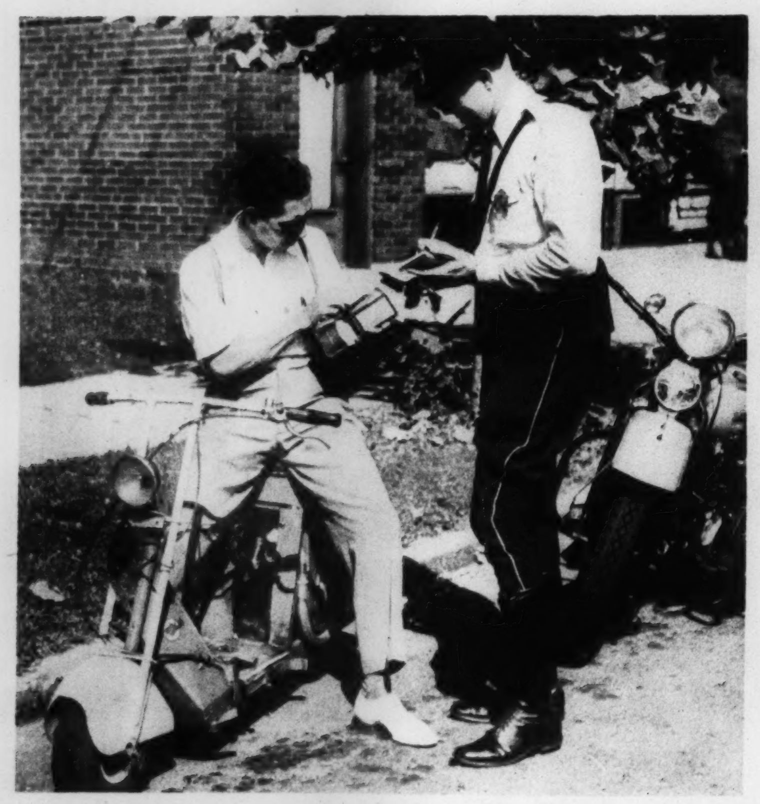
The oldest scooter rider in St. Louis probably is R. L. Gurney, 73, factory representative of a tool company. He carries his wares with him in the attached bags and pouches.

Messenger boys find the motor-driven scooter speedier than the bicycle.

It's a little crowded but a family or group can get out for a spin if each member is willing to sit tight and not rock the scooter.

The scooter on the golf links.



If the rider lacks a driver's license, a State or city motor vehicle license, he's in line for a ticket.

ST. LOUIS, which paid but scant interest to scooters for two years, suddenly has become interested. In the parks these little two-wheeled, gasoline-driven machines are ridden for pleasure, and on the streets in business and residential sections delivery boys, messengers and even salesmen ride them. Selling for from $60 to $250 and varying from three-quarter to two-and-a-half horsepower, they have a low speed of three miles an hour, a high of 38 and average around 100 miles to the gallon. Some of them have to be started by pushing, others have starters. Certain of the more expensive of these motor-driven scooters have almost as much equipment as an automobile—head, tail and dash lights, generator, two-speed clutch, and horn. They can be ridden on dusty and on gravel roads but not on roads pitted with large holes or rutted. One of the 10 dealers in the city and county estimates that there are 250 motor-driven scooters in use about St. Louis. They are regarded as motor vehicles with driver's, state and city licenses required.

Scooters without starters have to be pushed a few feet before they start putt-putting. That's embarrassing at busy intersections.

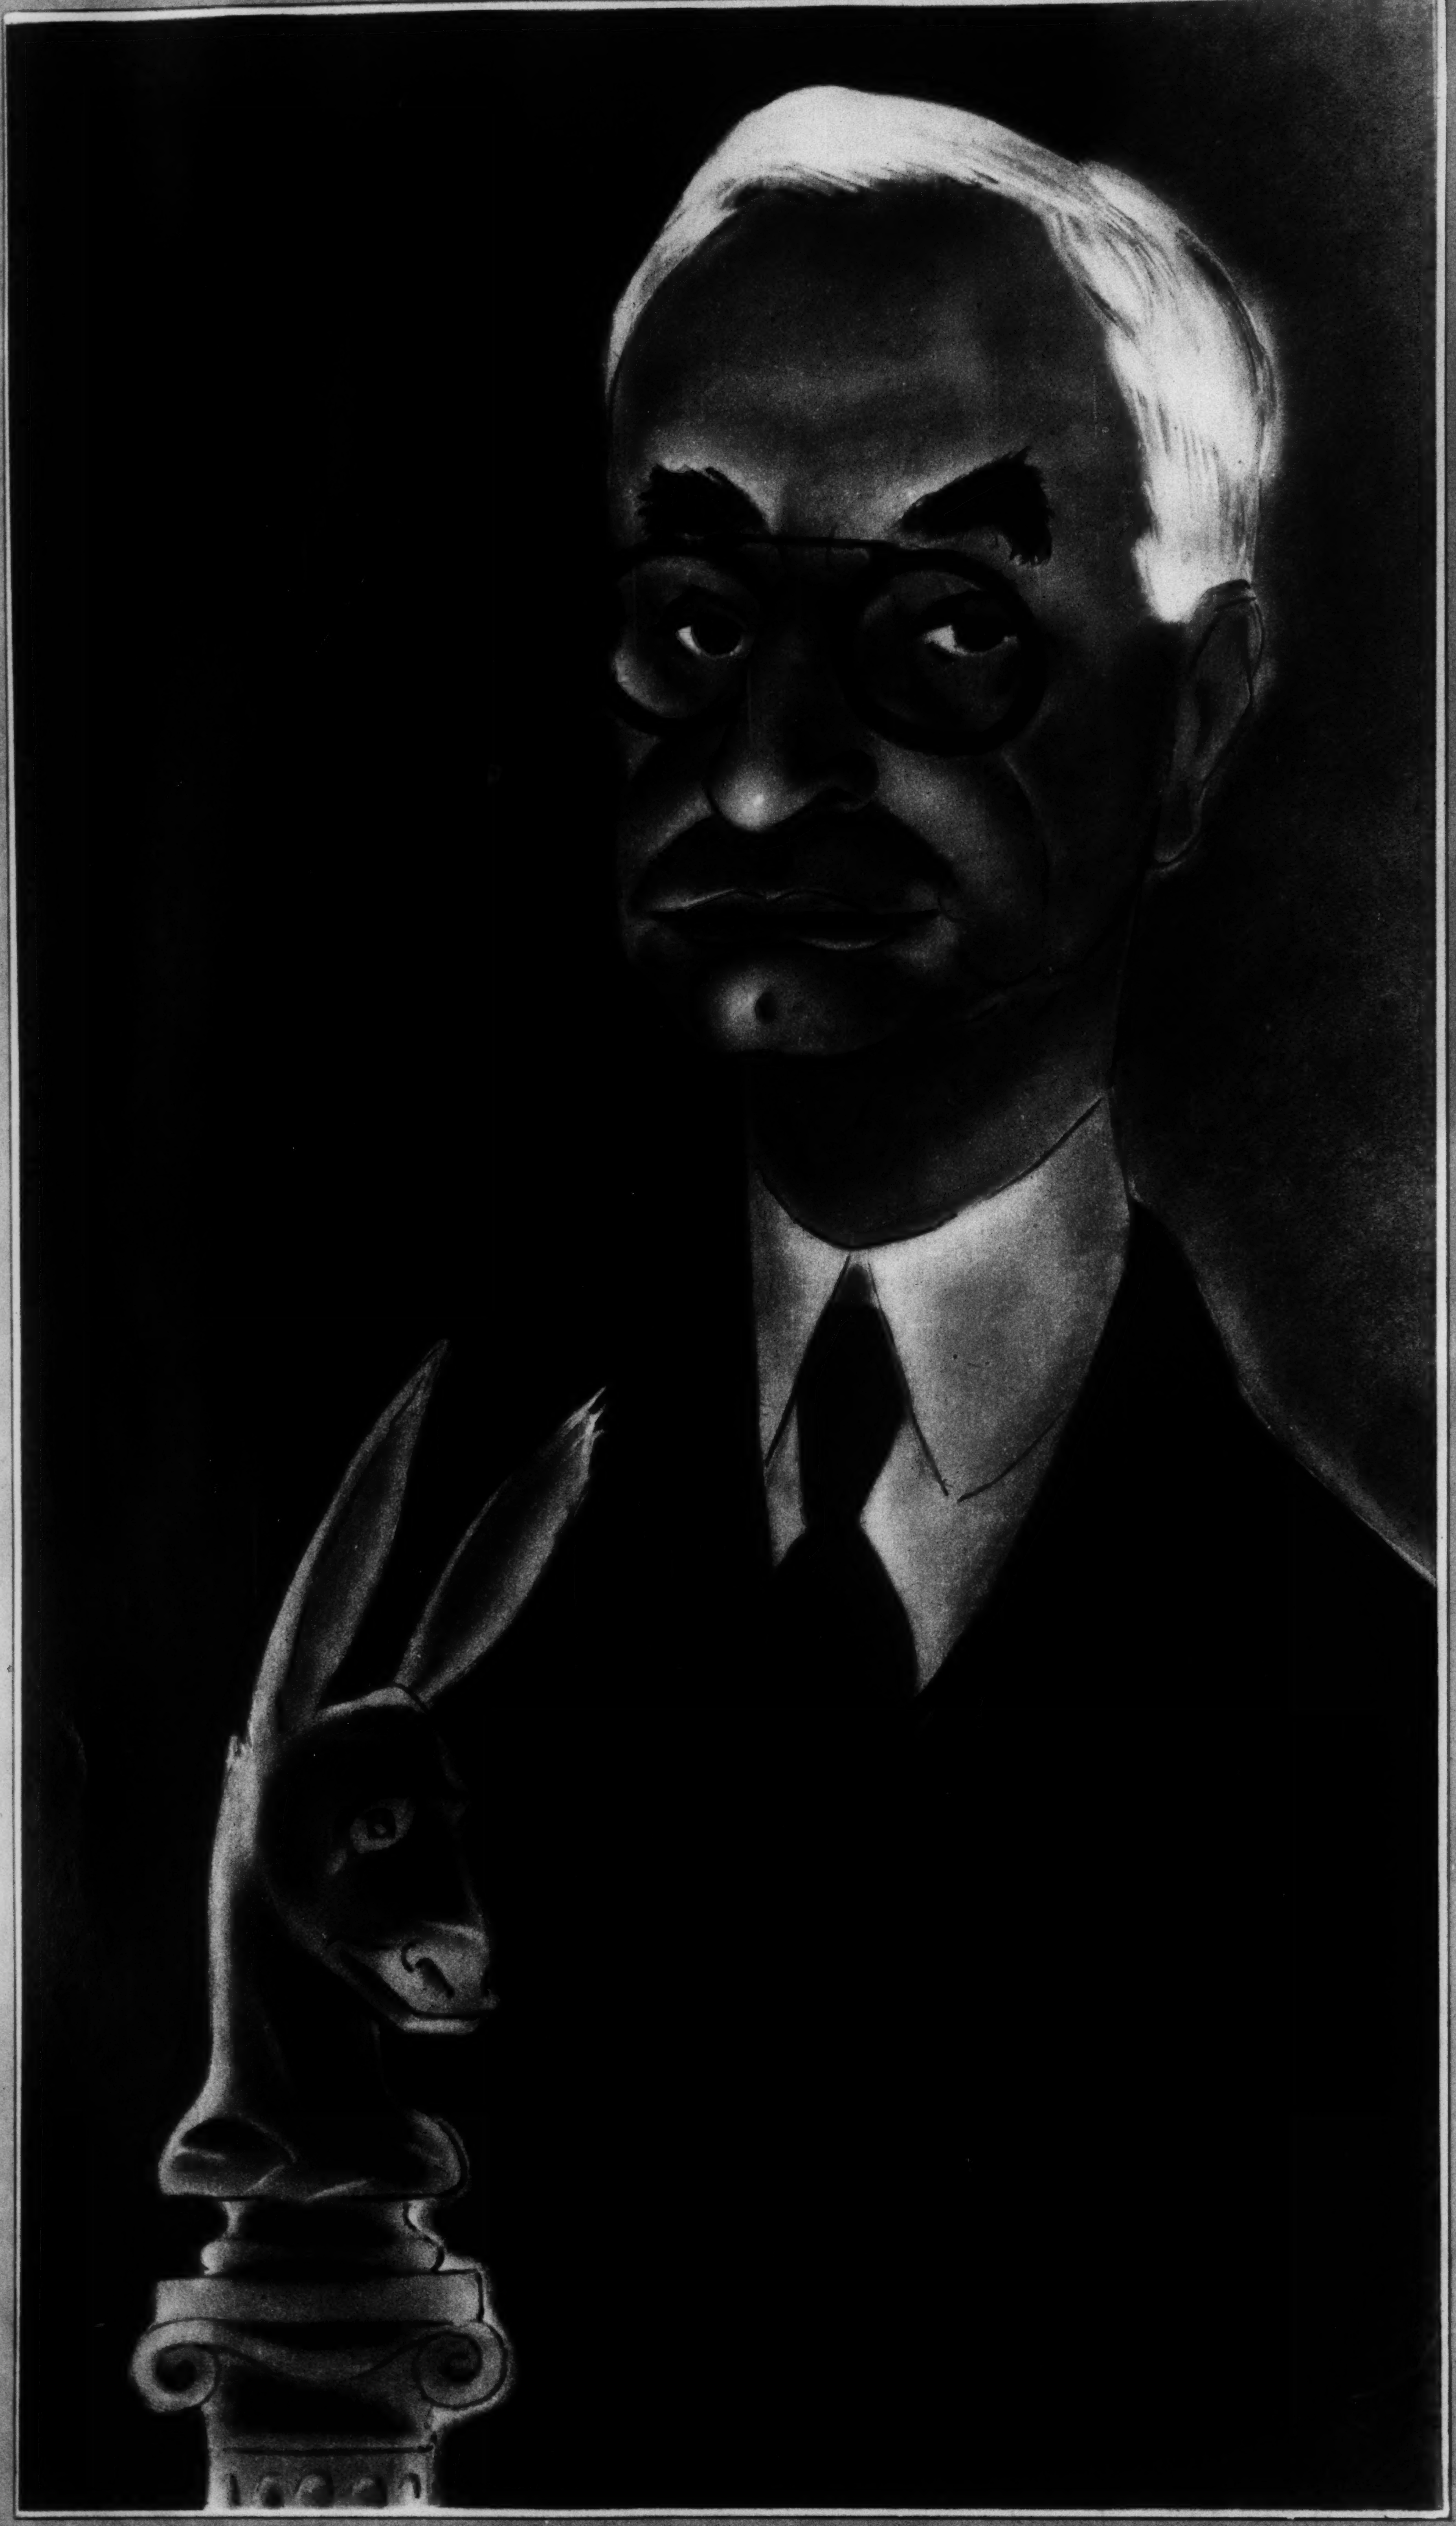
MRS. JAMES MARSH DOUGLAS

MISS MARY ELIZABETH LUMAGHI, daughter of Mrs. Louis F. Lumaghi, and Judge James Marsh Douglas, son of the late Judge and Mrs. Walter Bond Douglas, were married yesterday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, 30 Windermere place. The Rev. Dr. Truman B. Douglass, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, performed the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Mary Institute and of Smith College and is a member of the Junior League. She was a maid of honor at the 1927 Veiled Prophet's Ball. Judge Douglas was graduated from Washington University and the law school of the same institution. He served as a First Lieutenant of Field Artillery during the World War. Since 1937 he has been a member of the State Supreme Court.

The wedding trip will be spent in New York and Bermuda, after which Judge and Mrs. Douglas will return to reside in Jefferson City.

Bride of the Week



QUESTION MARKS OF 1940

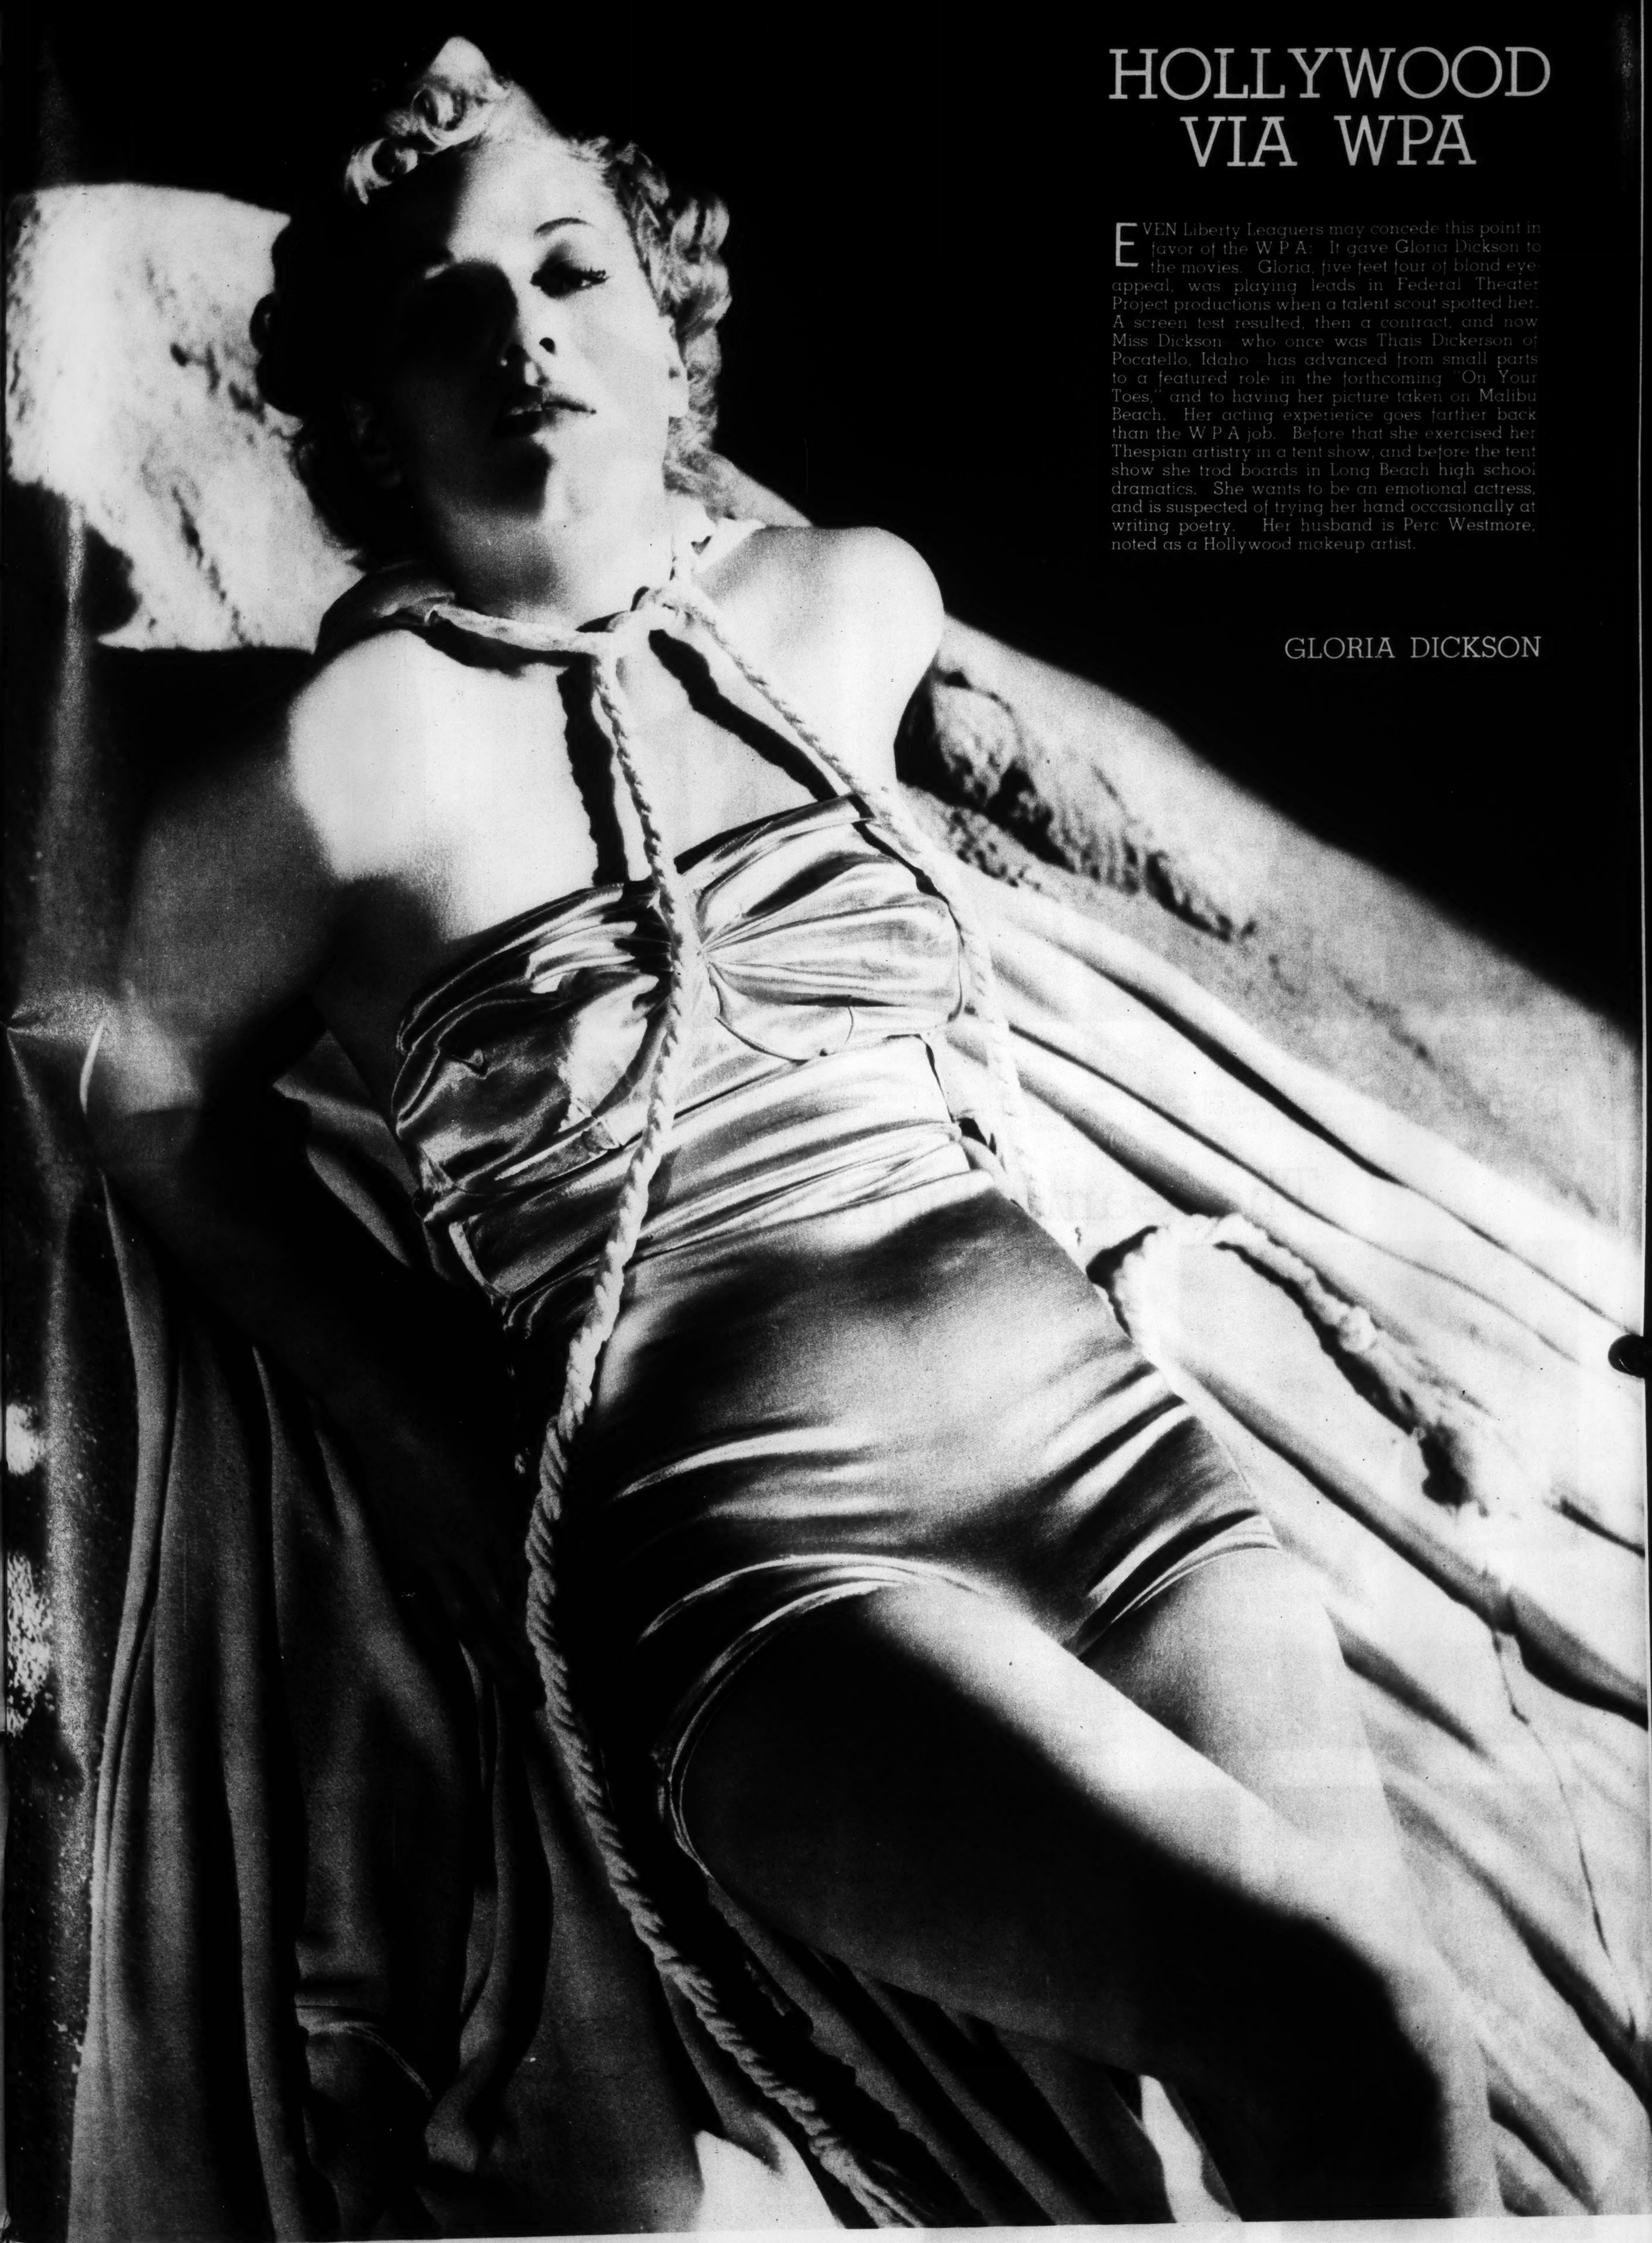
4. CORDELL HULL

CORDELL HULL, Secretary of State since Franklin D. Roosevelt became President, began his political career as a boy, electioneering through the hills of his native Tennessee. He was a delegate to a State Democratic convention when he was 19. After practicing law a little, captaining an infantry company in the Spanish-American War, serving as a member of the Tennessee House of Representatives and as a Judge, he was elected to Congress. From 1907 until 1931 he was in the House, except for an interval of two years, and he was a Senator when appointed Secretary of State. In the early '20s he was chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He was a "favorite son" candidate for President in the 1928 convention which nominated Alfred E. Smith. Hull is probably best known to the public for his long labor to remove barriers to international trade—the surest way, in his mind, to world peace. Reciprocal trade agreements with many nations and application of the "good neighbor" policy to the Americas have marked his administration of the State Department. It has been said of him that he "thinks of peace in terms of economics." In Congress he was prominent in income and inheritance tax and tariff legislation. He is 67 years old, his wife is the former Rose Frances Whitney of Staunton, Virginia, and his home is in Carthage, Tennessee. Calm and dignified, even gentle, in demeanor, the Secretary has, on occasion, presented the American side of the international questions with force and sharpness. He is not a good speech maker. Credited with being in general agreement with the President as to the conduct of this nation's foreign affairs, he is not considered an ardent New Dealer in respect to domestic policy.

This is the fourth of a series of color drawings by Hod Taylor of men currently regarded as possibilities for election as President of the United States next year. These "carica-traits," as the artist calls them, are drawn exclusively for PICTURES. The order in which they appear is not intended to indicate any ranking of the subjects as candidates.

HOLLYWOOD VIA WPA

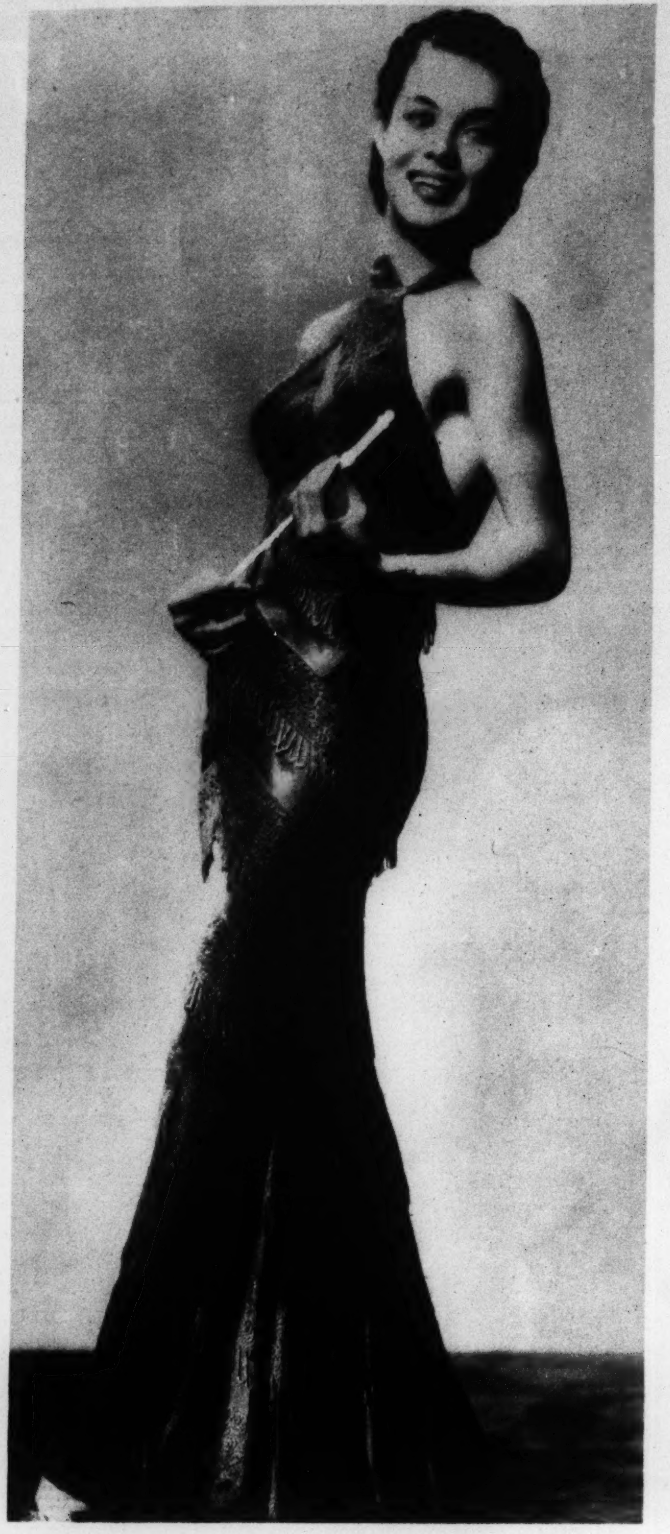
EVEN Liberty Leaguers may concede this point in favor of the W P A: It gave Gloria Dickson to the movies. Gloria, five feet four of blond eye-appeal, was playing leads in Federal Theater Project productions when a talent scout spotted her. A screen test resulted, then a contract, and now Miss Dickson—who once was Thais Dickerson of Pocatello, Idaho—has advanced from small parts to a featured role in the forthcoming "On Your Toes," and to having her picture taken on Malibu Beach. Her acting experience goes farther back than the W P A job. Before that she exercised her Thespian artistry in a tent show, and before the tent show she trod boards in Long Beach high school dramatics. She wants to be an emotional actress, and is suspected of trying her hand occasionally at writing poetry. Her husband is Perc Westmore, noted as a Hollywood makeup artist.



GLORIA DICKSON

Girl Band Leaders—and They Lead Men

Frances Carroll, red haired and Canadian-born, advanced from clarinet player to director of a male orchestra.



Rita Rio, a vivacious brunette, comes from Mexico City. Hers is an all-girl band.

Ida Ray Hutton, a blonde from Chicago, used to have a girl orchestra, but now conducts a band composed of men.

Ramona, whose home town is Cincinnati, is a singing pianist who became leader of a male orchestra.

DANCE or stage orchestras made up of pretty, smartly-dressed girls are undoubtedly treats for the eyes, but they don't do as well by the ears as aggregations of male musicians. That, at any rate, was the view expressed recently by a number of band leaders including girl baton wielders. Girl bandsters, they said, don't seem able to match men in maintaining top-notch quality in their music—which is a good deal of a grind. But some of the individual girl musicians have managed to do very well in the orchestra field—as leaders. Pictured here are four who are conductors of popular bands.

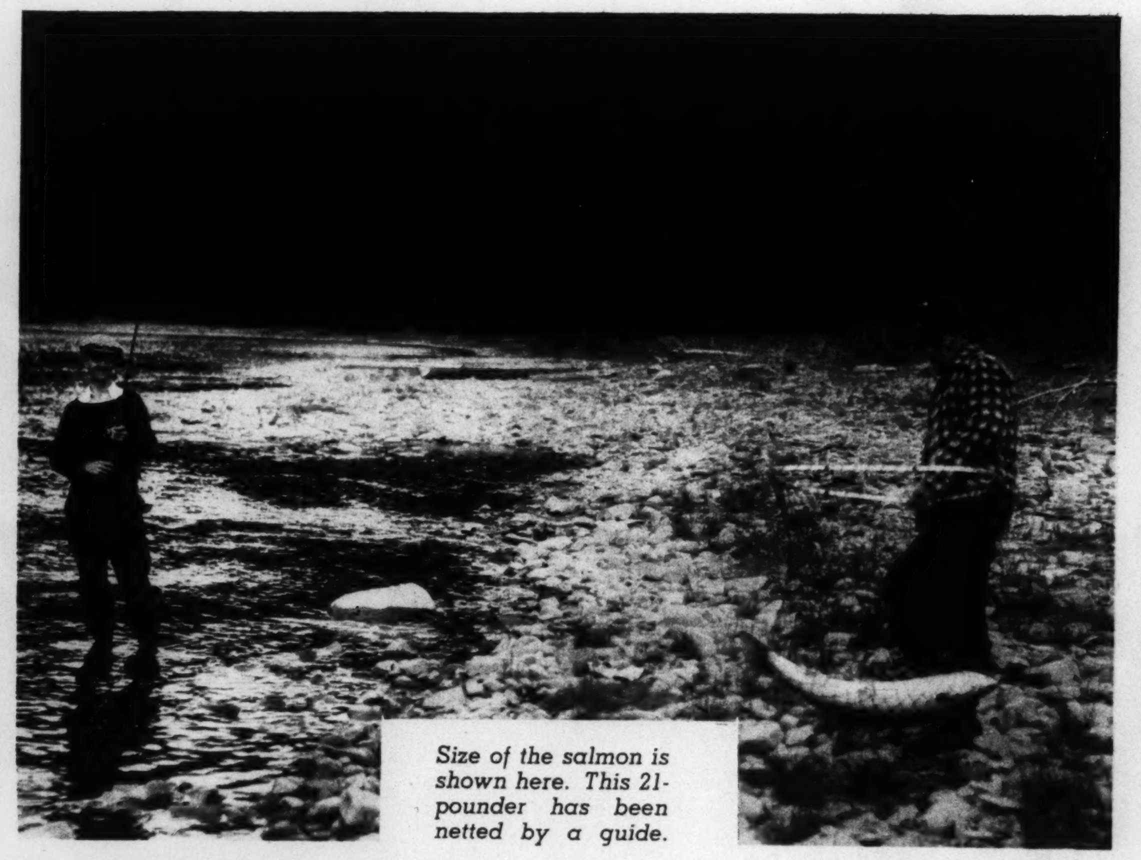
The Game Fight of a Game Fish



Size of the salmon is shown here. This 21-pounder has been netted by a guide.

THESE photographs of jumping salmon fighting to get away after being hooked were taken by Edgar M. Queeny, president of the Monsanto Chemical Company, on the Restigouche River, where it runs between Quebec and New Brunswick. The salmon come up the river in spring to spawn, and the fishing season lasts from May to August fifteenth. On this river they average about 16 pounds although one of 55 pounds was taken this season on a river nearby. They're caught on flies. The fisherman casts from a canoe.

Mexico's Masses Turn to Politics

ALTHOUGH in the past the Mexican masses have not understood the democratic process very well, they are beginning to show much interest in the presidential election coming next year. Attracted by the dramatic side of the campaign, brown, sombreroed agricultural workers are flocking to meetings, listening to speakers, carrying banners and reading wall posters when they can. The campaign of Avila Camacho, former Secretary of War, for the nomination as the candidate of the Party of the Mexican Revolution is in full swing. The candidate will be nominated at a convention of appointed delegates this fall. Camacho, who is virtually conceded the nomination over several minor opponents, appeals to the Indian masses with a pledge to carry on the New Deal of President Cardenas, head of the party, who is prevented by law from seeking re-election. Camacho's principal opponent undoubtedly will be General Juan Andreu Almazan, former commander of the Monterrey district (all candidates must resign their Government posts). He represents the business interests, and has his own party. Although he has as yet made no formal announcement of his candidacy, posters and newspaper advertisements in his behalf have appeared. These photographs show some of the pro-Camacho meetings.

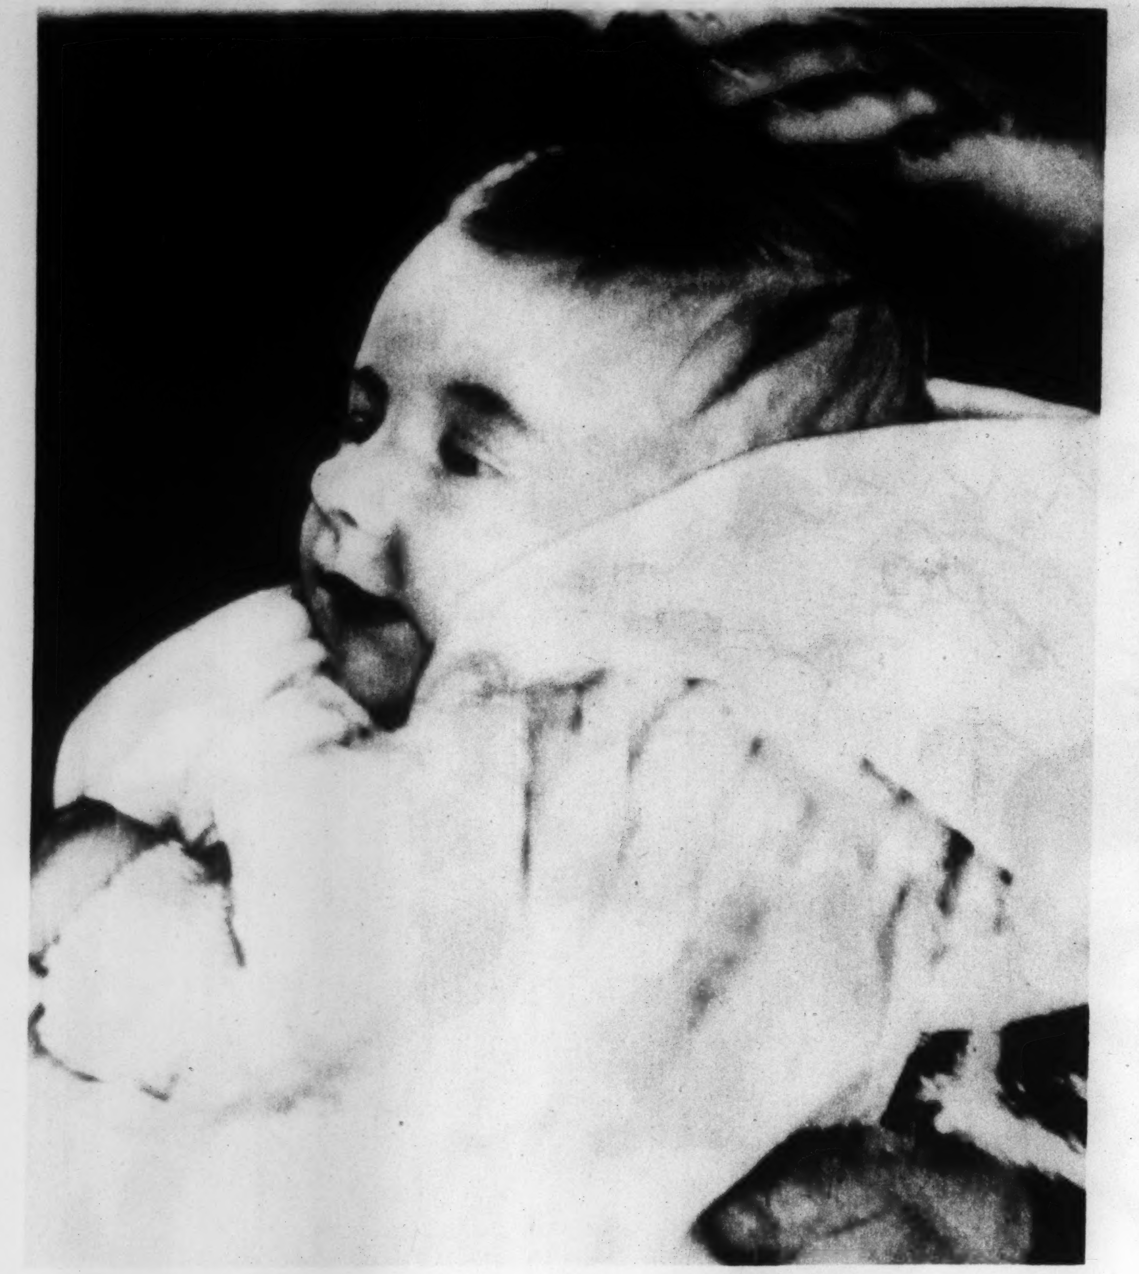
The Zogs in Exile Watchfully Waiting



The titular Crown Prince of Albania, 4-month-old Skander, son of Zog and Geraldine, in Stockholm.

Former King Zog of Albania.

Two studies, above and below, of young and beautiful former Queen Geraldine in Stockholm. Before her marriage she was the Countess Geraldine Apponyi of Hungary. Her mother was an American.

STILL insistent that he shortly will return to his lost throne, former King Zog of Albania is in Stockholm, Sweden, with his wife Geraldine, their 4-month-old son, and his three sisters, on a circuitous search for a permanent home in exile. They are expected now to locate in England, although early in July Zog was reported to have leased a villa at Versailles, France, once occupied by the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. At first scheduled to go either to France or England by boat, Zog and his entourage changed their plans because such a trip through the Mediterranean would bring them too near Italy, which seized Albania April 7, and forced Zog into exile. Instead they went first from Istanbul in Turkey, to Bucharest, thence by roundabout route to Riga, Latvia, and from Riga to Stockholm.

Zog's son was but three days old, his Queen desperately ill, when Albania was occupied by Italian troops, who reached the capital only a few hours after the royal family fled through mountain passes into Greece. A month later the family went to Istanbul.

New York's Fair in Color

ALTHOUGH most of the buildings at the New York World's Fair are white, the general effect of the fair is one of brightness. The blue sky seems dazzling behind the buildings, and hues of clothes, flags, the painted buildings, murals, busses and grass stand out brilliantly against the walls. At night, colored lights are used to splendid advantage in water displays and building lighting.

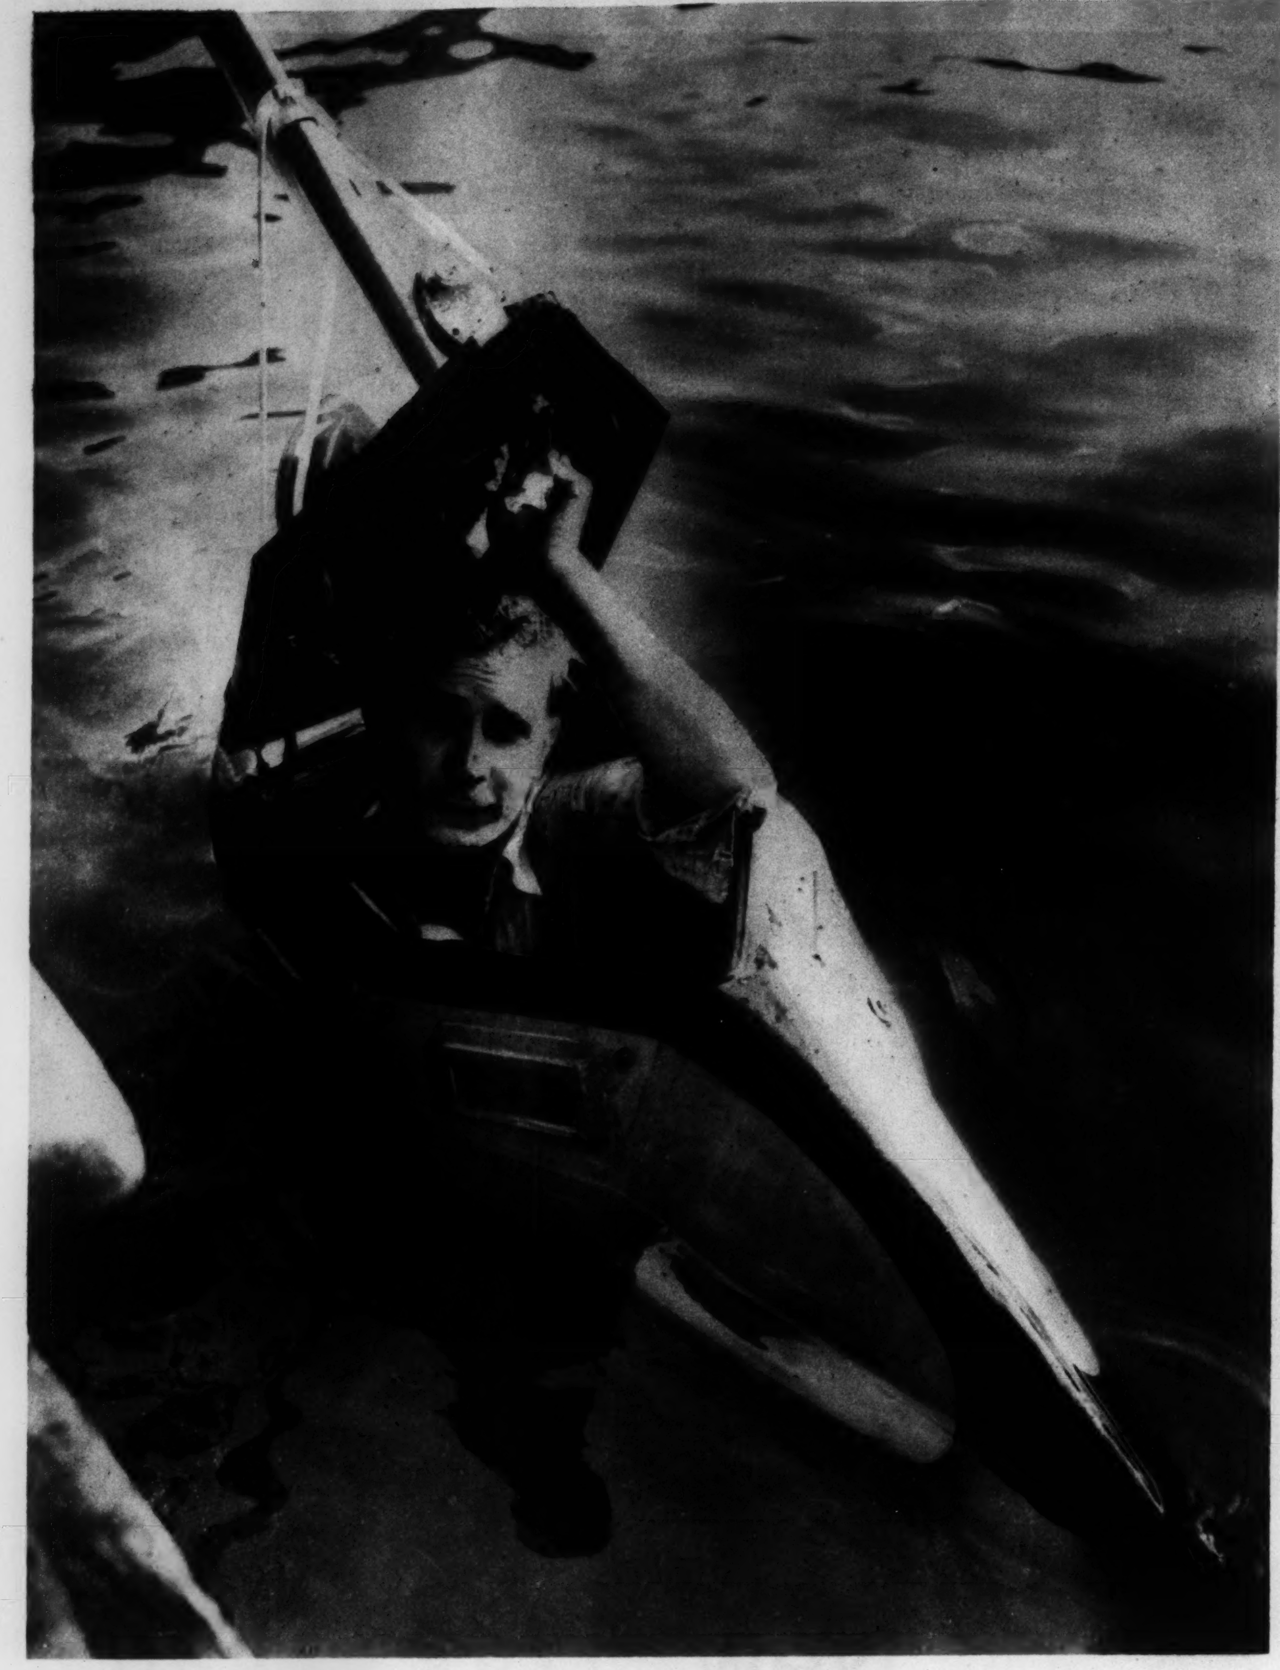
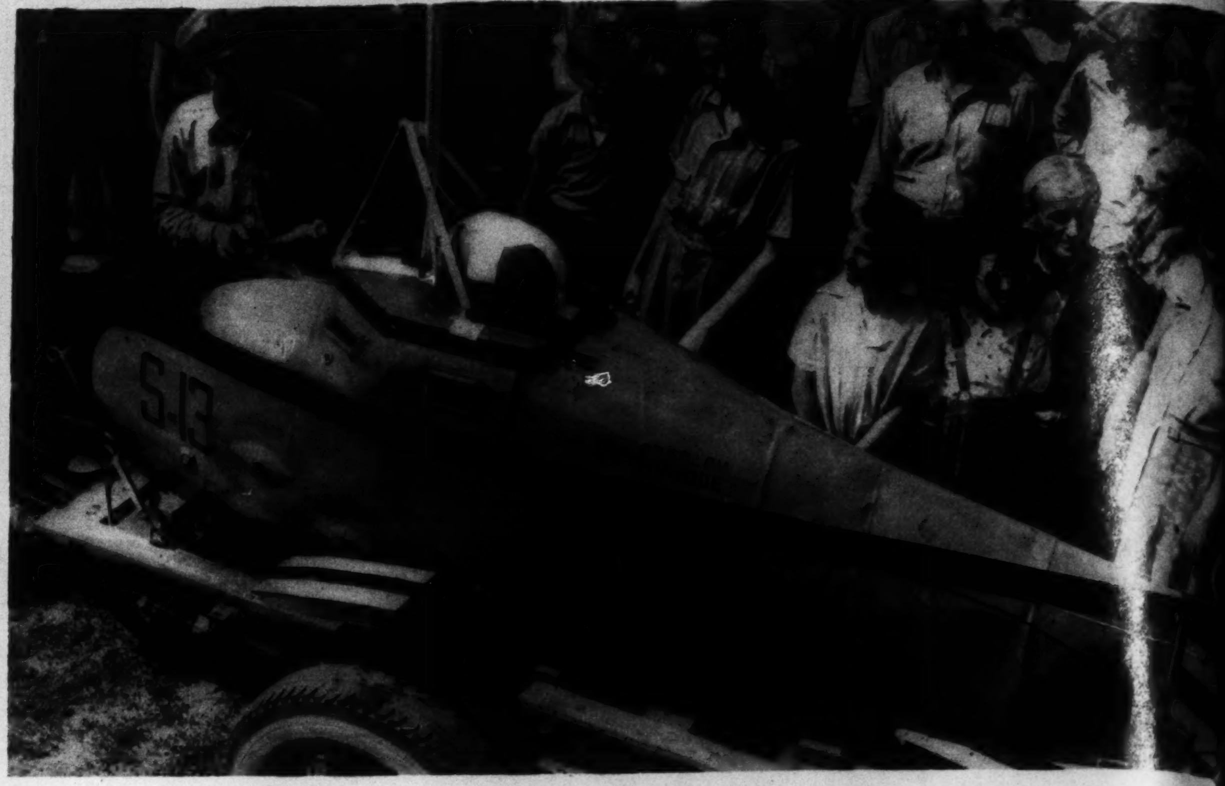
ONE-MAN SUBMARINE



Barney Connett in his 11-foot submarine, holding open the conning tower, of which the periscope is a part.



The "S-13," as Connett has named his underwater craft, on the trailer used to transport it on land. The inventor is at the left, wearing cap.

Connett finds it most convenient to adjust the interior mechanism from the outside, before a dive.

An adjustment of the mechanism operating the conning tower controls precedes the launching of the craft.

A launching draws an interested crowd of spectators. The S-13 is eased into the water, stern first.

After the submarine is in the water, Connett lowers himself into it from the pier and gets ready to shove off.

(Black Star Photos)

Only the periscope and upper ridge of the hull show as Connett's vessel moves along just under the surface of the Hudson River, with a police launch as escort. A large red circle at the top of the periscope warns other craft of the submarine's presence.

BARNEY CONNETT'S homemade submarine is only 11 feet long, but carrying Connett as its one-man crew it has made numerous successful dives in the Hudson River off Yonkers, once crossed 35 miles of Lake Michigan three feet below the surface, rising but once for air. Built to resemble a fish, it was made by Connett, 33-year-old former Chicago mechanic, of one-sixteenth-inch steel, and weighs 1200 pounds. The 23-inch width and 37-inch height amidships are just enough to allow the operator to manipulate the controls. It carries an oxygen supply, blowers, respirators and two sets of batteries. A four-foot periscope allows surface vision when submerged, celluloid windows on each side of the bow enable Connett to see his course above water with the conning tower closed. Dives are usually made under escort of a rescue boat in case of accidents.

PALMOLIVE COMPLEXIONS!

NO WONDER THE QUINS ARE SO PROUD!

You know, of course, that Palmolive is the beauty soap of the Dionne Quins. That from the time of their first soap and water bath, these precious little girls have used no other soap!

And now—how lovely they are, with their clear, healthy skin, so soft and smooth. And how proud the darlings are of their radiant Palmolive complexions!

Dr. Dafoe chose Palmolive for the Quins because it is made with Olive and Palm Oils. And being made with these gentle oils, he felt it would be more soothing to the Quins' unusually tender skin.

The years have proved how wise Dr. Dafoe was when he said, "Only Palmolive for the Quins."

Why don't you make the same wise decision? Why don't you use only gentle Palmolive for your own complexion and bath . . . and for your children, too?

CAPITAL VERSUS LABOR ON THE CHESSBOARD

THE ceramic chess set pictured here has as its motif capital versus labor. The set was made by Sorcha Boru, a sculptor of Menlo Park, California, and is the most popular feature of this year's traveling American Ceramic Art Show.

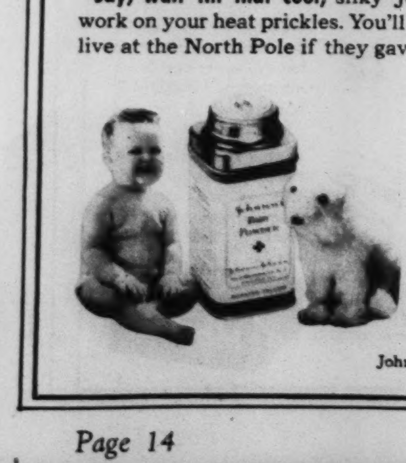
"Look here, Mr. Bear—I've lived in this climate longer than you have. That's not the way to get cool. Why, the minute you get up off that ice, you'll feel hotter than ever!"

"My word — you're bundled up for 40 below! Can't peel down?... No, I suppose not. Custom makes slaves of us all. But now listen: did you ever hear of Johnson's Baby Powder?"

"Say, wait till that cool, silky Johnson's Baby Powder gets to work on your heat prickles. You'll be so comfortable you wouldn't live at the North Pole if they gave you the place!"



"Such soft, fine talc in this powder—no orris-root. Johnson's is just a little thing—but it makes a baby happy!"

Learn a Lesson in Sex Appeal!

FROM THIS AMAZING SHAMPOO!

MANY a heart has been won by a thrilling head of hair. For when a man looks at you remember his eyes start with your head.

Yes, hair can do wonders for a woman provided your shampoo permits the natural radiance of your hair to come forth and work its magic on your whole personality. You see, soap and oil shampoos so often leave an unrinsable cloud of film on your hair to actually dull its natural brilliance. That's why women used to need a lemon or vinegar rinse. Why your hair so often looked dull and dead, unmanageable and stringy.

How lucky for all women that a scientist made this discovery now in Halo Shampoo—a way to make rich, creamy shampoo lather without the use of either soap or oil.

Here at last is an ideal shampoo for dry, oily or normal hair even in hardest water. One shampoo with Halo demonstrates perfectly how it removes all trace of dull, cloudy film left by many soap and oil shampoos. How radiant and full of luster it leaves your hair, eliminating any need for lemon or vinegar rinse. How silky-soft and manageable it leaves your hair. How clean and fragrant your scalp, without irritation. In fact, even loose, flaky dandruff is safely removed.

Halo is tested and approved by Good Housekeeping. Just think, for only 10¢ you can buy a generous bottle of this thrilling new shampoo, at all drug and ten-cent stores. Larger sizes are available at drug and department stores.

HERE'S HOW TO "UNCORK" YOUR CORN ROOT AND ALL

Felt pad (C) relieves pain by removing pressure . . Special formula (D) acts on corn—loosens it so it can be lifted out.

QUICK RELIEF THIS EASY WAY

CORNS are caused by pressure and friction —become painful because they press against sensitive nerves. But it's no longer necessary to suffer from corns. Here's how you can get quick relief. Just fit a Blue-Jay pad over the corn—it relieves pain by removing pressure. The special Blue-Jay medicated formula loosens the corn so it can be lifted right out root and all. Then simply by avoiding the pressure and friction which caused your corn you can prevent its coming back. Get Blue-Jay Corn Plasters today—only 25¢ for 6.

HOLLAND Again REDUCES FURNACE PRICES!

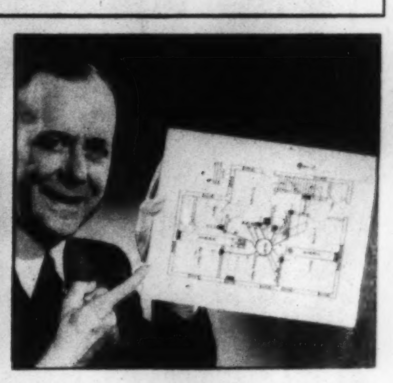
Guaranteed

PERFECT HEAT IN EVERY ROOM

Now at an ALL-TIME LOW in Cost!

SCIENTIFIC ENGINEERING ASSURES AMPLE CAPACITY FOR SEVEREST COLD WEATHER

Holland's specially trained engineer makes a thorough analysis of every room—accurately measures cubic contents and computes every kind of heat loss in determining the heating capacity needed.



The engineer's analysis enables him to plan a heating system with exactly the right sized furnace and the right sizes and number of pipes to assure perfect heat in every room.

The local engineer's carefully worked-out plans are then critically examined by senior engineers at the factory. No plan is okayed unless it provides ample heating capacity for all parts of the home.

When the plan is okayed by factory engineers, the system is installed by Holland's own specially trained mechanics under the engineer's supervision—nothing short of perfection is ever tolerated.

Act At Once To...

SAVE MONEY...NOW AND FOR YEARS TO COME

● For many years superior methods and tremendous quantity production have made it possible to produce and install Holland heating equipment for less than any other. Now, still further increased production to meet the 1939 home building boom has brought prices even lower. It is, therefore, truer than ever that a Holland heating system will cost less than any other which matches it evenly—pipe for pipe, casting for casting and size for size.

MONEY-SAVING EFFICIENCY

Holland's superior methods give you much more than just a lower price. The Holland furnace has fifteen outstanding features, each of which plays an important part in cutting down fuel bills, reducing furnace tending, increasing comfort and making the furnace last longer. Many of these features are patented so they cannot be duplicated in any other furnace regardless of cost.

What's more, every Holland installation is planned by a qualified heating engineer who employs the most accurate, scientific methods. When he analyzes a home, he knows the exact heating capacity needed. You may be sure, too, that anything less may reduce the first cost, but will soon more than make up the difference in higher fuel and repair bills that will continue for many years to come.

If you wish to compare Holland's estimate with others, demand for your own protection that all shall exactly equal Holland's specifications. Then, you will surely find Holland's bid the lowest of all. No less important, you deal directly with the manufacturer—no middlemen—no one who can dodge or divide responsibility.

3 YEARS TO PAY

Still another decided advantage is Holland's extremely liberal financing. You virtually make your own terms—up to three years to pay. Call the nearest factory branch and find out what Holland can do for you.

AUTOMATIC AIR CONDITIONING ALSO LOWER PRICED

FOR OIL OR GAS—COMPLETE IN ONE UNIT

Advanced engineering has created almost unbelievable efficiencies and economies in this remarkable Automatic Furnace Air Conditioner. Cuts costs materially in complete winter air conditioning with automatic oil or gas heat. Also provides decided cooling effect in summer. Get full information and new low prices from nearest branch.

GLAMOUR STAR AT 18 MONTHS

Sandra Lea Henville, 18-month-old Hollywood star from Missouri, at play in the studio. According to state law, she can be in the studio only four hours a day, and half of that time is her own for rest and relaxation.

In her second film, as in her first, Sandy plays the part of a boy. Here she's getting a hair trim before starting the picture.

Like other movie stars, Sandy has her own special, exclusive chair at the studio.

A GLAMOUR girl at 18 months, Sandra Lea Henville, formerly of Rockville, Missouri, also is known in Hollywood as the world's youngest male impersonator. Her father, Roy Henville, is a milk route supervisor. He read a few months ago that a baby was needed for a Bing Crosby picture. He gave Sandra's picture to a movie executive's butler, the butler gave the picture to the executive, the executive gave the role to Sandra. Her screen name is Sandy. In her first picture, "East Side of Heaven," the little girl received seventh billing. In her second picture, "Unexpected Father," just released, she has been given star billing. Supporting her are Shirley Ross, Mischa Auer, Dennis O'Keefe and Joy Hodges.

She's learned to walk, after a fashion, since she made her first screen appearance.

DOUBLE MELLOW - SMOOTH - LIGHT LAGER BEER

just mix a half-teaspoon of salt and a few grains of pepper with a half-pound of ground beef, form it into 8 patties and spread them with mustard. Then you put a Vienna sausage on each patty, fold it over and fasten with a toothpick. Broil them on both sides until they're brown. And don't forget—they'll taste better with Griesedieck Bros. Light Lager Beer.

Do you need something to sharpen tired appetites these warm, lazy days? Try Griesedieck Bros. Light Lager—the beer with the double-mellow flavor that makes all good food taste better. It's so delicious you'll want to drink it often—so economical you can afford to. Order a case from your dealer ("handys" or tall bottles) or pick up a convenient Pick-Up Pack of six bottles. Keep some in your ice box. Griesedieck Bros. is beer at its best. It's double-mellow because it's made mellow in the brewing and kept mellow by the removal of air from the aging vat and the bottle. Remember the password to pleasure: "I'll take Griesedieck Bros. Beer!"

BY BURNING 25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS TESTED—SLOWER THAN ANY OF THEM—CAMELS GIVE SMOKERS THE EQUIVALENT OF

CAMEL
TURKISH & DOMESTIC BLEND CIGARETTES
CHOICE QUALITY

IT'S no surprise to Camel smokers that Camel's costlier tobaccos smoke slower than other cigarettes—cooler, milder, with a truly delicate taste. The really big news for smokers is the scientific research showing how much slower Camels burn than other larger-selling cigarettes. Now the tests of a leading laboratory give you the facts found by an impartial comparison of 16 of the largest-selling brands:

1. Camels were found to contain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.
2. CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!
3. In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

Try Camels for cigarette pleasure at its best! Enjoy the economy of long, slow-burning smokes plus the bonus of Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos. Buy shrewdly! Buy Camels... America's top choice for keener cigarette enjoyment at a cost within every smoker's means!

BUCK ROGERS
IN THE 25th CENTURY
NOW, STUPID EARTH-PEOPLE! LET'S GET RIGHT TO THE POINT! I WANT THE LOCKET, CONTAINING HUER'S SECRET RED-RAY FORMULA -- AND I WANT IT FAST! YOU! THE GIRL! YOU'VE GOT IT! THROW IT TO ME —… AND WASTE NO TIME!
OH, BUDDY — WHAT SHALL I DO? I CAN'T BETRAY OUR —…
DO AS HE SAYS, ALURA! HURRY!
M'GAWSH! THEN I WUZ WRONG —… ACCUSIN' BUCK O'BEIN' THE HOODED MAN!
HAH! SO THIS IS THE FORMULA THE ARMIES OF EARTH NEED SO DESPERATELY, EH? WHAT A SHAME! WELL -- MAYBE THEY'LL GET IT YET —… IF THE MARTIAN WAR LORDS WON'T PAY THE PRICE I'LL DEMAND FOR IT!
AS FOR YOU FOUR —… YOUR WORRIES ARE OVER!!
JUST A TOUCH OF THIS DISINTEGRATOR ON THE SIDE OF THE SHIP, HERE —… TO FLOOD THESE CHAMBERS —… AND -- AND —… ARRGH!! THIS GUN —… IT —…
CLICK CLICK
THAT'S IT, BUCK —… GRAB 'IM! BUDDY! GET THAT LOCKET! THIS GUY'S GOIN' FER A SWIM!!
THERE! Y'KIN CLOSE TH'OUTER LOCK NOW, BUCK! HE WUZ SO ANXIOUS T'LEAVE, IT'D BEEN TURRIBLE T'DISAPPOINT 'IM!!
RIGHT, BARNEY! TOO BAD HE HAD TO GO WITHOUT THE FORMULA -- WASN'T IT? HA HA HA HA…
BUCKY — I — I — WAL - I WANTS T'POLOGIZE FER ACCUSIN' YOU O'BEIN' TH' HOODED MAN! I MUSTA BEEN OFF MY NUT! BUT —… Y'SEE —…
FORGET IT, BARNEY! THAT'S IN THE PAST! THE AIR IS GETTING BAD IN HERE! COME ON —… IT'S TIME WE LEFT THIS HULK!
BUCK! BARNEY! LOOK WHAT ALURA AND I FOUND! HOODS! FIVE OF THEM —… JUST LIKE THAT TIGER MAN WAS WEARING!
GAWSH! HE MUSTA BEEN SCAIRED HE'D RUN OUT OF 'EM! WAL —… CHUCK 'EM ON TH' FLOOR, N'COME WITH US! WE'RE FIXIN' T'LEAVE FER TH' SURFACE!
—… AND THEN FOR NIAGARA —… EH, BARNEY? —… IF NOTHING UNFORSEEN HAPPENS! AND I DON'T SUPPOSE THERE'S A CHANCE OF THAT —… SINCE WE'VE GOTTEN RID OF THE HOODED-MAN!!

TRYING TO TRAP THE ONE WHO IS DESPERATE TO STOP PRODUCTION ON THE ZENITH FILM LOCATION, KING SECRETLY HIDES THE COMPLETED NEGATIVES AND WHILE WITNESSING THE LAST "TAKE", LEAPS INTO ACTION WHEN A RUNAWAY OCCURS
HOLD TIGHT AND DON'T JUMP, LADY! DON'T JUMP! WHOA... BOYS... WHOA!
HELP... OH, HELP! WE'LL TURN OVER!
NOT IF I CAN HELP IT, MISS!
GARY
LEAPING TO THE BACK OF ONE OF THE HORSES, KING PULLS DOWN THE RUNAWAY ANIMALS.
YOU'RE SAFE NOW, LADY... HAND ME THE BABY AND STEP DOWN!
POOR LITTLE FELLOW! A DANGEROUS EXPERIENCE HE'S HAD!
OH, THANK YOU, SERGEANT KING! WE'D SURELY HAVE TURNED OVER ON THIS ROUGH GROUND AND BEEN KILLED!
8-6
BUT, SERGEANT! I CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHAT MADE THE HORSES ACT SO FRIGHTENED TODAY... IN YESTERDAY'S SCENE THEY WERE SO GENTLE!
THIS IS THE REASON, MISS... SOMEONE DROVE NAILS IN THE HARNESS TO DELIBERATELY CAUSE THIS RUNAWAY! I BELIEVE I KNOW WHO!
SERGEANT, SERGEANT!... FIRE!
AND UNLESS I MISS MY GUESS... IT'S THE FILM LABORATORY!

DOCTOR ZARKOV
DESPITE KOLU'S PROTESTS, STACEY LEADS HIS MEN ACROSS AN OPEN PLAIN AND INTO AN AMBUSH.
WHEN THE GUNFIRE CEASES, ONLY STACEY REMAINS STANDING--THE STILL BODIES OF HIS NATIVE BOYS SPRAWL GROTESQUELY IN THE TALL GRASS.
THE ASSASSINS MAKE STACEY THEIR PRISONER AND MARCH HIM TOWARD THE JUNGLE.
BUT KOLU, SLIGHTLY WOUNDED, SNAKES ACROSS THE PLAINS TOWARD THE DISTANT HILLS.
SOMETIME LATER, JUNGLE JIM, LEADING HIS HALF OF THE SEARCHING PARTY, STOPS TO STUDY PUFFS OF SMOKE FROM A DISTANT HILLTOP. JIM READS---
"STACEY---CAPTURED---COME---AT---ONCE---KOLU."

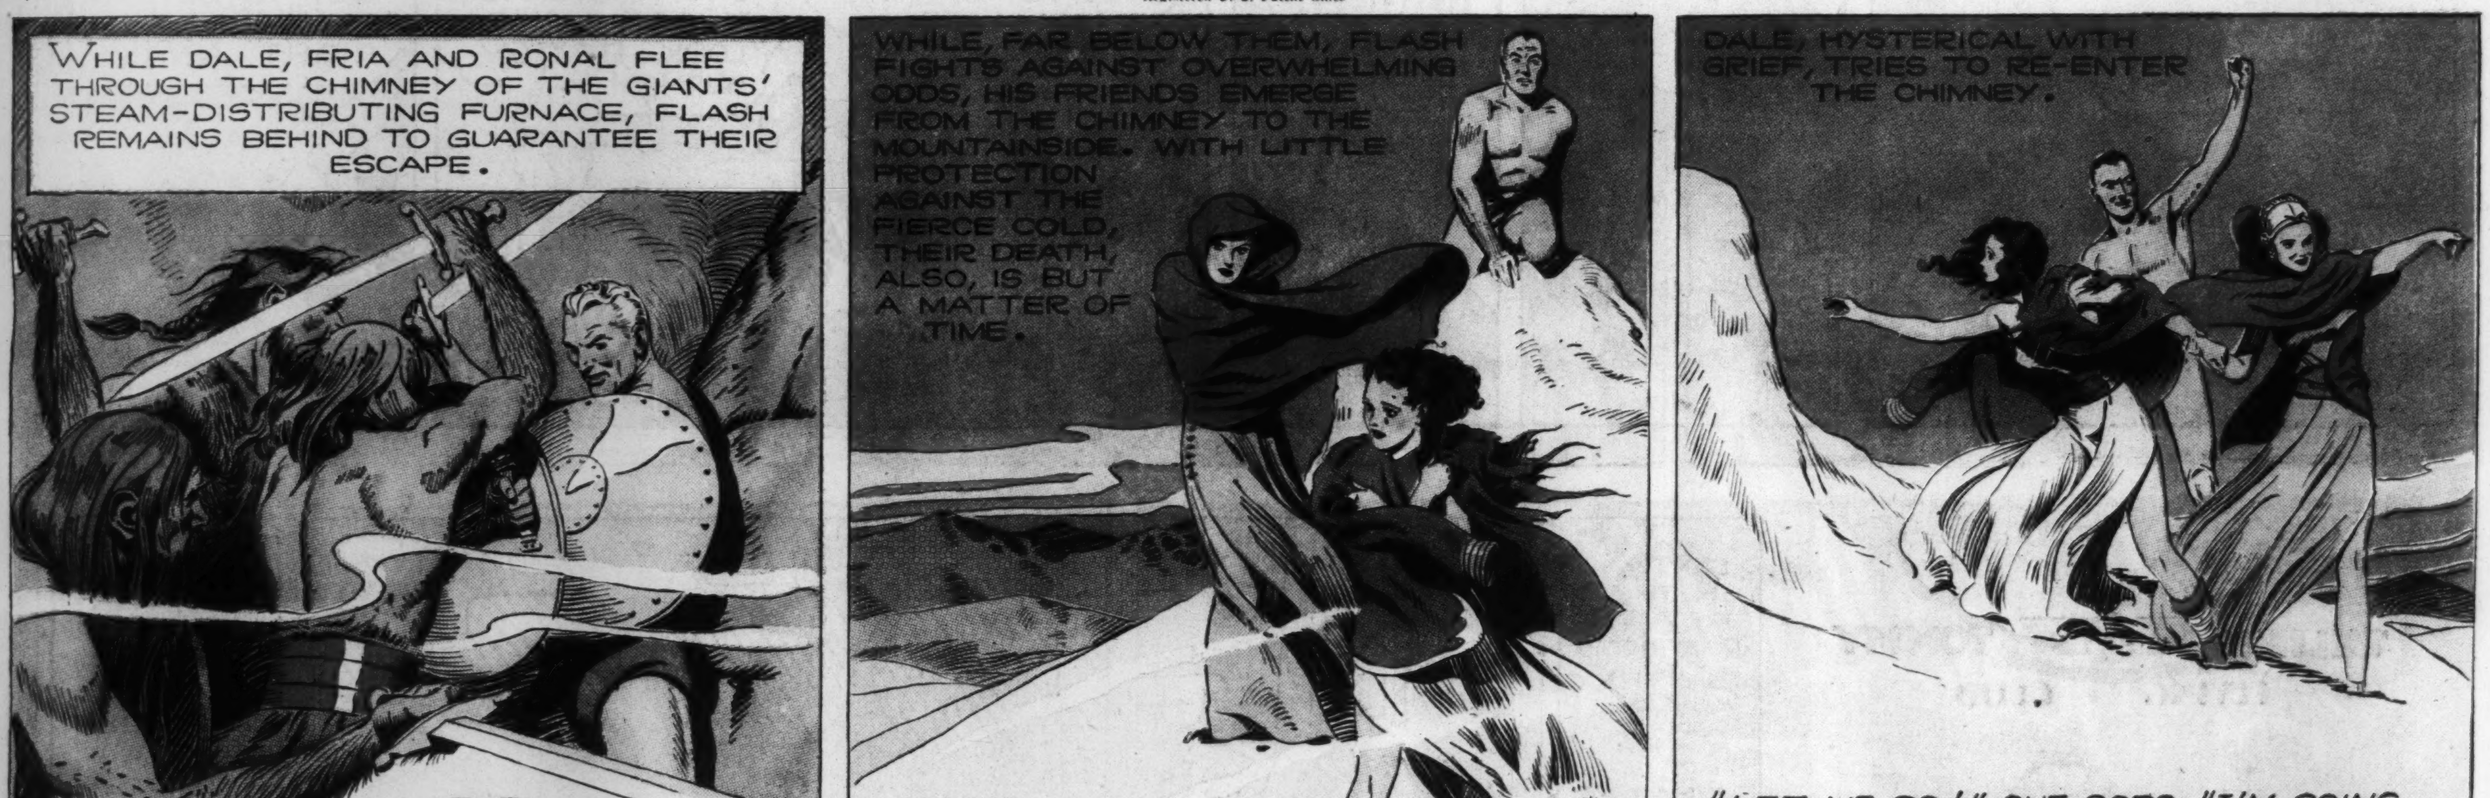
Flash Gordon

Registered U. S. Patent Office



WHILE DALE, FRIA AND RONAL FLEE THROUGH THE CHIMNEY OF THE GIANTS' STEAM-DISTRIBUTING FURNACE, FLASH REMAINS BEHIND TO GUARANTEE THEIR ESCAPE.
THE GIANTS, LED BY BRUKKA, ENTER THE HEATING-ROOM BY A SECRET ENTRANCE. THEY SOON DISCOVER THAT THEY FACE A SWORDSMAN OF UNCANNY POWER AND SKILL.
WHILE, FAR BELOW THEM, FLASH FIGHTS AGAINST OVERWHELMING ODDS, HIS FRIENDS EMERGE FROM THE CHIMNEY TO THE MOUNTAINSIDE. WITH LITTLE PROTECTION AGAINST THE FIERCE COLD, THEIR DEATH, ALSO, IS BUT A MATTER OF TIME.
DALE, HYSTERICAL WITH GRIEF, TRIES TO RE-ENTER THE CHIMNEY.
"LET ME GO!" SHE SOBS, "I'M GOING BACK TO HIM--HE CAN'T DIE ALONE! IF FLASH DIES, I WANT TO DIE WITH HIM!"
"WAIT!" CRIES FRIA, "LOOK! LOOK! WE'RE SAVED! OH, DARLING--WE'RE SAVED!"
A STRANGELY MAGNIFICENT SIGHT MEETS DALE'S TEAR-DIMMED EYES--FOR, SWEEPING TOWARD THEM, ACROSS THE VALLEY, IS QUEEN FRIA'S CRACK SNOW-BIRD LANCERS!
MEANWHILE, FLASH GOES DOWN, WEAK FROM LOSS OF BLOOD. HOWLING TRIUMPHANTLY, BRUKKA LEAPS FORWARD TO STRIKE THE DEATH BLOW!

MANDRAKE THE MAGICIAN
BY LEE FALK & PHIL DAVIS
Registered U. S. Patent Office
ESCAPING FROM THE ERUPTING VOLCANO, MANDRAKE AND PARTY BATTLE THEIR WAY THROUGH THE CONFUSED RANKS OF THE PEOPLE OF THE GOLD CITY---
AND RACE THROUGH THE TUNNEL, PURSUED BY THE GOLD-CLAD WARRIORS!
OUTSIDE THE CRATER, MANDRAKE SEES CANOES HELD IN READINESS, GUARDED BY THE WARRIORS....
SCRAM, GENTLEMEN! WE WANT TO BORROW A COUPLE OF YOUR WATER TAXIS!
--AND CREATING A HYPNOTIC ILLUSION, SCARES THE GUARDS AWAY!
WHEW--JUST IN TIME! WHAT HAPPENED TO THOSE GUARDS, MANDRAKE?
THEY THOUGHT THEY SAW SOMETHING, DR. COLE.
AT LEAST, OUR SEARCH WASN'T IN VAIN. WE DID FIND THE CITY OF GOLD.
OUR ONLY SOUVENIRS ARE THE GOLD CHAINS BINDING OUR GANGSTER FRIENDS, WHICH WILL HOLD UNTIL WE GET THEM INTO A JAIL CELL! I'M AFRAID NO ONE ELSE WILL EVER SEE THE CITY OF GOLD AGAIN!
